The Transvaal War.

Cape Town, Oct. 17.—It is the general belief here, from items of intelligence received, that the Boers actually attacked the British on the 17th inst. The reports of continued fighting there are regarded as proving that the Boers failed to score a success.

London, Oct. 17.—A special dispatch from Cape Town says that all was quiet there up to Saturday night. At that time the Boer artillery was being brought up, but it had not been placed in position. According to those who advise the British have blown up the Hopwood railway bridge over the Orange river, with a view of checking the Boer advance southward. It is expected the Boers will cut off Kimberley's water supply, but the Debeers' dam contains enough for a considerable period.

London, Oct. 17.—Colonel Baden-Powell made a sortie from Mafeking in force and attacked the Boers who were investing the town. After three fighting the British carried the day.

London, Oct. 18.—In the house of commons today Sir Lord Treasury and Government Leader Balfour brought in the following message from the queen: "The states of Africa, having constituted in the opinion of her majesty a case of emergency within the meaning of the act of parliament, her majesty deems it proper to provide additional means for military service. She has therefore thought it right to communicate to the house that her majesty is, by proclamation, about to order the embodiment of the militia, and to call out the militia reserve force, or such part thereof as her majesty may think necessary for permanent service."
