

S. S. S. GOES TO THE BOTTOM.

Promptly reaches the Seat of all Blood Diseases and Cures the Worst Cases.

In every test made S. S. S. easily demonstrates its superiority over other blood remedies. It matters not how obdurate the case, nor what other treatment or remedies have failed, S. S. S. always promptly reaches and cures any disease where the blood is in any way involved. Everyone who has had experience with blood diseases knows that there are no ailments or troubles so obstinate and difficult to cure. Very few remedies claim to cure such deep seated blood diseases as S. S. S. cures, and none can offer such incontrovertible evidence of merit. S. S. S. is not merely a tonic—it is a cure! It goes down to the very seat of all blood diseases, and gets at the foundation of the very worst cases, and routs the poison from the system. It does not, like other remedies, dry up the poison and hide it from view temporarily, only to break forth again more violently than ever; S. S. S. forces out every trace of taint, and rids the system of it forever.

Mrs. T. W. Lee, Montgomery, Ala., writes: "Some years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who had infected my babe with blood taint. I was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot, and in my great extremity I prayed to die. Several prominent physicians treated me, but all to no purpose. The mercury and arsenic which they gave me seemed to add fuel to the awful flame which was devouring me. I was advised by friends who had seen wonderful cures made by it, to try Swift's Specific. I improved from the start, as the medicine seemed to go direct to the cause of the trouble and force the poison out. Twenty bottles cured me completely." Swift's Specific—

THE STRAW HAT.

The Vicissitudes of its Brief Career From the Shop to the Gutter.

The approach of the straw hat season encourages Travis McKinnin to offer the following observations: No one knows who wears the first straw hat in straw hat time. Ask any man, and if he doesn't acknowledge that he saw other men wearing straw hats before he bought one he is probably lying. But approximately about June 15 the average citizen finds himself removing his old felt hat and regarding the impending arrival of the straw hat therein with little favor. A few days later he stalks periphrastically and despondently "the hat store, where he is pleased to see several men already smirking at their reflections in the glass from beneath nice, clean, new straw hats. The smiling salesman dives deep into a cylindrical box and produces a spotted straw hat, which he sets upon the customer's head.

To be more exact, he sets it upon the customer's ears, and he resembles a stage hobgoblin. The man who has just bought the hat brings to light a hat of smaller caliber, which looks insipidly upon the customer's cranium and causes him to cast a reflection in the pier glass as of a practicing infant in trousers.

Finding that through the magic influence of straw hats of diverse kinds he resembles a Methodist divine, a Harlem grocer, Grover Cleveland and a Green River miner, he selects a hat by size rather than style.

He reasons, of course, that man never looks his best in a hat. The new hat is stiff and gummy as to touch; it grips his temples and possesses an air of superiority and self that a New York Sunday paper could not fit.

In forcing it down to make it fit, the brain acquires that pathetic droop which characterizes the Salvation Army bonnet, and his forehead the peculiar finish of a Missouri cornucop.

But he has bought a straw hat. He enjoys undisputed possession of his new hat for several blocks, when it is disputed by a sudden gust of wind. In an instant he is lumbering after an elusive straw hat, which rolls and bounds hilariously before him on its stiff new brim.

Finally a newboy jumps upon it with both nuddy feet and restores it, a battered wreck, to its indignant owner, who carefully wipes the mud into its rough surface and smoothes over the battered brim, which greatly resembles a circular saw after an encounter with a raffish spik.

It is no longer a new hat, no longer a thing of beauty, the envy of his acquaintances.

From a well-dressed man he has degenerated into simply a man in a straw hat.

After a few weeks' use, and with a hazy idea of the probable result, he takes it to a done-while-you-wait renovating establishment.

It is returned to him three sizes smaller and of a beautiful cerise tint.

And when the gooseflesh breezes make an overcoat a necessity, and conventionally protests bitterly against the use of a straw hat in winter weather, with the same, the hat is cast into the old-clothes chest.

There it remains, a caricature of its former self, to be given to the poor when it shall have become as cold as ice.

And when the gooseflesh breezes make an overcoat a necessity, and conventionally protests bitterly against the use of a straw hat in winter weather, with the same, the hat is cast into the old-clothes chest.

A variation on the ordinary game of chess was recently played by four young Hungarians. The board was a brilliant table marked off into the requisite number of squares, and the pieces were represented by bottles of different kinds of wine, according to their importance. The king was represented by a bottle of champagne. When one of the pieces was taken, it was drunk. The players were also drunk in a very short time, and the game was not finished.
