Murderer Probasco Pardoned.

According to the S. F. Chronicle, D. C. Probasco, under the sentence of twenty-one years at San Quentin for murder in the second degree, made a lucky move when he saved the life of Guard McDonald, who was all but killed by the incorrigible Jake Oppenheimer. On May 17th the former newsboy attacked, stabbed and came near killing his guard in the jute mill. Probasco saw the fiendish act, and hastily notified Guard S. R. Yoho, who knocked Oppenheimer on the head just as the convict was preparing for a final thrust into the body of the already badly wounded McDonald.

As a result of his action, Probasco was in instant disfavor among his fellow convicts, and they have heaped all manner of indignities upon him since, until life in the state penitentiary has been almost unbearable for him. Saturday he received his reward, however, when the prison directors recommended to the governor that he be pardoned, to be released at the beginning of the year, owing to saving McDonald's life. There is every reason to believe the pardon will be granted. Already with the credit allowance, Probasco has served eleven years.

As an example to the other convicts and in the recognition of his good work, the directors unanimously agreed that he should be pardoned if the governor consents.

Probasco came from Siskiyou county, where in 1892 he committed a murder and was convicted. Since his incarceration he has been a model prisoner, and has won the confidence of guards, but through his good conduct has become hated by his fellow-criminals.

In Poe valley last week a band of 108 head of beef cattle were sold to C. Swanson of Sacramento, at 6½ cents for steers and spayed heifers and 5½ cents for open cows. They belonged to H. A. Brattain of Chewaucan. Mr. Brattain says: Bidding is not as spirited now as it was earlier in the fall, and hay is held at $7 a ton in most sections of Klamath county. There are large numbers of cattle feeding in Klamath, the owners holding for winter or early spring prices, which Mr. Brattain believes will not be improved. He holds to the opinion that the price of beef in 1900 will not be in advance of this fall's prices.

Oregon Midland Survey.

Klamath Falls Express: The railroad engineers of the Oregon Midland have been at work about two weeks on the survey over the mountains between this place and Klamathon, and, as we learn, are happily surprised in finding so good a route. The length of the road will, however, be about ten miles longer than was calculated on.

Conductor L. W. Van Horn returned Monday from Klamath Falls where he was officially sworn in as director of the Oregon Midland Railway Co. He reports that Engineer Schiller's party expected to finish the survey from Spencer's to Klamath Falls last evening.

Hop Growers Combine.

Portland, Dec. 16.—The Oregon Hop Growers' Association is today able to announce that it has assurances of receiving 40,000 bales in the pool of the organization. It also announces that it is already able to save the growers 5 cents a pound, $10 per bale, meaning an increase of price to that extent, which on 40,000 bales will aggregate a profit to the growers of $40,000. The officers of the association advise growers to hold good hops for 15 cents per pound, as they have assurances warranting that price. If this consummation can be reached it will mean a saving to producers of about $400,000.

NOTICE

All persons having accounts against me directly or indirectly will please present the same for payment before Dec. 20, 1899. T. JAMES.

A Late Denial.

Joaquin Miller, who cooked for 27 miners at Deadwood, this county, during the early part of the '50 period, whatever else he may be guilty of, says it is a slander for anyone to accuse him of burning the beans as the chef de cuisine of the miners' boarding house in that camp. His experience then as a cook was very valuable to him in his sojourn a year ago at the Klondike. Deadwood during the '50 times was the next town to Yreka in this county in population and importance, located at the junction of Deadwood and Cherry creeks, where nothing remains now to show that a town of Deadwood ever existed in Siskiyou.—Yreka Journal.
