SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

KLAMATH FALLS.

SUICIDED BY HANGING

Mr. Chas. Burgdorf an old time resident of Klamath county, who lived on a large ranch 18 miles from Klamath Falls, committed suicide last Thursday by hanging. The body was discovered about 9 o'clock p. m. in an old log cabin on the premises, formerly used as a dwelling house by Mr. Burgdorf. The family were away visiting neighbors during the day and returning in the evening found the house locked and no one there. After making a search around the premises the nude body was found in the log hut suspended by a rope to a rafter 5 feet from the floor. It appears that Mr. Burgdorf had gone into the cabin during the afternoon, taken a bath and deliberately fastened the rope around his neck and strangled to death, as the ceiling was hardly high enough to stand up in, and the bare knees partly rested on the floor. No reason can be assigned for the rash act, and the supposition is that it was done during a temporary aberration caused by excessive heat. He was 51 years old and leaves a wife and four grown children.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN A BRAN BIN

Joseph B. Moore the fifteen year old son of J. M. Moore met with a fatal accident Sunday afternoon while playing with a number of other boys at Martin & Son's flour mill west of town. While playing around the mill Joe jumped into a large bin about 25 feet in depth which was partially filled with bran, and instantly sank from view, about 2 tons of bran which was banked up around the walls caving in and covering him over completely. He was soon rescued from the awful predicament but too late to save him, the bran and dust inhaled choked up the lungs and he only lived about 20 minutes after. The sad affair was quite a shock to his many acquaintences for he was a very popular boy and a favorite among all those who knew him.

The Government agents were here Saturday buying up cavalry horses for Uncle Sam Out of a band of 200 horses they only found 33 that suited them. Some of the stock raisers question their ability to discriminate between good horses and "crobates." It is evident they are more particular now than they were several months ago.

Geo. T. Baldwin and son Charley arrived Monday from Ashland, after a several weeks' trip in Southern Oregon.

Dick Smith returned Thursday from Eugene, where he has been attending college during the past year.

J. V. Houston and J. F. Goeller with their families started Monday for Spring creek on a two weeks' outing.

Among the visitors are Mr. Boman and wife, Portland; Wm. Marshal, Sacramento; Mr. Carl and family, Talent.

Mrs. O. O. Helman, Ida Tolman and Mrs. Hattie Blount are spending a few days with their father at the springs.

J. B. Kirkland of the Southern Pacific office in Portland and John P. Jones, traveling passenger agent of the same road, were here last week gathering information about the mineral springs of this part of Jackson county for advertising summer resorts along their lines of travel.

The life of a railroader is hard and unromantic, all work and no play when on duty, and there are but few of the brighter lights along the way that sift through the clouds and cares of toil and constant danger; but the blessings that do come are siezed upon and appreciated with a sincerity seldom found among men in other walks of life. Loyalty to his comrades, kindness to his family and faithful allegiance to his friends—these are three characteristics of the railroad man. All these were displayed upon the occasion of the recent wreck at Riddle. The boys were gathered around the injured men, hats in hand and thier voices lowered to a tender whisper, speaking with all the softened earnestness of a woman's voice, giving encouraging words and assurances; and a doubter as to their genuine appreciation of a friend in need should have heard the comments of the boys upon the aid given to Conductor Jas. Frater by Mrs. J. B Riddle—"Mother Riddle" as they spoke of her—who took the absent mother's place and bathed the fevered forehead, assisted with the bandages and helped the physican to care for her wounded boy. The world makes grave errors oft-times in its judgment of men, and the harsh judgment sometimes passed upon railroad men by the uninformed is one of these errors, for, taken as a whole, they are as desirable a class of citizens as exists in the great and growing industrial world. Here's to the railroad boys, and may their prosperity increase.—Roseburg Plaindealer.

Close of the Assembly.

The following is the program of the musical department of the Assembly which packed Chautauqua tabernacle like a box of sardines last Saturday evening:

PART I.

1. Music Lesson to Children's Chrous of 110 Voices.
2. Song, "At Night".....Randegger Children's Chorus.
3. Chorus, "The Belfry Tower" .....Hatton
4. Quartet, "The Wagon".....Molloy Chautauqua Quartet—Winnifred M. Bolton, Helen Churchman, Edna L. Willits, Bertha M. Rose.
5. Soprano Solo, "Pollacca" (Mignon).....Thomas Mrs. Carrie B. Dexter.
6. Chorus, "By Babylon's Wave" .....Gounod
7. Reading, "The Arnena Scene" (Quo Vadis).....Sienkiewicz Miss Lottie J. Graeber.
8. Chorus, "Light May the Boat Row".....Leason

PART II.

1. Chorus, "Hail, Judea, Happy Land" (Judas Macabens)....Handel
2. Contralto Solo, "Semiramide" .....Rossini Recit. "Eccomi Alfine," Cavatina { Ah! quel giorno, / Oh! come da quel di. Mrs. W. J. Whiteman.
3. Duet and Chorus, "The Rustic Song" (Rob Roy).....De Koven Carrie B. Dexter, Prof. W. H. Lee.
4. "The Night Wind".....Field Miss Lottie J. Graeber.
5. Chorus, "Gloria" (12th Mass) .....Mozart

Mrs. C. B. Dexter, Oakland, Cal., Mrs. W. J. Whiteman, Denver, Col., Soloists.

Miss Mary Silsby, Miss Aileen Webber, Accompanists.

Prof. Wilberforce J. Whiteman, Director.

Fortunate indeed was the management in securing the leadership of Prof. Wilberforce J. Whiteman for training the great chorus and the children, and his talented wife in rendering those solos, every one of which was of the highest quality.

Prof Whiteman has resided in Denver for the last 12 years, where he is recognized as one of the finest instructors in music in all the west. It is not too much to say that Mrs. Whiteman's singing will compare with that of the world's best, at least this is the judgment of some of those who have a right to say, having heard the best and being well educated in music. Socially this Christian family (for they have a son and daughter with them) has left a fine impression, which is morally considered a valuable contribution to the Assembly Hundreds are loud in their clamor that they may return again.

To complete this class of entertainment Mrs. Dexter of Oakland, Cal., added greatly to the enthusiasm by her solos, possessing a voice of peculiar musical power she rendered a class of very difficult music with splendid effect.

Miss Lottie J. Graeber of San Francisco gave the elocutionary and literary numbers to the delight of all. We cannot speak of the different numbers but are glad to say that like the music there was not a poor number.

The grand concert was an appropriate ending of the Chautauqua. Long will it be remembered by the great audience.

The Childrens' Chorus of 110 voices was managed with an order and the singing was executed in a way that would have done credit to a chorus of riper years, and the children are all in love with Mr. Whiteman.

We should like to speak of our splendid Oregon talent, which so greatly helped all the programs, but your space is already trespassed upon. No better pianoists are needed for any Assembly than Miss Silsby or Miss Webber, nor can there be found a better Girl's Quarter than "ours." They are always called on for song after song as long as they will sing.

There are scores almost of names of prominent men and women who richly contributed to the program in all departments which we must forego the pleasure of speaking concerning.

A note of appreciation and thanks was tendered on the last evening of the Assembly by the great audience to Pres. G. F. Billings and Miss Rosa Dodge as secretary, on their faithful and successful work; also to Prof W. J. Whiteman.

Let us look and plan for the next Assembly and believe it will still be better. X X X

A Night Out.

A jolly crowd of young people went to Kingsbury's soda springs Tuesday evening in a hay wagon. The party was in honor of Miss Grace Morey who left next day for her home at Oakland, Cal. A bond fire was started under a big oak tree at the springs and a program consisting of recitations, singing, cakewalks, etc., was reeled off. The party became thoroughly charged with mineral water, but as there were several fish horns in the crowd all were tapped before they exploded. Those who have recovered are as follows: Misses Mabel and Kittie Million, Hattie Martin, Lillie Storm, Jessie Wagner, Laura Judge, Grace Morey, Fannie Ralph, Edith Gregory, Minnie Walrad, Mae Grainger, Gertrude Sutton, Anna Judge, Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman, and Messrs. Sylvain Provost, Thad McHatton, Will Judge, I. E. Vining, Otto Miller, E. A. Fronk, C. E Chilcott, Fred Engle, C. L. Lounsbury, Fred Neil, A. C. Roth.

Sterling Tuesday to assist Wm. Angle and a miner they have employed in developing the property.

A fire in the laundry room of the big railroad summer resort hotel at Castle Crags early Friday morning destroyed that property, valued at $500,000. It was insured for $100,000. It is said the company was losing $30,000 a year in conducting the resort. The seventy-five guests saved their personal effects.

The directors of the Oregon Midland Railway met in their offices in opera house block Saturday there being present Geo. T. Baldwin of Klamath Falls, David Horn of Hornbrook and H. L McWilliams, Jesse A. McCall, L. W. Van Horn and W. J. Woods of Ashland. The capital stock of the company was raised from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000. Allowances for right of way were voted and other business transacted.
