

LEVI STRAUSS & CO'S SPRING BOTTOM PANTS. DR. T. A. BOYER. Who will lecture on "Crossing the Century Line" in Ashland, Wednesday, Jan. 18th.

"Crossing the Century Line" by this orator will prove to be one of the best treats Ashland people have ever enjoyed. On this coast Dr. Boyer is very well known, but in Illinois—the land of the Lincoln, Douglass and Simons, he is recognized as one of the best platform orators. His subject will be thrilling, pleasing and inspiring.

DR. T. A. BOYER. The Chautauqua Tabernacle will be used and the local management will insure comfort to the audience whatever may be the weather. These holding season tickets will be given good seats. General admission 30 cents. Tickets at Winters. Remember the date, Wednesday Jan. 16, 1901.

SHOULD KNIFE AFFAIR. "Slim" Allison, a Hatfield Man, Has His Face Carved in a Saloon Fight. A serious cutting affair occurred in Thos. Roberts' saloon near depot about 9 o'clock Friday night, in which R. E. Allison, an extra brakeman who has been a resident of Ashland for the past year and a half and is commonly known as "Slim" Allison, had the front of his face nearly carved out by a stranger who was blockaded here while on route to California.

Two strangers were in the saloon and after mingling with the regulars, they ordered a lunch composed of oysters, Bologna sausage, sour kraut, crackers and beer and were engaged in eating it over the bar, using a pocket knife to slice the sausage. The "bad man" of the crowd had delivered himself of some harsh remarks but when someone remarked he was "the nastiest thing in town." The transient "bad man" at this time delivered himself of an oration setting forth his belittling qualifications and sipped up toward another railroad employe, "Smeg" Allison. Allison is a fighter of the first magnitude among the local strikers and promptly took up the fight. It was swift and furious and while the barkeeper, Brad Radcliff, made a futile effort to put them out of the house, bystanders separated the combatants and rushed to the aid of the man who was being worked at the lunch. But it was only a moment when both combatants were at again and a few moments later the blood was seen gushing out of Allison's face. The stranger immediately fled out of the house and was kicked and cut by railroad boys as he was making his way across the street, repeating "Ant I got a friend in the crowd." The man who had him he disappeared up the depot platform undoubtedly making heavy tracks for the California state line. His companion took up the fight with the man who was his and had just met the bad man at Medford the day before. The "bad man" was seen to have heard the indignation of the crowd and when he found out about the warrant being out disappeared and caught up with his fugitive friend. They ate at Colestin next day and were avoiding the principal places where they were liable to be apprehended. Allison bled profusely. Dr. Parson was called and sewed up the wounds. Allison gruffly standing the operation without the aid of an anesthetic. He was taken to his rooms in Ninesinger block.

REAPING ASHLAND'S BENEFIT.

A Medford Paper Gives Its Opinion on What Ashland will Lose by Refusing to License Saloons. From the Fruit World, Medford, Or.] The anti-saloon people of Ashland won a signal victory over the saloons at their city election on the 18th inst. The contest was a hard one but the cool citizens won by 19 votes. This speaks well for the moral standing of the city. If the people of Ashland can suppress the greatest evil for which the city is famous to the world, they ought to be able to handle smaller ones, and no doubt will in a creditable manner. A citizen of this town remarked that other than "benefits" now Medford has no desire to be the dumping ground for the toughs of Ashland. Rather than increase our police force and jail capacity we had better emulate the example of Ashland and "go dry". And now, while we are on this subject, we had better call attention to the citizens of Medford if they are to "reap the benefit" of Ashland's drought, we had better look close to our city leaders and police officers to see if they are hands able and willing to pass the toughs of Ashland on to Grants Pass, where they may be able to find congenial friends, and a city which has seen a few of them from that locality at our ball game last summer.

Played Out. Dull Headache. Pains in various parts of the body, Sinking at the pit of the stomach. Loss of appetite. Faintness. Headaches. Sores are all positive evidences of impure blood. No matter how it became so it must be purified in order to obtain good health. Ackner's Blood Elixir has never failed to cure Scrophulous or Syphilitic sores or any other blood diseases. It is certainly a wonderful remedy, and we set every bottle on a positive guarantee. McNAIR BROS.

ASHLAND MINING DISTRICT.

The Ashland Mine and its Extensive Development Work and Improvements—The Gold Output of Jackson County the Past Year. The Oregonian printed a comprehensive report on the geological formation of the Ashland district by F. E. Felt, which is an interesting document from a scientific standpoint and an explanation of the district in which the mines of the district are situated. We cite the following concerning the development work in this section: "The Ashland mine, whose location has been noted above, is the most important of the quartz properties that is being worked in the Ashland district. It is situated on the west side of the mountain, and is about 600 feet of shaft, tunnels, drifting, etc. The main shaft is now rapidly approaching the 700-foot level, and it is therefore the deepest mine in southern Oregon. A 1400-foot tunnel driven into the north side of the mountain, which carries the ledge, connects with the shaft at the 200-foot level, and through it the water supply is carried out. Drifting at the 500-foot level on the east side of the shaft in line over is in progress. The block-out and exploratory work furnishes all the ore that can be taken from the present mining facilities. This mine has improved greatly with capital, and a very important factor in its development is the main drift. At the 500-foot level the vein is 'filled' with the miners term. That is to say, there is ore from wall to wall, a width of seven to eight feet, and so on." The proportion of free gold in these lower levels is large, and it is an excellent type of a good free milling lode. Pyrites of iron are practically the only sulphides carried down to the mill. The concentrates of the mill are shipped to Eugene, where they are smelted. The concentrates will yield about 45 per cent, and will perhaps average $45 to $50 per ton. This is known to be a good mine. It is estimated that there were 75 new buildings erected in Ashland during the year 1900 and that $125,000 was spent in buildings in Ashland.

Dr. David Starr Jordan was in Ashland several hours Saturday waiting for the train to pull out south from his lecture tour north as far as Eugene. Dyeing is as simple as washing when you use Putnam Fadeless Dye. Sold by McNAIR BROS. J. T. Rogers, after visiting his family in Ashland, started for Seattle Monday to out fit on his return to the Klondike country, expecting to go in via Copper River. James Briner, who has been visiting at Talent, left Tuesday for the Epsey place to work on the dam at Talent. He and a force of men built two reservoirs last fall and expect a big run this season. A. E. Kinney and W. E. Price, have purchased Young's hardware store at Redding, taking stock last week and possession Monday. Mr. Price will remain as traveling man for Baker & Hamilton until next July. DAVID STARR JORDAN.

A Splendid Audience at Stanard's Opera House Listens to Genard's President's Views on the "Blood of the Nation." The following is a digest of the recent lecture at opera house by the distinguished scholar and scientist. The speaker began by stating that he had two propositions—the first that the blood of a nation determines its history, and second the history determines its blood. It used to be thought that inherited tendencies and traits were transmitted from the blood but in reality the blood had very little to do with it. You might pump out all the blood out of a politician's veins and fill them with the blood of an honest man and he would be a politician still. Years ago the people of England became the blood of the nation. The blood of the nation was more desirable than the long horned kind so they began to kill off those who were of the blood of a nation determines its history, and second the history determines its blood. It used to be thought that inherited tendencies and traits were transmitted from the blood but in reality the blood had very little to do with it.
