Organized Stock Thieves. James Lackey of Ontario reports the discovery of a regular transportation bureau in the interior region for the purpose of il-legally removing stock out of the country. It is evident that there is such a chain of organization from California to the Missouri River. A link in this cham, who will be a resident of the country where he oper-ates, will hold blmself in readine is to move to the next station with the drive at any hour, day or night. The stolen stock is turned over to him, and he makes a hurried drive, and in turn gives them to the next agent and returns at once to his neighbor-hood, where he is seen every day or two. and of course does not attract suspicion. In this way large numbers of cattle and horses are driven out of the country every month, and no one of the guilty is missed from his regular haunts Stock with entirely strange brands is often found through out the regions in which the gang operates, and this is looked upon as evidence of rapid transit in the thieving line.
