EXPLORING LAKE CO. FOSSILS.

California State University Making a Collection of Interesting Pre Historic Relics.

Lakeview Rustler.]

Four students from the Berkeley Geological Institute passed through Lakeview last week on their way to the desert, 15 miles nortwest of Summer Lake Their mission is in search of fossils. They are H. A. Furlong, W. B. Green, Carrie M. Alexander and Miss E. Wilson.

Their trip will not be futile, for in the vicinity above mentioned lies buried in the sand petrified skeletons of both ancient animals and birds. These bones have probably lain there for thousands of years. They are covered with sand, but as the snows and rain wash down the sides of the little hills there is revealed those great wonders of ancient times which set the geologists to wondering how they came there.

If it is true that this earth has at some period changed its poles, and this was once a torrid zone, then it is easy to account for how these huge animals came here. But how is it that they are found so deep under the ground? This may be accounted for by the water rushing over the country at the time of the change, which would be a natural consequence if the theories of the scientists are true, and it is both possible and probable that this was the case, and this country was for many years a great sea.

This country also contained other wonders for the fossil hunters. At the south end of Warner Valley lines an ancient burying-grounds of the Indians, and by action of the weather these skeletons are brought to the surface. The Indians who inhabited that country at the time of the earliest settlers knew nothing about this burying-ground, This country also has other wonders pertaining to its formation, to which probably our young students will give a thought before they leave the country, and well they might Should they happen to investigate the rimrocks here they will find in traveling along those perpendicular walls of rock what has at some time been chimneys for the escape of gases and internal fires It is possible that all the valleys in this country were once the highest mountains of Eastern Oregon But owing to the great internal fires burning for years they were undermined and their great weight tumbled them in, making valleys where there were once high mountains. There must have been terrible earthquakes in Oregon at that time, but undoubtedly that was in the early stages of formation, before man or beast inhabited what is now Oregon.

The students will take the best specimens of fossils back to the institute, where the geologists and philosopers will study and pass theories upon them. The Rustler wishes the young students a successful tour, and our people will be glad to hear the opinion of experts at a later date.

"Nerve Waste"

One of the most helpful books on nerve weakness ever issued is that entitled "Nerve Waste," by Dr. Sawyer of San Francisco, now in its fifth thousand. This work of an experienced and reputable physician is in agreeable contrast to the vast sum of false teaching which prevails on this interesting subject. It abounds in carefully considered and practical advice, and has the two great merits of wisdom and sincerity.

It is indorsed by both the religious and secular press. The Chicago Advance says: "A perusal of the book and the application of its principles will put health, hope and heart into thousands of lives that are now suffering through nervous impairment."

The book is $1 00, by mail, postpaid.

One of the most interesting chapters—chapter xx, on Nervines and Nerve Tonics—has been printed separately as a sample chapter, and will be sent to any address for stamp by the publishers, THE PACIFIC PUB. CO., Box 2658, San Francisco; in plain sealed envelope.

KLAMATH COUNTY NEWS.

From the Klamath Falls papers.]

Geo. Norris, Douglas Norris, Wm. Hanning and John Hanning of Klamathon arrived here Tuesday morning on their way to Lakeview to prove up on timber claims. Geo. Norris expressed the opinion that work on the proposed railroad from Klamathon to Klamath Falls would be commenced within a short time. We may expect to hear of the start any day now, so he says. The surveyors are still at work trying to shorten the line and secure an easy grade. A thousand grade stakes were sent to them from the Klamathon mill last week. Mr. Norris says cruisers and buyers are thick in the timber and that the demand for such property is growing rapidly.

Capt. O. C. Applegate came down from Klamath Agency Friday with Maj. Jas. McLaughlin, the inspector who had a correct treaty signed by 191 adult Indians, sufficient to make it binding. By this new treaty the Indians get about 50,000 acres more land, but no more than formerly intended, as the error was in favor of the government.

Capt. O. C. Applegate says the survey for the irrigation ditch, being made by Mr Miller of Colorado is about completed and that a crew of forty or fifty men will be put on construction work about the first of July. The ditch will run from Williamson river to near the mouth of Sprague river to Modoc Point. It will be 3 feet deep and 20 feet wide and will irrigate five or six thousand acres of rich land.

Miss Jessie Parker was in town Tuesday from Alkali valley. She expects to organize a class for instruction in painting, and should have no difficulty in doing so, as she is gifted in the branches of this art embraced in cartoon, pen and ink sketching and portrait as well as landscape painting.

John V. Houston left Tuesday for San Francisco for medical treatment and a change of climate, his health having been very poor for several weeks, owing to organic ailments. He will be joined by his wife as soon as he gets located, and they will remain in that section until he gets permanent relief.

Marion Hanks has a huge water wheel nearly completed at his place. It will work in Klamath river and furnish an abundance of power for irrigation. It is an improvement which means much to the productiveness and value of Mr. Hank's ranch.

J. S. Diller, of the U. S. Geological survey arrived Thursday from Washington, to superintend the re-sounding of Crater Lake.

Heartburn.

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, heartburn is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let six hours elapse between meales and when you feel a fullness and weight in the regions of the stomach after eating, indicating that you have eaten too much, take one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the heartburn may be avoided. For sale by all druggists.

Gold Hill District Mines.

Gold Hill News.]

John Simons had four tons of ore milled at Houck's one day this week from the Whitney ledge which yielded him $30 per ton or $120.

Phil Robison had a test run made of two tons of ore from the Hunter ledge on Foots creek and received $90 as compensation for his labors.

It is alleged that Joe McKee will soon have 160 tons of ore milled at Humason's, from his property on Foots creek, better known as the Anderson mine.

Ward, Wiggins and Selby are erecting a new quartz mill on the Lance place on Foots creek to handle the ore from their property known as the Horseshoe ledge.

The new whim which Messrs Shurtliff and Walbank are erecting at their mine on Blackwell hill will soon be finished and will add much to the convenience in handling ore.

Houck & Haff, as we go to press, are crushing twenty or twenty-five tons of ore from their mine in the granite belt, known as the old Davis mine, which is showing up well so far and will no doubt prove equal to expectations.

Mr. McIntyre, editor of the Dawson News, arrived in Gold Hill Monday to visit J. B. Agner, a former partner, who is now operating the Lucky Hill mine on Sardine creek.

Henry L. White has started to tap the Gold Eagle ledge, west of Rock Point, at a depth of 200 feet. Horace D Jones has taken a contract to drive the tunnel.

The Old Channel Mining Co. has deeded its entire property to J. R. Harvey and C. B. Beardsley who have been operating the same under bonds for about a year. The consideration was $90,000.

THE ORIGIN OF PETROLEUM.

The Geological Survey and Science is Unable to Decide the Question.

At the United States Geological Survey the recent discoveries of oil in Texas, Wyoming and California, are regarded with complaisance, not only because they will add millions to the visible wealth of the country, but because they furnish additional fields for investigation into the source and origin of the various grades of "oil," says the Baltimore Sun.

With all the study and original research which have been going on for many years in connection with petroleum there is much ignorance on the subject Where it can be found, whence it comes and its origin are all unanswered questions. When a gusher is struck it spouts a black fluid known as 'oil." This may be a compound of 50 or 100 different oils, which have to be separated as far as possible before being marketed. The qualities and characteristics of oil vary not only in the different wells, but often in the same well, the yield from one stratum being different from that of another lower down. The oil of the United States is entirely different from that found in Russia, Java or Peru, which fact substantiates the theory that the several oils have different origins.

One of the theories as to the source of oil is that it comes from the fat of animals or fish which had been squeezed out or distilled through countless ages to be collected in the oil sands.

Experimenting on this line in an effort to verify the theory, Warren and Storer took menhaden oil and, through distillation, produced a kerosene, which they marketed without an artifical nature being discovered. In 1888 Engler distilled under pressure half a ton of menhaden oil, from which he obtained petroleum distillates. The disstillate was brown but flourescent. Sixty per cent consisted of saturated hydrocarbons which isolated and identified a number of oils usually contained in the products of certain oil fields. He also purified the product and made good kerosene oil. Not satisfied with this he went further and showed that other fats as olein, will yield petroleum, so that fish oils are not essential.

Another theory that the oil is from vegetable matter is apparently sustained in the case of the Russian fields, where the oils contain a substance similar to the distillation of coal tar, such as benzole.

The theory has been advanced as to the origin of the Pennsylvania oil fields, that the petroleum of Pennsylvania owe their origin to the effect of heat upon the underlying limestones and shales of the Silurian age It is claimed that the same force that caused the Appalachian chain to uplift, passing through the limestones and shales of the Silurian age at a modified temperature distilled the oil already contained in these shales and conglomerate sands of the Devonian age, where it was condensed and filtered, and found it was sohme in the open, porus conglomerates which charrcterize the Catskill, Portage and Chemung periods of the Devonian age.

It, therefore, seems to be an open question as to whether oil is of mineral, vegetable or animal origin, and it will doubtless remain open for some time to come.

Diminished Vitality.

Some people talk very flippantly about diminished vitality.

They don't stop to think that vitality is the principle of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depends.

Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, strength and endurance, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitalizer.

The well known colored man, James Irvin, one of the oldest residents of Yreka, died at the hospital last Wednesday night about 11 o'clock. He came to Yreka in 1856, and to California in 1853, was a native of North Carolina, formerly a slave, and probably about 64 years of age, although many suppose him to be much older, the deceased having no knowledge of the date of his birth. The Colonel was well known throughout Northern California, and has many friends, owing to his quiet, sociable and amiable disposition, always ready to do a favor for any one as far as he was able. —Yreka Journal.

Dr Geo. Ewing, a practicing physician of Smith's Grove, Ky., for over thirty years, writes his personal experience with Foley's Kidney Cure. "For years I have been greatly bothered with kidney trouble and enlarged postrate gland. I used everything known to the profession without relief, until I was induced to use Foley's Kidney Cure. After using three bottles I was entirely relieved and cured. I prescribe it now daily in my practice and heartily recommend its use to all physicians for such troubles, for I can honestly state I have prescribed it in hundreds of cases with perfect success."—T. WHICH IS THE SABBATH DAY.

A Representative of the Ashland Ministerial Association Replies to the Article that Says it is Saturday.

MR. EDITOR:—In your issue of June 20th appears an article under title of "Saturday is the Sabbath" in which the writer quotes much scripture to sustain his position and thinks because he can quote scripture in his defence he is secure against attack. He reminds us of a certain Presbyterian minister who, by saying that elder and Presbyterian (Presbiterai, Greek) were the same word proved to the satisfaction of himself and congregation by quoting from Rev. 4:1 4 that there were Presbyterians in heaven But he would have had to quote many more such texts to convince our Advent brethren that they are any Presbyterians there because the writings of the Advent people take the position and probably correctly, too, that the best of Adventists go to hades when they die. [See Smith's "Man's Nature and Destiny" page 156.] Granted that the quotation of many scriptural texts does prove that Saturday is and was the Sabbath under the Jewish dispensation (and that dispensation was waxing old and ready to vanish away in A. D. 64. Heb 8:13, See dates in margin) and did vanish away in A. D. 71 when Titus destroyed Jerusalem and adjacent towns and country. (See history.) Does that prove that we should keep the seventh day as the Sabbath now? In Matt. 7:29 we are told that Jesus taught as one having authority and by reading the 5th, 6th and 7th chapters of Matt. we learn that said authority consisted in that in teaching he changed some things in the law. In Matt. 5: 31-32 he changed or abridged the law found in Deut. 24:1 concerning divorcement. In Matt. 5:33-36, the law found in Ex. 25:7, Lev. 19:12, Num. 30: 2, Deut. 5:11 concerning taking of oaths he changes by telling his followers not to take oaths. In 38th and 39th verses of same chapter Jesus abrogated the teaching found in Ex. 21:24, Lev. 24:30, Deut. 19:21. We do not claim that Jesus abrogated the 4th commandment. Your correspondent referred to in his article admits that Jesus changed the manner in which the Sabbath was kept. We do one better than that and claim that the teaching in the New Testament by example at least, which is better than precept or law, implies that there was a change in the time as well as in the mode. See Acts 20:7, 1st Cor. 16:2, Rev. 1:10. This change does not disannul the 4th commandment but simply changes the obligation of its observance from the 7th day of the week to the 1st day and as such has been so observed by Christian people for more that 1800 years. If your correspondent will give careful attention to the line of thought and scripture reference in the foregoing he will find plenty of Divine law for the sacred observance of the 1st day of the week to satisfy him. If not, we hope he has enough Christian charity to avoid rushing into print and taking up clubs to throw at others who are trying to raise the standard of morality and purity (even though in his opinion they may be misguided) to the great delight of the Secularist and the unbeliever.

Summer complaint is unusually prevalent among children this season. A well developed case in the writer's family was cured last week by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy—one of the best patent medicines manufactured and which is always kept on hand at the home of ye scribe. This is not intended as a free puff for the company, who do not advertise with us, but to benefit little sufferers who may not be within easy access of a physician. No family should be without a bottle of this medicine in the house especially in summer-time.—Lansing, Iowa, Journal. For sale by all Druggists.

New Educational Institution.

The Catholic Church of Oregon has secured the plant and property of the big Methodist university near Portland, The building will be used for school purposes, and it is to be conducted as an educational institution for 10 consecutive years Besides the building, 28 acres of land go with it, sufficient to form an extensive Campus. Archbishop Christie is to have a school instituted at the park with the brick structure as the college building. The prefect and vice prefect are to be priests, with an adequate faculty. The institution is to be maintained for 10 consecutive years from the date of opening. According to present plans the school will open some time in September, probably about the 15th.

The Same Old Story.

J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and re-told by thousands of others He says: Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entirely satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks when I used other remedies." Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderson, N. C. For sale by all Druggists.

Ray L. Cooper, of Crescent City, Calif., state surveyor and abstractor, and one of the owners of the Blue Ledge Company's mine on Joe creek, gives the following in regard to the mine; The ledge is 300 feet wide. They have tunneled in about 168 feet, and have 300 tons of rock on the dump which assays over 48 per cent in gold, silver and copper. This is without doubt one of the most valuable pieces of mining property in Oregon. It is owned by Crescent City parties alone.

Spitting Blood

"I used to cough a great deal and spit blood, and my neighbors in Dayton, Ohio, where I live, said among themselves that I had consumption, although they did not tell me so to my face, for fear of making me despondent. I kept on coughing and trying different sorts of medicines, but nothing seemed to reach my trouble until I got hold of a bottle of Acker's English Remedy. I prayed for health all the time, and my prayers were answered as soon as I began taking this celebrated English expectorant and tonic. Since my recovery I have told hundreds of sufferers from coughs, colds and weak lungs that Acker's English Remedy would cure them. Some of them won't try it, and it does seem to me terrible when anyone deliberately refuses to be cured. There ought to be a law compelling consumptives to take it. Even if they don't care for their own lives, the public's welfare should be considered. Don't you think so too? I hope such a law will soon be enforced."
