Mass Slugfests Introduced by Fighting 51st

Individual Combat Is Stressed in Hectic Battle Royal Fistics

Trainees in the Engineer Replacement Training Center here began taking it on the chin rereently with the introduction of "mass" boxing to the recreation program. First unit to participate in group slugfests was the 51st Battalion commanded by Lt. Col. Coke Matthews.

Using large circles in lieu of regular rings, two opposing squads donned 16-ounce gloves, lined up in a ring and at a given rommand, starting slugging. Men who stepped out of the circle or were knocked down were eliminated. Rounds lasted three minutes, after which gloves were given to another group, and the program continued.

Recreation officers said boxing will be included in the recreation schedule of each battal-ion. A program of this type not only aids in physical condition ing but teaches the men self-defense and coordination as well as establishing esprit de corps, they said. A number of high ranking officers, including Col. Frank S. Besson, Post Commander, Col. L. H. Hall, executive officer, and Col. Robert M. Copeland, 11th Gp. commander, were on hand to witness the initial program.

WAAC Pin Busters ferred here. Roll High Games

Bowling — America's most popular indoor sport — has caught fancy with Camp Abbot's WAACS and the soldierettes show improvement after every practice session on the Bend alleys.

Aux. Florence Schroeder walked off with top honors in last Thursday night's competition, scoring 149 for a three-game average, which isn't bad for a novice. Aux. Sara Stoddard bowled 170-average for two games. The WAAC officers, Lts. Podzunas and Elwell, showed promise on the alleys, averaging 94 and 72, respectively, for three-games. The WAACKers perform every Thursday and invite com-petition from other feminine pin

Son of Olympic Champion Is Now EM Pencil Pushers

Husky, good-natured, efficient Lt. H. Chester Kolehmainen, 12th Gp. Hqs. ass't adjutant, is reticent to speak about his fam-ous father, the all-time Olympic champion runner, Hannes Kolehmainen, who resides in Finland.

However, a hasty reference in the World Almanac reveals that the Camp Abbot officer's father won the 1912 cross-country run, the 5,000 meters run, the 10,000 meters run, and at the 1920 Olympiad, triumphed in the gruelling marathon.

"I hear frequently from my Dad," Lt. Kolehmainen said. "He operates a sporting goods store and is still active in athletic events."

July 4 Baseball Game Slated With Bend Team

A baseball game between Camp Abbot and the Bend Elks will highlight Camp Abbot's observance of the Fourth of July, the Special Service Office announced today. The contest is scheduled for 1500 on the Bend diamond.

Camp Abbot suffered an 11 to 1 defeat at the hands of the Bend aggregation in a season-opener two weeks ago. Both teams are entered in Central Oregon League competition.

Training schedules preclude the possibility of any special celebration of Independence Day on the post, officers in charge of training said.

Table Tennis Voted it Popular Sport By U.S. Servicemen

According to a recent poll of members of the armed forces the most popular sport is table tennis, and in line with that idea, table tennis is springing up in "rec" halls all over Camp Ab-

The biggest reason for the popularity is the fact that it can be easily played in a small space and consequently many trainces and soldiers alike are enjoying themselves over a hot game of table tennis.

Among other sports offered or going to be offered at Abbot are volley ball, basketball, badminton, soccer and possibly tennis and football. Golf can be played at the Bend country club by soldiers, while softball and baseball teams are mushrooming up like hotcakes all over the place.

Abbot Hoop Fans Workout In Gym

The All-Purpose rec hall was the scene of several hectic "just for fun" basketball games several nights last week when cadremen, trainees and several officers displayed spirited competition—a rarity during the season when baseball and softball occupy the sports attention of GI's at Camp Abbot. Regulation basketballs can be checked out from the Special Service office by any non-com desiring equipment for practice games. Players, however, if obtainable, are urged to wear gymnasium shoes to prevent roughing the maple-lined floor.

A feature of the basketball setup at the AP is a set of metallic hoops — free from former cage dressings—enabling hoop-sters to rifle the rim with uncanny aim.

Diediker Brothers on Duty at Camp Abbot

Heading the list of brothers in service at Camp Abbot is Maj. Paul L. Diediker, director of administration, and Pvt. Donald M. Diediker, recent recruit in B-52. Donald was a senior R.O.T.C. student at Washington State College when he received his "Greet-ings" letter.

Commenting on his younger brother's presence here, Maj. Diediker said, "It'll go him good. Camp Abbot is a rugged training center."

Biggest inning for the Camp Abbot squad was the first when scored four runs. Independents, handicapped by a lack of practice and spiked shoes, were held scoreless until the eighth frame. Ryan, short stop, scored the lone tally.
