When the big splash subsided and the bridge was destroyed, the scene was something like this. What A-58 destroyed, the 57th Bn. will repair. Strong cables were tied to the steel spans to prevent their sinking in the swift waters of the Deschutes.

Abbot Hoopsters Near Season End Without a Loss

Cinching what appears will be an unmarred string of basketball victories the Post team added their 13th and 14th wins of the season by smashing victories over Redmond Air Base and the Bend Wooden Box team last Tuesday and Friday, respectively.

Though the first half of the game with the Redmond quintet ended 28-22, Coach Leo Frizzo's Post team had little difficulty in increasing their six point lead to a 68-28 victory. With Lt. Butz back at guard the Abboteers defensive proved too powerful for the visiting basketmen and in the second half they eked out a mere six points.

Last night's game saw the "champs" once again in true form against the Wooden Box team. Playing with perfect coordination the Abbot men smashed the Bend team for the second time in two weeks. The latter game was sponsored to provide funds for the current Red Cross drive. The score was 46 to 38.

Normally the benefit game would have concluded the state G. I. basketball season, but the Redmond Air Base squad has requested a return match. This will be held sometime this month.

11th Group Ring Tourney Slated

The Post's second boxing tournament — for battalions of the 11th Group which are not competing in the current spring tourney — were started Thursday. Sgt. Leo Frizzo, post athletic director urged that battalion recreation officers take inventory of ring talent and encourage prospective participants to begin workouts immediately. "The importance of getting into condition before the tournament gets underway cannot be too strongly emphasized," Frizzo pointed out. In a number of bouts in the spring tournament a boxer would lead on points through two rounds and become an easy mark in the third because he was too tired to keep up with his opponent.

Everything a boxer needs in the way of training equipment is available at the recreation hall, Frizzo reminded.

Abbot to Have Baseball Team

Plans for organizing a Post baseball team and conducting a softball tournament open to teams of all units at Camp Abbot already are being formulated by the Post athletic department in preparation for the coming season, Sgt. Leo Frizzo, coach and athletic director, announced this week.

Softball equipment will be issued to organizations in the near future, Frizzo said. He urged that athletic directors of units be on the lookout for diamond talent for both the Post baseball team and for organizational softball outfits.

Civilian Squad Moves to Front In Cage Tourney

The Civilian Personnel basketball team moved to the fore in the Post basketball league this week to tie with Company A, 56th Battalion with nine wins and one loss. Casual Company last week's league leader dropped back to share fifth place with Supply Company, the two teams having nine wins against two losses.

Indianapolis (CNS)—When he saw an auto strike a dog, Policeman William Denker got out of his car and carried the pup to a nearby lawn. The dog then scrambled to its feet and chased the policeman back to his car.

Post Boxers May Meet Camp White

Camp Abbot will be represented in state GI fisticuffs circles by a team selected from winners of the Post spring boxing tournament, the athletic department revealed Thursday.

First inter-post contest scheduled to date is between Camp Abbot and boxers of the 96th Division at Camp White April 8. If tentative plans materialize, the blowoff will be held at Camp White.

Archery, Fencing Supplies Arrive

Soldiers with a bent for archery and fencing got their chance to brush up on their techniques this week with the arrival of archery equipment, foils and masks at the Post Recreation Hall. An additional supply of gym shoes also were on hand.

Kansas City (CNS) — Bill Peterson, a night club manager, was troubled by the manpower shortage. So he hired his two daughters as waitresses, his wife as hostess, his ex-wife as cashier and his father as doorman.

OUT OF UNIFORM!

Here's a gal who is a little too careless to pass inspection but the M. P.'s would find out her name is Pat Starling and she will be seen in Charles R. Rodgers', "Song of the Open Road" released by United Artists
