MORE ABOUT 'T' Flag

over the goal, the Ninth Service Command reported.

The flag, which now flies from the NSC Headquarters flag pole at Fort Douglas, Utah, was presented to Maj. Gen. David McCoach, Jr., commanding general, by Maj. Gen. Howard K. Loughry, chief of finance for the War Department, last week. Three other military commands—the First, Third and Seventh—now fly the award.

In the near future Camp Abbot will receive its own flag at which time an appropriate ceremony will be arranged.

Jews to Observe Passover Feast

Commemorating the deliverance of the children of Israel from the bondage of Egypt, the time-honored Seder services will be held Friday evening at 7 o'clock in the Pilot Butte Inn, Chaplain Norman M. Goldberg has announced.

For thousands of years the event has been celebrated by Jews all over the world. Held annually, the event, often termed the "Festival of Freedom", has been handed down from generation to generation, and the dinner symbolizes events connected with the first Passover. The Jewish Welfare Board will provide delicacies of the season, including matzohs, the "bread of affliction". The bitter herb is consumed during the meal to recall the bitter persecutions by the Pharaohs of Egypt.

Col. Frank S. Besson, Post Commander, has made it possible for all, including trainees, to attend. And everyone of Jewish faith at Camp Abbot is cordially invited. Reservations may be made before April 4 by calling Chaplain Goldberg, 'phone 68.

Findings From the 51st

By Pvt. Frank Ryan

With the ninth week under way, pro and con discussions of the coming bivouac seem to be the main topic of conversation. Rumors have it that a ten-year-old child can stand the gaff, while others more pessimistic claim it is a feat for Superman. Records, however, show that a good Engineer can do anything that Superman can. This apparently closes the subject.

B-51 came through in their usual style on training tests last Saturday, scoring 98.2 per cent. It is obvious that the men of the Company intend keeping the two plaques presented to them for highest ratings in tactical and technical problems.

Entering a diplomatic problem which requires a lot of tact to spare the other fellows feelings, this writer conducted a poll of all new members transferred to B-51. The decision was unanimous in upholding the quality of chow. In fact the majority said it was the best in Camp Abbot. Those smiles of satisfaction the men have been wearing lately are self-evident.

Clerks from the fourth platoon have originated this little diddy as their marching song. It coincides with the rambling wreck from Georgia Tech.

We're happy jerks
We're student clerks
We come from the fourth platoon
We're not scared to death of the bivouac
That we know is coming soon
Now let us tell you fellows
And this is plain to see,
We're still the best damn Engineers
Cause we come from Company "B".

The second squad of the second platoon came through to first place in a spectacular fist-cuffs session. It seems these boys have been riding the crest of the beam lately. Or, is it Sgt. Palkowski's tender advice to his flock.

TURTLE ON WHEELS

This is Armored Car M8, the Army's latest combat vehicle. Designed by the Ordnance Department to combine the speed and maneuverability of an automobile with the punch of a light tank, the M8 is a six-wheeled eight-ton armored car, mounting a 37mm. cannon and a .30 calibre machine gun. A crew of four handles this "turtle on wheels."

Irate Pooch Battles Sergeant Over Puppies

Things are rather quiet down around Service and Supply way these days, what with no wild animals snarling and clawing at everybody. But there was a time when it was survival of the fittest. A dog—at least everyone thought it was a dog—mysteriously attached herself to the area of the building. She owned the place, and when officer personnel attempted to enter or leave, she expressed in no uncertain terms her complete displeasure with the entire affair.

Finally came the truth. The critter had been personally involved in a blessed event—an issue of six copies—and the new canine generation was comfortably housed underneath the building.

Sgt. Hank Byington, being an intrepid type, organized an evacuation party. A sentry was posted at Mama's only entrance, then Hank assumed a prone position and laboriously made his way to the pups.

In some strange way, Mama learned what was cooking and made a bee-line for the scene of action. The sentinel idea proved rather ineffective, and Hank found himself faced with a battle, like it or not.

He emerged eventually, however, bloody but not bowed. Late reports have it that Mama finally became disgusted with the whole thing, gathered up her pups, packed her barracks bag—and went over the hill.

Companies Get 10% Rakeoff on Sales of YANK

Ten per cent of the proceeds derived from the sale of Yank magazine subscriptions at company pay tables yesterday will be applied to company funds in organizations where purchases were made, the Special Service Office, sponsor of the sales drive here, has announced. Subscribers will receive 26 issues if they paid $1 and 52 if they paid $2. Subscription figures were not available yesterday.
