Perhaps this article may serve to clear up the mystery, as the data is taken from the "Standard Code," a text book for railway men. Red signifies "danger." Green signifies "caution-go slow-White signifies "safety." Green and white signifies "stop at flag stations for passengers or freight." One cap or torpedo on rail means "stop immediately."

Two caps or torpedoes on rail mean "reduce speed immediately and look out for danger signal." A train while running must display two green flags by day and two green lights by night, one on each side of the rear of the train. After sunset, or when obscured by fog or other cause, must display headlight in front and two red lights in rear.

The strictest rules and some drugs are high priced; and there of phosphoric acid is concerned there laws the world over appertain to money matters and land transfers, and in believed to be of wonderful efficacy in that beyond that point it only serves these the slightest dot of black on the white paper is taken into account. Some people, I say, can not understand this, though reminded of it day after day. To help this class along and keep them constantly reminded of the banking rules necessary to keep a correct account, a book, small enough to carry in one's pocket, has been printed. and is being liberally distributed. I will cite three of the rules most fre quently violated. The first relates to NEW YORK. the signature. If your name is James I. Penman, and you sign that in the signature-book, never sign a check otherwise. Every young man should adopt his signature for life and decide whether he will sign his first name in full or abbreviated. It is always best to write the first name in full, then the middle or other initials and then the name. If this rule is adopted never deviate from it. The second rule very frequently violated is in the indorsing of a check. Should your name be misspelled on a check see what the error is an 1 indorse it exactly to a letter. Then sign the correct signature under it. The third violation is neglect to count money before going to the bank. It is much better not to deposit that day if you must run to the bank with a pocketful of loose money and then arrange it on the counter in a reckless manner. How often do you read of men being robbed in a bank by a shrewd thief calling

Stone in the Kidney.

I was first taken with sharp pains in the lower part of my bowels in the region of the bladder. Shortly blood appeared mixed with my urine, and a few weeks later I had an attack of gravel. I tried a number of doctors. One said it was gravel, another inflamation of the bladder, and another stone in kidneys. For three months I was under the care of an eminent doctor at Albany, but constantly growing worse, went home to die. At this time I was induced to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y., and am now Robust and strong.
