

NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY SATURDAY MORNING.

S. HOBSON. O. V. ALLEN. HOBSON & ALLEN, Editors and Prop's.

SATURDAY, JUNE 1, 1889.

Having sold our interest in the GRAPHIC to Mr. O. V. Allen, recently of Kansas, our connection with the paper ceases with this issue. We wish to thank the friends of the GRAPHIC for their liberal patronage in the past and bespeak for the new firm of Hobson & Allen a continuance of the same. It is with reluctance that we leave newspaper work, but our successors will no doubt, make the GRAPHIC as good if not a better paper than it has been in the past. This issue completes the first half year's work of the GRAPHIC. Whatever measure of success has been attained has been by hard work, for there were many difficulties to overcome. We hope the battle of the GRAPHIC will be easier in the future than in the past and wish it the best of success under the new management. W. M. HAYTT.

With this number the GRAPHIC completes its first half year's work and looking back over the past six months and recounting the difficulties with which it has met, we consider that it has made a grand success. That it has filled a want long felt here none deny, and amid the difficulties that surround a new business has persevered until it has attained a standing of which Newberg may well be proud. W. M. HAYTT has stood at the head and whatever of success has been attained by the GRAPHIC is mainly due to him. But on account of failing health he is obliged to give up the work; and from this time on the GRAPHIC will be under the management of Hobson & Allen, and we hope to be able to fill the place of our predecessors, and will succeed at least half way, as the senior member of the firm has been with the paper from the first.

In order to increase the circulation, we have reduced the subscription price from $2.00 to $1.50, thus making it the cheapest paper in Yamhill county, size of paper and amount of news considered. We do not want it understood that because we have reduced the subscription price that we intend to furnish our patrons with a "cheap paper," but on the contrary we will redouble our efforts, and give you the very "best we've got in the shop." We will not be second to any paper in the county and will use every fair means within our reach to push the GRAPHIC to the front.

We stand ready to advocate anything in our columns that will build up Newberg, and Yamhill county, but in no way will anything be allowed, publication that will tend to stir up petty jealousy and strife. HOBSON & ALLEN.

Decorations Day.

When a man's heart is in the task he has to accomplish, he does it with a will. You can see his very nature exhibited in his work. The truth of this was made manifest on Decoration Day here. The comrades, widows, orphans and friends of those who went down in defense of their country met at the Evangelical church and held Memorial Services according to orders from headquarters. The church was beautifully decorated with flags, evergreens, ivy and flowers. To the left of the rostrum was a large monument decorated with evergreens and flowers. Around the top was a wreath of roses, bestowed in honor of "The Dead," and on the front a cross bestowed in honor of "The Unknown." At 2 o'clock the G. A. R. post formed in line and took up their march to the church. It was indeed a solemn occasion. The old veterans marching along with flag at half mast and muffled drums; reflecting on the events of the past. At the church they were addressed by Prof. Morrison whose address was both entertaining and instructive, and full of good feeling for the soldiers. Taking it all together it was a day long to be remembered in the history of Newberg.

"Narrow Escape" Troubles.

Special to the Graphic. Dundee, May 31.—Reports are being published in the Oregonian, in regard to the strike on the "upper end" that are calculated to mislead the public, as far as the employes of the road are concerned. Employes as far as known have been orderly and have not molested the company's property. They have tried to sell checks now in their possession, which they have a right to do. There are bills now in the office due the employes for supplies as far back as July 1888.

In order to keep the road running some men paid out money for tallow and other material in order to get engines out. They have bought shoes, clothing, and helped those who have not been able to get the necessities of life, and now money is freely offered new men to take the places of those who have betried the company. We consider this a perfect outrage, and want at least to show the public our side of the question.

ONE OF THE BOYS.

1200 Acres for $1500. A splendid fruit or stock ranch, 3 1/2 miles from Newberg. About 20 acres in cultivation. 50000 acres shaded and fenced, balance in timber. Small house and barn and other buildings. The land is well adapted to all kinds of fruit and would subdivide to good advantage. An overflowing spring branches near the barn and there are two or three never failing springs of pure water on the tract. Would make a good chicken or stock ranch. A nice location for a fish pond. Only $10 per acre. Terms $200 cash balance on easy payments. Address, Messrs. OLIVER & COLCORD, Newberg Oregon, or J. C. HAYTT, Whittier California.

In less than five years the making of wooden cottages, to be shipped and put together in all parts of the world, will be a leading industry of this wonderful west. Very soon houses of certain patterns will be made and packed like unfinished furniture, or like machines or carriages or wagons, and shipped to regular dealers in all parts of the civilized world. This is no fancy, no prophecy, but the logical result of the present events.—Capital Journal.

A Trip to Portland. I wish to write a few lines for publication in your columns—Last Sunday (although very hot) I with several other boys formed a little company to visit the city of Portland. We gathered at the depot in due time. The train was behind time and we talked very freely about how our time should be spent during the rest of the day. At the hour of nine-thirty, the anxiously waited for train dashed into sight around the curve and then came the thrilling sound of the locomotive's whistle. We all boarded the train right side up with care. The car was full and it was not very pleasant riding until we met with a train from Portland and we secured three fine day coaches. Here we were separated, some taking seats in the rear cars, while others remained in their old positions. On our arrival at the city we were met by our good old friend A. P. Oliver who immediately invited us to dine with him and certainly we did not object. We fell in line and went to the International hotel, on the corner of Third and E st. and there we flopped our lips over a fine dinner. After dinner our train commenced. There was quite a crowd and it was not natural for them to agree on any certain program. So, it was every fellow for himself and we were separated. Some went to Vancouver and some went out to Mt. Taber, while the writer with a few of the others made a break for the great and wonderful city park. We took the Third and Washington st. street car and enjoyed the ride to the foot of the hill. The path led up a long canyon, through tall fir and evergreen trees and under three large bridges. At the head of the canyon was a beautiful pool of water which contained a large seal that seemed to be enjoying itself. From here we went to the menagerie and flower gardens. In the former were panthers, lions, bears, wildcats, owls, coons and deer. We enjoyed ourselves for a short time and then returned to the city on the street car and crossed the river to Clinton & McVey's ball ground where we witnessed a very fine game of ball, between the Willamettes of East Portland and Standards of Portland. The latter won the game by a score of 8 to 2. This ended the fun for the day and we returned well satisfied with the trip and we are going again. BREEZY.

The champion hungry man lives in Essex, Mass., and his name is Samuel Morse. He is afflicted with a most peculiar disease, being constantly hungry, and will eat ravenously nearly every hour in the twenty-four, getting up several times during the night to appease his appetite. He has been examined by many prominent physicians, none of whom can give any reason for his abnormal appetite or prescribe any medicine which will afford any relief. He is not at all particular what it is if it is only something to eat. He will bake a quart of beans and eat the most of them at one sitting and in ten minutes be hungry for more. He recently purchased four and one-half pounds of lamb and made a broth of it and ate the whole of it in the course of two hours. Such a tree parakeet of food caused considerable uneasiness and depression, but there is no getting away from it. The constant hunger calls for appeasement. Hungry he goes to bed; hungry he rises in the morning, and the vast quantities of food which he partakes of, do not seem to benefit him. He has been afflicted in this manner for ten years.—Dayton Herald.

Pacific coast tremors are now ranked highest in quality of any in the New York market. There has been some doubt as to their keeping qualities, but a test was recently made by shipping some to New York by the Isthmus, which tried them more severely than the voyage from Europe; and they stood it perfectly, neither moulding, fermenting nor suffering in any way whatever.—Capital Journal.

Harriet Beecher Stowe said to a reporter who called on her a few days ago: "My life seems like a dream. My work is done and I am enjoying the luxury of perfect rest and freedom. I can't remember what I read nowadays. My mind is blank and I am resolved into love. I love everybody even the dirtiest beggar on the street." What a sweet, golden sunset to a life of good deeds!—Ex.

Imagine yourself in a ship at anchor looking west or straight in front of you. There is a broad expanse of sea a little to your right hand, behind you will be the rugged coast, and to your left the long narrow fjord between the islands and the mainland that the steamer has just traversed. You watch the sun as it slowly, slowly sets; the islands and the coast look like a dark rich purple and the shadows cast by the ship's masts grow longer and longer. After a bit when the sun has sunk, apparently twelve feet from the horizon, it stops and seems to remain stationary for about twenty minutes; then the very sea gulls slide away, while the air of a sudden strikes chilly. Each one has an awed, ecstatic feeling. Soon the sun rises very slowly once again and the yellow clouds change with his uprising to even greater beauty, first to the palest pink, rose and then to a bluish pink. The sky which was just not rose color, becomes grey, then pale emerald green, and lastly blue. Back after rock stands out caught by the sun's rays and the reign of day has begun once more.—Ex.
