There is a time when it is safe to prune most varities of decidious fruit trees, and that time is when the wood is ripe and while the tree is in a dormant condition. In removing crops from the soil we take away plant food. This is the chief cause of soil exhaustion. Lack of fertilty is commonly due in a large part or entirely to lack of plant food. Cotton-seed meal will not do for hog feed, as the lint balls in the stomach, and cannot be voided. This objection to cotton-seed meal is not applicable to domes-tic animals other than the hog.

If you dissolve bones by boiling them n a strong potash lye and then use dry earth or leached ashes as an absorbent, you get a fertilizer or compost, rich in both phosphoric acid and potash. It will contain also most of the nitrogen which was in the bones. The liquid manure is more valuable than the solids, and a liberal use of absorbent material will aid in arresting its loss. It should be saved carefully, and a drain at the rear of the stalls should conduct it to some kind of a receptacle from which it may be pumped over the manure heap.

It is better still doubtless to do the work in the fall, but manure is not then to be had, and if the wheat is all there after its winter's exposure it will pay to give it a further lift.
