"Happy New Year."

From our sight the Old Year faded,
In the midnight cold and gray;
Down the pathway dim and shaded,
Gone for aye.

Gone, and yet the early morning
Whispers of the New Year's birth.
All the glowing East gives warning
To the earth.

Coming! coming! hear the calling
Of her voice among the pines!
Where the snow-wreath, in its falling,
Whirles and shines.

Coming? yes, her light step clingeth
To the frosty-pinioned wind.
Fresh dawning life she bringeth
To mankind.

Now the world's great heart is beating
With a pulse clear and strong.
Wakea! then, and give her greeting,
Glad and long

Joyous New Year! let thy dealing
Gentle be, and ever calm.
All the wounds of error healing,
With thy balm.

Let the Spring, with roseate finger,
Touch the pallid cheek, and start
All the sluggish tides that linger
At the heart.

Paint, with Summer's richest luster,
Petaled flower and tasseled weed;
And the Autumn grain still cluster,
For our need.

Then, O King of Peace and Promise!
Stretch thy bow across the seas;
Make thy face to shine upon us,
Giving Peace.

—ALICE ARNOLD CRAWFORD.

Our Motor Line.

On Monday we received a proposition from a gentleman connected with a large Real Estate firm in Vancouver B. C., to furnish money toward building our Motor line from the Depot to the foot of River St. He closes his letter thus. "People of Newberg should begin to realize that there is a grand future in store for their city and act accordingly." Prompt and decisive action on our part will give us a Motor line inside of six months. Outside capital is ready to take hold of the matter just as soon as we put the matter in proper shape. Let us push the Motor line.

THE Oregonian, of Monday morning last, brought us the news, that on last Sunday, a day that should be of rest, of peace and good will to all men, at Niles, Ohio, a father and husband, being a slave to strong drink, cuts the throat of his wife, his three small children and his own.

On the same day at Los Gatos, Cal., a father goes to the house, where his 16 year old daughter is working, calls her out and shoots her through the heart, and then attempts to take his own life, all because his daughter would not give him her hard earned wages to squander for whiskey. Is it no wonder the mothers of the United States cry out "O Lord how long." "How long." Yes, how much longer will we wait, before we raise up in our might and "Pulverize the Rum Power."

Officers of the United States senate, some of whom have been in the service a quarter of a century, are aghast at the audacity of Senator Moody, of South Dakota, who improved the first days of the session in securing the appointment of his son Warren as page on the floor of the senate. This is declared to be the first instance on record in which the son of a senator has filled the office of page. Nepotism is generally conceded to be the most audacious "ism" that flourishes in Washington, hence the fact that this case is "without precedent" in its most astonishing feature.—Lebanon Express.

Poor fellows, we are not a bit sorry for them. Hope they will continue to be aghast. We imagine there are a great many more "ism" about Washington than "Nepotism." We remember of reading of a senator, at the close of the last winter's session, who was bodily effected with "Alcoholism," but we did not read that these same officers stood aghast. Why not? We think it vastly more honorable in Senator Moody's son to serve as a page, than though he felt above serving in the that capacity, and endeavor to live in idleness and be supported by his father, simply because he is the son of a United States senator. We are not at all alarmed! we have no fears that our government will be ruined. We are satisfied that Warren Moody will make an honorable upright page, as his father will be an honorable upright senator.

Washington Letter.

(From Our Regular Correspondent)

WASHINGTON Dec. 13 1889.—The Speaker of the House announced early in the week the appointment of five important committees on Ways and Means, Appropriations, Elections, Manufactures and Mileage. It was only a week ago Monday that Mr. Reed was elected, and the progress he made in the formation of his committees is so unusual as to be surprising. That's business. It goes to show that the Speaker intends to master the situation, instead of allowing the situation to master the Speaker. Mr. McKinley very properly heads the Ways and Means committee, seconded by Mr. Burrows. Mr. Carlisle heads the Democratic minority, Mr. Cannon as chairman, and Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, with equal propriety, are placed on the Appropriation Committee, with Mr. Randall in the minority. This disposes of Mr. Reed's late competitors very comfortably.

By this action on the part of the Speaker, the House is enabled to enter upon the practical work of the session in some of its branches, at least, a fortnight before Christmas, which doesn't always or often happen. As a general thing the December of the first session is an off month, so far as public business is concerned, but there will be time for consideration preliminary legislation this year between now and the holiday adjournment.

Wednesday at the National Capitol the representatives of the American people and the representatives here of foreign nations commemorated the organization of our government and virtues, wisdom and greatness of George Washington. The oration of Chief Justice Fuller was fully equal to the occasion and characterized most fitly the man, the nation and the epoch. On no ceremonial occasion has there ever assembled in this country so many people of distinction as at this centenary of the inauguration of George Washington as the first President of the United States. There were present the representatives of the nineteen American republics participating in the Pan-American Congress; twenty-five other nations were represented by the delegates to the Maratime Congress, and the world at large viewed the spectacle through the diplomatic corps. A more notable audience was never assembled under a single roof.

The Blaines are now settled in the historic Seward mansion. The old red brick house has not been altered as to the general plan of the rooms. In the front of the house, on the main floor, where Secretary Seward had two parlors, is now one magnificent drawing room. Secretary Seward had a red and a blue and a yellow room on this floor; the latter was also the library, as it is at present. The drawing room is furnished on a color scheme of salmon tints and on the walls are rare and beautiful paintings and engravings, the collection of many years in this country and in Europe. The Secretary, as it is well known, is an acknowledged connoisseur in art matters, and his pictures are a credit to his taste. Mrs. Blaine has furnished this house throughout with everything fresh and new, although the family have two houses in Maine fully equipped.

More than a score of sedate, and for the most part, elderly gentleman are congregated in Washington this week. Some of them are governors of states and some of them merely represent a few of the other governors who can not be present. They have been brought together by a desire to have Congress do something material in the way of assisting them to erect, in the city of Philadelphia, a grand memorial structure which shall suitably commemorate the greatness which was made apparent in the first few years, of this nation's history. The structure contemplated, although no plans have as yet been formulated, is a huge arch in which each state will have an apartment for the care of which it will be responsible. Architects of national reputation will shortly be requested to furnish designs.

Secretary Windom has at least the satisfaction of knowing that his new silver policy is not meeting with indifference. The extreme silverites and the ultra goldites alike reject it. By one paper it is called "bi-metallism with a single (gold) standard." The indications of there comments is to the effect that the Secretary steers a safe, middle course.

The House has voted to appropriate $200,000 for printing 400,000 copies of the report of the Agricultural Department. Secretary Rusk has reason to feel complimented by the distinction thus accorded him.

There are so many governors in the city to-day, that it isn't nearly so long between times as it was when there were only the governor of North Carolina and the governor of South Carolina to do the talking.

A delicate little Mitchell boy, who had been repeatedly told to eat heartily or his clothes wouldn't fit him, recently startled a company at dinner by telling a young lady, whose poor appetite was the subject of remark, that she had better eat something or her pants wouldn't fit her. The boy was taken home.—Dakota Standard.

L. Q. C. Lamar, who was recently elevated to the supreme bench of the United States Court, declared that Jefferson Davis "was the colossal figure of his time." Yes, he was the colossal figure of his time in the colossal effort to perpetrate the colossal infamy of the age—the effort to establish human slavery upon the ruins of constitutional liberty. Such language from the man who fought with Davis to ruin the government that honors him with so exhalted a place as a seat on the supreme bench is an insult to the court and an outrage upon a freedom loving people.—Plaindealer.

Academy Items.

School was dismissed Tuesday afternoon for a weeks vacation. It will open again next Thursday Jan. 2.

One of the students picked some wild flowers on her way to school last week. How is that for winter weather, ye students of eastern colleges?

Among our visitors last week were, W. S. Reece, Will Wilson and Mrs. Mary E. K. Edwards.

On Christmas night quite a company of students and young people from this place attended a birthday surprise party at Dundee, in honor of Walter and Warren Robertson. A very pleasant and enjoyable time is reported by all.

Will Ralston and Elmy Guttry were in town this week hand shaking with their many friends.

Nearly all of the non-resident students departed for their homes last Monday and Tuesday, to spend Christmas and the vacation there.

Please Remember.

Little drops of printers ink,
A little type displayed.
Make our merchant princes
And all their big parade.

Little bits of stinginess—
Discarding printer's ink—
Burst the man of business,
And see his credit sink.

MRS. F. A. MORRIS, County Superintendent of Press Work.

The Marchioness of Stafford has written a book of travels.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward has been offered $5,000 for a story of thirty thousand words.

Miss Susie Sewell, teacher of sewing in the Minneapolis schools, receives a salary of $800, a year.

Miss Eva McDonald is indefatigable in her efforts to secure the rights of the oppressed factory girls.

Lucy Stone, who is now seventy-one years of age, began lecturing on woman's rights and wrongs in 1847.

Charlotte M. Yonge, the historical writer, is now writing her 161st book, which will shortly be published.

Mrs. J. Kellogg, who has been admitted to practice before the Courts of Kansas, has an income of $5,000 per year.

Michigan has a ten hour law for those under eighteen and women. An hour for dinner makes the day nine hours long.

The Mothers' meeting, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, will be at the residence of Mrs. Edwards. The subject for discussion is Obedience. All are cordially invited.

The wife of E. P. Roe, has erected over her husband's grave a handsome granite monument, on which are engraved a number of quotations from his best known works.

Kate Field is about to start a newspaper in Washington. It will be a weekly, devoted to topics of general interest, and will bear her personal impress in every department.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TEMPERANCE RESOLUTION.—"Resolved, that while we willingly concede to each member of our societies the right of considering the temperance question one of politics or not, yet we do not believe that any member of a Christian Endeavor Society has a moral right to remain an inactive witness of the great battle now in progress between the forces of righteousness and the saloon power of this country. We view with the greatest concern the rapid increase of the power for evil of the saloon in every department of life, and consider it is in the highest degree hostile to the interests of Christian Endeavor. We would heartily join in the cry of 'Down with the saloon,' and believe it is the duty of every member of our Societies of Christian Endeavor to be engaged along some line of active temperance work with "both hands earnestly."

A Tribute To Water.

It is related of the late Emory Storrs that when sitting around a wine table with a number of his friends he insisted on drinking ice water. They taunted him for his absteminiousness, saying, "what is there in water? You can say nothing of it." Picking up his glass he pronounced the following eulogy on water:

"How do you expect to improve upon the beverage furnished by nature? Here is—Adam's ale—about the only gift that has descended undefiled from the garden of Eden? Nature's common carrier—not created in fermentation, not distilled over guilty fires! Virtues and not vices are its companions. Does it cause drunkenness, disease, cruelty to women and children?

"Will it place rags on the person, mortgages on the stock, farm and furniture? Will it consume wages and income in advance and ruin men in advance? No!

"But it floats in white gossamer clouds far up in the quiet, summer sky, and hovers in dreamy mist over the merry faces of all our sparkling lakes. It veils the hills and woods of earth's landscape in a purple haze, where filmy lights and shadows drift along. It piles itself in tumbled masses of cloud domes and thunder heads, draws the electric flash from its mysterious hiding places, and seams shocks the wide air with vivid lines of fire. It is carried by the winds, and falls in rustling curtains of liquid drapery over all the thirsty woods and fields, and fixes in God's mystic eastern heaven his beautiful bow of promise glorified with radiance that seems reflected out of heaven itself.

"It gleams in the frost crystals of the mountain tops and the dews of the myriad forest in the world and tints each fruit and flower. It is here in the grass blades of the meadows, and there where the corn waves its tassels and the wheat is billowing. It gems the depths of the desert with the glad green oasis, winds itself in tokens around the green earth, and rears its hoarse, eternal anthems on a hundred thousand miles of coast! It clasps its hands in the clashing wave crests of the sea, laughs in the little rapids of the brook, kisses the dripping moss-covered old oaken bucket in a countless host of happy homes.

"See the piece of cracked ice full of prismatic colors, as diamonds. Listen to their fairy tinkle against the brimming glass that sweetest music in the world to one half fainting with thirst! and so in the language of that grand old man, Gough, I ask you brothers all, would you exchange that glass of sparkling water for alcohol, the drink of the very devil himself?"

Of Special Interest to All our Readers who possess the Boon of a Baby.

A magazine devoted to the care of infants was established in New York a few years ago. Its plan was to procure the best writing that money could buy from physicians, trained nurses, and everyone else who was competent to advise in the perplexities that confront conscentious parents who aim at succesful training of their children. An experienced physician was placed in charge as medical editor.

This magazine, BABYHOOD by name, has met with remarkable success the world over. Its foreign subscription list was sufficiently large for it to establish a London office last year and begin the issue of a foreign edition.

BABYHOOD contains important popular articles on infants' diseases; departments of "Nursery Problem," in which numerous questions of subscribers are answered; Nursery Helps and Novelties," comprising descriptions of recent inventions and convenient nursery furnishings; a "Mothers' Parliament," containing interesting letters from readers, etc., etc. The Congregationalist recently said: "Every issue of BABYHOOD confirms us in the opinion which we have often expressed, viz., that it is peerless in its way. It is full of material of the most practical value to all mothers, and it must be read to be appreciated. It is doing missionary work of a high order."

By special arrangements with the publishers, we are enabled this year to make an unusual offer: The regular price of BABYHOOD is $1.50 a year. We will furnish the GRAPHIC in combination with BABYHOOD for $1.50 per year. This is a "bargain" that needs no comment. Make a careful note of it, cut this out, or, what is better, send in the amount at once. If you wish to first see a copy of the magazine, address a postal card to "BABYHOOD; New York," asking for one, and a back number will be sent, free.
