

NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY SATURDAY MORNING. E. H. WOODWARD. EDITOR and PUBLISHER. SATURDAY, MARCH 8, 1890.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Newberg, Oregon.

The old man Scott, who has been on trial before Justice Harding of McMinnville during the week, charged with the murder of his wife, has been held to answer before the Grand jury without bonds.

ANACORTES a new town which is building up on the Sound in Wash. is having a big boom. A few weeks ago the spot was but little known and now they claim a population of 2500 with fifty arrivals each day.

THE REPUBLICAN state central committee met in Portland last Wednesday and fixed the date of April 10th, as the time for the state convention, which will be held in Portland, Yamhill county will be entitled to eight delegates in the convention.

THE UNION Pacific railroad company has made arrangements to run a line of ten steamers between Portland and Japan. Returning from Portland they will carry flour, eastern manufactures, machinery and cotton goods.

MANY PEOPLE believe that when the P. & W. V. railroad is changed to a standard gauge this will be made the main line of the great Southern Pacific for their through traffic.

SHERIFF HARRIS is reported as saying that the first day he was in Newberg to receive taxes, he collected more money than he did on any other day he was out. In other parts of the county the impression seems to prevail that but little money is held in this vicinity and our county officials are surprised to find that our proportion of taxes is not a small figure in footing up.

Passed the Council, March 3rd 1890. Approved, March 5th 1890. Attest, FRANK P. BAUM, Mayor.

LITTLE Abe Lincolnson of Robert T. Lincoln, United States Minister to England died in London last Thursday at 11 o'clock. He had been suffering for some time with something like a carbuncle on the left side below the arm pit. He was sent to the south of France where an operation was performed by French physicians with but little success.

Annual School Meeting. The regular annual school meeting was held last Monday at the new public school building. A fair proportion of the voters in the district were present, but not all.

The business was transacted in a quiet orderly manner. Andrew Pickett was elected to the position of Director for the term of three years and N. C. Christensen as clerk for one year. The list of the above named gentlemen are well qualified for the offices to which they have been elected and the interests of the district will no doubt be well guarded.

Literary Entertainment. The winter term of the Academy closed on Friday last week. The fall and winter terms passed by in a very satisfactory way to teachers, students and others interested in the school.

Obituary.

Annie Bell Willison, daughter of Rev. W. A. Willison, who died on Tuesday the 18th instant was born in Purdy, Tennessee, April 14th, 1874, and was therefore a little more than eleven years old. She had been delicate from childhood, but for the last three years had seemed stronger and promised to entirely overcome the disease which was aggravated at last with an acute attack of congestion of the lungs and which caused her death. She was always a spiritually minded child which grew upon her with her years and which seemed especially to develop in the last few months, ripening her little life for an abundant entrance into the kingdom. Her chief delight in her last days was in the promises of God; and the "Daily Light" a little book for daily readings which I presented to her at Christmas for bringing in the largest number of scholars, was her constant companion. As she neared the end she read more and more frequently and with increasing joy the words of the beloved apostle John, "Now are we the sons of God and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that when he shall appear we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is." Little Annie's testimony and experience was that of so many of the children of the Sabbath school who have gone before, the seed sown springing up and bearing fruit for a golden gathering in their new home with Jesus. And if this witness to the love of Jesus and his saving power should be all that God had for her to do, her short life has not been in vain, for in it many other little children may see the face of Jesus and find him as precious to them and older ones too, for "a little child shall lead them," we are told. I should like as her pastor as the shepherd of so many little lambs in the Sunday school to commend the life of this child of the king to all of her school and play mates that they may follow her as she followed Christ and that they may be the comfort to their parents that Annie was to hers.—W. O. Fisher.—Albina Courier.

The Narrow Gauge Extension.

O. E. Eccleson, formerly chief engineer of the Oregon Pacific Co., who is now in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company, passed through this city yesterday on his way to the terminus of the Narrow Gauge at Coburg, where he goes for the purpose of making a survey of the proposed extension of that road to Springfield. To a Herald reporter he said that the entire route would be made standard gauge, and the extension made this season. This will give Albany connection, via Lebanon branch of the Southern Pacific, with a wide scope of rich country.—Herald.

Sunday near Freeport, Cal., a man was found hanging by his coat collar to a barbed wire fence, with perhaps twenty feet of wire beneath him. He had attempted to row beneath the fence in a boat, but was stopped by the wire, while the boat continued on. When rescued he had been in that position several hours, and was nearly exhausted.—Evanier.

The following has been proposed for an inscription on a monument to Henry W. Grady: His face was a thanksgiving for his past life and a love letter to all mankind.

Sherman on the South.

There was a patios, as well as a touch of wide sympathy, in the speech of Gen. Sherman at the banquet of the New England society. It was not long, but full of good will to all. He said: At every meeting I attend I miss more and more of those noble faces which used to greet me here at this hospitable board. I remember Henry W. Grady very well. I remember with what enthusiasm he was received, and I, in common with Mr. Dewey and you all, deplore his untimely death. He probably did not go as far as many of us would have him go, but he was among a people whom he understood well, and he would only venture as far as he could accomplish. [Applause.] I hope and trust that there are young men in the south who will take up the burden where he left off and carry it until all our country shall be uniform in habits, manners and customs. I take it for granted that the law will vindicate itself. In due time, and all they have to do and all we have to do is to welcome and welcome them when they come among us until they shall bring about the remedy. Young men, this is your task. I believe you will perform it.

Eligibility of a Juror.

Juror John Culver, who does not believe in hanging, and stood out in his opinion till the sentence of the Cronin prisoner was commuted from hanging to imprisonment for life, is having a rough time of it. His own life has been threatened, he has been called scoundrel, villain, miscreant, and even his family have been dragged before the public. Newspapers have taken it for granted that he was bribed and have attacked him with savage abuse. One pious correspondent writes anonymously: "I pray to God that you may find your deserved place in the catch basin, and I would love to see you there, head downward."

In return Culver writes: "I think that jury trials have become the veriest farce if it is true that a man must suit his verdict to the demands of newspapers or public opinion."

The question here brought up is an important one. Nobody has any right to assume that Culver was bribed to stand out against the hanging of the three prisoners until he has been proved guilty in a court of law. Then the severest judgment that law, newspapers and public opinion can mete out to him would be proper. Give the devil his due, both before and after it has been found that he is the devil. But the point of law is one of profound interest. It is this: In a state where either hanging or imprisonment for life may be the penalty for murder, at the discretion of the court, can a man who has conscientiously scrupled against the death penalty be properly eligible as a juror?

The Pope and Progress.

W. T. Stead, of The London Pall Mall Gazette, writes a striking letter from Rome on the position of Pope Leo XIII with regard to modern reforms. According to Stead, his holiness is fully abreast of the radical reformers in the labor field. He is vigorously pushing the organization of Catholic trades unions, having aims identical with those sought by the general trades unions. The holy father would shorten the hours of labor, so as to give the workman time to educate himself, and he would fix by law and custom the seventh day for rest. On the continent of Europe Sunday labor is much more common than it is in Great Britain or America. Those in the pope's councils told Mr. Stead that he would gladly co-operate with Protestants of all sects, and even with representatives of atheistical and revolutionary societies in enforcing the workman's release from labor on Sunday. In brief, the programmes of the various socialistic congresses that met in Paris this summer formed for the amelioration of the masses will be observed to be followed with striking accuracy by the programme the pope has laid down. Stead tells us. We are told further that the holy father is in favor of the emancipation of woman, seeing in this the salvation of the church. Most striking of all, however, is the evidence here given once more of the complete adaptability of the Roman Catholic church to the changing conditions of modern society and the ability of her leaders to see which way the wind blows.

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

"For God and Home and Native Land."

Mrs. F. A. MORRIS, County Superintendent of Press Work.

Any superintendent not having reported to Mrs. Kirk as notified in last weeks column will please do so at once.

Next Saturday, March 15th, the Annual Meeting of the Newberg W. C. T. U. will be held at Friends church at 2 o'clock p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all. It is hoped that all the old members will be in attendance, and new members are especially urged to be present, as most if not all of them will have work assigned them for the coming year, and it is necessary that they come out and get a little insight as to the nature of the work.

Notice: To superintendents of departments. Any woman knowing herself to be superintendent of a department in the W. C. T. U., will remember that she is expected to read, at the annual meeting, a concise, written report of all work done in her department in the past year. We earnestly request superintendents to attend to this, as it is important that these reports be placed on the secretary's book. If it is not possible for her to be present at the meeting, let her send in her report to be read by the secretary, with a duplicate to be forwarded to the county convention, and thus avoid delay and confusion. Below is a list of the names.

An incident is related by Mrs. S. M. I. Henry, which has many parallels in the experience of white ribbon women and suggests, as statistics never could, the far-reaching and beneficent influence of their work. It is as follows: "A young tobaccoist came to me for a temperance pledge. A few days later I took a marked copy of the book of Proverbs, and called upon him in his cigar store. After a few inquiries, I handed him the little volume and said, "Read a few verses in this book every day, and remember I pray for you." He gave me a quick look, and turning about, began fumbling among boxes on the shelf behind him as though I had asked for a box of cigars. After a moment he turned again toward me, and with moist eyes looked me frankly in the face saying: "Excuse me—you took me by surprise—thank you; nobody in the world ever prayed for me before."

"Not your mother?" I asked. "My mother never prays."

"Then would you like to have me pray for you?" "Indeed I should. I shall not forget it; I will read the book."

"Well," I said, "you may know then that I shall pray for you; but when my prayer is answered you will be in a different business and a different man; will you be willing to make the change?" It was a moment before he replied; then he said: "The change would be for the better, yes I should be willing to be any thing that your praying would make out of me."

"I cannot take space to relate what followed; but a change came, and was for the better."

An investigation into the condition of national soldiers' homes has finally been ordered by congress. The board of managers recently paid a visit to the home in Virginia, as a result of which an order was issued that all members of the home engaged in liquor traffic in the neighboring villages must give up the business or be dishonorably discharged from the home. The inquiry of the sale of beer within the home is not yet abolished, but agitation against it is vigorously kept up by the National W. C. T. U. department of work for soldiers and sailors, under the leadership of Mrs. Sarah A. McClees, of New York city.

"Woman a cipher!" Granted. But she is a cipher on the right side, that counts ten in God's government just as sure as in man's arithmetic.—Anna M. Hawner.

Emerson in speaking of stimulants exclaimed: "Tobacco, tobacco, what a rude crowbar is that with which to pry into the delicate tissue of the brain!"
