

NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY SATURDAY MORNING.

E. H. WOODWARD.
EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

SATURDAY, MARCH 22, 1890.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Newberg, Oregon.

BILL NVE, the celebrated humorist lecturer will be in Portland on Wednesday and Friday nights of next week.

THE MEMBERS of the Multnomah county republican committee have been "pulling hair" for several days, through the Oregonian.

THE COUNTY republican central committee met at McMinnville last week. The primaries were called to meet April 5th, and the county convention for April 9th, at 10 A. M. at the court house in McMinnville.

IF ALL the articles that are written and sent to the large publishing companies, were put in print, what a medley of ideas the world would have in printed form. It is said that the Harpers of New York receive about fifteen thousand manuscripts a year, of which number they can at most only use five or six hundred. The Century Company receives ten thousand and can only use three hundred and fifty.

THE DEMOCRATIC state central committee met at Salem last Wednesday and fixed the date for the state convention on the 24th of April and Portland as the place for meeting. The representation will consist of 192 delegates and Yamhill county will be entitled to seven of the number. Penney seems to be the choice of his party for the governorship and he will no doubt be nominated by acclamation.

WE HAVE noticed in the past week or two several people in town buying in supplies of garden seeds, hoes, rakes &c. preparatory to gardening. After a few years experience in this country we have found that it is better to wait until the cold rains are past and the weather is fully settled before making garden. It is all well enough to work the ground when it is in good condition but don't be in a hurry to plant.

WHERE is the right man to start a potato shop in Newberg. The best thing that is made in the country is manufactured here and what is to hinder crockery being manufactured as well. Crockery ware sells on this coast for double the price it brings in the east, and we see no reason why it should cost but little if any more to manufacture it here than in Indiana or elsewhere. It would take but little capital to start the business and if it proved to be a profitable investment, which it certainly would be, the business could be enlarged. We ought to be able to furnish the country around with stone ware instead of sending our money to Illinois or Indiana for what we use. What we need more than any thing else is some lines of business that will furnish work for employment and we are confident that if some small branches of industry of this kind were started and worked successfully and enlarged as the trade demanded that other larger manufactures would follow.

IT IS QUITE a common thing to hear people growl and complain about real estate men, and they seem to enjoy getting in a back handed stroke where ever they can to injure their business. Such chronic are anxious to see the country filled up with new blood from the east, and are as ready and willing to take advantage of the tide of immigration to make a little money as any one, but they forget that our real estate men pay out the money for the advertising that brings the immigration. Since the organization of the Board of Immigration in our town a year and a half ago by some of our wide awake citizens, a large sum of money has been spent in advertising the valley, and as usual, about the time returns began to come in from the effort made, the ever ready growler and croaker made his appearance for the purpose of making money by trying to injure the business of others, and at the same time get the advantage of the money spent by the Board in advertising. But it was ever thus for some time and not made to live by bread alone, but rather to live by following the avocation of the traditional croaker and when they are out of every thing else to crowd about, they will complain because their great grand-mothers were wiser than they.

Alaska Missionaries.

Elwood Weesner and wife from Douglas Island, Alaska, arrived in town last Saturday and have been stopping with Jas. Vestal's family who are boarding their son Everett, who is attending the Academy. Three years ago Kansas Yearly Meeting of Friends church sent Mr. Weesner and wife to work as missionaries among the Alaska Indians. Since establishing their mission on Douglas Island, they have built a school house and have had a school running most of the time. It has been the same thought to establish an industrial school at this place and Mr. Weesner is now on his way to the east for the purpose of raising money to put up a salmon cannery factory to run in connection with the school. He gave a very interesting talk on their work among the Indians, at Friends church last Sunday night. Mrs. Weesner will remain here with her son while her husband spends two or three months in the east, after which they will probably return to a fair field of labor.

GROWTH OF A BIG BOOK.—When Webster's Unabridged was first published in one volume, it was a comparatively small book. Some years after, an addition was made of 1500 Pictorial Illustrations, A Table of Synonyms, and an Appendix of New Words that had come into use. A few years later came an entirely new revised edition of larger size, with 3000 Pictorial Illustrations; then, after an interval of a few years, a Biographical Dictionary of nearly 10,000 Names, and a Supplement of nearly 5000 New Words were added and now there has come another new and most valuable addition, A Gazetteer of the World, of over 25,000 Titles. The work is now not only the best Dictionary of the words of the language, but is a Biographical Dictionary, a Gazetteer of the World, and a great many other good and useful things in its many valuable Tables.

Organization of the First Presbyterian Church.

The First Presbyterian church of Newberg, Or., was duly organized on March 18, 1890. Rev's A. J. Brown and W. S. Holt of Portland, Elder Bird of La Fayette and Rev. W. A. Willson, the Pastor, assisted in its organization. Rev. A. J. Brown preached an interesting and instructive sermon from the latter half of 2nd Cor., 4-13, to a fair audience in the afternoon. In the evening he preached from Eph., 5-23, "Christ is the Head of the Church," to a large and appreciative audience. In the same pleasing and earnest manner in which he spoke in the afternoon and with a positiveness of his convictions, he set forth plainly and convincingly the belief of the Presbyterians, and their reasons for such beliefs. All who heard his must have been impressed with their broad and liberal views, with their willingness to bend to the conscientious scruples of those who have the vision of joining them, while at the same time they were rigidly strict in their own qualification for membership, a love for the Savior and his work. After the sermon, Mr. Fick and Mr. Frank were installed as Elders, and Mr. Kaufman, Mr. Frank and Mr. Christensen were elected trustees. The organization starts out with a membership of fifteen and bright and hopeful prospects for the future.

County Sunday School Convention.

The Annual Sunday school convention of Yamhill county, was held in the M. E. church, of LaFayette, on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The Friends and Evangelical schools of Newberg were well represented. In the absence of the officers, Jesse Edwards was elected to preside and Mrs. Gilky served as secretary. On Tuesday morning after opening exercises, Rev. McIntire made an address of welcome, which was responded to by Miss Leah Cook. The writer reached the convention too late to hear the address of Miss Cook, which he very much regrets, as it is spoken of as being a masterpiece. The convention passed a resolution, requesting Miss Cook to furnish a copy for publication. The afternoon was taken up with live discussions on topics of vital importance to Sunday school workers and was very interesting. In the evening the exercises were held in the Chapel of La Fayette Seminary. Prof. Cantner delivered an able address which was well received and appreciated by all, on the topic "Relation of Sunday School and Church," which subject was followed by Mrs. E. Ella Hartley on "Characteristics of a Model Sunday School," which was very instructive and was backed up all the way through with Bible authority. Wednesday morning was devoted to electing officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows: Rev. Felling President, G. W. Mitchell vice-President, Miss Ella Hartley Secretary, Mrs. Wm. Clement Treasurer. Election was selected as the next place for holding the convention. The report of the committee on resolutions caused somewhat of a discussion. However the resolutions were adopted by the convention, placing themselves on record as being opposed to the liquor traffic, also that schools should discourage the use of tobacco among its members and especially the children, and persons engaged in the work should refrain from the use of tobacco, as influence by example goes farther in the wrong direction, than any influence they are able to exert by precept in the right direction. All pronounce the convention a very profitable affair and the Newberg delegates can not say enough in praise of the kind and hospitable manner in which they were entertained by the people of LaFayette.

Our Alaska Letter.

DOUGLAS CITY, Alaska, Feb. 20th, 1890.
Editor Graphic:
There are no horses or wagons on roads in this country, and transportation on land is a difficult and tedious job. The cutting and hauling of wood is one of the most trying experiences. During the summer seasons the soil is so soft it is impossible to use any sort of vehicle over it. The only way of getting food then is to pack it. To one who has been used to sitting in a moving seat and driving his horse to his destination, this is very slavish work. Very few white men are good at packing, but the Indians who know any other way, do not mind it much. By a skillful use of rope, a pack of wood, weighing 150 pounds, is made to sit very snugly on their backs, and men and women alike carry it with apparent ease.

I have not seen a spot of perfectly level land in this country large enough to build on. The slopes are very abrupt, and as rough as the track of a car on the mountain sides could make them. Hand sledging wood in the winter time is much better than packing, but this roughness is a great obstacle to that. However we must have fuel and I during the season of snow, men and sleds are very busy. By making ten or twelve loads of a cord, the wood pile grows up and a great saving of back ache effected. Men can burn their hands to almost any thing and they make very good houses of themselves, when they must. They are reasonably docile and may be employed with a driver. One man, I saw had a modified set of harness on, and had he only been rough shod, his draft powers would have been much increased. After the spruce and hemlock trees have been felled, sawed into blocks the required length, hauled a half mile and split up, they are worth 45 per cord. This is simply the measure of the labor, as the wood belongs to Uncle Sam and any one may cut as much as he likes. Vast quantities of wood are consumed at the Chlorination Works, connected with the great Treadwell Quartz Mill. Choppers seek locations where logs grow close to the sea, or the shore is steep enough to roll them readily onto the beach. They are then cut into cord wood and loaded on scows, or made into huge booms. A small steamer belonging to the company, tows them to the works, situated on the beach free of charge. The wood is moved from the scows, and corded on the beach and the chopper realizes $4.50 per cord for it. Sudden squalls on the water sometimes lose whole scow loads or booms for the unfortunate woodsman, and he is considered lucky to select a good calm day for towing in his harvest.

C. H. EDWARDS.
Winlock, Wash., March 17th, 1890.
Editor Graphic:
I have a good many letters addressed to me from Newberg (From being in the mill business here) inquiring about labor and description of the country. So will write you a letter, and this will answer all letters. In the first place Winlock is situated in the southern part of Lewis county, seventy six miles from Portland on the Northern Pacific R. R. And the climate, if any different, is a little colder than old Yamhill. The town lies in between the slopes of the hills, with a creek and Northern Pacific rail road running through the center of the town, which puts the business houses and residences somewhat on the hillside. Not making it a very desirable place to build. Any way it seems so broad and level in Newberg, with its broad streets and level land, with which to build on. Food, provisions and stock are some higher here. Wheat is 30 cents per bu. Oats 50 cents and potatoes retail at 2 cents per bu. Butter 20 cents per lb. Eggs 20 cents per doz. Cows from $35.00 to $55.00. Work cattle from $10.00 to $20.00 per yoke. Horses from $20.00 to $40.00 per pair. Wages paid here are, common laborers $1.50 to $1.75 per day, loggers $35. to $45.00 per month and board, mechanics $3.00 per day when needed. I have often been asked how large Winlock is and what keeps up the place. Winlock has about 800 inhabitants. Two large saw mills, Prescott & Veners capacity about 35,000 feet per day. Capital Lumbering Co., capacity 40,000 feet per ten hours and a small tile mill, one Sash and Door factory, six logging camps getting out logs, ties and heavy bridge timbers. We have here the best and grandest timber in the state. There is estimated to be 600,000,000 feet of fine fir timber within six miles of Winlock, which will be manufactured here or near here. Two churches, Baptist and Methodist, two real estate offices, one newspaper, three general merchandise stores, two livery stables, blacksmith shop and etc.

Newberg folks stopping with us are: Wm. Jones, millwright, James Jones, carpenter, Thomas Jones, woodman, Thomas Warner and J. Townsend, Wm. McLaughlin, John Lees and Duncan Haggart, who have places on Oliver & Colcord place are working adjoining us. We will have our mill in running condition by the last of this week.
