POST MASTER GENERAL WANNAMAKER is mentioned as a probable candidate before the Republican convention for Governor of Pennsylvania.

THE RUN of salmon is said to be the largest this season that has been known for a number of years, and yet we have to pay ten cents to smell a pound of salmon.

THE PICTURE of Lydia E. Pinkham in sterotyped form is again appearing in the advertising columns of some of the papers. The public has had a rest for some time but it seems the end is not yet.

THERE IS a traveling circus this year that admits children free of charge. Now if they would let all the parents in at half price who "just go to take the children," many people in the country would be supremely happy.

IN STATES where women are eligible to municipal office, the fairer sex are being elected to the position of city treasurer. They do this on account of the reputation women have for hiding things where they can't find themselves.

A GENTLEMAN who has spent considerable time in California, says he has noticed while in Oregon that when a cool spell of weather comes, a fire is built, while in California under like circumstances the people set around and shiver.

A MACHINE has been invented that works button holes automatically. At first thought one would suppose all our old bachelors would be supremely happy, but what they really need is a machine to take the place of buttons. The holes stay there all right.

AN AGENT was in Portland the other day looking for a location for a large colony that are coming to the coast from North Carolina. The new comers will no doubt miss the old time, "possum and persimmon," but other luxuries will make up for those left behind.

A WOMAN in Atchinson Kansas, has buried six husbands. Land is cheap in Kansas so that a woman in very ordinary circumstances can afford to pay for land enough to bury a half dozen husbands on, but in this country land is getting too high priced for such a luxury.

GOVERNOR WATERMAN of California has written a letter to the Attorney General of the state, saying that he is not able to see any practical difference between the so called athletic contests and an ordinary prize fight, and suggests that steps be taken to suppress the demoralizing exhibitions that are getting to be so common. This is a sensible move and it is to be hoped that Governors of other states will take similar steps. If John L. Sullivan and others of his kind would emigrate to the north pole and all others of that stripe that are born later on would die early, the better element of society would rejoice.

WE HEARD the other day that continued dry weather was likely to cut crops very short in Kansas, and having a couple of brothers in that state we felt a little anxious but the reading of the clipping given below from a Kansas paper dispelled all fears. When the editor of a Kansas boomer fails to get there, others might as well step aside.

The Chigger may chig with all his might and the mocking bird mock and sing, but the Kansas crop it takes the cake, and the corn, you bet, is king. The cricket may crick and the froglet frog, and the farmer may sing his strain, for in Kansas corn is always on top, a result of plenty of rain. The chinch bugs may chinch and the grasshoppers grass, and the hot winds make you tire, but if any one says there are such things here, just call him a horrible liar. Now, Oklahoma may boom and Texas may howl and Missouri shoot off her chop; but Kansas is the place to get a home and raise a great big crop.

A DESCRIPTIVE catalogue of the wonderful Geyser springs of California came to this office this week. The springs are situated 96 miles north of San Francisco in Sonoma county and are a wonder to behold. Read what is said of them:

"Hot springs and cold springs; white, red and black sulphur springs; iron, soda and boiling alum springs all pour their medicated waters into one stream. A short distance up the canon there is a deep shady pool, which recives the united waters of all the springs above it, and forms, perhaps the most luxurious bath to be found in the world. * * * There are a great many other springs, some 200 in number, of every gradation of temperature, from boiling hot to icy cold, and impregnated with all sorts of mineral and chemical compounds; frequently the two extremes of heat and cold are found within a few feet of each other. * * * The ear is saluted by a great variety of startling sounds. Every spring has a voice. Some hiss and sputter, like water poured upon red-hot iron, others remind one of the singing of a teakettle, or the purring of a cat, and others seethe and bubble like so many cauldrons of boiling oil; one sounds precisely like the machinery of a gristmill in motion, another like the propeller of a steamer. * * * But the most startling of all the various sounds is a continuous subterranean roar similar to that which precedes an earthquake. * * * They are all wonderful. The ordinary observer can only look at them and wonder that such things exist; but to the scientific man, one capable of divining the mysterious cause of their action, the study of them must be an exquisite delight. —Chapter X, California Geysers—Hutching's Scenes in California.

PROF. EDWIN MORRISON, Principal

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

"For God and Home and Native Land."

Sixty journals in Nebraska advocated the prohibitory constitutional amendment

Mothers' meeting next Saturday afternoon at 3o'clock. All are invited to attend. Meeting to be held at Friends church.

Statistics tell us that during the last twenty-five years the sale of beer in the United States has increased from two million barrels to over twenty-four million.

"Last year," says a recent English lecturer, "the British nation consumed enough spirituous liquors to form a lake fifteen feet deep, one hundred and twenty feet wide, and two miles long."

The two new states—North and South Dakota—came into the Union, each with a clause in her constitution which forever forbids the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors.

A World's Temperance Congress is in contemplation by the representative friends of the temperance reform to be held during the progress of the World's Fair and exposition, in 1892.

A special Home for the reclamation of inebriated and opium-eating women, has been established at Lakeview, Ill. There has been ten acres of land purchased, and commodious buildings erected.

It is estimated that the various religious bodies of this country, consume every year, at the communion table, about 60,000 gallons of wine. This is for the most part fermented wine, which contains alcohol.

Secretary Procter of the War Department, has lately abolished a beer-selling restaurant which had been established in the Department building. It was done in response to the request of the local W. C. T. U. of Washington.

"Home Protection Posters" are the latest invention of the W. C. T. U. These are large printed sheets covered with terse and eloquent sentences aimed at the evils of the liquor traffic. They are intended to be posted on bulletin boards, fence corners, old barns—anywhere—that men also may get posted.

The law of Minnesota is now such that a man who appears in the streets drunk will be fined, for the first offense, from ten to forty dollars; second offense, from twenty to fifty dollars; third offense, imprisonment from sixty to ninety days. For first and second offenses, imprisonment may be substituted for fine.

As to the World's Fair in Chicago in 1892 the Union Signal says: 'Let it be noted that should this occur, the W. C. T. U. will be out in full force, with the light of the future on its face, and with welcome farmer and mechanic, rich and poor, to the beautiful pavilion where will float its pennon fair, emblayoned with the words,' "For God, and Home, and native Land."

Liquor drinking among children seems, from medical returns, to be alarmingly on the increase in Austria. Children of four to eight years die from the effects of drink, and there are many recent cases of epilipsy due to the same cause. One boy of five years, it is said, drank two or three glasses of brandy a day. One of five years now in the hospital at Berlin for delirium tremens, has been accustomed to drinking liquor for two years. His mother gave him a glass of Hungarian wine every day for dinner, "to strengthen him," and in the evening he drank Bavarian beer with his father. This was in addition to the spirits given him each day by his grandfather, who kept a cafe-aret or saloon.

The following from an exchange, shows what help we have from saloon keepers in forming the morals and the habits of our boys. Lately, in Chicago, "a school teacher noticed a knot of boys counting the number of holes in some cards. He called one of them up and insisted on knowing what it meant, and the boy told him that a saloon-keeper, who had his saloon near the school, had given them these cards, and every time they took a drink he punched them, one for beer, two for straight drinks, and three for mixed drinks, and each month he gave prizes. The boy who had the most holes punched in his card got a revolver, the second a life of Jesse James, and the third a meerschaum pipe."

Miss Frances E. Willard gives her views on marriage as follows: 'My theory of marriage in its relation to society would give this postulate: Husband and wife are one, and that one is—husband and wife. I believe they will never come to the heights of purity, of power and peace for which they were designed in heaven until this better law prevails. One undivided half of the world for wife and husband equally; co-education to mate them on the plane of mind; equal property rights to make her God's own free woman, not coerced into marriage for the sake of support nor a bond-slave after she is married. . . . woman left free to go her honored and self-respecting way as a maiden in perpetuo rather than marry a man whose deterioration through the alcohol and nicotine habits is a deadly menace to herself and the descendants that such a marriage has invoked. These are the outlooks of the future that shall make the marriage system, never a failure after it became monogamous, an assured, a permanent, a paradisaical success.
