PORTLAND MARKET.

A Review of the Condition of its Different Departments.

The wholesale trade is inactive. A steady demand from interior points for groceries keeps the grocery trade in good condition, and the fruit dealers are kept busy by a strong local demand.

There is a good demand for peaches. The market is well supplied with tropical fruit. Blackberries are arriving more freely, and remain stiff at present figures.

The market is fairly well supplied with other varieties of fruit and with vegetables. Country produce still arrives in small lots, though receipts of eggs are somewhat better.

The wool market remains about the same. No new features are apparent in the wheat market, which continues very inactive. Cable export cargoes again rather easier and quiet.

Now Comes the Canine Cure. The eccentricities of the medical profession will never be exhausted. An American surgeon in his travels through Europe noticed that the peasants when hurt by splinters, thorns or other dangerous substances would get their wounds licked by their dogs, and that they were speedily healed. Acting on this observation he carefully examined the tongue of the animals, and recognized the presence of a living power of high degree. He was convinced he was of the truth of his theories that he has opened a canine hospital near Zurich in Switzerland, where dogs of various breeds are utilized in licking the wounds of the thousands of visitors to the spa of Europe.—San Francisco Chronicle.
