The revival services at Friends' church which were conducted by Rev. Thomas C. Brown, pastor of Friends' church at Kokomo, Indiana, closed last Sunday night, not on account of a lack of interest on the part of those in attendance but on account of the fact that the speaker was under obligations to return at once to his field of labor in Indiana. Rev. Brown is an unusually earnest, devoted christian as well as a very able speaker and he is regarded as a leader in Western Yearly meeting of Friends' church to which he belongs. His work here although short, was definite and will long be remembered by those who heard him. There were a large number of conversions during the meetings held, there being fifteen on Sunday night.

The third division of the essay class at the college, gave a public entertainment Tuesday night, consisting of essays, declamations and singing. While no attempt was made to make any special display, the program being the same as the usual exercises of the class in the school, the evenings work by the young people while it was profitable to those who participated, as such a drill in public is always profitable, it was well received and enjoyed by the large audience present. Mrs. Hartley presided in her happy style.

Whatever the mode may be, dogs certainly have a convenient means of communication one with another. During the heavy rain storm on Monday, we found a dog, wet and shivering with cold, crouched in the hall adjoining our office, sheltering himself from the chilling winds.

We opened the door and invited him in by the stove, where he warmed and dried himself and wagged his tail with grateful look. The day following, another dog called in the hall and eyed us with a wistful look as he felt the warm air from our room.

We want every mother to know that cramp can be prevented. True cramp never appears without a warning. The first symptom is hoarseness; then the child appears to have taken a cold or a cold may have accompanied the hoarseness from the start. After that a peculiar rough cough is developed, which is followed by the cramp. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse; a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will prevent the attack. Even after a rough cough has appeared the disease may be prevented by using this remedy as directed. It has never been known to fail. 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by C. F. Moore & Co.

At the regular Monthly Meeting of Friends' church held last Saturday afternoon, five persons were received into membership. After some discussion a committee composed of Eliza Smith, president Nowlin, Prof. Hartley, Andrew Pickett, Miles Reece, Mrs. Martin and John Votaw were appointed to act with the Board of Managers of the college and accept the offer unless a better offer was made. A subscription paper is being circulated for the purpose of raising a fund to make an offer of twenty acres on the south west corner of Joseph Hoskin's land.

A Reunion.

A very enjoyable event since our last issue was the meeting on Sunday afternoon, of Rev. T. C. Brown, now of Kokomo, Ind., with his many friends from Vermilion Co. Ill., and their numerous Oregonian heirs. Since he was prevented by the brevity of his visit from calling on all of them in their homes it was arranged by our worthy townsman, G. W. Mitchell, to give Bro. Brown a hearty reception in his commodious dwelling just erected, to which all his old acquaintances from "The branches of Vermilion" were invited.

About 2 o'clock there assembled our kind host and hostess, with three children, Tom Brown (the Rev. T. C.) Uncle Wm. and Aunt Sarah Morris, the genial J. M. Wright, who shows no special paucity of avoirdupois, his wife and daughter Nellie, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mitchell with their seven children, John Morris and three children—the mother and latest son elsewhere, Mr. and Mrs. Zim. Mills and babe, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Sanders, and four children, Justin Haworth, Charles Shires, Seth Mills, wife and two children, Miss Stella Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Nowlin and babe, Mrs. A. W. Rees and two children, Mrs. Lizzie Judd and Cora, J. H. Rees, wife and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Morris; while the rearward was brought up by the band of forlorn hope, including Frank Elliott, Charley and J. S. Rees and Dr. Aaron Mills. Some of the latter named gentlemen having exhibited great skill in nursing the babies on this occasion a ray of hope dawned upon our minds that they will go too now and do likewise, and when our next reception is tendered Brother Brown they will also bring the Mrs.—along.

After spending two hours in lively conversation, renewing old acquaintances etc. Rev. Brown read from 2nd Chronicles, 6th chapter, the dedication, with a few well timed remarks followed by fervent prayer that the blessings of God may rest largely with these his many and warmest friends. A hearty hand-shaking and goodbye and the company of three score dispersed, feeling that truly it was good for us to be here, only regretting the absence of a dozen other Vermilion people who reside about town.

New Work!

The seats now in the building are about all occupied, and we might say, "We have a full school," but should a new student come we doubt not that the President could find room for one more.

Amos Stanbrough is not attending the college this term; he probably will engage in some kind of manual labor this winter.

Some of the members of the Zoology class shoot blue-jays and some shoot none.

Heroes of unknown Seas and Savage Lands a history of the wonderful things seen and the curious Savage people encountered by the celebrated explorers of the world, from the earliest days down to the present time. By J. W. Buel, America's most popular author. He has made a special study of the subjects treated, and has combined in this one volume all the facts and incidents of any value accumulated in old books, and the mysterious records of explorers during past ages. It is a history of the world's great discoveries from the beginning of the Art of Navigation to the present time, embracing descriptions of ancient people. Curious ships of olden time and the wonderful adventures of explorers and rovers of the sea from the birth of Christ down to the golden era of the 19th century. Followed by a thrilling account of the first discovery and settlement of America nearly five hundred years before the birth of Columbus. The superb illustrations from the pencil of the world's famous artist, Alfred Russell, drawn especially for this book are exceedingly valuable on account of their correct representation of ancient ships and implements of war and customs of the people during the period to which they refer. The book is wonderfully thrilling and fascinating. Truly Mr. Buel has written a most remarkable book, and one well worth reading and preserving. Mr. C. L. Ballard is introducing this book to the reading public and is meeting with grand success.

“Of course it hurts, but you must grin and bear it,” is the old time consolation given to persons troubled with rheumatism. “If you will take the trouble to dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on over the seat of pain your rheumatism will disappear,” is the modern and much more satisfactory advice. 50 cent bottles for sale by C.
