Does it Contain Ammonia?

The charge is being made that the Royal Baking Powder contains ammonia. We would have supposed that the emphatic condemnation of ammonia baking powders by the most eminent physicians throughout the land, and the fact of the three leading chemists of Minnesota making their report to the Senate Committee recently showing that bread baked with the "Royal" contained ammonia and the hostility now being manifested by the public against all ammonia and alum baking powders would have adriven them permanently from the market.

In view of the fact that Baking Powder has become an indispensable article in every kitchen, it is gratifying to know that there are brands in the market to which no suspicion of any kind has ever attached. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is a pure cream of tartar powder free from every taint of ammonia, alum or other harmful substance.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is reported by all authorities as free from Ammonia, . Alum, or any other adulterant. In fact, the purity of this ideal powder has never been questioned.

Where They Come From, Where They Are Sold and What They Cost. Nearly everything is sold at second hand in New York. It is easy to understand why there is a market for finery, for pianos, for jewelry and for clothing, for which prices are high and vary a great deal, but shoes are sold so cheaply when new that trade in shoes at second hand should be small. Yet it is a fact that there is a very large trade in second hand boots and shoes, mostly shoes, because boots are worn by few at present. A Cute Humming Bird. The family of John N. Isbell, at their nome on the Madison shore, have discovered a queer way to capture humming birds alive. Recently a small humming bird which had frequented the flowers on the veranda was observed teaching two of its young to sip honey from the buds. The old bird, as well as the little ones, was quite tame, but the latter were evidently unskilled in the art of extracting honey. Their efforts resulted in ruining many of the tender flowers. One of the ladies on the porch tossed a cap at the young intruders, as if to warn them that they must take more pains with their work or else seek flowers elsewhere. The old bird immediately resented this insult by falling seemingly in a faint or trance. In this condition she permitted herself to be captured and inspected, but it was observed that one eye was always open to take in the situation. Luckily for the nother bird her captors soon released her, placing her uninjured on the floor. After waiting till all was quiet, the old bird came to life and took wing to rejoin her young, who were still engaged in their abortive assaults on the flowers. This story is vouched for by the members of the family.-New Haven PalTHE LOVERS' LITANY.

This is Proven by Actual Tests in Bak ing-No Sophistry Required.

The fact that scientific and medica en, and State Legislatures have not hesitated to talk about the subject has challenged the attention of the public to the discussion about the effect of amnonia and alum in food products.

Aside from the claim of rival com-panies which have to deal with this question, there remain a few truths on which people can build their own conclusions. One of the claims made is that ammonia when used in baking powder put into bread, disappears in the baking of the bread. To be scientific, the claim is made that ammonia is a vola-tile salt. Medical men of repute, chemists of unquestionable standing, and practical business men who have given matter unbiased investigation, say are to be found in second hand clothing such is not the case. Many servants get shoes from their employers and have them mended, thereby getting better articles than they could afford to buy new.

This opinion referred to the powders which had been used in making the tests. The opinion of Dr. Ebermann, who had made a personal test in addition, was to the same effect. He went further, and said that in the samples of bread made said that in the samples of bread made The prices of these second hand shoes from the Royal and Rising Sun, amare low. REMARKABLE IDENTIFICATION. The suicide before this was also that of a New York man, and it attracted some little attention at the time by reason of the fact that there was a mix up about the identification of the body. This had lain on the hill so long before t was found that it could be identified only by the clothes on it and by the formation of the body. It was formally identified at the Brooklyn morgue the morning it was found as the body of a New York printer, who had, through despondency, taken his life.

This identification was made by two members of Typographical Union No. 6, who had known the man. Later that day the body was again identified as that of a barber doing business on Third avenue in this city, and this identification was finally found to be correct.

The most curious thing about this case was the physical likeness of the printer and the barber. The barber was dethis season. General Washington used this very hill to make observations from when h was holding Brooklyn and watching for the expected landing of Sir Henry Clinton on Long Island. It was from here that the American generals watched Clinton's movements when preparing for the disastrous battle of Long Island that resulted in the retreat of Washington to the heights above the Harlem and gave New York city into the hands of Sir Henry Clinton. The tide of battle swept all around the hill and in the green field below it good blood stained the sward.

But times have changed. Battles are still fought in the field below Lookout hill—the sham battles of the Brooklyn militia. And the hill itself is no longer visited by great generals. Those who want to commit suicide go there instead. -New York Reporder.
