President Newlin delivered the address before the state teacher's association at Portland yesterday, mention of which we made last week. Mrs. Martin and Miss Lillie Smith attended the meeting in order to hear the address.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy can always be depended upon, it is pleasant to take and will cure cramp, cholera morbus, dysentery and diarrhœa in their worst forms. Every family should be provided with it. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by C. F. Moore & Co., druggists.

We neglected to state in last week's issue that Marion George returned, the week previous, from his trip to Indiana, looking as fat as if he had been in Hoosierdom in the paw paw and possum season. He was evidently fed on good feed while he was sojourning in the land of his fathers, but he says he is glad to get back to Oregon again.

The popularity of the sugar pine door is shown at the Depot Lumber Yard where W. P. Heacock informs us he sells five of them to one cedar. They are certainly the best, strongest, least likely to get bruised up, and doors for the company he represents are warranted not to be effected by the weather more than cedar.

Mrs. L. A. Teft, wife of G. D. Teft of our town, died of heart disease last Sunday and was buried in Everest's cemetery on Monday. The deceased was born in Pennsylvania, Nov. 30, 1855, being 36 years of age at her death. Mr. Teft and his motherless children have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

The fare from here to Hood River during the meeting of the State Horticultural Meeting will be $3.85 for the round trip if you take the steamer Manzanillo for Portland. The fare on the Manzanillo will be $1.00 for the round trip. These rates will apply to all, whether they are members of the horticultural society or not.

The St. Paul boys came over and played our boys a game of ball last Saturday, beating them badly. It was a "rocky" game all the way through. After the game was over two nines that have been on the retired list for several years, one from the east end of town and the other from the west end, played a game of three innings. The score stood seven to four in favor of the east end.

Mr. Clark, the Portland house mover, came on the first of the week, bringing his outfit for moving the college buildings, up the river on the old Jefferson street ferry boat which he bought a short time ago. He has had everything on the move during the week with men and teams hauling sand and brick and others getting the buildings loaded ready to move. It is evident that he understands his business.

Miss Martha Mitterer started for her home near Eldora, Iowa, last Saturday. A pleasant social at which ice cream was served was given for her and her friends at the home of W. P. Heacock on the previous evening. Miss Mitterer is one of the best teachers we have ever had in our public school and if the wishes of those who had children under her care had been considered, she would have been given a place in the school for next year.

Fred Rogers sent us a report of the teacher's institute at McMinnville which although it is interesting, we are unable to publish on account of lack of space since it came in. Judging from the report the teachers of the county must have had an interesting and profitable session. At the close of the institute L. H. Baker, the retiring superintendent, was presented a silver tea set by the teachers of the county as a token of their esteem for his excellent work while working in the educational interests of the county.

Brick! Brick!! Brick!!!

First-class foundation brick for sale at Newberg brick yard. JAS. HAMBETT.

J. H. Townsend was in the city Monday, and took advantage of closing out sales on furniture, and is now prepared to give his customers lower prices than was ever offered in Newberg before.

For twenty-five cents you can insure yourself and family against any bad results from attack of bowel complaint during the summer. One or two doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy will cure any ordinary case. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. No family can afford to be without it. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by C. F. Moore & Co.

Joe Woods has retired from the hotel business and will move to his property across the canyon. A. M. Hadley will take his place as proprietor of the Newberg house. Mr. Hadley has spent several years of his life as a traveling man and consequently knows how a hotel ought to be kept. He expects his daughter down from Spokane Falls in a short time to help him. For the present he has engaged Mrs. Susan Holloway for cook, which insures good table fare.

Mr. C. H. Shawen, Wellsville, Kan., says: "It is with pleasure that I speak of the good Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy has done my family during the last fourteen years. In the most obstinate cases of summer complaint and diarrhœa among my children, it acted as a charm, making it never necessary to call in a physician. I can truthfully say that in my judgment, based on years of experience, there is not a medicine in the market that is its equal. For sale by C. F. Moore & Co., druggists.

The Friends New Church.

The committee appointed by the church to have charge of building the new house of worship, met last Monday evening and adopted plans which were gotten up by Pearson & Tate, architects of Des Moines, Iowa, and Rev. J. H. Douglas. The plans furnished may not be carried out in all the details, at present, but the general plan will be followed. The size of the building will be 50x80 feet with the main front on the corner of the lot and one entrance on the north side and one on the east.

The auditorium is 50x50 feet with an estimated seating capacity of 700. The chapel which is separated from the auditorium by rolling blinds is 28x33 feet and will be well calculated for prayer meetings and other small gatherings when it is not desired to heat the whole building. Four small rooms suitable for class rooms for Sunday school are arranged for on this floor. A circular gallery is planned with a seating capacity of 300, which with 260 in the chapel makes a total seating capacity of 1260. The building will be heated by a hot air furnace from the basement. While no attempt has been made for unnecessary display in the outward appearance of the building, an eye has been kept to the latest architectural designs and the perspective is very much admired by all who have seen it. The ventilating and accoustic properties have been carefully guarded with the view of making the church as comfortable a room for a public gathering as can be found anywhere. The committee is considering the feasibility of veneering the building with pressed brick, but just what will be done in this particular has not been fully determined. A number of the members of the church have expressed themselves as favoring this plan, very decidedly.

The probabilities are that T. B. Cummings will be made foreman of the construction and that the carpenter work will be done by the day. Dr. Jessup and Pres. Newlin have been soliciting for the building fund and are meeting with good success.

LETTER FROM MRS. F. A. MORRIS.

ANNAPOLIS, Ind., June 23.—Though the voyage of which we wrote last week was enjoyable, some of the scenery viewed from the Canadian Pacific route greatly surpasses that of the Sound in grandeur. Leaving the hotel in Vancouver at 2 o'clock p. m., Thursday the 9th, we were soon ensconced in the sleeper and at 2:20 started on the long journey across the continent. That afternoon's travel brought to view nothing of special note, but we awoke the following morning to find ourselves

"In the land of lofty mountains
Whose snow-crowned summits rise
In majestic grandeur heavenward,
As if to kiss the skies.
Where the peaks like mighty sentinels,
Their silent virgils keep,
Until their crests are hoary,
And their faces furrowed deep."

Language is inadequate to express our admiration of the scenes brought like a panorama before us every hour of the day Friday. An observation car was attached to the rear of the coach occupied by our party, so that we found it quite convenient to pass back and forth, the majority of us remaining the greater part of the day, however, in the observation car. The sky was very clear, giving us a splendid view of the snow capped peaks, numerous waterfalls, rapids, canyons, etc. We regret that we did not enumerate the tunnels as we passed through. Had we known how numerous they were, cut through the solid rock, we certainly should have done so. We think we do not exaggerate when we say that we passed through more than fifty in one day. The snow sheds, also, were numerous, obstructing the view the few minutes consumed in passing through. At one place, where the scenery was of special interest, there is a summer route outside one of these sheds to give the tourist advantage of the scenery.

In passing through the Selkirks, the most striking canyon is that known as Albert Canyon, altitude nearly 3,000 feet. Here the Columbia is compressed into a boiling flume scarcely 20 feet wide. The train stops here a few minutes and we repaired to a solidly built balcony where we gazed in safety into the boiling pit nearly 300 feet below. Next we come to the Glacier House, a station and hotel within fifteen minutes walk of the Great Glacier. This hotel is finely situated both as regards picturesqueness and healthfulness, and affords the tourist a delightful stopping place where he may breathe mountain air and add several pounds to his weight in a few days. Continuing the descent from the Glacier House, the Loop is soon reached where several startling turns and twists are made, first crossing a valley leading down from the Ross Peak glacier, touching the base of Ross Peak, then doubling back to the right a mile or more at last shooting down the valley parallel with our former course. Looking back we may see the railway cutting two long gashes, one above the other, on the mountain slope. Kicking Horse Pass is the next scene worthy of mention. Here the mountain sides become vertical, rising thousands of feet and within a stone's throw from wall to wall. Down this vast chasm plunges the river bearing the same name as the Pass, leaping and foaming in its rocky bed, as if to dispute the passage with the railway, the latter crossing from side to side to ledges cut out of the solid rock, twisting and turning in every direction, plunging through projecting angles of rock which seem to close the way. With the towering cliffs almost obstructing the sunlight, and the roar of the river and the train, increased an hundred fold by the echoing walls, the passage of this terrible gorge will never be forgotten.

On the train was an infidel, an aged man whose propensity for argument forbade our asking him if all this sublime creation came by chance. Mt. Stephen, 8,000 feet above the valley, is the highest point on this route. Among other peaks are Mt. Lefroy, the loftiest and grandest of the Sawback range, Mts. Castle and Cathedral which bear close resemblance to the structures for which they are named. Knowing that today's travel ended our view of the glacier-bound peaks, it was with reluctance we sought our pillows at night. The morning dawned cloudy with some rain later in the day. A pleasant feature, since the scenery today was tame and we were relieved of dust. Arriving at Medicine Hat, the train made a thirty minute stop. Here we saw blanket Indians with Buffalo horns for sale. It was here we saw the largest grizzly bear in America, he being on exhibition for the benefit of the general Hospital of that place. Our party attended services at Winnipeg Sabbath, where we stopped until Monday, 10:30 a. m. Here we saw many Catholic Priests, evidently there in attendance on some state occasion. This town has a population of 20,000 and is the capital of Manitoba. Within her borders are many elegant church edifices, colleges, etc. Superior brick and stone being available, the city is well built, having broad streets, with electric and horse railways. The greatest objection we found to Winnipeg was that they did not serve porridge at the morning meal, informing us, much to our discomfiture, that they had not a call for that once per year. Here it was that we exchanged good byes with the Canadian passengers, some going on to Ontario, and some to Nova Scotia. One lady, especially, of whom we must make mention, informed us that she had gone with her husband to sea for over twenty years, having just left the ship at San Francisco to visit an only daughter in Halifax. To clasp hands with this cultured lady and receive from her a parting blessing, was an unexpected pleasure to one who has always been especially fond of meeting with dignitaries, and for whom people from foreign parts have a facination.

Monday morning, June 13th, we crossed the Canadian line at Gretna, and were once more in our own loved country. So happy were we in the thought, and at seeing the stars and stripes once more, that we all sang America, and the Star Spangled Banner. Here the Custom officers invaded our sanctum, for the purpose of inspecting our baggage, but fortunately for us, they did not open our trunks and then the young lady who had often expressed, since starting, the desirability of having one of the sterner sex along when travelling, was heard to exclaim again, "'Tis well to have a man." We now pass through the great wheat belt of Dakota, reaching Minneapolis at 6:30 a. m. Tuesday, where our large party seperated, some stopping a few days to visit the twin cities, the remainder going to Chicago and other eastern points. The twin cities are beautifully located, and rapidly increasing in population. Tuesday afternoon we took a three and one-half hour's drive out to some of the lakes for which Minnesota is famed. We also visited Minnehaha Falls, and saw her waters laugh and leap into the valley. The streets of Minneapolis are very broad and clean, and the residences are elegant and varied in style.

But when we reached Chicago, "Proud Queen of the North and West," it seemed like getting back home again, to witness the bustle and stir that never ceases there. No sooner were we in the street than we were admiring the large horses, so many o them, when suddenly we remembered that Chicago is famed for her fine horses having taken special notice of this on our first visit to this metropolis. We passed through some beautiful farming country in Wisconsin and it was here that we saw the first plowing of corn on our trip. Owing to early and late rains, the corn crop is delayed, so looks small to us. The day we reached Indianapolis it was oppressively warm, especially for Oregonians, and Hoosiers seemed to be somewhat debilitated, sitting around with fans and attired in white. We felt that if it was not cool under the shade of the old beech trees at home, we could not remain long in the land of our nativity. But we are becoming acclimated now, so we can enjoy, in a measure, the scenes of our childhood.

The five years that have passed do not reveal many changes, except that many friends are gone. Yet, we cannot retract from what we have said before, that there is no place like Oregon.

Wood Wanted.

Notice is hereby given that the school board of Dist. 29, Yamhill Co., Ore., will receive bids up till 12 m. of the 15th day of July, 1892, for the furnishing of fifteen cords of dry oak wood and twenty cords of dry fir wood, to be delivered and corded in basement of the school building.
