Carbonic Treatment for Auto-

A new and valuable practical application of carbonic acid has been made in Central America, where it has been used with gratifying success against the leaf cutting ants, whose ravages upon cultivated trees in that country are so destructive.

A Rising Ball Player.

"How did you come out, Johnny, with your game with the Hustlers?"

"The Johnny captain of a boys' ball club—they beat us, 10-10."

"Unlucky! You haven't won a game this year, have you?"

"No, and I just want to club myself, too."

"Don't get discouraged, my boy. Why, if you keep on this way the first thing you know you will be as big an Anson,"

Chicago Herald.

The Dog and the Squirrel.

Bose had chased a squirrel into a hole in a stone wall. The dog reasoned that in time the squirrel must come out where he went in.

The squirrel went through the wall, skipped up a tree and filled himself with nuts. The dog remained at the hole and starved to death.

How Girl Graduates Should Dress.

This is the time when the "sweet girl graduate" loses hours of precious sleep every night in the effort to determine just good taste permit.

She ought to look on the momentous "commencement" day. Every girl wants really wants to look her best on making this her first bow to the world.

She wants to remember that simplicity—elegance, if you will, still simplicity—should be the main feature of the costume.

There is any amount of variety in material of course, but only one hue that is appropriate—white. No other garment than lace or ribbon, but, simple, simple, simple.

Neither low necks nor short sleeves does good taste permit, though a peep at the round, white throat may be vouchsafed through the opening of a modest little "V" or the abandon of a turndown collar or neck ruffle.

Gloves, slippers, stockings, fan and bouquet (a fan carry one) should be white. Last, but far from least, be particular about your coiffure.

Remember that if your hair be unbecomingly or badly arranged, it will ruin the whole effect. Of course the arrangement of one's locks must first and always be becoming.

If possible, "put it up" in a girlish fashion; don't coil it high on the crown of your head, unless your style ably demands it.

A girl's hair should be parted like a girl with her hair disposed of in this matronly fashion. In the way of ornament, a ribbon bow, or rosette, or single white flower is sufficient.

Rubinstein as a "Prodigy."

A few years ago the newspapers teemed with accounts of the wonderful playing of the infant prodigy Josef Rubinstein, and his "idealistic" manner, as one enthusiastic admirer termed it.

Then, as prodigies, like crime, travel in cycles, a half dozen other "child wonders" came to the surface, but they didn't stay there long.

The eddy of public opinion forced them back into obscurity. It is hoped that the efforts now making to induce Anton Rubinstein, the great pianist, to visit America will prove successful.

At any rate the suggestion is so good to recall the fact that he is one of the few in fant prodigies who have gained great distinction in after life.

It is nearly fifty years since he began, as a child of nine, to entertain the public, and it may be said that he has steadily grown in popular favor. It is just twenty years since his last memorable visit to America.

Rubinstein enjoys very robust health. He has the figure of a soldier and a broad, square face that, with his shock of long hair, recalls Liszt's flowing locks, though the Russian pianist's hair still remains black, with but few traces in it of gray.

The only indication of age is to be seen in the weakening of his memory for music, as a result of which he is sometimes now adays embarrassed by stage fright.

The Public Pulse.

Great Editor (gleefully)—How many extra copies were sold yesterday?

Business Manager—Only one.

"Eh? What? Only one? Why, we had a ten column article on the outrageous 'dandelion' across the Canadian border. Only sold one extra copy? My! my! Who bought that?"

"A woman who is looking for Chinese servants."—New York Weekly.

Excitement Among Mining Men in Idaho.

Everybody in Maine is crazy over ice. The weather for conversational purposes is nowhere. Every spare man, every horse and almost every ox are at work on the ice, filling icehouses, building stacks on the river banks, cutting, hawking, selling, shipping the silvery ice, hilly in more senses than one.

In Bangor and Augusta coal dealers, with empty sheds, are filling them with ice, the streets are full of teams carting the precious loads to storehouses yet unfilled; and, actually, they are filling the basements of some stores with ice.

A company, with houses and machinery all on hand and in good shape, can house the ice for 15 or 20 cents a ton.

Yet a manager of one of the large companies refused to sell for $4 a ton, although he could have sold 5,000 tons under a contract. If he had sold 5,000 tons, at $4, he would have made a clear profit of $18,000 or so.

There is another manager who, last September, took a contract to deliver 25,000 tons this spring and summer for from 50 to 75 cents a ton; and although this pays him a good profit in the distant horizon towards the setting sun, he sees a golden eagle flying away from him, representing $85,000, just the difference from the price he could have obtained if he had waited till the fifth day of March.—Cor. Boston Journal.

Chinamen Furnished With Illegal Merchant Certificates of Entry—Fined.

Drydenfurth's agents are in New Mexico endeavoring to produce rain.

The British Columbia sealing fleet has brought down only 1,271 skins.

Sacramento is to spend $100,000 in enlarging and strengthening her levee system.

The owners of the Halcyon have been fined $800 at Victoria, B. C., for evading the customs officers.

Has Nansen and Juan Alvarez, have been captured in Pleiades, A. T., while passing counterfeit money.

The Nez Perce reservation in Idaho, a very rich land section, will be open for settlement in a few months.

The cattlemen in Southern New Mexico are moving off the ranges, the drought having made them barren.

Silver salmon are now very plentiful at Yaquina Bay, and are being caught with trolling lines in great numbers.

The vintage is fully on in Napa Valley. The wine-grape crop is two-thirds short, and many large wineries are not crushing.

There are thirty-seven pupils in attendance at the Oregon Deaf Mute School this year, the highest number ever present.

The High Court of California Foresters concluded its work at Eurekafield the day before yesterday.

Another murder is reported by "Kid," the Apache, in the Sierrita Mountains.

A woodchopper was shot and his head beat off with an axe.

The coal fields on the Snake river near Caldwell, about thirty miles from Boise, Idaho, are the cause of considerable excitement among mining men.

General McCook says the conditions surrounding the Navajo reservation are a constant source of anxiety.

There are 9,000 Indians living beyond the limits of the reservation.

By a ruling from Washington the Nogales (A. T.) custom authorities are authorized to permit the free entry into the United States of calves that were born to cattle that had strayed into Mexican soil.

The contract for a new county jail has been let at San Diego, by the "Solid Three" of the five Supervisors who refused to submit the proposition to a vote of the people, on the ground that they did not know what was good for them.

The British Pacific Construction Company, with a capital of $5,000,000, has been incorporated at Victoria, B. C., for the purpose of laying out, building and equipping the Canada, Victoria railway from Victoria to Yellowhead Pass.

Matt Hindenter, who owns over $30,000 worth of real estate in Los Angeles, has been detected stealing walnuts on the Brimwell place.

His coat and trousers had the pockets extended for the work. He pleaded guilty, and was fined $20.

Los Angeles thinks the reported mishap to the Charleston at Ballast Point should have been thoroughly investigated, and that grave responsibility will rest on some one if the vessel meets with bad weather and is injured. It is stated the propeller blades were bent.

A card in the clothing of James W. Conrad Cox of New York, whose body was found in the woods near Victoria, B. C., in a decomposed condition, stated that Cox was a translator of twenty-five languages and an interpreter of nine. He was also an expert accountant.

A California botanist, who has been making a prolonged visit to Mount Hood and Hood River valley in quest of specimens of fruit and foliage of cone-bearing trees, succeeded in obtaining specimens of sixteen different species of cone-bearers out of a possible twenty-five, and is very enthusiastic over the results of the search.

Evans and Sontag when last heard from were in Squaw Valley, and were seen the day after the alleged interview with them which was printed in a San Francisco sensational newspaper. The distance between the place where seen and where the "interviewer" talked with them would require four days' travel to overcome.

Samuel McFadden, a truck farmer living near Los Angeles, while driving home was robbed by a man who slipped into the rear of the wagon, placed a pistol to his head and told him to drive slow and not open his mouth or he would blow his brains out. With his other hand the stranger went through the farmer's pockets and secured $35.

There is a company with headquarters in Portland, Or., which furnishes Chinamen with merchant certificates of entry into the United States, properly signed and sealed, bearing a photograph of the party desiring to enter at a cost of $63 a head. These certificates are sent from Portland to agents at Vancouver, B. C., who have no difficulty in disposing of them at the price stated.

The San Francisco lumbermen interested in controlling the cargo output of the Pacific Coast have prepared a schedule of the amount of lumber each mill may export under the pool arrangements. The schedule is based upon the output of 1891, and is unsatisfactory to most of the mill owners on Puget Sound, who may be subsidized, although it is said it is not the plan now to subsidize mills.

Jack Handerson from the Limestone caves on the head of Sucker creek reports that Mr. Nickerson and himself in a recent exploration discovered a chamber which exceeds anything yet found in these immense caves. This chamber is fully 1,000 yards from the entrance, and is very difficult to approach, owing to the small and crooked passage that leads to it. It is fully 100 feet in length by fifty in width, and has a roof or ceiling from sixty to eighty feet in height. It is full of the most grotesque forms, which are beautiful in the extreme.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Louis Kosuth Finishes His Memoirs—Dr. Nansen Proposes to Jab His Way to the North Pole.

Sir Julian Paucelforte is an accomplished pianist, and can play anything from an Erard harp to an end man's banjo.

Mme. Bonrinite, whom the Grand Duke Nicholas married at Tons, was born a serf, it is stated, as was her first husband.

Charles Ashton, a London policeman, has received a prize of $250 for an unpublished bibliography of Welsh literature from 1801 to 1890.

Louis Kosuth has finished his memoirs. The manuscript of the closing chapters of the fourth and last volume is with the printer at Peeth.

Miss Ada A. Brewster, the California artist, belongs to the line of Brewsters who proudly claim kinship with Elder Brewster of Mayflower fame.

Lord Tennyson handed a check for $1,000 to Sister Emma Durham, who nursed him through a recent illness, and she has presented the gift to the national pension fund for nurses.

Rev. H. R. Haweis has been permitted to undertake the preparation of Sir Morell McKenzie's biography. He invites contributions of letters and anecdotes that will assist in his work.

General Booth has 380 men, mostly broken-down drunks at one time, working on his farm, a few miles out of London, and they are described as a decent, industrious, useful and enthusiastic lot of people now.

Prof. Huxley and Lord Chief-Justice Colvidge are among the prominent Englishmen who attended the recent Gloucester musical festival. The latter gentleman is said to be exceedingly appreciative of such performances.

Henry B. Cleaves, the new Governor of Maine, came out of the war a Lieutenant, and at once secured work as an ordinary hand in a nail factory, but after a two years' trial of the job he thought it wasn't a promising one; so he stuck out in other lines.

The eminent Von Pattenkoffer of Munich distinctly disputes Koch's proposition that the comma bacillus is the cause of Asiatic cholera. He thinks it is only a manifestation of the disease. This should put a period to the comma bacillus' ascendancy for the present.

Mr. Skene, the Queen's historiographer for Scotland, who has just died at the age of 84, enjoyed a wide reputation as a scholar, historian and archaeologist, and was the author of many valuable works, the chief of which is "Celtic Scotland; a History of Ancient Alban."

Mr. Gladstone during his visit to Wales quite caught the people by his comprehensive knowledge of their country and its affairs, and especially by his good knowledge of their language, a by no means common accomplishment in foreigners. He described himself as a Scotchman by blood, a Lancastrian by birth, a Cockney by residence, but inspired by Mrs. Gladstone with a love of Wales.

EDUCATIONAL.

New York City Shows a Good Record in the Matter of Suspensions in the Public Schools.

Every Northern State west of the Alleghenies has a State university.

Sweden has 2,000 school gardens. How many are there in the United States?

Three thousand students, it is estimated, will attend Harvard College this year.

Of the public-school teachers in the United States more than 65 per cent. are women.

Edinburgh University is one of the chief medical centers in the world. It was founded in 1582.

The freshmen classes of Harvard and Yale both show noticeable increase.

The oldest living teacher is Miss Clara Whiting of New York. She served continuously fifty-seven years.

The elementary-school statistics of Hungary are thus reported: In 1892 2,015,912 children attended school, while in 1890 only 1,152,115.

There will be no color line at the University of Chicago. Quite a number of colored persons of both sexes have applied for matriculation.

The oldest and largest medical school in America is that of the University of Pennsylvania. It was founded in 1765, and has graduated 10,458 men.

Wonderful progress has been made in this country of late years in teaching the dumb to speak. Last year articulation was taught to 4,235 pupils.

Twenty-five graduates and former students of Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore, Md., have accepted positions on the staff of the new University of Chicago.

In 1870 the London School Board began its work with not a single school under its control. In 1891 it possessed 410 schools, affording accommodations for 428,000 children.

New York city shows a good record in the matter of suspensions in the public schools. Last year there were but thirty-five of these 250 schools that experienced such an extreme measure of discipline.

The number suspended was only fifty-one in an attendance of nearly 200,000.

Sweden was the first country in which cooking and housekeeping schools were established, and here these schools show a great variety of interest. The cooking school supports a restaurant of about 100 persons. In Belgium hygiene and the theory of household processes form a part of the course of study in elementary schools.

The University of Berlin, with its 6,000 students and scores of famous professors, has a capital of about $750,000. Its largest endowment, that of the Countess Bode, is only $150,000. Nevertheless it is the seat of the highest German learning, and claims to have the ablest corps of instructors of all the world's schools.

Yale College entered upon its one hundred and ninety-third year September 29. Over $1,000,000 have been expended on new buildings and other improvements during the past year, and the total membership will exceed 2,000. During the year Yale has been the recipient of more than $1,000,000, and its President says $7,000,000 more has been pledged.
