Not Very Encouraging.

Ally had spent a long evening with Miss Edith. At last he rose to go. Her hand-shake was not cordial enough to suit him; in fact, it was very limp and exhausted. He was disappointed, for he had expected a very different parting, but in a vein of pleasantness he said, "Oh, shake hands with a man, Miss Edith."

"I should be pleased to, Mr. Brown," was her quiet rejoinder. Ally has not called since.—Harvard Lampoon.

A novel invention is a bran packer for the use of millers who do a large export business and to whom economy of space is desirable. The apparatus consists of an auger working in the funnel that fills the bag. It constantly revolves, at the same time having an up and down motion. On the down stroke it forces the bran into the sack, packing it solidly at the same time.

The Romanian has, in every walk in life, a force and a savage pride which causes him to abhor the idea of medicine and surgery, and to consider the loss of a limb as terrible as that of life itself.

Nine-tenths of the stuff used as bay rum in New York, and other places as well, is not bay rum at all, but a mixture of the essential oil of bay with common rum or alcohol.

"German Syrup"

William McKeekan, Druggist at Bloomingdale, Mich. "I have had the Asthma badly ever since I came out of the army and though I have been in the drug business for fifteen years, and have tried nearly everything on the market, nothing has given me the slightest relief until a few months ago, when I used Bo-schee's German Syrup. I am now glad to acknowledge the great good it has done me. I am greatly relieved during the day and at night to sleep without the least trouble."

ALL THINGS NEW.

Old sorrows that sit at the heart's sealed gate. Like sentinels grim and sad. While out in the night damp, weary and late. The King with a gift divinely great. Is waiting to make you glad.

Old fears that hang like a changing cloud. Over a sunny day. Old burdens that keep the spirit bowed. Shall pass like a dream away. In the world without and the world within. He maketh it all things new. The touch of sorrow, the stain of sin. Shall flee from the gate when the King comes in. From the child night's damp and dew.

Anew in the heavens the sweet stars shine. On earth new blossoms spring. The old life lost in the life divine. "Thy will be mine, my will be thine." Is the song which the new hearts sing.

—Washington Post.

The "laughing plant" grows in Arabia, and has been given its name from the effects produced by eating its seeds. The plant is of moderate size, with bright yellow flowers and soft, velvety seed pods, each of which contains two or three seeds resembling small black beans. The natives of the district where the plant grows dry these seeds and reduce them to powder. A small dose of this powder has similar effects to those arising from the inhalation of laughing gas. It causes the most sober person to dance, shout and laugh with the boisterous excitement of a madman, and to rush about cutting the most ridiculous capers for about an hour. At the expiration of this time exhaustion sets in, and the excited person falls asleep, to wake after several hours with no recollection whatever of his antics.—New York Telegram.

Theatres in Japan. The theatres of Japan begin in the morning and last until sundown. The audience sits on the floor, and the people are as much affected as children by the plays. Whole families come and spend the entire day in the theatre. Some of them bring their provisions with them, and others have them served from the neighboring tea houses. In some theatres, when a person wishes to leave the hall and come back again, he is not given a return check as with us. There is no passing of your ticket to new-comers in Japan. The doorman takes hold of the right hand of the man going out and stamps on his wrist the mark of the theatre. When the playgoer returns, he presents his wrist, the seal of the theatre is shown and he is admitted.—Boston Flag.

Chinese Medicine. The San Francisco Examiner reporter says the doctor pulled out a drawer from under the counter and exhibited hundreds of mummy grasshoppers. "These are good for little children," he said. "In China every spring millions of these bugs come in the fields. Pretty soon the grasshopper dies and the meat turns into a fly. The hind legs and little tail drop off and the little fly goes away. Then there is nothing but the shell left. The laborers in the fields gather these and dry them in the sun. They make good medicine in powders. "Chinese babies never die from convulsions when teething like white babies. This powder acts on the stomach when the stomach teeth are coming through and makes them good and strong."

Sheep are now sheared by electricity in Australia, Frederick Wolsley, a brother of Lord Wolsley, having invented a machine for the purpose. The method of using the shears is very simple, the operator having merely to throw a friction wheel into adjustment by means of a handle. Then he pushes the comb into the wool, pressing it continuously forward and keeping it as closely as possible to the body of the animal being operated upon. From one to one hundred shears can be operated at one time. By this mode the shearing is done more mercifully than when done by hand shears.—Exchange.

Forestry in Germany. The Germans have been the pioneers in scientific forestry, as in so many other fields of progress. With a total forest area of only 34,346,000 acres, of which 11,344,000 belong to the state, the German empire has no less than 100,000 schools of forestry, and during the three years ending with 1888 it published 177 books on the various branches of the subject. There are also ten periodicals devoted to forestry, and a general association of foresters with annual meetings and ten local societies.—Montreal Star.

From the Sixteenth Century. The peculiar bands ornamented with lattice work of narrow parchment strips seen on the back of every ledger are a reminiscence of the way in which those books used to be bound as far back as the Sixteenth century. They had a broad band of leather brought round the back and stitched through it, through which these narrow strips of parchment were drawn. The scene of a murder or a suicide, the window by which a burglar forced an entrance, or the lock he burst to get into a bank, are very important parts of a criminal trial. Heretofore description has been the jury's only resource in the matter. Now the unerring eye of the photographic lens will serve them as a silent witness.—New York News.

A Self Extinguishing Candle. A candle has recently been brought out which extinguishes itself after it has burned for an hour. It is fastened in the wax by wires, and which effectually performs its task. It is only necessary to remove this diminutive extinguisher when its work is done, and the candle is ready to burn another hour.

"The Author" Did It. The writer of a recent book of travels continuously refers to himself as "the author." The author saw this, and "the author" was reminded of something he had met with in some other region. To the mind of "the reader" there is a self-conscious awkwardness in such a style. Had he said simply "I" instead, "the reader" would not mind so often or so much over his pages.—L. S. G. in The Writer.

Carefully Selected. Of the Gladstone library at Hawarden The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Mr. Gladstone is not only himself selecting all the books and arranging them on the shelves with his own hands, but in each case he is marking those passages which seem to him most important and which have had most influence on his own mind and life. The library will thus be an actual collection of books that have influenced him."

A Modern Robinson Crusoe. A solitary sailor has been discovered on a desolate island near Santa Cruz nearly dead from exposure. He gives the name of Robinson, and claims to have lived eight years on the island. He has been sent to his home in Spain.—Public Opinion.

OIL INSTEAD OF SNOW.

The Mid Winter Necessitated the Use of a substitute for the "Beautiful." In the lumber regions of northern Pennsylvania a curious expedient has been resorted to for the purpose of getting the logs out of the woods. Hundreds of barrels of crude oil have been sent to the camps, and this fluid poured over the "slides." This was intended to take the place of snow. Logs can only be got to the market over slippery paths, and when there is no snow or ice they grooved the mountain slides, but in spite of that the vast lumber interests of the state have suffered to a serious extent from this mild winter.

The snow that fell Friday gave the lumber princes of Williamsport and the idle campmen a gleam of hope. The snow recently, however, knocked out all their hopes. It is understood that snow would have to fall a good week and be maintained by thirty days of freezing weather to bring into the streams the lumber now lying in the forests.

This is the first time that crude petroleum has been used to lubricate the slides to any extent. Some of the slides are twelve miles long, starting away back on the summit of a mountain, and running through the passes; in some instances shooting up one hill and down another in a series of inclines. The momentum the logs gather with distance sends them along with a furious rate of speed, and the crude oil has been found not to wear off for nearly a week.

There are today 250,000,000 feet of timber lying in the woods which ought to have been in the booms of Williamsport before this time. In other words, Feb. 1 has usually seen all that wonderful amount of timber lying in the river here, and much of it in the mills being finished for the market. This forest blockade is worth millions of dollars. The logs are in the river are worth $4.50 per 1,000 feet for hemlock and from $11 to $15 for pine.

Twenty different firms of Williamsport are sufferers from the blockade, while 5,000 wood cutters in the camps are idle, drawing no pay. In addition to all this there are scores of saw mills, portable and stationary, up through the forest country which have been shut down most of the winter because they could not get the logs from the woods. This would affect millions of dollars to the above figures. For instance, A. C. Hopkins, of Lock Haven, has 31,000,000 logs lying in Elk and Clearfield counties. Thus far he has only been able, with the aid of grease slides, to get enough timber down into Sunbury to make a few small raftloads, and even since he has had them there, there has not been water enough to bring them into the west branch of the Susquehanna.

Cochran, Payne & McCormick and Deemer & Co., of Williamsport, are the largest operators in the state. Mr. J. C. Payne said today: "There is not more than 10,000,000 feet on the river in the neighborhood of Williamsport. This is less than a fifth of what we usually have on hand at this season of the year. As it will require at least one month of continuous cold weather to get the 250,000,000 feet of logs out of the woods, and as this is already late in February, it begins to look doubtful whether we will have as much stock on hand this summer. Of course I think this will affect market prices for Pennsylvania lumber. The very fact that we have had to go to so much trouble to get out what little we now have, such as greasing the slides, and building stretches of tramway, and buying additional horses, must make a difference in prices. "What if the mild winters continue in the future?" I asked. "I have heard some people advance the theory that the climates are changing, and if that is true the lumber business would be revolutionized. Of course we would have to meet it, though, as we have been doing this year in a measure. I suppose the building of greased slides, ways, or even narrow gauge railroads, would be the solution of the problem. I thought of this at first, they would prove cheaper in the end than the present method of hauling on the snow, because then we would not be at the mercy of the weather. There would then be no such interruption to trade as we have suffered this winter. I know of one firm now which has a narrow gauge railroad with a light locomotive, and it works successfully."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Photography in the Court Room. The adaptation of photography to legal use is the newest thing in the trade. A firm of Broadway camera experts are doing a thriving business photographing letters and documents for lawyers to use in their cases, of doing up views of buildings, interiors of rooms, objects of furniture and the like, to help the learned counselors make their cases plain to the gentlemen of the jury. As the average lawyer's powers of graphic description are not very great, this latter branch of the business should be of decided advantage. The scene of a murder or a suicide, the window by which a burglar forced an entrance, or the lock he burst to get into a bank, are very important parts of a criminal trial. Heretofore description has been the jury's only resource in the matter. Now the unerring eye of the photographic lens will serve them as a silent witness.—New York News.

A Buried Forest. Well diggers on the Crowley place at Little Prairie continue to find further indications of a buried forest. The cedar or pine found at a depth of thirty-five feet appeared to be the branches of a tree; at forty feet the growth was larger, as if near the trunk; at forty-five feet larger still. The first thirty-five feet was through light gravel and the next ten feet through blue clay, exceedingly hard. The impression prevails that a swamp will be struck at a lower depth, as has been the case in previous instances where the wells were abandoned. Good water in that locality is rare, though the land lies high and the surface soil is light. The matter is attracting much attention.—Evening Wisconsin.

It is estimated that $82,000,000 is spent in America each year for cosmetics, of which $25,000,000 is reinvested in advertising, and that of the remainder $15,000,000 is profit.

STOOD THE TEST.

ALLCOCK'S FORNIX PLASTERS are unsurpassable in curative properties, rapidly and safely of action, and are the only reliable plaster ever produced. They have successfully stood the test of over thirty years' use by the public; their virtues have never been equalled by the unscrupulous imitators who have sought to trade upon the reputation of ALLCOCK'S by making plaster with holes in them and claiming them to be "just as good as ALLCOCK'S," and they stand to-day indorsed by not only the highest medical authorities, but by millions of grateful patients who have proved their efficacy as a household remedy.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

There is nothing more pretentious than the capital. Now is the time to treat catarrh of long standing. Ely's Cream Balm reaches old and obstinate cases, where all other remedies fail. Do not neglect procuring a bottle, as in it lies the relief you seek.

Rev. H. H. Fairall, D. D., editor of the Iowa Methodist, says editorially: "We have tested the merits of Ely's Cream Balm, and believe that by a thorough course of treatment it will cure almost every case of catarrh. Ministers as a class are afflicted with head and throat troubles, and catarrh seems more prevalent than ever. We cannot recommend Ely's Cream Balm too highly."

Apply Balm into each nostril. It is quickly absorbed. Gives relief at once. Price, 50 cents at druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 66 Warren Street, New York.

The Pleasures of Being a Barber. Barbering has been a very genteel art, and it might be fine yet. ## ON THE WAY TO PARADISE.

Let us hope that the people who habitually disregard their health will reach that desirable place, and avoid the locality which is less desirable as an eternal residence on account of the heat and surrounding generally. But while we tarry in this vale of tears, why should we so unnecessarily endure the tortures of dyspepsia when a systematic use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitter will rid us of the atrocious analady which—unless physica, a very much at fault—tends to shorten the term of our existence. He returns, biliousness, constipation almost always accompany this complaint, and a systematic use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitter, which also conquers completely malaria, rheumatism, nervous debility. Since the appearance of "a gripe" it has shown a singular mastery over a formidable complaint that has carried off many of our bravest and best.
