THE SACRED NUMBER SEVEN.

O! what can be the meaning of this sacred number Seven
That so many times appears in the book the Lord has given?
It must be that He intended by its very frequent use,
To impress the thought upon us, of some grand and mighty truth;
For from Genesis to Revelation, in one lengthened chain,
This number is repeated, o'er and o'er again.
The heavens and the earth were made, says the book divine,
And a day of rest included, in seven periods of time.
There were seven days appointed for the various Jewish feasts;
Seven days they offered daily, sacrifices of slain beasts.
There were seven years of plenty in the days of Pharaoh's reign,
Also seven years of famine followed quickly in their train.
Seven years did Jacob labor, for the object of his love,
Seven years was disappointed, which the strength of love could prove.
Seven sons had righteous Job, also numerous flocks and herds;
Seven days in silence sat his miserable comforters.
Seven days did Israel's army compass the walls of Jericho,
Seven priests with seven trumpets marched with measured step and slow,
And the Seventh time, the Seventh day when the long blast was given
The walls gave way as the mingled shouts it seemed the clouds had riven.
Seven days the wife of Sampson, besought him weeping to reveal,
The secret of his wondrous strength, which he would fain conceal.
Seven bands the Philistines brought, and they beheld with wonder,
That as threads of tow the fire had touched, he rent them all asunder.
Thus day by day they served him sore, and made him heavy hearted,
And when the seven locks of his hair were gone, his wondrous strength departed.
Seven days Elijah's servant, in obedience to his lord,
Went upon the top of Carmel, to spy out the rising cloud.
In despondency that prophet did his loneliness bewail,
But seven thousand said the Lord have not bowed the knee to Baal.
Seven days did Ahasuerus make a feast for great and small,
Seven chamberlains that served him stood obedient to his call.
Seven princes were appointed, over all his broad domain,
And they shared his royal bounty, in the palace of the king.
Seven maidens had Queen Esther, who found favor in his sight,
For her countenance was comely, and her conduct just and right.
Seven times the leper Naaman, who was dignified of mien,
Dipped himself in Jordon's waters, and behold his flesh was clean.
'Twas seven loaves that fed the people, who assembled there of old,
On the hill tops of Judea, with the Master, we are told;
And he blessed the bread and break it, and such plenty did abound,
Seven basketfuls were gathered of the fragments that were found.
Seven churches were in Asia, unto whom the Lord did send,
Seven messages of mercy, in which love and warning blend.
A disciple wrote the message which to him the angel brought,
And it comes down through generations, full of comfort fraught.
'Twas that disciple greatly loved, who was exiled far away,
On the bleak and rocky shores, of an island in the sea.
He saw bright visions of such glory, of such majesty and grace,
That his spirit was o'erpowered, and he fell upon his face.
But he felt a hand that touched him, and that bid him cast out fear,
And behold it was the master who had promised to be near.
He turned again and upward gazed, and what should greet his sight?
Lo! the gate of heaven swung open all sparkling in the light,
He beheld and was enraptured as bright visions did unfold,
For he saw the walls were Jasper, and the streets were glittering gold.
The city was four square, encompassed by a wall
Built up of precious stones, and every gate a pearl.
Seven angels there were standing, all robed in dazzling white,
Seven angels there were also burning, with trancendent light.
Seven thunders uttered voices of which he dare not speak,
A book with seven seals appeared which none but Christ could break.
O! this symbol of completeness, O! this wondrous number seven
'Tis the number of hewn pillars, that supports the house of wisdom.
And not only in this number, much distinction has been vested,
But we find that on the Seventh has great blessing always rested.
The seventh part of every week, is set aside for rest,
For the Lord declared to Moses it was sanctified and blest.
Through six days the cloud had rested on the mount where Moses stood—
'Twas the Seventh he ascended to the top and talked with God.
In heaven were six trumpets blown and judgments followed fast
Because of sin upon the earth, but the seventh came at last;
And mark the wondrous change, when the seventh angel sounded,
A chorus of angels voices, throughout all heaven resounded:
Hear oh, earth, the cheering strain the joyous happy song!
The kingdoms of this earth do now, unto our Christ belong.
And the mystery is finished, which has been declared,
To many generations through his faithful word.
But the question that arises in christian hearts today,
Is the same as the apostles asked when Jesus went away:
When will the six day labor close the long campaign with Sin?
When will the night of weeping cease and the dawn be ushered in?
For when that dawn shall come, in the brightness of its strength,
'Twill usher in a day, a thousand years in length.
A day for ages typified by one in every seven—
For said the Lord to Moses, as a sign has this been given,
'Twill be a holy Sabbath day when will righteousness be found
To cover all the earth for Satan shall be bound
And what remaineth yet 'ere that day shal come—
That Seventh day of rest is the long week time,
Of commotions in the earth, of pestilence and storm,
Are but the workings of a sea, before a glorious calm.

—L. Ella Hartley.

IT MAY be of interest to some to know the exact popular vote for the different candidates for president at last election. The New York Evening Post is responsible for the figures which are as follows: Cleveland, 5,567,990; Harrison, 5, 176,611; Weaver, 1,025,060; Bidwell, 258,347.

THE so-called science of hypnotism, which enables irresponsible men to practice tricks of mesmerism upon weak minded people to the lasting injury to their nervous system, and which in many instances of late has enabled unscrupulous villians to revenge themselves upon their enemies, or ruin too confiding women, has become alarmingly apparent, and is causing a great deal of comment and indignation. As no real good can come of such a "science," the bill which was last week introduced into congress, providing the severest punishment for the exercise of this art, is not so much out of place nor so ridiculous as some people would try to make out.

S. W. DOANE, a Chicago millionaire, has been arrested for docking his horses tails contrary to the Illinois law. The gentleman, being a millionaire, throws the responsibility of the act upon his hostler, and he, doubtless will pay the penalty. But whatever may be done in the case, a law such as Illinois has, is just what is needed in every state in the union to prevent the mutilation of animals by persons who have grown so scrupulously nice that the handiwork of God seems incomplete, and must be supplemented by some inhuman practice of docking or other torture to suit their own ideas of perfection. A man who would dock a horse, trim a dogs ears, or otherwise mutilate any animal, should serve a term in the penitentiary, be he millionaire or tramp.

SEVERAL times during the past year or so, complaint has been made to the Portland authorities by persons who had been swindled by the irresponsible employment agencies of the city. A most unscroupulous system of swindling has been practiced by them for some time. Some of them would find employment for persons in out-of-the-way parts of the city, first charging well for their information, and when their victims had reached the place they would find that no such person as the one to whom they had been directed lived there, and they would realize that they had been taken in. Another plan has been to send workmen to unscrupulous contractors who would swindle their employees and divide the boodle with the agency. Such work as this makes tramps and beggars out of honest men, or sends them to the prison or to end their lives in the cold embrace of the Willamette. But the city authorities are investigating the nuisance, and the prospect is good for an employment system to be conducted under the direct supervision of some city official, which seems to be the best way to settle the matter.

WEATHER BUREAU REPORT.

PORTLAND, Or., Dec. 23, 1892.

CLIMATE OF OREGON.

According to law, the Oregon Weather Bureau has made its reports to the governor, which is now being printed, concerning the operation of the bureau and in addition thereto there appears in the report the most extensive and valuable collection of tables, giving the temperature of the various sections of the state, the precipitation and the character of the weather, i. e., whether clear, partly cloudly, cloudy or rainy on each day. From this report the following interesting facts concerning the climate of Oregon, which should be more generally known.

The highest temperature on record in the state is 108 degrees and it has been recorded in Jackson and in Umatilla counties; the lowest temperature on record in the state is 39 degrees below zero recorded in Klamath county. The mean annual temperature of the whole state is 50.4 degrees. Douglas and Jackson counties have the highest mean annual temperatures; Curry, Josephine and Willamette valley counties have slightly lower mean annual temperatures. Wallowa county has the lowest mean annual temprature, with Baker, Harney, Klamath, Malheur and Lake following. In every county of the state the temperature has been over 100 degrees except in Clatsop, Coos, Crook, Curry, Harney, Klamath, Lane, Polk, Tillamook and Wallowa, where the records show temperatures from 90 to 98 degrees. Temperatures of zero or below have occured in every county except Clatsop, Curry, Linn and Tillamook. Temperatures of 20 degrees or more below zero have been recorded in Baker, Gilliam, Grant, Klamath, Lake, Malheur, Union and Wallowa counties.

The average precipitation of the state is 34.33 inches. The counties having the highest annual average amount are Curry with 82 inches and Clatsop with 75 inches; the counties having the least annual average amount are Harney, with 9 inches and Gilliam with 10 inches. Those counties having less than 15 and more than 10 inches, are Baker, Crook, Malheur, Morrow and Sherman. Those counties having more than 45 inches annually are Benton, Clackamas, Clatsop, Coiumbia, Coos, curry and Tillamook. On an average there are 235 clear or partly cloudy days in the state each year, 130 are cloudy and on 105 days .01 of an inch or more of precipitation occurs.

The foregoing are the prominent features of the climate of the state.

The report will be ready for distribution by January 15th and can be had from any member of the legislature, any state officers or from the Weather Bureau office, Portland. In addition to the minute climatic details, which are valuable for study, comparison, etc., the report also contains interesting and instructive articles on the climate of the state, concerning the soils and soil temperature of the state, of irrigation its progress and possibilities in the state and a summarized statement of the cereal products of the state.

The report is of inestimable value and is for free distribution. Its value is so great that it would be well for the legislature to order fifty or one hundred thousand copies printed for distribution at the world's fair.

The efforts of the State Weather Bureau certainly deserve commendation for its compilation.

A PAPER WORTH HAVING.

The old saying that "nothing succeeds like success" is well illustrated by the career of the Rural Northwest, which was founded in Portland, Oregon, a little over a year ago, and has already established itself as the leading agricultural paper of the Pacific Northwest. It is hardly necessary to say that the success of this paper is simply the result of merit. It is no cheap concern made up of stereotype plates and stale clippings, but is bright, crisp and clear, filled with original matter which hits the conditions that exist in the Pacific Northwest. Among fruit growers it is an especial favorite, as it makes horticulture a leading feature, and gives the best and fullest reports published of the meetings of the state horticultural societies of Oregon and Washington, and includes among its regular contributors in this department such as Prof. Lake, of the Washington Agricultural College, Prof. Washburn, of the Oregon Agricultural College, A. T. Hawley and others of eminent ability. The dairy department is maintained with no less vigor, as indicated by the fact that its editor, H. M. Williamson, holds the position of secretary of the Oregon State Dairy Association. Live stock and poultry are not neglected, and progressive agriculture is the spirit which animates the general management of the paper.

Among special features are its departments devoted to the "Home Circle" and "Among the Farmers." The latter department is very popular and a special feature with this paper.

One of the peculiar merits of the Rural Northwest is that everything is treated from a practical standpoint of the producer. This handsome, 16-page paper, published twice a month, is a paper well worth its subscription price of one dollar per year, and one that every farmer, fruit grower and dairyman should have and keep.

It gives us pleasure to announce that we have made arrangements by which we are able to offer it as a premium to all new subscribers paying us $1.75 in advance, as well as to all old subscribers who will pay up all arrearages and $1.75 in advance. We could secure some of the eastern farm papers at much less cost to ourselves, but realize the fact that for this section the cheap class of eastern agricultural papers are scarcely worth having, and not to be compared in value with the Rural Northwest.

THE DICTIONARY HOLDER

Did you ever learn what fabulous results grew out of the manufacture by Mr. Noyes of an ornamental stand to hold the Dictionary? The story reads like a fable, but to tell it one must ask another question: Have you ever noticed the advertisement of the Aermotor Company, which starts as follows:

Well, that establishment belongs to La Verne W. Noyes, and by means with which it was built up until it is the third largest user of steel in the West (being only exceeded by two of the great Harvester companies) was wholly furnished by the Dictionary Holder business. This brings us back to the Holder, and suggests inquiry as to how it took and held and still holds the confidence and loyalty from year to year.

The secret of that success is this: Mr. Noyes has made a most perfect, artistic and meritorious article, and has maintained a high standard of excellence and supplied the article at a low price. The merit of these Dictionary Holders has been so great that they literally sell themselves, and in such great quantities that a small profit on each one has made the result above mentioned.

They have gone to almost every habitable portion of the globe, even to the remote islands of the sea, and are kept by all booksellers.
