

NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS:

E. H. WOODWARD AND ORIN C. EMERY.

FRIDAY, MARCH 3, 1893.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Newberg, Oregon.

ORLENSCHLAGER, who murdered the old man Woolridge at Portland a short time ago, was sentenced last Tuesday to imprisonment for life.

The great battleship Indiana was launched at Philadelphia last Tuesday in the presence of thousands of people. When fitted out complete the Indiana will have cost Uncle Sam $3,000,000.

INTENDING exhibitors at the World's Fair have been notified to have their exhibits in place by April 10. This is rather sudden, and as the distance is great we will be compelled to ask to be excused.

We have been asked lately about the prospect of having an electric light plant put in here at an early date. We refer this question to Edwards and Wetherell for solution as they hold the franchise. We would be glad to hear from them on the subject.

The Grant monument is to be erected at last. Horace Porter, president of the Monument Association, has announced that money enough to complete the monument has been raised and the contracts to build it have been let. It is to be finished in the fall of 1895.

ONE of the largest snow storms of the season raged in Minnesota and Wisconsin Monday and Tuesday. At Hudson, Wis., the snow drifted to a depth of 10 to 15 feet. In St. Paul, business was paralyzed on account of the snow. This is very different from our Oregon weather.

JUDGE HURLEY has lately been appointed as one of the new judges for Multnomah county. He will reside in department No. 1. Mr. Hurley has been coming to the front rapidly as an able attorney, for the past few years, and this appointment is a fitting tribute to his ability.

E. H. FLAGG of the Salem Democrat left for Washington D. C. this week to be on hand, ready to throw up his hat for Cleveland on inauguration day, and incidentally to look after a valuable plum in the shape of the position of receiver of the land office at Oregon City. Long may Flagg wave if he is successful in securing the position.

CARTER H. HARRISON has been nominated by the democrats for mayor of Chicago, and no doubt will be elected. Harrison has been mayor of Chicago in the past and his record is about as rotten as that of any man who has ever held an office in this country. His nomination for World's Fair mayor don't speak well for Chicago at this time.

The Polk County Itemizer makes the following very sensible suggestion: The legislature has passed a righteous law against the sale of tobacco in any shape to boys under 18, and now if the fathers and elder brothers of all the boys who have a hankering in that direction would set the good example of letting alone the fifty and unless weed it would be a grand thing for all concerned.

WHILE laying out his six months sentence in the Multnomah county jail, Deputy United States Marshal D. M. West, will have ample time to figure up the profits of a trip over from Seattle to kidnap and carry off a Chinese woman. By the way does any body know whether this man West is in any way related to the late Johnston S. West, who in six or eight short months made himself famous in Newberg?

WATER works and electric lights are such improvements as any town may well be proud of, and we hope to see both put in here at an early date, but if some of our citizens who stand on the corners and mourn over the lack of them, would spend half the time in cleaning up about their premises, setting shade trees and otherwise beautifying their homes they would advance their own interests and those of the town more.

A. W. GRUBBE, a Lebanon saloon keeper was shot and killed last Tuesday morning in his saloon by Morgan Wason, son of Jonathan Wason, a wealthy and respected Linn county pioneer living at Lebanon. Wason and two or three others were in the saloon drinking and quarreling. Grubbe asked them to go out and followed them to the door, when Wason turned and shot Grubbe. Saloons are not allowed to do business in Newberg and consequently such occurrences are unknown here.

Rumor has it that eastern Quakers are trying to secure land in this vicinity for the establishment of a colony. If such should be the case, our citizens should be on the lookout in every direction for our town's interest as these people should they succeed in this venture would not doubt have the means to establish their own schools, business enterprises, and their own society and in fact build a town of their own which under the present condition here, every man for himself, such a movement would no doubt be of no benefit to our city's development.—Amity Pagan.

Or as the Pagan might have stated in a little plainer terms, if the people of Amity desire to look well to the interests of their saloon keepers and tin horn gamblers, in the future, as they have in the past, in preference to builders of "schools, and business enterprises," they want to be up in arms at once, and be ready to resist the encroachments of any colony that would lessen the patronage of their bosom friends, the saloon keepers and gamblers.

The inauguration ceremonies will take place at the capitol tomorrow. The dispatches say: "Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland will go at once to the executive mansion after inauguration, and not to any private residence, as has been stated. President Harrison has had the White House put in admirable condition. He has been in correspondence with Mr. Cleveland, and the latter greatly appreciates the kind, provident and hospitable spirit which the retiring president has shown for the comfort of the family of the incoming executive."

NEWBERG will have during the next four months, the meeting of the county W. C. T. U., the county convention of the Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor, the State Sunday School Convention, Commencement Exercises of Pacific College and finally the Yearly Meeting of Friends church the last week in June. All these are important gatherings and will draw a large number of strangers to our town. We desire to call the attention of the city council to this fact, hoping that they will see to it at once that every nook and corner of the town is put in a presentable appearance. As a rule strangers going into a town, carry away with them pretty correct impressions of the people and the surroundings, and usually give the town credit for all it deserves. This will be the case this summer. We can take a little extra pains in the way of street cleaning and sidewalk mending, giving an extra touch here and there, and get due credit for it, if we desire, or we can take the opposite course if it is thought preferable. Let the council back up the street commissioner and see that every street in town is cleaned up and every sidewalk put in good shape.

ASSESSMENT AND TAXATION.

State, County and School Taxes to be Paid to the Sheriff.

Under the new law a very radical change is made in the manner of collecting city, town and school taxes. The main features of the bill we give below: The several county assessors in making their assessments, will enter opposite each item of property assessed, the name of the city or incorporated town and the number of the school district in which each item of property assessed is assessable. It is the duty of the county clerks to compute the aggregate value of all the assessable property within each of the incorporated cities, towns and school districts and upon this basis all tax levies by city councils and school boards will be made.

It becomes the duty of the school boards and city officers to notify the county clerks on or before the first day of February each year the rate per cent of such tax as may be levied.

Such taxes will be collected at the same time and in the same manner as state and county taxes, by the sheriff.

The sheriff will pay all taxes collected to the treasurer as often as once a week and the several funds will be accounted for separately. The treasurer will pay over to the several districts, cities or towns, upon demand made by them, the amounts to which they are respectively entitled.

All laws providing for assessments of property by school districts, cities and towns are repealed.

THE REAL PURPOSE.

It is pretty generally known that the humorist Bill Nye is about to make a tour of the Pacific Coast, and by the way, we understand our city is to be honored with his presence, accompanied by that celebrated bald dome of thought, his "Think Tank," as William calls it.

It has been given out that the purpose of this trip is to find fresh material for his weekly newspaper letter, and incidentally to give a limited series of entertainments in connection with his side partner in mirth, A. P. Burlank. But the Democrat has it through confidential sources that this is not the real object of his visit to the great west, and we are able to let our readers into a secret, whereby "Hangs a Tail." It seems in his days of poverty, William, like many great men before him owned a dog. It was of the usual yellow mongrel order which grew so plentifully around Laramie, Wyo., in the '70s. Now, this dog's name was Entomology; and during the day he was wanted to lie around the Boomerang Office, varied with a stroll through the streets of that Metropolis, in search of stray cats, smaller dogs and boys; and at night it was his habit to hold lengthy and uproarious "monologue entertainments" with the man in the moon as audience, much to the disturbance and sorrow of the wakeful citizens. But one day Entomology started "westward ho" from Laramie, accompanied by ear splitting howls, and a tin can on his cap appendage, accelerated by cries of exultation from numerous citizens; but Bill bewailed his loss with tears and lamentations; he also "tore his hair," which accounts for the oasis of his latter day cranium. And now that he has reached a state of affluence his mind and sympathies revert to the occupation of his early days, and he has decided to make a search throughout the west for the little Entomology; and, if he is successful, the dogs declivity shall be passed in plenty and happiness, far from the maddening haunts of small boys and tin cans. Any one knowing anything of the whereabouts of little Entomology, will confer a favor by putting himself in immediate communication with festive William.—Albany Democrat.

PATENT OUTSIDES, ETC.
Itilly becomes the McMinnville paper with the b'nded names to speak of patent inside sheets in such a supercilious way, when by actual count its last issue contained 12 columns of boiler plate which costs about 1 cent per inch laid down in McMinnville. Now, really the only difference between the Sun and the Telephone-Register is that the latter buys its plates in the east and puts them on its own outside, while a Portland firm prints the inside of the Sun. We wouldn't have given the Telephone-Register away on its "patent outside" if it hadn't poked its nose into the Sun's "patent inside."—Sheridan Sun.

TO THE RELIEF OF OREGON CITY.
The east-side motor line that has at last reached Oregon City does not prove so advantageous in every way as our county seat residents looked for. It takes an hour and a half to run to Portland over the line, and fifty cents for the round trip, while the steamer Altona, charging the same rate, makes it in one hour.
To relieve the distress of the Oregon City citizens the Southern Pacific will build a branch of the P. & W. V. from Oswego and give the city by the falls a half-hour service to the metropolis. Railroad surveys were at Elk Rock Tuesday preparing to either tunnel at that point or build a substantial bridge.—Oswego Iron Worker.

AT LAST THE TRUTH.

The national resources of the Pacific Northwest are limitless. The lack of available money has been the only drawback to advancement. Our banking system is good and our financiers able, yet the common people, the toiling thousands who are the prime factors of prosperity, have felt a need of ready money—money to pay off mortgages, build and buy homes. The banks can borrow at 3 and 4 per cent, but the wage earner has to pay 8 and 10 per cent, and brokerage commissions and extras often raise the rate to 15 or 20 per cent. People hesitate to borrow, especially if they know they cannot pay the mortgage on maturity. When a loan can be repaid in monthly installments, when the interest is not more than 6 per cent per annum, the entire country advances. The system introduced some years ago by the building and loan associations has met with good favor. By the aid of these people's savings banks, the rate has been reduced on hundreds of mortgages. Thousands of homes have been built. Every monetary system has faults, banks as well as building and loan associations, but the faults attributed to the latter are nearly always theirs, but the result of unauthorized representations of eager agents. Building and loan associations are divided into two great classes, national and local. The national plan seems to have the weight of public opinion in its favor. Oregon boasts of a number of thriving and prosperous associations in Portland. They are conservative and reliable, and it would be difficult to designate this or that one as the best.

Yet we would say that the New England National Building, Loan and Investment Association of this city, whose offices are in the Oregonian building, is second to none. Its plan is liberal and fair, its methods conservative, its resources ample, its officers men of standing, men of worth and integrity. This association seems to be constantly striving to improve, to cut out weak spots upon discovery, to strengthen and build up. Its low interest rate and the ease with which money is obtained from it on good security has made it many friends. The institution is one of which the whole state is proud.

The Oregon National, Northwest National, Franklin, Portland, and other home companies, as well as many sound foreign companies, are making good records. If people impartially investigate, they will find that the building and loan associations do all they promise, that disappointment comes from failure to read literature, failure to heed the warning all companies give that they will not be bound by representations of agents beyond the scope of their authority.—Evening Telegram.

On metal rails a horse can draw one and two-third times as much as on asphalt pavement, three and one-third times as much as on good Belgian blocks, five times as much as on good cobblestone, twenty times as much as on good earth soil, forty times as much as on sand. A modern compilation of engineering maxims says that a horse can drag, as compared with what he can carry on his back, in the following proportions: On the worst earth road three times; on good macadamized road, nine; plank, twenty-five; on stone trackway, thirty-three; on a good railway, fifty-five times as much.—Ex.

That our almond-eyed guests are readily assimilative to the conditions imposed upon them by our numerous local variations in the style of civilization they may be called upon to adopt, is aptly illustrated by the following genuine specimen of Chinese English from an advertisement in a Santa Barbara, California, newspaper: "I have a tame cat is lost on the 25 of April it is about nine pounds his breast all are white the hands and legs both are white but one his behind leg outside part have a spot Gray Colour and his back all are gray but the back have a white blue spot on his muzzle is red and his head is light black. His name have a iron ring on it and with six Chinese money to tie it tight on the iron ring in his name if any person know where she was bring back to me I will prefer to give him two dollars for reward.—Newspaper Man.

FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

When a young man goes to see his regular girl every night in the week, either the girl must be sick or they've got it pretty bad. Of course that never happens in this town.—Valley Transcript.

Of course J. B. Putnam—our Polk county Jimmie—has been re-elected state librarian, being chosen without a dissenting vote. Jimmie makes an efficient and trustworthy officers, and his faithfulness is appreciated by all parties.—Valley Transcript.

The man who paints his yard fence, cleans up his premises, whitewashes his barn and outhouses and keeps walks in front of his gate, is a greater benefactor to the city than the individual who spends his time on the street corners prating about a slum city and the dead condition of his adopted home.—Valley Transcript.

Am Shadden went for hunting Saturday and did not return Monday. People were anxious about the matter and as a search party was about to be organized, Mr. Shadden showed up. He had been on the trail of a deer for two days.—Telephone-Register.

S. P. Wilke, of Tillamook, killed a bald eagle on the Miami, Sunday that measured seven feet ten inches from tip to tip and Monday he killed another that measured seven feet eight inches. The big one was killed in the act of carrying off a 40-pound pig.—Telephone-Register.

The officers of this county do not have much objection to the new salary law, as the sheriff will receive $2,000 and fees enough to make it $3,000, and $600 for deputy; the clerk will receive $1,800 with $600 for deputy and some fees will still be attached to the office. The recorder receives $1,400 and $600 for deputy. This law will not take effect until 1894 and the new county officers have been elected.—Telephone-Register.

The advertisement of R. B. Hibbs for Chinese pheasants resulted in his purchase of 60 birds.—Telephone-Register.

Postoffice petitions are making a wonderful growth with the advent of warmer weather. Four good sized ones are now being circulated.—Reporter.

Hurry up the Nestucca road with the opening of spring, as it will open a very valuable country for McMinnville. Tillamook county is making great strides in the dairy industry. She has purchased large quantities of machinery this year.—Reporter.

After March 15th Assessor York will begin the work of assessing for 1893. Either himself or deputy will call once at every house in the county, and can not afford to call but once. He will be in his office at the court house on Fridays and Saturdays.—Reporter.

John Evenden's hens appear to have awakened from their lethargy and come down to business. On Wednesday he exhibited in the sanatorium an egg measuring 6 1/2 x 8 1/2 inches in circumference, about the largest egg on record. Its weight was 4 1/2 ounces.—Reporter.

Charles Grissen is offering two volumes of Tenyson's poems to the best essayist in Prof. Peabody and Prof. Buchanan's schools. The essays are to be written on the subject "What I would do to improve and beautify the city of McMinnville." They will be read next week. The subject is one on which the school children can obtain lots of good advice free, as well as have ample room for original thought. They may be published for the benefit of the city council.—Reporter.

M. Thurber, who came here from Illinois something over a year ago, and ought to know something about the subject, gives it as his opinion that farmers make a great mistake by not raising more clover. His own experience comes almost within range of the marvelous. Last season, after turning sheep on a five-acre field and pasturing it close in the early spring he turned in three head of horses, two cows and three hogs. They were so far from able to keep it eaten down that he cut two tons to the acre, a portion of which was hauled to town and sold for seven dollars a ton. The stock was never turned out on the field, the second growth coming on so promptly. Mr. Thurber considers clover hay the best possible feed for milk cows, and thinks it can be raised on almost any land in this county if sown at the right time and properly managed. He recommends February, and would not sow with another crop.—Reporter.

A base ball club was organized in town last Monday by the Seminary students, they intend to hold the championship of the county if they can.—Ledger.

An attempt was made one night last Monday to break into Mr. T. C. Stephens' jewelry store. Their operations were confined to the rear of the store, by making an effort to pry the back door off its hinges. Fortunately Mr. Stephens returned from church a little earlier than usual, or no doubt the would-be house breakers would have effected an entrance. It would be drawing it very mild to say that they wanted to see what time of night it was.—Ledger.

Mr. Monroe Ramsey, of Newberg made us a pleasant call last Tuesday. He has great faith in the bright prospects in store for Newberg. He says Newberg is there to stay and that parties from the east are still coming. The almost phenomenal growth of Newberg is due to the enterprise of her citizens; for without enterprise it is not possible that a town can make any headway.—Ledger.

On Sunday the police of this city arrested two youths aged about 14 years who had run away from their respective homes in Portland on Saturday intending to go to Mexico and enter upon the life of a bandit. They were each armed with a gun and one of them had a bowie knife. Other supposed to be essentials were found stowed away in various parts of their clothing and they came from Portland as stowaways on one of the O. C. T. Co's boats. After they were taken in charge and locked up, the supposition being that they had stolen their wares, it was learned that their names were Charley Kamp and Willie Wyncoop and their parents lived in Portland. Accordingly the officers informed their parents of their whereabouts and Monday they came up and resumed charge of their bandit inclined offspring.—Oregon City Enterprise.

About 3 o'clock one morning this week, a panther passed through the door-yard of Willard Wood, at Hopewell, about 8 miles of Dayton. Mrs. Wood heard the animal as it passed through the yard, and when one of the dogs at the house barked the panther let out a blood-curdling yell, which startled Mrs. W. and other inmates of the house. The animal then bounded over the picket fence and crossed the road into the barnyard. A dog at the barn barked at the intruder, when another unearthly yell was heard. Some of the men went to the barn and the panther made good his escape. It is probable the panther was driven from the mountains by the deep snow, and was compelled to seek for food in the valley.—Dayton Herald.

There is a case in the Oregon courts that illustrates the modern tendency of corporations to litigate every little dispute. A farmer who had a horse killed by the Southern Pacific Co. has had to fight his case to the justice court through the circuit court, through the supreme court and then it was remanded to the lower court, where he won it again, appealed to the supreme court, where he had the battle over again. Twice the horse will be consumed in the costs and lawyer fees and when he is through he may have to go to the poorhouse. Public security is menaced by the ill will engendered by this course on the part of a company. There is some cause for the attempts to wreck trains in the unfortunately litigious policy of the counsel for these corporations.—Cap Journal.

THE MACKAY SPECTATORIUM.

"The Mackay Spectatorium" is the name of a colossal building which in its exterior design and interior equipment is the work of Mr. Steele Mackaye, who is well known in the arena of creative dramatic work. He has taken advantage of the celebration of the discovery of America to found a permanent institution of fine art upon a Titanic scale in the realm of a drama. His creation is conspicuous among all others of its kind for its originality, audacity and artistic earnestness. He first submitted his plans to a number of Chicago gentlemen of financial and social promises about one year ago. These gentlemen were prompt to perceive the merits of Mackaye's ideas and in a very short time gave him a backing of $1,000,000 for the realization of his extraordinary views. They are building at the north end of Jackson Park, on the lake shore, an immense structure, bearing the name of the inventor and covering a ground area of 500x380 feet, in which will be presented, with a completeness of equipment never before approached, all the features of Mr. Mackaye's strange schemes. This building is in itself a worthy notice. It is imposing, massive and noble and in these particulars will be in accord with the production to be presented within its walls. Those who have seen the model, which cost about $30,000, claim that "The Mackay Spectatorium" will be the Eiffel tower of this great occasion, absolutely surpassing in magnitude and wonder every other feature of the fair.

COMMITTEE.

COROLLIVER.

During the good weather quite a number of farmers are plowing and getting their farms in proper shape for spring planting.

Levi Sanders is plowing and preparing to set out his 1200 fruit trees.

Mr. Harford has taken out lots of stumps during the winter and will soon have his place free from roots.

Quite a number were out at Sabath school last Sunday. The meeting was followed by the usual afternoon services.

Rev. Price was present and conducted the meetings, assisted by Mr. Ballard.

Mr. J. A. Guaher is having his place fenced, cleared and otherwise improved. The timber is being cut up in cord wood.

School is going on the same as ever since the short vacation caused by the teacher being gone to the examination. Miss Burrows is looked upon as quite a successful teacher.

Mrs. Harford left Wednesday for Portland and other places, where she goes to hold Gospel Temperance meetings from one week.

Mrs. Armstrong has been very sick but is getting better. We hope for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. Josie Palmer closed her school at Stafford and has come home.

Mrs. Helen B. Harford, State Organizer and Lecturer of the W. C. T. U. will speak at the following places in Multnomah county:
