Oregon Yearly Meeting OF FRIENDS CHURCH.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Devotional meeting led by President Thomas Newlin. 10 a. m. The delegates reported that they were united in proposing the names of Pres. Thomas Newlin for principal clerk; Mrs. Jane Blair reading clerk and Mrs. L. E. Minthorn recording clerk. By unanimous vote they were chosen clerks.

FRIDAY MORNING.

The 8 o'clock meeting which was led by Lida Romack was full of life and power. At the 10 o'clock meeting the subject of home missions was first considered. Remarks pertinent to the subject were made by Dr. Minthorn, Rev. J. H. Douglas, Rev. L. P. Wooten, Rev. Thomas C. Brown and others. This work was referred to the committee on pastoral and church extension work.

Ruth S. Murray speaking on the subject of the distribution of books and tracts said: "Show me the books a young man reads and I will read you his character." She hoped the vile reading matter so common in the east had not reached this new country. She urged the importance of furnishing the young with books that were not only pure but those that were interesting as well.

Mrs. E. B. Miles spoke on the subject of peace and arbitration, urging the necessity of the church keeping abreast of the times along these lines. She also suggested that the meeting appoint a delegate to the congress on peace and arbitration, to be held at Chicago during the World's Fair. Referred to nominating committee. Mrs. Miles also urged the reading of papers on these subjects and recommended the Pacific Banner, Messenger of Peace, Olive Leaf and others.

By recommendation of the nominating committee, Dr. Minthorn was appointed a delegate to the peace and arbitration congress at Chicago, with Mrs. D. C. H. Cox alternate. A report of the temperance work showed that a great deal of work had been done by the members of the church, but not very much done through church organizations.

Levi Mills was called for, who said: "We have a colony of people in Ohio, who have the peculiar fashion of fastening their clothes with hooks and eyes. Now I find no fault with them for this, but I do insist that they shall allow me to fasten mine with buttons. Don't let us christianize people because they differ with us with reference to methods in temperance work."

Ruth S. Murray of New Bedford, Massachusetts, said she felt very aged and venerable in this meeting as she was appointed many years ago to attend the opening of Iowa Yearly Meeting, and now being here to attend the opening of Oregon Yearly Meeting, a child of Iowa Yearly Meeting made her feel quite old. She brought a loving greeting from the rock bound coast of New England. In some sense we are far apart but not in others. Many prayers went up for you in New England Yearly Meeting. May He prepare you for carrying the glad tidings to the careless and unconcerned. Let us remember the Rock of Ages on which we stand.

In our Yearly Meeting we congratulate ourselves over a very small increase in numbers but here you have an increase of 408, and I don't know how many more you will have before the close of this meeting. May the Lord Bless you. Levi Mills: We must conclude that you are all busy workers in the church of Christ. Never have I seen a Yearly Meeting of this size before where so many young men and young women can testify to the sanctification of their souls. I shall go back to my home and friends inspired to preach again the truth of Christ as never before. There is no stopping here for fear the young will outstrip the old. This Yearly Meeting with the hearts of the children toward the aged and the hearts of the aged to the children, causes a fire that will spread as a fire spreads on a western prairie. I bring you greeting from Wilmington Yearly Meeting.

E. R. Walton: I came to this Pacific coast country in an early day and saw the grapes and other grand fruits raised here, but went back again saying there were giants in the land. I am glad some of you were not so fearful but came to drive out the giants. I want to give a word of encouragement to the young to be faithful.

I. P. Wooten: The work of Iowa Yearly Meeting is so large that it has been done in sections, and you have been doing your part in this section. We have just attended a conference at Long Beach, California, where Friends are situated much the same as you have been here. They are preparing for a Yearly Meeting there and they will no doubt have one soon. They committed to me a loving greeting to bear to you from them.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The subject of choosing a field for mission work was considered and it was decided to choose Alaska as the field. It was recommended that all foreign mission work be concentrated in that field. A proposition came from Kansas Y. M. to join that body and Wilmington Y. M. in their work on Douglas Island. After discussion it was decided to defer action for the present and the mission work in Alaska was referred to a committee of the following members: J. H. Townsend, Mary E. K. Edwards, Elvira Cook, Paul Macy, Dr. Minthorn, Archilla Hadley and Elizabeth B. Miles.

Lida Romack delivered a very able and most interesting address on foreign missionary work which was closely listened to. Laura Winston, two years a missionary in Mexico, spoke a few words by reference to the work in that country. Miss Osman sang a missionary hymn to good effect. Dr. J. E. Connett spoke of the work accomplished in the six years work on Douglas Island, Alaska, relating to the early work of Elwood W. Wooten at that mission under the trying circumstances attending house building and other work in a country where there are no roads nor teams to do the hauling of material, but every thing must be carried on the shoulders of men.

A song was sung by the "Willing Hands" and "Helping Hands," missionary societies of Newberg. It was stated that the Y. P. S. C. E. of Newberg Q. M., had agreed to support two Indian children in the mission on Douglas Island and Salem Q. M. Y. P. S. C. E. will support one during the coming year.

They are preparing for a Yearly Meeting there and they will no doubt have one soon. They committed to me a loving greeting to bear to you from them.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON. This being the time for the consideration of the subject of education a lengthy report which had been made to the board of trustees of Pacific College by President Thomas Newlin, was read which showed the work done by the college during the year. A similar report from Prof. Edwin Morrison, with reference to the Polytechnic Institute at Salem, was read after which Prof. Morrison made a short address with reference to educational work in general.

Levi Mills: Educational institutions are absolutely necessary to the best interests of the church. There is a great stretch between the tallow candle and electric light of today. We did the best we could with the tallow candle, now the present generation ought to do the best work possible, standing in the glare of the wonderful electric light. If you want Zion to prosper give your children a college education.

I. P. Wooten spoke of the work of Penn College, Iowa, in connection with church work, saying that in the past when they took no special pains to give training for religious work, other churches picked up their brightest young men and put them into a way to prepare for the ministry and they were in this way lost to Friends church. This loss to the church had been overcome by establishing a class for Biblical training in the college, and important positions were being filled now by the young people who were coming from this class. A call was made for those who had been in Earlham College as students to stand, also those who had been in Penn College, and a large number stood at both calls. A call for those who had been in Friends schools brought non-fifts of the audience to their feet. Addison Coffin was called on to speak for Guilford College, North Carolina. He said that on August 1st, 1837 that school first opened with an enrollment of 25 boys and 25 girls the first day, and of that number nearly half of them are alive today. His first attendance was in 1840. J. R. Mendenhall, of Minneapolis, Minnesota, now present, was a student with him. No school of the same size has sent out more good solid citizens than Guilford College. He finds them throughout the entire west.

A request was read from Newberg Quarterly Meeting asking the Yearly Meeting to assume the management of Pacific College, which was referred to a committee for consideration. This committee reported favorably at a later meeting and the meeting accepted the trust. The trustees appointed by the meeting were, Thad. S. Townsend, Portland; Josiah Winslow, Marion; Dr. A. Mills, Dundee; Mrs. Melinda Craven, Middleton; Edmund Robinson, Newberg; W. P. Smith, Salem; Alva Cook, Shedd; Mrs. Helen B. Harford, Newberg; Mrs. Anna B. Miles, Newberg; I. N. Miles, Prune Ridge; Miss Daisie M. Stanley and J. H. Rees, Newberg. These trustees will act with the nine elected annually by the corporate body.

On Friday, the committee on memorials, made a report. No written memorials were presented but Rev. J. H. Douglas spoke very feelingly on the lives of Wm. Hobson, Benjamin Miles, Rebecca Clawson and Mary Pinkham. Jane B. Votaw, Mary E. K. Edwards, John Edwards and others spoke much in the same way.

Nathan H. Clark said he and his wife and R. J. Mendenhall were the only ones present who knew Wm. Hobson when he was a boy. His whole life was proof of the fact that it was not necessary for a young man to sow wild oats.

SATURDAY MORNING. The morning meeting was led by Elwood Hanson of Minneapolis, Minnesota. The Sunday school work was taken up. Statistical reports were incomplete, but verbal reports showed the different neighborhoods to be well organized for Sunday school work.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON. This session was given up almost entirely to the Y. P. S. C. E. Many of the members occupied places on the platform. The following program was carried out: Opening Exercises, Richard Harwood, Paper, "The Duty of Oregon Yearly Meeting to the Endeavor," Rev. Thomas C. Brown. Discussion. Paper, "Who shall be members of the Endeavor," Robbio W. Hinchman. Paper, "The Pledge," Nelson Morrison. "My duty as an Endeavorer," J. J. Jessup. Paper, "What shall the Social Life of an Endeavorer Be," Abbie L. Miles. Paper, "To what Extent shall We Touch Mission Work," Edgar Ballard.

Much interest was manifested in this meeting and the church heartily endorsed the work of the young people. That the Christian Endeavor occupies a prominent and a very necessary place in the church was readily recognized.

SUNDAY. All the services on Sunday were well attended. In the oak grove near the church, seats were arranged for a meeting where a good sized audience gathered at 10 a. m. Rev. Jas. P. Haworth of Indiana, preached to this congregation and the singing was led by Mrs. Cooper, of Illinois.

In the house Rev. Levi Mills preached one of his best sermons to an audience of 1,000 people. He was at his best on this occasion and he held the closest attention of the large audience present. At the close of the sermon Rev. Thomas C. Brown stated that in addition to what had been arranged for, to meet the expense of building the new church, $5,000 more would be needed, and proceeded to take subscriptions. To the surprise of everybody present, he, in a very short time secured subscriptions to the amount of $3,118, cash $27.50, book racks worth $35, and a resident lot on Main street donated by Judge Hurley of Portland, valued at $200, making a total of $3,383.50.

Rev. Brown managed the collection in the neatest manner possible. In stating the needs of the building committee he made a strong case, but his words were so well chosen and his bearing so pleasant, that the large audience kept perfectly quiet and good humored through it all, and the subscription was well distributed throughout the audience. Everybody felt good over the result and congratulations were in order at the close. The building committee had reason to feel very grateful for the hearty endorsement of their actions by the church.

By special request of Rev. Noble, pastor of the Baptist church, Miss Emma Spencer occupied his pulpit. We understand she preached a sermon that was much appreciated by the pastor and his congregation.

The number in attendance at the afternoon services was about the same as in the morning. Rev. Isom P. Wooten preached a powerful sermon in the house which was highly spoken of.

Mrs. Romack occupied the pulpit at night. At the close of this service, an invitation was extended to those who desired to join the church to do so. Three joined by request and one by letter.

MONDAY. The meeting was conducted by Emma Spencer and Levi Mills. Rev. Mills preached a short sermon but one of the most powerful of the Yearly Meeting, 10 a. m. The Representative body reported that A. M. Bray had been chosen clerk of that body. They recommended that a committee be appointed to draft a discipline to be reported to the Yearly Meeting next year. The nominating committee reported nominations for officers for the Christian Endeavor work as follows: From Salem, Leonard George; Newberg, Archie Campbell of Sherwood; for president, Edgar Ballard, of Newberg; vice-president, Gertrude Lamb, of Newberg; secretary, Jessie Nelson, of Salem. The number of societies reported were 12. Number of active members 400. Amount of money spent for special work $168.

Moses Votaw, G. W. Mitchell, B. C. Miles, H. J. Minthorn and D. B. Keeler were appointed Trustees of the Yearly Meeting and Andrew Pickett, treasurer. A. M. Bray suggested that all property belonging to the different Monthly Meetings be transferred to the Yearly Meeting. After discussion all matters of titles to property as well as the proper caring for and the preservation of the minutes of the Yearly Meeting was referred to the Representative body for consideration and recommendation to be reported next year.

Rev. J. M. Haworth spoke in commendation of the harmony in which all business had been transacted. You are the first Yearly Meeting on the coast. Great responsibility rests on you. I pray to God that his blessing may rest on you. May you deepen and grow and may your influence grow and be felt.

Monday was taken up mostly by the reports of committees and the appointment of standing committees for the year. Evangelistic com. Rev. J. H. Douglas, chairman, Pres. Thomas Newlin secretary, Alpheus Mills treasurer, Martin Cook, F. M. George, H. J. Minthorn, Melinda Craven, Mary E. K. Edwards and Martha Townsend.

Correspondents, C. J. Edwards, Newberg; Clark M. Terrell, Portland; W. P. Smith, Salem. The delegates recommended that 1000 copies of the minutes be printed, which was ordered.

Two hundred dollars was ordered raised for printing and for contingent expenses. Persons to receive documents, B. S. Cook for Salem Quarter and E. H. Woodward, for Newberg.

Pres. Thomas Newlin, Prof. J. J. Jessup, Amy Cooper and Laura E. Minthorn, were named as a committee to confer with like committees from other Yearly meetings with reference to establishing a publishing house for the church.

When the time came for adjournment, Pres. Newlin the principal clerk said: I desire to express my gladness that the business that has been before the different sessions has been transacted in harmony, and without unnecessary discussion. I have greatly enjoyed the presence of the visitors who have been with us. Many will now go to other fields. I hope that they will not think we have been trying to teach them how they ought to transact the business of their meetings. We have simply done as we thought best to suit our conditions. We will either do better or worse in the future, and as to which it shall be will depend on our spiritual life.

We bid your people God speed, and thank you for your messages of love. The inspiration we have received from you, we will try to treasure up and carry to others. This platform will have a long look when you are gone, but we will try to shoulder the responsibility placed upon us.

A very feeling prayer was offered by Mrs. Edwards. Ruth Murray said I want to leave a word of comfort to you. Some of you have committed yourselves to the Lord. He is able to save to the uttermost. Samuel Bottomley, of England, said: I don't want to go away without expressing the joy we have felt at being with you. We have been greatly blessed by being with you.

James Bean: I bring a word of greeting to you from a little meeting at College Park, California, which is made up from people from England, Ireland, Scotland, New England and other places. I have been pleased at the harmony which has prevailed and at the earnestness of the children and young people in your meetings. Henry Mills, Mrs. Wooten, Levi Mills and many others spoke in much the same way and the meeting continued until almost six o'clock, when it was adjourned.

The Long Beach Conference of the Friends church which closed yesterday was an occasion of notable interest and instruction. Most of the local churches on the coast were represented. The attendance from Whittier was very large and it seemed quite like being at home to find so many of our people in camp. My attendance and interest and the ability shown in the discussion of various questions on the program gave an encouraging measure of the strength and growth of Friends church on the coast and assures the organization of a Yearly meeting at an early day. The scientific lectures of Prof. Joseph Moore, of Earlham College, Ind., were a most interesting feature of the occasion. Rev. I. P. Wooten, of Iowa, preached several very able sermons. The attendance at the Sunday meetings at the pavilion was estimated at 1000.—Whittier Cal. Register.

SALEM is founding up her Chinese lottery men. If she would only follow it up with the arrest of all the other crooked institutions run by both Caucasians and Mongolians, it would make Salem a better place to live in than it is now.

The thirty-first quarterly meeting of the Oregon State Horticultural Society will be held in the court house at Salem, July 11, 12 and 13, 1933. A good program has been prepared and a full attendance is desired.

WANTED TO START A GRAVEYARD. Peter Powers of Newberg, has been adjudged insane and was taken to the asylum at Salem Friday last. He had an idea that he wanted to start a graveyard and has been endeavoring to hire men to dig graves for some time past. It was his intention to furnish the bodies but before he had started to do so he was hauled off to Salem.—Telephone-Register. The above statement is all right, only Peter never was a citizen of Newberg or vicinity. He drifted here with all his peculiarities, and upon his arrival was promptly handed over to the authorities. Being a little sensitive along this line we hasten to make this correction.

FROM OUR EXCHANGES. Several suspicious parties have been arrested for setting fire to Tillamook. Upon conviction the miscreants should at first be jounced upon a fence rail with a barb-wire vaneer; they should then be tarred and feathered, rotten-egged and pelted with brick bats, after which the committee might hang them to a ranga fir limb until life became too intolerable for further existence.—Sheridan Sun.

Here is an item for the evolutionists: It is a very well known fact that the soil is very productive in and about Independence, and nearly every vegetable production is of an average size, and even more so, but in the animal kingdom it seems the rule does not hold good. Recently Charles Madison, living across the river, found a calf out in his pasture, born entirely destitute of a tail.—Telephone-Register.

Capt. Wyatt Harris returned Tuesday morning from the line of the new road. He located the road from the present terminus to the mouth of Testament creek and reports that an immense amount of work has already been done and the wagon road will be ready for travel as far as the mouth of Testament creek within three weeks. Considerable work has been done on the Big Nestucca division but it is in sections separated by rocky points that will have to be blasted out before the road can be traveled.—Telephone-Register.

The county rock crusher arrived here Saturday and was set up at the Redmond quarry Monday. The first load of crushed rock started for the city at 4 o'clock and it has been coming steadily since. The road bed has been prepared under the supervision of Commissioner Henderson and the work that has been done upon it is the best that has been done in the county. Fillings have been made and the road graded so that it will be impossible for water to stand upon any part of its surface. The ground has been kept moist by sprinkling and when the road bed of rock 16 feet wide and one foot deep has been placed upon it this piece of road will be the best in the county. Three or four inches of dirt will be thrown upon the rock in order to cement it together and the farmers who haul their wheat over it will be able to determine the best road, one of rock or the natural dirt. The rock is being obtained from the road near the Redmond farm and is of a very good quality.—Telephone-Register.

CULTIVATION OF ORCHARDS. The season of weeds is here again, and energetic horticulturists are busy in orchard and garden, going the rounds with plow, cultivator and hoe. It is best not to wait till bright, sunny days to commence on the weeds as by that time they, perhaps, have taken the ground, or become so rank, as to make it almost impossible to clean them out, especially in small tracts. Another thing to be remembered is that weeds, as they grow, require some nourishment to live, and, as most weeds are grass feeders, it does not require long to sap the soil of the moisture so necessary to the growth of plants and trees. Every weed, be it ever so small, takes just that much plant food from the trees, and every weed that has reached maturity before it is destroyed has taken valuable food from the soil that has to be put back in some way. As it does not require one-tenth of the labor to destroy a weed that is just starting as one that is full grown, is not better to get rid of the pests while small and thus save the amount of nourishment they consume, and the extra labor required to eradicate them when large?

A strong point in favor of clean cultivation is that where ground is kept perfectly clean of weeds, moisture may at all times during the summer be found within one or two inches of the surface of the soil, but where weeds are abundant the soil becomes dry, hard and perfectly solid. The effects of neglect in a weedy, non-cultivated orchard can be seen when trees begin to turn yellow by midsummer, the bark begins to get rough and scaly—a sure sign of bark borers—and they do not make wood growth until late in the fall after the rains begin which results in soft and spongy wood which will winter-kill.

My ideal of an orchard is one that is kept cultivated to such an extent that no weeds are allowed to go to seed, the ground being kept stirred with both plow and cultivator so that trees will make a growth of from two to six feet each year until they come into bearing, and being so cared for, they will in a few years return a good income to the owner. But no one needs think that he can sit down and have these things come to him, for it takes lots of hard work, grit and elbow grease—to use a strong expression—to make a success of horticulture, nature's own art.—E. P. Smith, in Rural North-west.
