Artist and Amateur.

A critic, who was recently asked to define the line between artist and amateur, stated that an amateur's sketches were labored and finished up to invite favorable criticism, while the artist's sketches were broad and unfinished, suggesting much to himself only. Could not the dividing line be better defined? The amount of time spent on a sketch often depends upon opportunity. When the time is not needed elsewhere, one quite able to sketch in the boldest, most rapid style may prefer to go on and produce a picture, trusting to the inspiration of the present rather than of the future, and to vision rather than memory. If something greater is to be subsequently developed from the work, it will be no less suggestive because of its finished character.

It may not be easy to define the dividing line between artist and amateur, but it is easy to point out a well recognized one that is identical with it—the one that is drawn between poets and mere writers of verse.—Art Amateur.

The Right Kind.

The following story, told of the late Senator Stanford, is characteristic of the man. He was always a cheerful giver, but preferred paying for work to emptying his purse. One day he found a dilapidated cab on the avenue, with a half clad man upon the seat. "Why are you standing here in the cold?" "I don't know, sir," said the man. "Do you believe that horse could carry me to the capitol?" inquired Stanford. "Yes, sir." "Try it, then," was the response. And all that winter the man who owned the finest horses in America jogged along behind the rusty steed. That there was a change in that poor driver's fortunes by the spring everybody knew.—Ran's Horn.

DWIGGINS' BANKING METHODS.

Not So Popular in Indiana as They Were.

Mr. Zimri Dwiggins, who is now under bail at Fowler, Ind., charged with embezzling the funds of the local bank, is one of the numerous Napoleons of finance who came to grief during the panic of last summer. Dwiggins began his financial career in Oxford, Ind., where his first enterprise

AN ACT OF HEROISM IS FOLLOWED BY DIRE RESULTS.

Edward Donnelly Saves a Life Almost at the Cost of His Own—After Years of Suffering He is Restored to Health—His Story as Told to a Reporter of the Auburn Bulletin.

Auburn (N. Y.) Bulletin.

It is on record that upon a chilly April day, a few years ago, an eight-year-old boy fell into the East river at the foot of East Eighth street, New York, and when all efforts to rescue him had failed, Edward Donnelly, at risk of his own life, plunged into the water and, when himself nearly exhausted, saved the boy from drowning. It was a humane and self-sacrificing deed, and received deserved commendation in all the newspapers.

There is a sequel to this incident, however, which thus far has not been published. It is to the effect that Donnelly was paralyzed as a result of the cold plunge and came near dying. Auburn people have known the family, his wife being Amanda Grantman and his sister Mrs. S. D. Corry of 21 Moravia street. Donnelly himself describes the rescue and the result:

"I was general foreman of the F. A. Mulgrew Saw Mill, foot of Eighth street, New York, on the East river. It was on the 20th of April, 1889, that the boy fell into the river and I rescued him from drowning. At that time I was in the water so long that I was taken with a headache and my head became so stiffened up and weak that I could neither work nor walk. For some time I was under treatment of Dr. George McDonald, who said I had locomotor ataxia. He finally gave me up, and on the 1st of June, 1892, my wife and I came up to Auburn.

"When the disease first came upon me the numbness began in my hands, and soon the whole of both my feet became affected. There was a cold feeling across the small of my back and downwards, and a sense of soreness and a tight pressure on the chest. The numbness gradually extended up both legs and into the lower part of my body. I felt that death was creeping up to my vitals. I was still taking the medicine ('It was iodine of potassium,' said his wife), and was being rubbed with liniment and plaster put all over my body, but with no benefit.

"I sent to the Chas. H. Sagar Company, the popular Auburn druggists and chemists, at 109 and 111 Congress street, and got three boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and began taking them. In three weeks' time I was so improved that from being helpless, I was able to help myself and to get up and go to work, and to walk every day from No. 74 Walnut street, where I then lived, to Osborne's New Twine Factory, Seymour and Cottage streets—more than a mile—and was being rubbed with liniment and plaster put all over my body, but with no benefit.

"Then Dr. Patchen of Wisconsin, an uncle of my wife, who was here on a visit, began to pro-fool me for taking Pink Pills, and finally persuaded me to stop taking them and let him treat me. When he returned to the West he left a prescription with Dr. Hyatt of Auburn, who also treated me. But their treatment did me no good, and after a while the old trouble returned and I was getting bad again. Then I began to take Pink Pills; have taken them ever since; am taking them now; have taken in all the course of my illness an entire cost of less than $10 (my other treatment cost me a pile of money), and again I am well and able to work.

"If I was able, I would at my own expense establish the virtues of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to the whole world, and especially in New York city, where I am much better known than I am here.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People without doubt mark the beginning of a more healthful era. They were first compounded by an eminent practitioner and used as a prescription for many years in general practice with almost incredible success. They are now given to the public as an infallible blood builder and nerve restorer, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, and from the loss of almost every ill that flesh is heir to. These pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will cure every ailment arising from a permanent weakness in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. The pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post-paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE COMMERCIAL BANK.

After establishing that concern his meteoric course began through a number of Indiana towns, and he acquired possession or control of a veritable chain of banks throughout the State. Then he went to Chicago, where, with the aid of others, he opened the Columbia National Bank. Later he obtained a firm hold on other banks in Indiana, which led to the Chicago institution. Through the side issue concerns the rapidity with which Dwiggins had risen in the world was a source of endless talk, and every one marveled at his success. One and all gladly placed their hard earned savings in the side issue concerns of the new banking genius, thinking a man who could ascend to the heights of a presidency in Chicago banking circles must indeed be a financial wizard.

The blind faith of the Indiana people in Dwiggins' ability was shown when the state banking department claimed to have discovered flaws in his methods and warned the shareholders of his banks. But those most vitally interested seemed to have more confidence in Dwiggins than in the state department, whose officers could not reach the "Napoleon," as the state banking news was so narrow. Some of the stockholders who refused to take notice of official declarations against Dwiggins know more than they did then, since they have had to pay some liberal assessments on their shares.

When he organized his chain of Indiana banks, Dwiggins went to towns that offered favorable opportunities for opening banks and interested residents of influence, and they took part in the enterprise. It is said by state banking department officials that these banks were capitalized at from $25,000 to $50,000 each, but were operated on the money of depositors, that they were at first managed in the most prudent manner, but well established Dwiggins reorganized the banks, sold the stock and gave notes for the shares he retained for himself.

Another of Dwiggins' conceptions was the United States Loan and Trust company of Oxford, which was supposedly connected with his "system." It was capitalized at $1,000,000, but the state department called the "apparatus" of Dwiggins claimed the endorsement of Senator Sherman for his trust company and said that John D. Rockefeller had invested $1,000,000 of his bonds as an investment.

Zimri went up like a rocket and came down like a stick, he was ousted from his throne of fame and shoved through the slough of ignominy, all because one of Uncle Sam's bank examiners thought fit to inquire into his banking methods. Protests availed naught. There wasn't enough money to carry on business, and the Columbia National bank remained closed. The same pathetic side of the story. Hundreds of hardworking Indiana men had their last dollar in Dwiggins' country banks, and one by one these concerns went to the wall. In Chicago two or three small concerns went down with the Columbia.

"LONG LIVE THE COMMUNE!"

A Cry Which Startled and Enraged the French Chamber of Deputies.

The increase of anarchist outrages in Paris seems to threaten a reign of terror in the French capital, a condition which is likely to test the resources of the government and the courage of the bourgeoisie. Significant of the prevailing spirit of unrest was a recent scene in the chamber of deputies. During a debate on the arrests of anarch lets M. Thivrier, a Socialist-Labor deputy who always wears a blouse in token of his allegiance to the working classes, jumped up and shouted, "Long live the commune!"

A wild scene of disorder followed, and there were loud cries of "Expel him!" M. Thivrier refused to withdraw the words, and a motion for his expulsion was carried. As he refused to leave the chamber, the president suspended the sitting for half an hour and ordered the chamber to be cleared. Thivrier and his friends refusing to leave, the former was ejected by the military. After the adjournment the proceedings were of a most disorderly nature, cries of "Murderers!" "Communards!" being freely uttered.

M. Thivrier is a wealthy wine merchant, but he comes legitimately by his sympathy with the working people. It began when, at the age of 12, he went to work in the coal mines of Commeny. He labored 30 years in the mines and then turned his attention to vine-growing and winemaking, in which business he quickly amassed a fortune. He has been a deputy three or four years.

KATIE GOT STRUCK ON THE STAGE.

Arrah, Mrs. Ryan, no wonder O'm cryin': 'Tis trouble O'm havin' av late. How kin O' be aisy w'ith O'm almost d'ray crazy.

Along w' me big daughter Katie! Sure, the way she is actin' is fairly distractin'; she's caught the 'viral' rage.

As O'm a w'ider, there's no livin' wid her. Since Katie got struck on the stage.

She's at the 'taylor' till midnight or later; Comes home wid a tough lookin' bean; She says he's a "sage" in an opery troop—'That dat is O'm sure O' don't know.

He tells her that yet she will be a soubrette, though the colleen is not yet av age. She will be an actress, 'till she has the character. Since Katie got struck on the stage.

Och, nobody knows how she uses me clothes A-makin' thim into costlumes. From mornin' till night me poor house is a sight. Wid her scene settin' in all the rooms.

Her father's old bristles she cuts av a sight av stiches. To get her self up like a "page." Och, murther, thim pages! They dresses outrageous. But she says it's ahtyole on the stage.

She scares me to death wid the scenes from "Macbeth."

W'ith O'm aft'er a-goin' to sleep, For thim she comes walkin' and awfully talkin', Till she chills up me backside do creep. She has a such a power wid the "ghost of me father."

And tells me, "Avant, quit her sight!" Un'less she's ahtyole to be that nervous, O' can't ahtyole a wink all the night.

She says she will shine in the very front line And dance in the calcium's glare. While all the old beax in the baldheaded rows And all the young beax in the hairless rows. She says she will be "all the rage" av it. And that she will be "the queen" av it. Since Katie got struck on the stage.

She went ran away wid an opery bouffoy: Got straddled in Kalamazoo. It took ivry cent I had saved for the rint av a room, but she was no more av it. But still the poor child, she is perfectly w'ild; O' kin O' will buy me a cage.

And lock her up in it till that blisid minute. W'ile she acts sick av the stage.

A Night Fright.

With one fearful, terrifying wrench I awoke from sweet unconsciousness to a scene of painful alertness.

I listened, but could hear nothing. There was a heavy, sudden stillness in the air that pressed upon my brain like the fumes of a drug. It seemed as though the silence itself was deafening.

I half rose from my bed and listened again breathless. Still the same awful stillness, which consisted of the powder of the universe had ceased working. I looked slowly around the room in the faint sunlight. It was my room, but how changed!

I could not tell what the change was. I might know that some awful metamorphosis had given every object visible the appearance of death—absolute death!

Had the world come to an end? Or was it simply I who was dead? No, this was not death, not my death, for I could feel now the bursting throbs of my own heart.

The stillness of everything became more appalling, more terrible from the fact that I knew not what it was nor whence it came. I knew not what it was nor whence it came. I knew not what it was nor whence it came.

Not a sound would leave my lips!

Another moment and I should go mad, if—ah, what a thought!—if I were not mad already. It was, then, the meaning of it all. It was that!

With a sudden leap I sprang into the middle of the room and gazed about to meet what might in my madness come to me.

As I saw what caused the horrible hallucination. The solemn stillness, the strange quiet, the ghastly loneliness, were all explained. Three joyous, hasty steps, a few quick turns of the wrist, and all was righted. With light and merry, my brain free from the overwhelming strain, I went back to bed relieved and happy.

My clock had stopped!—New York World.

Aunt Fanny was reading to the children. The czar of Russia had been threatened with assassination. She explained the situation, telling them why it was that a great emperor must live in constant dread of such a fate, making a little patriotic sermon in favor of the man who was "first in the hearts of his countrymen" and ending with the quotation, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

"Oh, Aunt Fanny, do they sleep in 'em?" exclaimed several of the children at once.—Detroit Free Press.

Agony.

The music ceased, the curtain rose. I did not heed the play. But gazed upon her lovely face—She sat two seats away. Her cheeks like lilies, gleaming bloom. Her teeth like gleaming pearls. Her eyes as blue as summer skies. A mouth of golden curls.

And as I gazed upon her face There came a look of pain. Like cloudy shadow o'er the land. It passed, then came again. The rose that faded away. And that fair cheek grew deathly pale In speechless agony.

She turned and touched her escort's arm. I did not heed the play. My heart beat fast with sympathy. I gazed in great delight. He read the question I would ask. Flash from my eager eyes.

And as the music died away. He turned and took his seat. "Please, sit," said a little fellow gleefully. "The man that tells the weather on the top of Ben Nevis."—Tit-Bits.

A MOTHER'S OPINION.

Mrs. L. A. Lyford, proprietress of "The Hollywood," 116 Turk street, San Francisco, says: "I am absolutely amazed at the great good Calderwood's Rheumatism Cure did my daughter Fannie. She was afflicted in her feet and ankles with inflammatory rheumatism, and had to use crutches to get about. My family physician treated her for several weeks, but the girl grew worse, and so I sent $5 to the office of Calderwood's Rheumatism Cure, on the corner of Market and Fourth streets, and soon a messenger came back with three bottles of the remedy, which she began to use, and before the medicine was gone she had thrown away her crutches, and is now sound and well."

Pulverized Cork.

Considerable use is now being made of the newly introduced French article to which the name of ashirine has been given. The substance consists of pulverized cork of different degrees of fineness, known as impalpable, fine, medium and coarse, the pulverization being effected by very simple means, such as a horizontal grindstone. Among these the medium powders have for some time been employed in the French navy and by various navigation companies for painting the hulls of ships and the interiors of the insides of vessels. The effect of such coatings is said to be to considerably diminish the conductivity of the sheet iron and the vibrations so unpleasant which are produced as soon as the sea becomes a little rough. Another use for these cork powders is in the preparation of a substance called Heine, which consists of the powder mixed with fine plaster in the proportion of about 10 per cent. This Heine composition is turned out in all shapes and sizes and is stated to be especially useful as a protection alike from heat or cold, or for partitions, roofs, lofts, ceilings and coatings of all descriptions; also as packing for boilers, ice-houses, conservatories, coverings for wagons, steam pipes, and similar uses—in short, for the large number of cases where it is desirable to maintain an equal temperature.—New York Sun.

Flies So Thick They Put Out the Lights.

About 9 o'clock Tuesday night Battle Mountain was infested with a cloud of flies that drifted into the saloons on Front street in myriads, in many instances darkening the rooms and putting out the lights. When the pests had passed away it was found that the tops of the lamps were covered in inch and a half deep and the lamp chimneys choked. It would appear that these minute flies were attracted by the lights in the saloons, and in countless millions perished.—Central Nevada.

ATHLETES.

One and all bear witness to ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS as invaluable for their purposes.

James Robinson, the athletic trainer at Princeton College, Princeton, N. J., says: "I have found it imperative to have pure and simple remedies on hand in case of cuts, bruises, strains, sprains, colds, rheumatism, etc. Shortly after entering upon my profession I discovered such a remedy in ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. I tried other plasters, but found them too harsh and irritating. ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS give almost instantaneous relief, and their strengthening power is remarkable. In cases of weak back put two plasters on the small of the back and in a short time you will be capable of quite severe exercise. In 'sprain' and 'distention' races and jumping the muscles or tendons in the legs and feet sometimes weaken. This can invariably be relieved by cutting the plaster in narrow strips, so as to give free motion, and applying on muscles affected."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entered it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

It is an important point to have them small—provided they have equal strength and efficiency. You find what you want in these little liver pills of Dr. Pierce. They're put up in a better way, and they act in a better way, than the huge old-fashioned pills. What you want is what you get—"all out of sorts"—grumpy, thick-headed and take a gloomy view of life, is these Pellets to clear up your system and start your liver into beautiful action. Sick Headache, Bilious Attacks, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all ailments of the liver, stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved, and cured. Put up in sealed glass vials, and kept fresh and reliable.

WILLIAM W. CHASE, Esq., of Georgetown, N. Y., says: "My wife thinks your little 'Pellets' are the greatest pills out."

Small Gut Effective.

Was the little Monitor that met the Merrimack at Hampton Roads. So too are Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, effective in conquering the enemy—constipation.

Scrofula Cured—Blood Purified by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass."

"It is with pleasure that I send a testimonial concerning what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for my daughter. It is a wonderful medicine and I cannot recommend it too highly. Sarah, who is fourteen years old, has been afflicted with Scrofula ever since she was one year old. For five years she has had a running sore on one side of her face. We tried every remedy recommended, but nothing did her any good until we commenced using Hood's Sarsaparilla. My married daughter advised me to use Hood's Sarsaparilla because
