NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

E. H. WOODWARD, EDITOR & PUBLISHER.

FRIDAY, JUNE 29, 1894.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Newberg, Oregon.

THE date of the state fair has been fixed for September 17 to 22 inclusive.

THE Chicago courts are still hammering away at the Pendergast trial. Another strong incentive to mob law.

COUNTY treasurer Pennington announces that he is ready to pay all outstanding county warrants. This speaks well for Yamhill.

PROF. J. F. MORAN, a graduate of the Indiana State Normal School, at Terra Haute, has accepted the position of editor of the Oregon State School Journal, published at Drain.

AMERICANS might do well to go back to Egypt for a worthy example. Tobacco culture has been prohibited in that realm by a decree of the Khedive. Those found cultivating the weed are fined $1,000 per acre.

M. CARNOT president of France was assassinated at Lyons on last Sunday evening. The French courts will make short work of the assassin. It is unfortunate for him that he can't be tried by our courts.

FRANK DAVEY formerly superintendent of the Keely Institute of Forest Grove has moved his family to Salem. He is now on the reportorial and advertising staff of the Statesman.

We are told now that Chemawa's new Indian school superintendent is "the right man in the right place." We can only hope that our informant is not in error. Chemawa has in the past sometimes had the right man in the wrong place.—Statesman.

IT IS rather surprising to learn that a call has been made for a meeting at Pendleton to organize an anti-horsethief association. The opinion has prevailed down this way that horses were so cheap on the other side of the mountains that horse stealing was a back number in that part of the state.

CLEVELAND is getting even with Pennoyer. It will be remembered that B. F. Bonham of Salem said some very plain and cutting things about Pennoyer during the late campaign. This no doubt pleased the president as Bonham without asking for the place has been appointed postmaster at Salem.

THE report that Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris is engaged to Gen. M. K. Douglas is confirmed. Mrs. Sartoris will forfeit the estates bequeathed to her by her English father-in-law if she marries again, or takes up her permanent home in America. In case of her marriage the entire estate goes to her children.

GOVERNOR STONE of Mississippi appears to be making an effort to equal Pennoyer's record in the exercise of the pardoning power. He has just pardoned ex-treasurer Hemiway who was serving a five years sentence in the state prison, and who had two years yet to serve. The amount of his shortage was $315,000.

MOUNTAIN climbers of Portland have issued a very neat and beautifully illustrated souvenir folder, bearing the title, "The Cliff Climbers." They announce that on July 17th, they will ascend Mt. Hood and organize a club while on the snow capped peak which is to be called the "Mazamas," which being interpreted means mountain goats. All lovers of the mountains are invited to make the trip. Several ladies are intending to go.

LINN COUNTY papers are booming C. W. Watts of Albany, for state game warden. Considering that times are not very flush with the majority of people, couldn't Oregon get along for a couple of years without a paid game warden and not suffer any material loss. Protection to taxpayers is wanted just now more than anything else. Give us a rest from these salaried officers in cases where no special loss will be felt until we can have a short breathing spell.

TALLY one for Ohio. The state senate has enacted a law, placing the heavy penalty of $2,000 fine and five years imprisonment on the publication of obscene literature. Here is a pointer for the Oregon legislature which meets next January. There is nothing more demoralizing than the distribution of obscene literature among young people and any man so morally low in the scale of humanity that he can't find anything better to publish deserves to wear prison garb.

COUNTRY people in a city are usually considered rather verdant and city people in the country are just as much so. The Chicago Record gives the following which illustrates the former statement:

"What are you thinkin' of Joshua?" said his wife, as they stood on the street corner.

"I'm thinkin' what shif'less people these city folks are," said Joshua, looking at the street-sweeping cart, which was passing. "Just think of tryin' to harrow with such a thing like that!"

THE National Republican League of the United States is in session at Denver this week. The Republican clubs of Oregon of which there are 243 sent 18 delegates, as follows: Thos. H. Tongue of Hillsboro, M. C. George, B. B. Beekman, H. L. Wells, Rufus Mallory and C. A. Dolph of Portland, C. W. Fulton, Astoria, O. N. Denny, LaFayette, Z. F. Moody, The Dalles, J. C. Leasure, Pendleton. The alternates were, P. P. Gates, LaFayette, I. W. Vawter, Medford, T. J. Cleeton, Clatskanie, William Kapus, Portland, A. W. Patterson, Hepner, W. L. Tooze, Woodburn.

THE Capital Journal is responsible for the following: Monday when the news of Carnot's assassination reached the state house Governor Pennoyer was at his office. The fact that the president of the French republic was killed was mentioned to him and he blurted out:

"What a pity it wasn't Cleveland!" He did it in a jocular way, seemingly unconscious that he was trifling with a subject, utterances upon which in a similar vein when Abraham Lincoln was assassinated cost men their lives.

It was evidently the first thought in the governor's mind, and the first utterance on his lips, and he said it in the hearing of two gentlemen, and said it in a way that caused it to be common talk among the state house employes. So he evidently meant it. It was the direct outburst of his hatred of President Cleveland.

Commencement Day Notes.

Come, boys, and mount the burning deck—
Our orators speak rapidly;
We long once more to reach the shore
Of "Iser rolling rapidly!"

To half the campaign speeches
We do not much incline;
We want the fellow who was born
"At Elmgen, on the Rhine!"

The campaign music fills the air
And jars from left to right;
Once more, once more we yearn to hear
Old "Curlew" ring to-night!

The orators keep mouthing on,
And every one's a bore;
We want the burial of Sir John,
Whose other name was Moore!

So mount the burning deck and shout,
While fast the fires glow;
And lead that lamb of Mary's out,
Whose "fleece was white as snow!"

Crop-Weather Bulletin No. 13.

WESTERN OREGON.

Weather—The weather during the past week was cool, partly cloudy and a few showers occurred. The mean temperature ranged from 58 to 60 degress, which was from 1 to 4 degrees cooler than the week before. The rainfall amounted to less than .10 of an inch. There were no extremes of temperature and an absence sunshine.

Crops—The weather conditions are very favorable to the growing crops. Wheat, oats and barley have excellent growth; they are now approaching their ripening period and need more sunshine. Some fruit continues to fall from the trees yet the general yield will be generally an average one. Strawberries are ripening rapidly and are now at their full production. Cherries are somewhat backward, but are ripening and being shipped to market in large quantities. Haying is in general progress in the counties south of the Calapooia mountains and is being commenced in some of the coast and Willamette valley counties. The hay crop is very large and is yielding heavily to the acre, especially the clover hay.

The tent caterpillar is general over the counties of western Oregon and is doing damage. Within the past week they have attacked the hop fields, they have done damage in orchards and are now damaging the hops to what extent cannot now be determined. What are termed "the little green bugs" have appeared on the heads of wheat during the past ten days. They appear to have started in the southern counties. They almost cover the head of the wheat and as the bugs mature wings are developed which enable them to fly. These bugs are known as Aphis Avenæ or in plain words "Grain aphis." They have done considerable damage in past years in the east. There is a minute parasite which preys on the bugs or their ravages may be stopped by rain. Spraying the wheat with a weak kerosene emulsion will kill them, according to Prof. Washburn of the State Experiment Station of Corvallis.

The hops have a most prolific growth and are exceedingly promising. The weather conditions are very favorable to the growth of the hops. The hop louse is barely observable in some few yards. Continued cool weather will prevent the development of the hop louse. The hop louse best thrives during warm sultry weather.

EASTERN OREGON.

Weather—The weather continues cool, partly cloudy and a few light showers have occurred. The mean temperature ranged from 58 to 64 degrees, which is practically the same as last week. There has been an absence of warm afternoons and the nights continue to be quite cool.

Crops—The harvesting of rye is now in progress in the Columbia river valley, where also the barley will soon be ready to cut. Winter wheat is very promising; spring sown and volunteer crops will make a good yield. In Wasco, Gilliam and Morrow counties, the wheat prospects are usually the poorest this year, rival the prospects of Umatilla, Sherman and Union. The hay crop is heavy. Some hay ranches and orchards were ruined for this year's crop at least by the flood in the Columbia. The fruit prospects are generally very bright, though the late frosts did do considerable damage. "I have never seen better prospects for good crops" say several known correspondents. To the south of the Columbia river valley the late frosts, extending up to the middle of June, did considerable damage especially to vegetables. A Grant county correspondent reports "The fruit crop very short, almost a failure. The hay crop is pronounced short. A green fly is damaging fruit trees. Squirrels are doing damage." Generally through the interior the cattle are fat and the range feed is good. Snow fell two inches on the 10th and 11th at Klamath Falls. Sheep shearing is practically completed and the wool is unusually clean, heavy and of long staple.

Flood—The Columbia and tributary rivers continue to fall and are slowly receding to within their banks. The waters yet continue to be high, but they are below the destruction point. The rivers will continue to fall, though the decline will be slow, not much over a foot during the next seven days. B. S. PAGUE.

THE ANNUAL SESSION.

OREGON YEARLY MEETING OF FRIENDS CHURCH.

The Second Annual Gathering Now in Session—A Full Attendance—Much Good Work Being Done.

The second annual gathering of the Friends Church in the northwest met at the church in Newberg, Tuesday, June 26th, at 2 p. m. At these annual meetings reports are read from all the subordinate meetings and the various interests of the whole church considered.

At the first session the attendance was very good considering the busy time in the year and the financial stress that has made it impossible for many at a distance to attend. There were not as many from outside the limits of the Yearly Meeting in attendance as on last year, but such an attendance was not expected as that was the opening of the meeting on the northwest coast and other bodies of the church of a like character had delegates in attendance.

President Thomas Newlin, principal clerk, Mrs. Jane H. Blair reading clerk and Mrs. Laura E. Minthorn recording clerk during the session of last year were seated at the table.

President Newlin read the opening minute and in connection with it made some very appropriate remarks.

Rev. Elwood Scott read a portion of scripture after which short but pointed prayers were offered by Rev. James P. Price, Mrs. M. E. K. Edwards, Rev. Elwood Scott, Mrs. Jane B. Votaw, James Vestal and Rev. Janeway.

Rev. Scott read other portions of scripture after which he made a short address, welcoming those from a distance and urging unity of action during the various sessions. Let us pray God to give us pure hearts. May the Lord's spirit be upon us. Many interests will be considered in this meeting. Pacific College will claim our attention, this institution the interests of which lie so near our hearts. The evangelistic, church extension, pastoral and temperance work must be considered. Then there is the home and foreign missionary work. Every cent we send away for foreign mission work will be multiplied to us in our blessings at home. President Newlin followed with earnest prayer.

The names of delegates were called as follows:

NEWBERG.

E. H. Woodward,	R. S. Inglis,

ON RETURNING MINUTES.

Amanda M. Woodward,	Emma R. Johnson,
Matthew Terrell,	Jesse Nelson.

Minutes of visiting ministers were read as follows:

From Des Moines, Iowa, Miss Matilda Atkinson.

From Iowa Falls, Iowa, a member, Miss Georgia Griffith.

From Pleasant View, Kansas, Elisha Janeway.

Reports were read from the two Quarterly Meetings showing the condition of the church, which in the main, as expressed by a number who spoke on the subject, was satisfactory, showing a decided growth in numbers as well as interest in church work.

Newberg Quarterly reports a membership of 1,248, an increase of 208 during th year.

Salem reports a membership of 444, an increase of 148 during the year.

The evening session, which was for worship alone, was conducted by Miss Atkinson, who preached a very excellent sermon.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Devotional services conducted by Rev. F. M. George and Miss Atkinson.

10 a. m.—The delegates reported the following:

Principal Clerk—President Newlin.
Reading Clerk—Mrs. Jane H. Blair.
Recording Clerk—Mrs. Laura E. Minthorn.
Announcing Clerk—Jesse Edwards.

The report was accepted and the appointments made accordingly.

The committee appointed last year to prepare and submit to the meeting this year a church discipline made a report. This committee was made up of the following members, viz: Thomas Newlin, Jesse Edwards, W. S. Reece, J. J. Jessup, Elisha Smith, Mrs. Evangeline Martin, Mrs. Jane B. Votaw, Mrs. Mary E. K. Edwards, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Miles, Mrs. Cynthia Hatfield, R. S. Inglis, John Shires, Mrs. Esther P. Terrell, F. C. Varner, Mrs. Lizzie A. P. White, Dr. Aaron Mills, Jane P. Atkinson, Elias F. Thorn, Wm. P. Smith, B. S. Cook, J. H. Douglas, H. J. Minthorn, Mrs. Esther B. Miles, F. George, E. H. Woodward, Mrs. Ella Pickett, Mrs. Lizzie Hoskins and B. C. Miles.

This committee reported what they had prepared, advising that after the meeting had heard the reading of the report and considered it that it should be adopted for the coming year, and that a type written copy be furnished each Monthly Meeting. Further, that such discipline shall be in the hands of the committee during the year, and that members may make in the meantime such suggestions for changes to the committee as they may choose.

Then followed the reading of the discipline as prepared, section by section, until the noon hour. In the preparation of the discipline that of Iowa Yearly Meeting has been followed to a considerable extent, but much has been omitted in order to get a much smaller book. Very few changes were suggested by the congregation and the probabilities are that the report of the committee will be accepted and adopted very nearly as it came from the hands of the committee.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Letters were read for John Vestal and his daughter, Miss Ladie Vestal, members at Whittier, California.

A report of the superintendent of evangelistic and church extension work was read which showed much active work on the part of the committee during the year.

Rev. Jas. P. Price, superintendent of evangelestic work for Newberg, Quarterly meeting, and Rev. F. M. George of Salem made verbal reports of the work done in their respective fields that was full of interest to the church. Other remarks followed by Elwood Scott, Anson Cox, A. M. Bray, Jesse Edwards, Miss Atkinson, Mrs. Romic, Thomas Newlin, L. M. Haworth and W. J. Townsend who spoke on the various lines of pastoral and church extension work.

The nominating committee proposed for a committee to have in charge this line of work the coming year,

Thomas Newlin,	Martin Cook,
Chas. R. Scott,	F. M. George
Mrs. Melinda Craven,	Jas. P. Price,
Mrs. Lida Romick,	I. H. Douglas,
Anson Cox,	Ellie Macy,
Mrs. Jane B. Votaw,	Mrs. Esther Townsend
W. J. Townsend,	E. C. Armstrong.

NOT TO BE ALARMED.

The Green Bug on the Wheat Not So Dangerous as He Appears.

Little green bugs have appeared in myriad numbers in the wheat fields of the Willamette valley and are to be found thickly ensconsed in the open space between the layers of wheat berries along the heads. They have caused great alarm for the safety of the present crop and for the future of wheat growing in this region; but scientific investigation proves that the danger is not so alarming as might be supposed. It is true, this year's crop may be injured some by their depredations before they are destroyed by their inevitable accompaniment, the parasite, but the chances are happily against such a result. Some heads of wheat plucked from a field across the river in Polk county and also from one in the Waldo hills were shown to a Statesman representative last evening, and while the green aphis, for such it is, was very numerous, yet the berries seemed to be sound and healthy. But the reader will be more interested in something authoritative on this subject, so the Statesman is pleased to present from the Corvallis Times the following account of the little "varmint" and the manner of circumventing his nefarious schemes against the prosperity of Oregon, as given by Prof. F. L. Washburn, of the Oregon agricultural college.

"It is a small green insect that attacks the stalks and later the heads of wheat, rye and oats. It has a long beak with which it extracts the sap. It is not destructive to the berry except that its absorption of the sap robs it of nourishment and causes it to shrivel.

"As wheat ripens the aphis migrates to the more succulent oats and when these in turn ripen it goes to the various grasses. It spreads over a wide extent of territory quicker than any insect known. Although its existence was observed seventeen years before, the grain aphis first appeared in great numbers in 1861, spreading over New England, all of New York except the western portion, northeastern Pennsylvania and portions of Canada. Every grain field was invaded and many of them thronged. In many cases the wheat crop was reduced one-half, and the oat crop hardly paid for harvesting. The following year it spread over the remaining portion of Canada and into Michigan, and then disappeared. In 1833 it appeared in ten counties in California doing considerable damage to wheat, one man reporting that the yield of his spring wheat was diminished one-half by the ravages of the pest. It was prevented from multiplying by late rains to the extent that damage was scarcely perceptible in other counties. April 29th and 30th and May 2nd and 3rd large flights of the winged variety were noticed in Sacramento, but disappeared after the rains of May 4th. In nearly every instance where the pest has appeared it has been met by a host of parasites, flies and lady beetles, and if it has not been at once checked, have prevented its appearance the second year. In many cases these natural enemies have prevented it entirely from damaging grain.

"From specimens sent me I observe that pharasites are working on the aphis. If these parasites are numerous enough, no very serious damage may result. If not numerous enough, many wheat growers may lose a large portion of their crop. There is no practicable remedy that can be applied at present. The only thing that the farmer can do is to burn the stubble immediately after harvest, together with all straw, weeds, littel or waste of any kind on or about the field. This will destroy places favorable for the insects hibernation. The experience in the east has shown that this aphis may ruin a wheat crop one season, and not be seen again in that locality for many years. Whenever the aphis turns a dark color—either brown or black it means that it is doomed. This is caused by work of the parasite, which deposits the egg inside the aphis the egg hatches and the larvæ feed on the tissues of the body of the aphis producing the death of the latter. The parasite finally emerges as a wasp-like insect to repeat its good work."

The following from the Albany Democrat bears out the cheerful view taken in the beginning of this article:

"The wheat aphis that is causing considerable talk is not a new thing in Oregon; in fact it has been here for years. A man tells a Democrat man that he saw the aphis as early as 1878. It appears this year in larger numbers than usual, but it is probable will cause little damage to the wheat, particularly to the fall wheat."

Use of Sulphur in Throat Disease.

New York Ledger: There has been of late some discussion on the use of sulphur in throat troubles, especially those of a diphtheritic character. This is by no means a new remedy, having been used as a throat disease panacea in certain households for at least a quarter of a century. As soon as inflammatory symtoms made their appearance, the throat was thoroughly dusted with sulphur, this treatment being repeated every hour if the case was severe. As only good could come from swallowing the powder, it was used with the utmost freedom. Sometimes teaspoonful doses were taken with the most satisfactory results.

One of the very best preparations for throat affections is equal parts of sulphuric acid and glycerine. This may be diluted in the proportion of one teaspoonful of the mixture to half a glass of water. The throat may be brushed with it or used as a gargle. Freely applied, it will usually relieve all unpleasant symtoms at once, and persisted in it rarely fails to cure the most obstinate cases. The objection to it is that it is too simple for the medical profession to approve.

FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

Yamhill County Reporter.

J. W. Hobbs in his youth was a schoolmate with Owen, who is contesting Breckinridge for congress. Hobbs thinks he will get there.

An old half-breed at Hillsboro, after listening to Judge Galloway's speech at that place, went up to him, shook his hand and remarked: "Mika close tumtum, cultus wa-wa." This is probable one of the things that defeated the judge.

The new sheriff's deputy will be Roswell Conner, who has been Sheriff Warren's faithful assistant, and Mr. McKern has chosen C. H. McKinney as deputy clerk. Both are young men of good habits and well qualified for the positions.

Editor Barnhart of this paper left Wednesday morning for California. He goes on a diversity of missions, principal of which is to obtain a needed and earned rest and recuperation of health, which we sincerely hope he may experience. He will visit the fair and relatives during his absence.

County Treasurer Pennington advertises that he can meet all outstanding warrants. This is a satisfactory condition, especially for the outgoing officers. It is estimated that the county will have $500 above all debts July 1st. About $20,000 tax is yet uncollected, and probably $2,000 of that amount will yet come in before sale is advertised.

Parties in the vicinity of North Yamhill who consigned their hops to London, taking an advance of 12½ cents a pound, have just got returns, and they are said not to be entirely satisfactory. In some instances the sales were for less than the advance, whereas at time of shipment offers of 17 cents spot cash were refused. Prices this season are not up to last, but prospects are growing more encouraging. Miller Bros. of North Yamhill are offering to contract any amount at 11 cents, but there are no takers.

Dayton Herald.

A number of Dayton people attended the graduating exercises at Pacific college, Newberg this week, and were pleased with the exercises. There were eighteen graduates of the senior preparatory class, of which Ellis F. Hadley of Dayton, was a member, and who passed a very creditable examination. Ellis has attended the college three terms, and will probably continue to do so until he graduates in the higher branches.

Heppner Gazette.

A story goes the rounds thusly: A member of the —— party went into a restaurant in Portland, and saw on the printed list that there were on hand some frogs' legs. Now frogs' legs were new to him as an article of diet and so the member of the party called a waiter and ordered some. They were good. But when the bill came, he found that they were high—$1.50 per plate. Rage and indignation were stamped unmistakably on the countenance of the member of the aforesaid —— party. The proprietor reasoned with him that frogs' legs were scarce and therefore their legs came high, and the outcome was that a bargain was struck between the two for all the member of the —— party could bring the restaurant proprietor, at two bits per pair. The former went home and prepared to drain a pond near his house from which nightly came noises which seemed to indicate thousands of frogs. The big four-horse wagon was backed up to the pond, and the water was run off. The frogs did not count out according to expectation. In fact, only six frogs were found, and consequently only six pair of legs. "Gee whillikins," said the man. "I thought there were dead loads of frogs in that pond, from the noise they made." The story applies to the populists, and explains why Gov. Pennoyer thought his party had everything.

Mrs. Anna Rogers, wife of E. Rogers who died of consumption was buried here on last Sunday afternoon. The funeral services were held at the M. E. church. A large number of people were in attendance.

Died.

ROGERS:—Martha A. Thomas, wife of Edward Rogers, was born in Fairmount, Clark County, Missouri, September 20, 1873; died June 23, 1894, age 20 years 8 months and 23 days.

She came to Oregon with her parents while an infant babe. She was converted and joined the M. E. church at Newberg in 1892, and was a faithful member and a devoted Christian until death. She was married to Edward Rogers January 29, 1893. She leaves a husband, an infant babe, father, mother, one brother and one sister, with many relatives and friends to mourn her loss. The funeral was conducted by the writer and was attended by a large congregation, attesting the esteem in which she was held by the community. A. M. MCCART.

HANSON:—Sarah Hanson daughter of Hezekiah and Clara Hutchens was born in Wayne County, Indiana, 11th month 14th, 1821. Died at Silverton, Oregon, at the home of her eldest daughter, Ellen Robbins, June 24, 1894, aged 72 years 3 months 10 days.

She resided near the place of her birth until married to John Hanson December 19, 1838, to whom she has been a faithful wife for more than 55 years. From this union was born ten children, the eldest dying in infancy. Seven of the remaining nine, reside in Oregon, while one son lives in Minneapolis and a daughter in Omaha. With the exception of one brother she was the last of her father's family. She was a life-long member of the Friends church, and in all the joys and trials of her life her trust was anchored in Him, who hath said, "Come unto me."

For some months before her death the burden of her heart was that, all her children might become Christians before she passed over. But through grace, she was made willing to leave even this with Him "who doeth all things well." She left every evidence that her end was peace. "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord." ***

The secretary of the Elkhart Carriage and Harness Mfg. Co., of Elkhart, Ind., informs us that their prices will be lower for 1894 than ever. He wishes us to ask our readers not to purchase anything in the line of carriages, wagons, bicycles or harness until they have sent 4 cents in stamps to pay postage on their 112 page catalogue. We advise the readers of this paper to remember his suggestion.
