

NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

F. H. WOODWARD, EDITOR & PUBLISHER.

FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1896.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Newberg, Oregon.

Sixty-one double trucks, bearing 3,622 bicycles of one make were paraded in the streets of New York the other day.

Hon. Binger Hermann has made a good congressman in the main, but his ambition to reach the senate proved his downfall.

Judging by the number of calls being made for county conventions, it looks now like the fellow who thinks it his bounden duty to scratch his ticket, would have a lot of material to select from.

Hon. Thomas H. Tongue of Washington county, who was nominated for congress by the Albany convention, is an able man and will make an active worker in the halls of congress for his constituents.

The Union county populists in resolving that they were unalterably opposed to the use of liquor and tobacco by the candidates in the campaign for electing purposes, set a worthy example for other parties.

One of the members of the council, while looking over the marshal's bill at the council meeting Monday night, remarked, as he shrugged his shoulders and shook his head, "well, we had better put the marshal on a salary."

Hon. W. R. Ellis, of Heppner, a free silver advocate, was re-nominated for congress at Portland Wednesday, while the free silver candidates for delegates to the St. Louis convention were defeated and gold standard men elected.

Brother Marsh, of the Forest Grove Times, that apology of yours seems to come from a good and honest heart and although that was a very grave offense you committed, no challenge for a duel is intended from this end of the line. But don't do it again my boy!

Judging from the report given of the republican primary and county convention held in Portland last week, it appears that those who may be looking toward engaging in missionary work need not go to the expense of going very far from home to find a field white unto harvest.

Of the twenty-five candidates who successfully passed the medical examination at Portland last week, seven were women. This looks like the "new woman" in the northwest is to be a dispenser of powders and pills, paregoric and soothing syrup, as well as a blooming bicycle rider.

The "Union Bi-Metallic Party" is the name of the new party born at McMinnville last Wednesday. A call has been made for primaries to be held on Thursday of next week and the county nominating convention the following Saturday. J. C. McCrea and C. B. Frissell of Newberg were named as members of the county central committee.

The law carefully guards the secrecy of the relations between a physician and his patients. Not only is he protected in a refusal to disclose facts thus obtained, but when he tells them for any purpose he is liable to a severe penalty. In such a case just decided in England a complaining patient has been awarded $60,000 damages against a physician, and the Court ruled that it did not make any difference whether the story was true or false, so far as the question of the defendant's culpability was concerned.—Globe-Democrat.

Some of our good Yamhill county people who are worked up over the mining excitement are liable to have the same experience as the Klickitat, Washington, farmers. An exchange says a gentleman who was in from Goldendale said the mining excitement that was so high in Klickitat county a few weeks ago has subsided and those who left their farms expecting to make their fortunes in the mines have settled down to agricultural pursuits, satisfied with the slower but surer way of accumulating wealth by raising grain.

Some men say they do not understand the financial question, that that is a matter to be determined by bankers. If you do not understand it, investigate until you do. There is nothing more dangerous to your liberty than to cast your ballot on a matter you do not understand. Look up the matter or let others who vote on it that understand it.—Transcript.

The financial question is a pretty big thing to handle brother Snyder, and the fact is there are a lot of fellows who talk long and loud on the question and assume to be able to enlighten the world respecting it, who really don't know any more about it and are not able to vote on it any more intelligently than others who are frank to admit that they do not know all about it.

augmented by his workmanship on the little mallet which rapped the world's fair open, is now employed at the important task of making this Lincoln gavel. One end of it will be mounted with silver and engraved as follows: "Made by W. H. Bartels, Carthage, Ill., from a log of the cabin built by Abraham Lincoln, 1832, at New Salem, Ill." The inscription on the gold-mounted end of the mallet will read: "National republican convention held at St. Louis, June 16, 1896, nominating _____ for president." Senator O. F. Berry, of Carthage, will present the gavel to the convention.

THE COUNTRY EDITOR. The country editor is a combination of the entire staff of a city newspaper. His sphere of usefulness, although not so ubiquitous, is quite as important as that of the great contemporaries. His single weekly paper is in miniature the seven issues per week of the great dailies. His constituency is often the most moral and high-minded to be found in the domain of history. He reaches the homes of brain and brawn that send to the colleges and cities the great, well-balanced men of the age. He may not uproot scandal, expose corruption, tear down religious and political parties, create empires or crush dynasties, but he reaches and influences the majority of the army of boys who, in after years, fight the great battles of life in the pulpit, at the bar, in the hospital, and even become his most distinguished co-workers in journalism.

The country editor may take wood and potatoes for his subscription price, but he never lies about his circulation. He may mention in detail the process of construction of country barns and the intervisitation of unimportant bumpkins, but he makes no attempt to build his fortunes on scandals, broken homes, nasty tawdler, and undue prying into private life. He may write wretched English and deplorable grammar, but he never talks about "innocuous desuetude" and "masterful" efforts. He may publish three pages of patent medicines to one of original matter, but he never steals the news and brains of others because a geographical difference of time favors his location. He may set his own type and turn the crank of his own press, but he never scales down the wages of his employes, nor treats printers like cattle nor pays starvation wages to reporters. He may deplore certain local usages and want of appreciation of his columns by business men, but he never pursues people who have no means for reply with vindictive hate, with vile cartoons and outrageous persecution to the grave. He is not a life wrecker, nor a family wrecker, nor a scandal monger, nor a party political potroon, nor a bribe taker, nor a washer of dirty linen. Whatever his mistakes, troubles and ludicrous exhibitions at times, the country editor is an honest, painstaking citizen, one of the most potent factors in the higher civilization of the age.—New York Dispatch.

Thayer's Berry Bulletin for April, 1896. The berry plant is a delicate little machine for the manufacture of fruit. From the offal of the earth, it works out the most delicious products for man.

For best results only best mechanisms can be used and the operator should thoroughly understand their construction, care feeding and management.

The fine light colored fibrous roots, on every vigorous plant, are the feeding mouths, or suction pipes, that pump up food and moisture from below.

The breathing leaves and feeding roots drink in life, health, beauty from sun, earth, air and by the most secret processes in nature give us the most perfect combination of the useful and the beautiful.

Since a plant cannot move about in search of nourishment it follows that the best food and drink should be placed within its reach, ready at all times for its use.

A plant can take its nourishment only in solution, therefore, both fertilizer and surrounding soil should be at all times, fine, moist and mellow.

The loss from setting weak plants can never be overcome. The loss from careless setting, can never be made good. The loss from poorly prepared soil can never be recovered.

The first three commandments in successful fruit growing are: Thou shalt not use poor plants. Thou shalt not set plants carelessly. Thou shalt not use ground until well fertilized and thoroughly prepared.

When plants are received, keep them in a cool place until ready for setting. Remove all old leaves and cut back long roots and broken branches. Never expose the fine, fibrous roots, to sun, wind or heat. In setting, dip roots in water, spread as much as possible and set in the mellow ground, with earth pressed firm about the roots.

TONGUE IS NOMINATED.

Washington County's Statesman Named at Albany. ALBANY, April 7.—Thomas H. Tongue, of Washington county, was, at 11:45 to-night, on the 34th ballot, nominated for United States representative for the first congressional district, and the great fight against Binger Hermann was won. The struggle was long and a little tedious, but it was carried on without bitterness, and it was gallantly won. Hermann got his maximum strength on the first ballot and thereafter it gradually dwindled away, with many fluctuations, until it was in the neighborhood of 30 votes, and these stayed with him to the last. Tongue was second choice in the number of votes. As the fight proceeded, the sentiment for Tongue began to manifest itself, until it was so strong it could not longer be disregarded. The supporters of the weaker candidates finally yielded and went to Tongue, and that is the way he was nominated.

It was now midnight, but the convention nominated delegates to the national convention and named a congressional committee and thus finished its work and adjourned. It was unmistakably a sound money convention and voted for Judge Moore of Klamath, and J. F. Calbreath of Yamhill, as delegates on the clearly evident stipulation that they would stand for sound money. Wyatt, the free silver candidate, did not allow his name to be presented, his defeat being sure.

The characteristic ballots for representative were:

Table with columns: BALLOT, Tongue, Hermann, Rhodes, Miller, Taylor, and other candidates with their respective vote counts.

Thomas H. Tongue is a well known lawyer of Hillsboro, Washington county, where he has lived and practiced law for some years. He has held a number of offices of honor, having been prosecuting attorney for the third judicial district, and having served in the state legislature.

His legal practice has been extensive, both in civil and criminal procedure. Mr. Tongue, during the senatorial campaign two years ago, canvassed the state in the interest of his own candidacy, with such success that on the ballot taken by the republican caucus before the election he received 11 votes, to Senator Dolph's 49, and Mr. C. W. Fulton's 12. He thereupon withdrew manfully from the contest, saying: "I abide by the result cheerfully, and expect my friends to do the same. I should esteem it a personal injury if any of them were to do otherwise."

Mr. Tongue is a man in the prime of life, and has an interesting family at his Hillsboro home, which will add to the dignity of his career as representative at Washington.

Weather Report. WESTERN OREGON. Weather.—Temperatures of freezing and slightly below prevailed the night of March 30 and 31, and in Southern Oregon the night of April 1. Since then the temperature has been higher during the night. Freezing temperatures, at night, are not unusual during March, and they have occurred in April. The day temperature ranged during the week from 44 to 64°. Showers occurred on March 30, 31, April 5 and 6; on March 30 and 31 some sleet and snow fell, and in many sections snow on trees in full bloom was observed the morning of March 31, and air was very moist during the period of frost, and in many sections clouds or fog prevailed immediately after the frost formation. The precipitation for the week amounted to slightly over one-half inch. A slight earthquake was experienced the morning of April 1.

Crops.—The weather conditions were somewhat unfavorable to the fruit. The correspondents differ as to the damage done to the peach. Some are of the opinion that the peach and almond crops are ruined, others that damage has been done, though the crop is not ruined. It will most likely be found that in a few localities damage has been done to the peach and almond crops, but it is not thought that any general or extensive damage has been done to the peach and almond; in a few localities the correspondents are of the opinion that slight damage was done by the frost to the cherry and prune crops. While at the present time damage is thought by some to have been done by the frosts, it will most likely be found that considerable damage will have to be done to relieve the overburdened trees. Frost has never done great damage to fruit in Oregon. Cold rains have done damage, but there is no record of any general or material damage due from frost alone, except in localities not suited to the early varieties or the more tender fruit.

Plowing and seeding are being pushed with vigor. The soil is in good condition to be worked except on the low lands. Many hop yards are being plowed up and wheat sown. The grass has good growth and pasturage is good. Gardens are being made. In Lincoln county young potatoes are as large as walnuts. The weather has been quite favorable to the growth of all vegetation. Lambing is in progress and a large percentage is being saved. Shear-

FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

Yamhill County Reporter. C. W. Talmage has bought Dr. Goucher's interest in the Semmens lode, paying four bits therefor. The doctor may feel much chagrined for selling out so early. At least this opinion seems general.

The enthusiastic gold hunters of McMinnville should not allow their enthusiasm to weaken. While the party was out from here last week they saw four men down in the gulch digging away like old miners, but when they tried to reach them the men had suddenly disappeared. It now transpires that they were citizens of Newberg, who knew how to find gold, and the reason they had disappeared was they were in possession of a secret which they were unwilling to reveal.

The first good opportunity that offered for the party to slip undetected was Monday morning during the snow storm, when they drove back to Newberg, laid in a month's provisions and hastily returned to guard against encroachment upon their claim. Their fears were unfounded, however, as our party came home Saturday and Sunday. The Newberg men do not believe in finding gold by making a great noise and having the benefit of some former experience in the Cascade mountains back of Scotts Mills. They do believe, though, in keeping everlastingly at it, and are said to be having some very promising assays, which they endeavor to keep secret, but this much is known, that they are far superior to any yet published from the new discovery.

Valley Transcript. "Old Yamhill" has a new sensation, she is fairly giddy with excitement. It is none of your cheap John affairs that can't get up on its hind legs and walk across a ten-acre lot without limping, either; it is a full-fledged go-as-you-please and get-there-if-you-can gold boom. The fever is spreading all over the county, spreading worse than the whooping cough or measles, and the staid old Yankees are being wooed into the belief that the new Eldorado has been discovered in the foot hills west of McMinnville. The newly discovered mineral lode is a mammoth ledge of dark conglomerate rock which starts in on the east side of the coast range, runs clear through the mountains and drops off into the Pacific ocean. The rock from this wonderful lode weighs two thousand pounds and sixteen ounces to the ton, and it is this 16 ounces that is causing all the excitement. The best mining experts in McMinnville can't account for the phenomenon, but in their sage opinion it possibly means $16 or $18 ore. And if this guess should prove correct, just think of the unimaginable possibilities that await "glorious old Yamhill." It is this exhilarating 'trot that is turning the Yamhillites completely daff.

Telephone-Register. H. S. Maloney writes that he will arrive home between the 15th and 20th of April. He will spend a week or two in Ogden, Utah. A new postoffice is about to be established in Happy valley. It will be known as Chase, and will probably receive its mail from this city. P. L. Campbell, of Willamina, was indicted by the grand jury for selling liquor without a license. He was arrested Monday, but released on bail. The gross income of the McMinnville postoffice for the year ending March 31, 1896, is $68.15 larger than for the previous year. Considering the times this is a very good showing. Miss Ella Hendricks, of Amity, was in this city, Sunday. She went on to Portland for a two weeks' stay. Directly after her return she will prepare for a trip to Alaska in company with Miss Mann, of this place. They will be out on this trip, our popular recorder, will soon have published in the New York Sportman, his last literary venture, entitled "A Trip to Big Nootka." The article will have a two-fold interest here from the fact that Fred G. Cooper, aged 12 years, will illustrate the article.

FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

W. P. HEACOCK, DEPOT LUMBER YARD, NEWBERG, OREGON. It not only is so, it must be so. One Minute Cough Cure acts quickly, and that's what makes it go. A. T. Hill. Lady Mary Hamilton Douglas is only eleven years old, but she is one of the greatest heiresses in the world. She is the daughter of the late Duke of Hamilton, and received from him her large fortune, affording her an income of about $900,000 a year.

A high liver with a torpid liver will not be a long liver. Correct the liver with Dewitt's Little Early Risers, little pills that cure dyspepsia and constipation. A. T. Hill. All the founders of McClure's Magazine are graduates of Knox college, Galesburg, Ill., and the editor, Mr. McClure, is a trustee of this college. They have undertaken to assist the college in establishing "The Abraham Lincoln School of Science and Practical Arts," as a worthy memorial to Abraham Lincoln.

One Minute Cough Cure touches the right spot. It also touches it at the right time if you take it when you have a cough or cold. See the point? Then don't cough. A. T. Hill. A woman at a Methodist revival in Portland was telling her experience and stated that she had left all of her jewelry at home on her dresser, as she considered it ungodly to wear it. A notorious thief, who was present, immediately left the church and took possession of the jewelry, leaving a note stating that he was glad to remove temptation from a good woman.

"Give me a liver regulator and I can regulate the world," said a genius. The druggist handed him a bottle of Dewitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. A. T. Hill. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat estimates that the expenses of two political conventions, for each of the political parties, to be held in Missouri this year will cost $5,000,000, or $2,500,000 each, and that the expenses of the campaign in the state will be another $5,000,000, making the election expenses for the year $10,000,000. This it thinks is not extravagant, nor is it money wasted. But it is more than eight dollars apiece for every inhabitant of the state, or about $40 for each legal voter.

Soothing, healing, cleansing, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the enemy to sores, wounds and piles, which it never fails to cure. Stops itching and burning. Cures chapped lips and cold-sores in two or three hours. A. T. Hill. A movement is afoot among the Portland wheelmen to secure one of 500 naphtha bicycles made in Munich. These are similar to the ordinary wheel except that they are much heavier, weighing 180 pounds in all, without including the rider. The engine is placed at the lowest point of the curve of the framework, the tank of naphtha being in the same position as a mud guard for the front wheel. The engines are similar to a common gas motor, 10 inches in length. The device is capable of making a speed of forty miles an hour, and climbs hills without difficulty. The innovation of one of them in Portland will be a great event among cyclists.

During the winter of 1893, F. M. Martin, of Long Beach, West Va., contracted a severe cold which left him with a cough. In speaking of how he cured it he says: "I used several kinds of cough syrup but found no relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved me almost instantly, and in a short time brought about a complete cure." When troubled with a cough or cold use this remedy and you will not find it necessary to try several kinds before you get relief. It has been in the market for over twenty years and constantly grown in favor and popularity. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by A. T. Hill.

The Newberg hotel opened with a big new register this week and the first page is ornamented with the following names: H. M. Westerville, Portland, C. F. Sheel, Nebraska, Pleas Helton, Dundee, W. H. Bentley, Newberg, Rob Bailey, Corvallis, M. E. Cooney, Stockton, Cal., John O'Connor, Portland, Jas R Wade, Woodford, Cal., A. Bannaman, Portland. Avoid Consumption. By stopping that cough.
