

NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

E. H. WOODWARD, EDITOR & PUBLISHER.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1896.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Newberg, Oregon.

What is the matter with Hanna?

What is the matter with Yamhill?

What is the matter with Oregon?

Yes, feeling pretty well, thank you.

The congregation will please arise and sing.

Full election returns will be given next week.

What is the matter with McKinley and Hobart?

Yamhill county gives a majority of 50 for McKinley.

What is the matter with North and South Newberg precincts?

Newberg, Yamhill county, the state of Oregon and the United States for McKinley.

The "enemies country" on Nov. 3, spread out into a broad expanse and included old Yamhill.

What is the matter with the result of the campaign for sound money, protection and good government?

Even that published letter from Frank Hastings of Kansas and the wearing of a high hat on election day, failed to save Bryan from defeat.

The vote in South Newberg precinct stood as follows: McKinley 121, Bryan 74, Levering 18. North Newberg, McKinley 134, Bryan 91, Levering 32.

Chairman Jones, of the democratic national committee, issued a bulletin at a late hour on Thursday evening, giving up the fight and admitting McKinley's election.

The result of Tuesday's election must have effected a cure of the "post office itch," which seems to have been effecting the fellow, who, on rare occasions wears a high hat.

It is not a question just now so much as to who "struck down silver in '73," but where is the fellow who struck Willie Bryan in '96? He will be found in the "enemies country."

The great national campaign of 1896 is now past and Wm. McKinley is elected president of the United States. It appears that McKinley will have 264 votes in the electoral college and he may have more than this. It is a great victory for sound money and good government.

The Oregon Poultry Journal says of Homer Davenport, the cartoonist:

Homer Davenport, whose pleasant sketches have appeared from time to time in the O. P. J., had his manhood tested quite recently by an offer from Mr. Pulitzer of the New York World of a salary of $250 per week to leave the Morning Journal and go to work on his paper. This was $100 more than Homer was receiving on the Journal but he declined the offer, thereby keeping his faith with his trusted employer. Mr. Hurst soon heard of the incident and immediately raised him to $250 per week and drew him a check for $3000 besides. This makes Mr. Davenport a salary of $12,000, $2,000 more than the salary of our United States senators. Money can't buy Homer Davenport's manhood. He is not built that way. His father, Mr. T. W. Davenport, informs us he will visit his old home this winter and thinks we shall see him about January.

The editor of the Tillamook Headlight, is a new man in the country who recently came up from California and he has evidently been imposed upon as the following will show: Through the perversity and cussedness of dame rumor and the mistakes of correspondents, the Headlight was led last week into charging several couples with having committed matrimony whom we are now assured were entirely innocent of the deed charged. We are profoundly sorry for having charged any innocent person of so grave an offense, and promise never to do it again. Hereafter before the Headlight publishes a marriage notice, it will, if in doubt, require of the alleged benedict and his blushing bride a solemn statement on oath that they did, without malice aforethought, enter into the sacred state, and will require of the minister an oath a rod long that he gave them his blessing.

However, if we were sure the marriages published would really come true, we would be willing to let them run top of column and next to pure reading matter for two bits and a bucket of clams extra.

After the Battle. The issue of the Youth's Companion just prior to the election contained the following very sensible editorial:

When this issue of the Companion reaches its readers the result of the presidential canvass, which, at the time we write, is in its last stage, will be known. A long and exceptionally excitng contest will have been fought to a finish, and a great public question will have been settled. Such, at least, is the universal hope. Few citizens on either side will be found to desire such an outcome of the balloting as will leave the issue still open.

The canvass has been of an importance unusual, even among presidential contests. It has been frequently compared to the canvass of 1860, to which it bears a particular resemblance in the wide breaking of party lines. A still more striking point of similarity is found in the clearness of the issue. Now, as then, the two leading parties have adopted platforms whose meaning is unmistakable, and are advocating policies wholly irreconcilable.

Of all this we are thoroughly mindful. The issue is great; the effects of the people's decision will be felt for years to come. Nevertheless, whatever may be the result, those who shall find themselves defeated at the polls must not despair of the republic.

To many sincere advocates of the free coinage of silver it has seemed that the permanent adoption of the gold standard would be an evil of the greatest magnitude. In like fashion the opponents of free coinage predict calamity to business and dishonor to the republic as the inevitable consequence of that policy. Both cannot be right, and we are not going to suggest that both are absolutely wrong; but it is surely not necessary to concede that even this remarkable election is going to destroy the business of the country.

Here are some seventy millions of people, ranking high among the peoples of the world in virtue and intelligence, and inhabiting a land whose resources are still but imperfectly developed. All these people must be fed and clothed, and no one questions that there is plenty for them all if they apply wisely to nature for her blessings. True, the industrial methods of modern civilization are complicated, and the character of the medium of exchange is of great importance in the accumulation and distribution of wealth. But can one imagine a great and energetic people giving up the production and exchange of commodities because of a failure to agree upon a satisfactory sort of money?

Moreover, we all know that Americans are, as a rule, quick to regain their feet after a tumble. To sit down and grope over spilled milk is not a national characteristic. To no people is the future of such overwhelming importance as compared with the past. Our youthful republic, like a young man, does indeed live largely in the future. We have made mistakes and recovered from them. If perchance we should make others, are we not still of an age to outgrow them?

The very earnestness of the appeal which each side is making is in itself an encouraging sign to the thoughtful observer, who has in mind more than the immediate subject of debate. For is not this earnestness at the bottom an evidence of a deep and general concern for the welfare of the country? In indifference to politics, rather than in anxiety and fears, lies danger. Whenever in our history the people have been thoroughly aroused on any question, they have sooner or later found the right answer. To entertain gloomy forebodings as to the outcome because it is much debated is hardly in accordance with the spirit of our institutions.

The intensity of the feeling manifested, the ardor of the discussion, the general interest—these are all hopeful indications that we are nearing a decision which shall be final. Let us all make the best of it. We cannot all have our way, but the unsuccessful should not be likened to a vanquished army. When the verdict has been given and one policy is approved, nothing should be said of those who opposed it more bitter than this: that they sought the welfare of their country unwisely.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease—hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by A. T. Hill, druggist.

The Teachers Meet. The Yamhill Co. Teacher's association met at Sheridan on Saturday Oct. 31st. The meeting was called to order by C. C. Linden at 10:20 a. m.

After singing and prayer, Supt. Prentiss made a few very pointed remarks regarding the work of the institute.

The subject of language in the primary grades was presented by Miss Eva Atkin, of Sheridan. She said that "Teach me my faults and I will try to correct them" is an excellent motto for young students. She spoke of the results of using exercises in reproducing stories which tend to teach the child to tell what he knows. The subject was then discussed by the institute.

Owing to the absence of some of the teachers on program, Supt. Prentiss opened the discussion of Grammar, in all of the grades. Mr. Reynolds of McMinnville, spoke of the need of a better understanding of the English language among the common people. General discussion followed.

B. O. Snuffer of Amity, introduced the subject of grammar in the Eighth grade. Mr. Snuffer's idea of teaching grammar is to merely superintend, and let the students do the work, applying as they go, the principles learned. Discussion followed.

At noon the visiting teachers were entertained at the homes of citizens of Sheridan.

At 1:30 p. m., the meeting was called to order by Supt. Prentiss. Some time was spent in singing. The subject of Pedagogy was then taken up.

Mr. Reynolds gave a fine address upon the moral power of the teacher. The report of the constitution committee was presented, and, on motion, was laid on the table for one month. The question box was interesting. On motion, thanks was tendered to the good people of Sheridan and the meeting adjourned.

There is a man in Memphis with enough charges against him to put him in jail for 1,425 years. He is evidently one of those individuals with a mania for selling every one he meets why the country is going to the dogs if it doesn't fall in line with his view.

The famous stallion, for which Gen. Coxe paid $16,000 a short time before he organized the Commonwealth Army, was traded the other day in Columbus, Ohio for an old "plug" and $8 "to boot." No wonder the general advocates better roads.

The women's foreign missionary society of Friends church will meet at the church on Saturday at 3 o'clock. Superintendents and chairmen of committees will please be prepared with quarterly reports. The executive board meets at half past two o'clock.

Oil of Gladness. Is a pleasant, palatable preparation, entirely free from all oily taste, and may be administered internally or applied externally. It will remove all pain that "human flesh is heir to," if properly applied, and might be rightly termed "a panacea for all ills." Price 50 cents. For sale by all Druggists.

There is a terrific scandal in New York at present over the manner in which certain hospitals are run. It is openly claimed that certain well-known hospitals frequently refuse to receive badly injured patients—that is such whose cases appear desperate—because they wish to keep their death-rate as low as possible. An investigation will probably take place, and it is believed that serious mismanagement, if not worse, will be developed.

Blood Will Tell. The many different skin diseases such as ring worm, tetter, salt rheum, erysipelas, eczema, itching or an eruption of pimples, pustules, blotches, chaps or cracking open of the skin, scrofula, are directly the cause of impure blood. Wilbur's Blood Purifier is acknowledged to be the best medicine known for any of these unsightly complaints. Price $1.00 per bottle. For sale by all Druggists.

When Gen. Scott was asked his authority for spelling wagon with two g's, he said that the spelling was on the authority of Winfield Scott, commander of the armies of the United States of America. When the officials of the bureau of engraving and printing are criticised for spelling tranquility with one l, on the face of the recently issued one-dollar silver certificates, they reply that in quoting from the constitution they followed the spelling of the original document; and in view of this authority it is not worth while to hoard for future premiums one dollar silver certificates of the issue of 1866.

A Lie Nailed. Consumption and bronchitis are not by any means the same, although it is hard to distinguish one from the other. Bronchitis is an inflammation of the lining of the wind tubes or air vessels of the lungs, causing soreness of the same, cough, sore throat, hoarseness, difficulty of breathing, spitting of matter and sometimes blood. Thousands die annually with this dread disease. Wilbur's Cough Cure will cure. Price 50 cents. For sale by all Druggists.

Work is going forward on the brick foundation for the new Cumberland Presbyterian church. With a reasonable amount of fair weather the Presbyterian people should be able to dedicate their new building by the first of the year.

Cures Croup. "My three children are all subject to croup; I telegraphed to San Francisco, got a half dozen bottles of S. B. Cough Cure. It is a perfect remedy. God bless you for it. Yours, etc., J. H. Crozier, Grants Pass, Or. 50 cents per bottle. For sale by all druggists.

The advance in wheat found our friend M. B. Hendrick long on the cereal, most of it bought when prices ruled much lower. He was lucky enough to unload on the top market of 72 cents, and it is current that he cleaned up several thousand dollars on the season's business.

For the Kidneys. "I am 65 years old; have had kidney disease and constipation for 25 years. Am now well—used your S. B. Headache and Liver Cure one year. Used 6 bottles at 50 cents each. J. H. Knight, Rutledge, Or." For sale by all druggists.

G. L. Rowland raised this year on his farm near North Yamhill two mammoth pumpkins, which he has christened McKinley and Hobart. One weighs 128 pounds, the other 123. He says he will show them against the bi-metallic or any other party, and if any one can beat 'em 'trot 'em out.

Good advice: Never leave home on a journey without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by A. T. Hill Druggist.
