Gravel.

Gravel, gravel, gravel.

Yes, gravel the roads and the people will never regret it.

We hope to see Yamhill county first in the line of graveling her roads.

All up-to-date citizens will tell you that gravelled roads is a good thing.

It cost the state $23,153.53 for conveying the insane to the asylum and $8,813.09 for conveying convicts to the penitentiary, during 1895-'96.

Senator Mitchell's term expires March 31. Should the legislature adjourn before organizing, Oregon would have but one U. S. senator.

The census of the state of Oregon for 1895, gives 110,862 legal voters; total population 322,573 of which number 12,950 reside in Multnomah county.

Bourne, Simon, and Mitchell, three names of average length but of mighty force. Bourne must be speaker, Simon boss, and Mitchell senator, and the state suffer the effect from the disgraceful proceeding in the legislature hold-up.

The Graphic is in receipt of a Biennial Report of the secretary of state, Hon. Harrison R. Kincaid, for the years 1895 and 1896. It is a well bound volume of 429 pages, nicely arranging a complete report of the business transacted in the State Secretary's office.

During the last fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, there were 31,270 persons examined under the civil service commission, of whom 29,479 passed. The whole number of appointments was 5,984 about one fourth of the eligibles securing appointments.

Accepting the present anarchist hold-up as a precedent it will hereafter require two-thirds of the senate and house to be of one political faith in Oregon, or there will be no session of the legislature. In other words eleven senators have it in their power to defeat all legislation. This they can do under the Simon-Bourne plan by simply refusing to take the oath of office.—Oregon Statesman.

If the private postal bill goes through the senate, every person will have a right to manufacture his own postal cards within certain restrictions. They must be of the same weight as the government's and of as good a quality, but the design is optional. To each, however, a one cent stamp must be attached. The popularity of the postal card in Europe has led to its demand in this country, where it is at present unlawful to send private postal cards. It will be remunerative to the government as saving the cost of a postal, the sale of a one cent stamp. What a grand opportunity the advertisers will have in inventing starting postals.

Prince Bismark, in a recent opinion upon international arbitration, touches its fatal weakness with a point. "In private life," he says "the value of any agreement between different persons, however precise the wording, depends on the character of the contracting parties, and still there are the law courts to appeal to whenever differences arise." And he adds: "Where is the law court—and a law court, in fact—which could eventually enforce its sentence in the case of two great nations entering into a treaty of arbitration? No statesman in the world is so powerful as to be able to command the voices of the people in certain emergencies. No arbitration treaties will ever succeed in abolishing war as the sole means of settlement of a dispute when the whole future of a nation is believed by its people to depend on the way the issue is settled." An arbitration agreement has no binding force because there is no authority behind it. It would not prevent war where there was motive strong enough to cause war without it.

The present struggle which the Cubans are making for liberty reminds the student of history of the struggles which our ancestors made to free themselves from the oppression of England. Over a century ago did the colonies free themselves from England. Great advances have been made in all channels of life, not the manner in which Spain is conducting her war with the Cubans is heart-rending and will go down in history as the most heinous warfare ever conducted by a civilized nation. The Cubans are fighting for their independence, nor will they accept any terms short of that, for Spain has before deceived them. The Cubans everywhere have espoused the cause of independence. There are about 7,000 persons mostly Cubans working in the cigar factories at Tampa Fla. Every Saturday evening without a murmur they deposit with the collector one days wages to be applied on the revolutionary fund. When there is an urgent demand for money the factories are run on Sunday and each man woman and child, give their earnings for the day. Such patriotism has won the sympathy and will continue to win it from the civilized world.

SUGAR BEETS in California.

In the last issue of the Pacific Rural Press, a leading journal of the coast, we find a comprehensive article on the sugar beet question. It was prepared by Albert Gerberding, president of the S. F. Produce exchange, and the Press pronounces it one of the most complete and exhaustive discussions of the question yet made in that state. We take this extract from the article to show how one valley in Ventura county became interested in this industry.

In Ventura county there is a beautiful valley, extending from the sea to the mountains, populated by thirty farmers, whose present comfort has come from the soil, which grows everything from tumble weeds to Oranges. These farmers found in their local paper of February 8th last year, the following notice.

We are glad to announce that we will supply sugar beet seed to any of our farmers who will make a fair test according to directions. There ought to be no holding back in view of the immense good which will result to our section if we can successfully raise sugar beets, and we feel sure there are enough public-spirited citizens in our valley who will undertake the task of making a test of sugar beets. Seed and directions may be had by applying at the Herald office.

INSTRUCTIONS.

Plant a space 65 feet square—one tenth of an acre.

Keep all stock off the land after the rains begin.

Plow deep, break thoroughly, pulverize the soil before planting.

Sow when the soil is warm after the rains, say in April or May.

One pound of seed will sow one-tenth of an acre.

Sow in rows 18 to 20 inches apart.

Sow in a drill, forced 4; sow shallow, just deep enough to be covered.

Seed should come up in seven to twenty days.

Thin the beets as soon as they develop four leaves.

Thin out from 6 to 10 inches, according to richness of soil.

Leave only one beet in a place, and that the most vigorous one.

Keep weeds out entirely.

Do not allow a crust to form on top of land after seeding, or while beets are growing.

Continue to keep the soil loose by drawing a cultivator between the rows until the tops cover the ground.

Beets should ripen in from 120 to 160 days from time of seeding.

When the outer leaves turn yellow and lie down, it is an indication that the beets are ripening or ripe.

In September of the same year, just eight months after the notice in the local paper, tests were made by experts sent from China factory under an arrangement by which the China factory bought the product at a price based upon saccharine purity percentage. All the beets that were sent ripe ran over 15 per cent, only three leading by a fraction below that per cent. The highest average was 23.05 per cent saccharine matter and the highest purity was 88.02 per cent. The average per cent of saccharine matter was 18.21 and the average purity 83.68 per cent while the average weight of the beets was 14 pounds. None of the beets that were shipped ran below the per cent required.

The farmers were permitted to bring their own samples and in many cases the largest beets with the whitest skin were selected, and this is the very best that is the greenest and has the least saccharine matter; consequently it is fair to state that the beets ran a fraction higher than the tests show. The average price for the entire shipment was $4.75 per ton.

The average tonnage per acre was not ascertained, but a close estimate is made that it will run over 17 tons. In some cases over 22, while in some cases about 12 tons were raised. All were surprised to learn that such rich beets were raised with so little care and attention. Per cent of saccharine matter averaged 3 per cent higher and 8 per cent higher in purity and over 3 tons more per acre than in China. This tells the story of best culture in California.

Thirty farmers experimented in different parts of the valley upon 180 acres in all. The result of this small endeavor is that 1200 acres are now under contract with the China factory to be planted this season, and farmers have also signed for 8,700 acres, agreeing to plant for five years. The contract which is $3.75 per ton for beets containing not less than 12 per cent sugar an additional 25 cents per ton for every per cent of sugar in excess of 12 per cent. As the product will probably average 15 per cent, the price will be $4.00 per ton.

The Train Waited.

"When a woman will, she will," says a railway engineer, whose breezy talk is reported by the Chicago Times Herald. He was employed upon a Southern road, where he had many odd experiences. One day at a junction, a woman approached the engine and ask him to hold the train for five minutes or so, till her daughter should arrive. He assured her that he could not do it; but the event proved that he was mistaken. As the old saying is, "What has to be done can be done."

"I don't see why," she expostulated. "I think you might do a little thing like that."

I tried to explain to her that trains run on schedule time, and like time and tide, wait for no man, or woman, either, for that matter. But she wouldn't have it, and finally, just as we were about to start, she shouted indignantly. "Well I'll just see about that!"

I laughed, but soon I ceased to laugh.

For what did the old woman do but get right on the track about three feet in front of the engine. She set herself there, firmly grasping the rails with both hands.

The conductor signalled for me to go ahead, as our stop was over. But I couldn't do it as long as she was on the track, for I should kill her certainly. I called to the conductor, and he, impatient at the delay came up. I explained the situation to him. He was as mad as I was, and going up to the woman, told her to get off the track.

"I just won't," she replied, until my daughter gets on board your train!"

He plashed with her, and finally declared that he should be compelled to use force.

"Just you dare!" she cried. I'll sue you for damages if you do!

This opened a new complication, and we reasoned with ourselves whether we had better remove her by force. Just as we had determined upon a course of procedure her daughter came up, and seeing the old woman on the track, kissed her good-by and got on the train, while her mother called to her:

"Go ahead, Mary Ann! You have plenty of time though, for I will sit on the track until you get on board."

And then, when Mary Ann was safely on board and we were about ready to run over the old woman if necessary, she calmly and slowly got up and waved me a good-by, calling as we pulled out of the station:

"I hope I've taught you fellows a grain of peherness!"

The Delineator.

The March number of the Delineator is called the early spring number. Its forecast of spring and summer fashions is made graphic by numerous colored plates illustrating the incoming dress modes colors and fabrics. Its literary menu includes a charming novelette of New York art life by Ellen Overy Kirk called "The story of a picture." In her second paper on social life in the American tropics, Mary Cadwalder Jones is naturally at her best. No. 3 of Dr. Grace Peckham-Murray's "Talk on health and beauty" treats of the care of the hair, and is up to the high standard of solid worth set by its predecessors. A girls wedding and home coming are discussed wisely and tenderly by Maude C. Murray Miller. In "An oyster chat" a number of the unusual dishes to be made from this delicious bivalve are explained. E. C. Vick offers timely suggestions to those preparing to plant kitchen gardens and lay out flower beds. J. Harry Adams illustrates the artistic medicine chest and describes its construction. People interested in palmistry will find something about it in Mrs. Whitherspoon's tea table chat. The young folks will enjoy a bicycle entertainment, as a storiette called ice cream made in a minute. There are the usual notes on new books, reasonable cookery and domestic science. Emma Haywood describes some crocheting, etc., as always valuable to needle women.

A Model Christian.

I was in a great machine shop some years ago with a party of friends. The superintendent said:

"Come here, I want to show you something."

On a little track about ten inches wide stood a locomotive about two feet long and one foot high.

"Isn't that a beauty?" we all exclaimed.

But after we had looked and admired I ventured to ask: "What does this splendid piece of machinery do?"

"Oh nothing of course," was the reply. "It is the model. It just stays here to be looked at and copied. Sometimes we get up steam in its boiler and send it spurring to and fro on the track just to show our workmen how their engines ought to work."

I thought of that model the other day when I was listening to an eloquent speech in a Christian convention. Some one near me said, when the speaker sat down: "Wasn't that splendid?"

A Lie Told.

Consumption and bronchitis are not by any means the same, although it is hard to distinguish one from the other. Thousands die annually with this dread disease. Wiber's Cough Cure will cure. Price 50 cents. For sale by all Druggists.

Pearl shells need to grow three or four years, but as the possible pearl does not depend on the age or size of the shell the small ones are as ruthlessly opened as the large ones on the subject existed. Pearl fishers are out for money and have no sentiment.

Scaly eruptions on the head, chapped hands and lips, cuts, bruises, scalds, burns are quickly cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is at present the article most used for pills, and it always cures them. A. T. HILL.

The allowance of lawyers to this country is rather more liberal than the allowance of preachers. There are 89,442 men and 238 women engaged in practicing law and suppose each to have an average of ten suits on hand the litigation going on at one time in the United States courts would foot up 198,300 cases.

Soothing, and not irritating, strengthening, and not weakening, small but effective—such are the qualities of DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. A. T. HILL.

"Have you boarded long at this house?" Inquired the new boarder of the sour, dejected man sitting next to him. "About ten years." "I don't see how you can stand it. Why haven't you left long ago?" "No other place to go," said the other dismally; "the landlady's my wife."

Many political speakers, clergymen, singers and others who use the voice excessively, rely upon One Minute Cough Cure to prevent huskiness and laryngitis. Its value as a preventive is only equalled by its power to afford instantaneous relief. A. T. HILL.
