A note from F. T. Keys says farmers are getting well along with their seeding on the Red Hills. Fall grain looks the best it has for years. Prospects good for plenty of fruit. As the orchards are getting too dry to plow the orchardists are using the disk harrow. The orchards belonging to Zack Davis and Nicholas Hanson will compare with the best.

The college students took a half holiday on last Friday and engaged in athletic sports. A large crowd was present to witness the exercises and throw up their hats. The seniors and sophomores joined forces against the juniors and freshman to see who could score the highest number of points. The latter were victorious. The day was lovely and all seemed to enjoy the sports. The regular field day exercises will be held later.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same to hundreds of communities. Where ever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by A. T. Hill, druggist.

The young men whom we mentioned last week as raising havoc in the western part of town, were brought before Justice McPhillips. There were three of them; but we will refrain from mentioning their names, hoping this may prove a lesson to them and that in the future they will not be caught in such disgraceful conduct. It was deputy prosecuting attorney Talmage's first case; and feeling sorry for the boys he brought them one charge when he could have entered three. Upon the case brought, one of the trio was fined $15 and costs and the others were severely reprimanded.—Transcript.

Mrs. A. Inveen, residing at 729 Henry St., Alton Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for eight months. She doctor for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by various physicians, but received no relief. Another Portland Accident.
 Another electric car accident occurred in Portland on last Tuesday morning at eight o'clock, in which three lives were lost, while a number of other passengers were more or less injured. The accident occurred on the Mount Tabor line on East Morrison street. While the car was running at a good speed and loaded with about thirty passengers the hind axle broke, and as this made it impossible to work the brakes the car could not be stopped. It went bumping along the track until a trestle was reached, when the car bounded from the track onto a walk over a twenty foot gulch, where it went crashing through into ten feet of water at the bottom. The motorman and conductor, both of whom were men of experience, did all they could to save the car from the wreck but without avail. Some of the passengers on the platform jumped and saved themselves while others went down with the car. All possible assistance was given the unfortunate victims of the accident, with results as noted above. Miss Baillie, one of the number drowned, formerly lived at Sherwood.

Portland seems to have been very unfortunate in the matter of electric car accidents in the past few years.

Deaths.
 Mrs. C. S. Fling, who had been taking treatment at a Portland hospital for some time, died at that institution on Thursday of last week and was buried here on Saturday.

Mrs. Grames, wife of Ed. Grames, died at their home three miles north of Newberg on Saturday, April 17, and was buried on Monday following. The deceased leaves four small children.

Walter Metcalf, the nineteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Metcalf, died of diphtheria at the home of his parents in Newberg on Tuesday evening, April 27. The interment took place at midnight on account of the contagious disease of which he died. The deceased had been attending the Portland Business College and came home sick two weeks ago. The disease was soon after pronounced diphtheria and everything possible was done for the unfortunate young man but without avail. One of the little girls in the family has the disease but the physicians hope to effect a cure. A close quarantine is maintained with a view of preventing the spread of the disease.

A few evenings ago when Miss Grace Nason was returning from her school out east of town her wheel was badly demolished in a mixup with a farmer's wagon.

Our neighbors over at LaFayette were the victims of another destructive fire on Wednesday night. At 11:30 in the night fire broke out in a candy store near the post office and everything between the old brick corner, which is occupied by J. L. Vickery, and Dr. Watts' residence was swept away. Four buildings in all, including the post office, went up in flames. Most of the mail matter and the post office supplies were saved although stamps to the amount of $150 were destroyed. The origin of the fire is only guessed at. Mr. Vickery's friends in Newberg are glad to know that his stock escaped this time.

F. J. Martin, secretary of the Oregon Fire Relief Association, has associated himself with F. S. Harding for the publication of the "Pacific Progress" an eight-page, three-column monthly paper, soon to be issued from this city. Mr. Martin says it will be mainly in the interest of the association he represents, the balance to be given to various enterprises. The subscription price will be 25 cents per year.—Transcript.

A little brown colored bird, about the size of the Oregon snow bird, is creating havoc among the cherry blossoms. The bird evidently plucks the blossoms for the juice of the flower, and one bird can destroy hundreds of blossoms in a day. In the past few days the cherry trees in this city have been denuded of one-fifth of their bloom by this voracious little pest.—Independence West Side.

Samples of the kaolin found on the W. G. Palmer place nine miles west of McMinnville, are on exhibition at the Reporter office. The conviction is growing that there is value in this clay bank, which is practically inexhaustible, and it is believed that it is only a question of time when capital will be found to take hold of it and develop it into a paying industry. Some time ago Mr. Palmer sold a carload of the kaolin to Portland parties, receiving his pay when the material was loaded, and he has never heard what success was had with it. Other parties, as far east as Ohio, who work with similar material there, have had samples of the clay, and pronounce it just the thing for porcelain and pottery making.—Reporter.
