The disease was raging on the isthmus, but when the passengers went on board the City of Para they were told by the officers that they need have no fear. There was no effort at fumigation, and when Mrs. Captain Mitchell, wife of an Englishman commanding one of the vessels of the Chilean line, appeared on the City of Para, heavily veiled, there was no uneasiness. Three days out she died from the so-called ing a crusade for the abolishment of the tropical dysentery. She was buried at sea, and the next to be taken down was Captain Martersen. Affairs of the Internal Revenue Collector Worse Than First Supposed.

San Francisco, July 6 .- Investigation into the affairs of the office of the collector of internal revenue for this district reveals a much worse condition of things than was at first supposed. E. C. Atkins, the "dummy" deputy, has admitted under oath that he accepted an appointment from O. M. Welburn, under promise to give the ex-collector the full salary attached to the office, which is $1,000 per annum. Besides drawing checks for expenses for larger amounts than required. Welburn is accused of having absolved favorite liquor-dealers from payment of their federal licenses, and being guilty of various other irregularities. In order to get at the facts, the books and accounts of every attached office are being examined, and it is apparent that the office was conducted in a shockingly loose manner. Two dismissals, Chief Deputy Loupe and Bookkeeper Chinn, are confidently expected as the result of the investigation, though neither is suspected of dishonesty.

ATONED FOR HIS CRIME.

L. W. Melson, the Murderer, Executed at Grants Pass.

Grant's Pass, July 5.-Lemuel W Melson was executed here today. He abandoned all hope yesterday, and was taken into the Episcopal church and baptized by Rev. Isaac Dawson. He spent the day in reading and in writing letters, and was more calm than any one else about the jail. He slept well last night and ate a hearty breakfast this morning. He refused to discuss the crime or his position, saying only when asked that he was innocent. He was very much affected by the church ceremonies and the singing, and wept quietly. There was a great many people in town to witness the hanging. Sheriff Hiatt issued 100 invitations, and besides those in the enclosed space the court-house yard is well filled. Rev. Dawson went into the jail at 8:45 this morning. Melson made a full confession of [the crime. Sheriff Hiatt had the death warrant at 9:40, and at 10:03 Rev. Dawson prayed his last At 10:01 Sheriff Hiatt and his deputies, with Melson, ascended the scaf-fold. When asked if he had anything to say, Melson said: "I am guilty of killing Perry, and am sorry for it. May God have mercy on my guilty soul."

Melson was perfectly composed and calm. He bid the sheriff good-bye, and at 10:13 the drop was sprung. Melson's neck was broken and death was instantaneous. At 10:22 he was pronounced dead by the physicians and cut down. He will be buried in the pauper graveyard at the expense of the county. He wrote a long letter to his wife yesterday.

He re-turned next day and went to Crescent of limitations. City Cal., saying that Perry had gone to Waldo. Melson began spending money freely, though previous to that time he was known to have been possessed of very limited means. It was also learned that Melson had sold a revolver which proved to be the one from which the bullet found in Perry's body had been fired. In his possession was also found a watch which proved to be Perry's.

Melson was placed under arrest at Crescent City, but it was ascertained that the murder was committed in Oregon, and the prisoner was brought to Grant's Pass, Or., for trial. He was convicted and sentenced to death May 14, 1897. The evidence throughout the trial was conclusive of Melson's Melson was about 42 years old, and came to the Pacific coast from Kentucky 12 years ago, locating in Clatsop county, Or. He went to Del Norte county, Cal., about four years ago, where he was married, and where he leaves a wife and two children.

Melson's wife did not visit him during his incarceration, and expressed no desire to see him, but wrote to him frequently, saying that she was not surprised at the verdict of the jury. She expressed very little sympathy for him, but requested him, if guilty, to never confess his crime on account of the children.

Charles Perry, the victim, was 50 years of age, and came to the Pacific coast two years ago from Connecticut, where his wife and seven children now reside. He was considered a sober and industrious man.

Brainerd, Minn., July 5 .- Five Indians, including Chief Wee Sug, are dead at Malone's Point, on Mille Lacs lake, and several others are expected to die, as the result of drinking painkiller, hair oil and other preparations containing alcohol. Indian payment has been going on there, and the redskins gorged themselves with this stuff, which was bought from Malone's trading post. The Indian riders are scouring every part of the reservation to bring the band together, and serious trouble may result, as the redskins think Malone is to blame for the deaths.

CLOSE CALL FOR JACK TARS.

Thirty Men Scalded on Board of the Monitor Puritan.

New York, July 5. - Thirty men narrowly escaped death in the boiler-room of the monitor Puritan. That they were not scalded to death is due to the presence of mind of one of the crew. The Puritan is moored at the foot of the main street of the Brooklyn navy-yard, and has been undegoing repairs to her boilers. The repairs had been completed and the men were only putting on the finishing touches at the time of the explosion. Orders had been given to start the fire under the boilers, and get up steam, so that both engines and boilers could be given a thorough test, as the vessel had been ordered to sea for target practice.

Engineers were in the engine-room, giving instructions to firemen. There was suddenly a slight hissing sound of escaping steam in the room, but the men continued to work. Then a sharp report and a flood of hot water and steam from one of the boilers started them to their feet. In an instant the room was filled with steam that was so dense the men could hardly see. When the burst of steam came from the boiler August Wilson, the boilermaker, in charge, ordered the men to get out of the room. Wilson was the last to get out, and while he was trying to find the entrance to the enginerooms Chief Engineer Cowie, of the Puirtan, who heard the report of the explosion, rushed into the room. Cowie made several attempts to get to the valves, but was held back by Wilson. When the steam was nearly exhausted the valves were closed, but not until Cowie had been burned about the head and neck. The injured were attended by the ship's surgeon. The cause of the accident was the opening of school a week on that acblowing out of the crown sheet in one of the boilers. It was a miracle, the officers say, that none of the men were killed or greater damage done to the vessel. As it is; the monitor will have to remain at the yard for some time, so the boilers can be put in trim.

Could Not Live Apart. Guaymas, Sonora, July 5 .- A sensational double suicide has ocurred here. Senor Clodomiro Maytorena, a widely known and popular young man, had been engaged for some time to Senorita Ampora Ynigo, the daughter of an equally aristocratic family. Another suitor found more favor in the eyes of her stepmother than did young Maytorena, and the latter was notified to cease paying his visits. This led to clandestine meetings, and when a mutual friend attempted to interfere, a personal encounter resulted. For this the young man was about to be arrested when he took two pistols, one in each hand, pressed each to his temples and fired two balls, both entering the brain.
