

NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

E. H. WOODWARD, EDITOR & PUBLISHER.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 6, 1897.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Newberg, Oregon.

What are you going to do to help the Newberg fair along this fall? Think it over and make up your mind to lend a helping hand.

It seems unfortunate that nothing is being done toward getting any gravel on the roads in this community this season. We can't afford to take any backward steps in the matter of good roads.

Wheat is now selling at seventy cents in Newberg on a rising market and wool at fourteen cents. Here is evidence of returning prosperity that even a calamity howler ought to be able to see.

Farmers are beginning to walk with a quicker step. The hum of the thrasher as it rolls out seventy cent wheat at the rate of twenty to forty bushels to the acre is the music they are keeping step to in Oregon these days.

If travelers could face a friendly guide board at every cross road it would save asking many questions and vexatious delays. Yamhill county is very slack in this matter and without any reasonable excuse.

With the new hose cart which arrived in town on Wednesday the six hundred feet of hose can now be handled in case of fire. With a well organized hose company Newberg will be well fixed to cope with any blaze that may spring up in reach of a hydrant.

The price of wheat is bobbing up while the price of silver goes down with a dull thud. This is one of the questions Hon. William Jennings Bryan did not tackle on his latest trip to Oregon, although on a former trip he asserted over and over again that the price of silver always kept pace with the price of wheat.

The untimely ending of the useful life of Prof. McClure, of Eugene, who fell over a precipice on the side of Mount Ranier one day last week, is only another evidence of the fact that our mountain climbers are getting too careless, since it has become a common thing for people to climb these snow capped peaks.

Since the barb wire fence is being utilized for telephone work it ought to command more respect than it has in the past. The Heppner telephone company has a barb wire service into Lexington and Iona, a distance of twenty miles, and it is said to be giving excellent satisfaction. In barb wire districts talking ought to be cheap between the farmers of a neighborhood. The world is moving.

The latest political mention is that D. P. Thompson is spoken of as candidate for governor on a free silver ticket with H. R. Kincaid for secretary of state on the same ticket as a running mate. Only a few short years ago D. P. Thompson when running on the republican ticket for governor was hawking down as a "plutocrat" and a blood sucking "monopolist." It will make an interesting picture to see these same fellows during the next campaign, as they fall on D. P.'s neck and weep.

A banker sauntering home for his dinner saw a $10 bill lying on the curbstone. Of course he picked it up and took the numbers in order to find the owner. While at home, his wife remarked that the butcher had sent in a bill for meat amounting to $10. The only money he had with him was the bill he had found, which he gave to her and she paid the butcher. The butcher paid it to a farmer for a calf and the farmer paid it to the merchant who in turn paid it to the washerwoman; and she, owing the banker a note of $10, went to the banker and paid her note. The banker recognized the bill as the one he had found, and which up to that time had settled $50 of debt. On a more careful examination he found the bill was counterfeit. Now will some of our financial friends tell us what had been lost in this transaction and by whom, if anything?—Brighton (Iowa) Enterprise.

Wheat threshing is now in full blast and all reports are that the quality of the grain is the very best and the yield is good. The estimate for the total yield of the state is 18,000,000 bushels. Of this amount 11,500,000 bushels is credited to Eastern Oregon and 65,000,000 bushels to Western Oregon. Following is the estimate by counties:

Counties	Bushels
Umatilla	4,500,000
Union	1,500,000
Baker	300,000
Morrow	300,000
Wasco	2,000,000
Sherman	3,000,000
Gilliam	1,000,000
Lane	1,000,000
Benton	600,000
Yamhill	900,000
Clackamas	100,000
Marion	500,000
Polk	1,900,000
Linn	1,300,000
Washington	700,000

The Dingley Tariff Act. The Dingley tariff has become law. After an existence of two years and seven months the Wilson-Gorman act, the tariff for deficits, the "perfidy and dishonor" tariff which President Cleveland denounced and refused to sign, and which became a law by the expiration of the ten days limit, has been removed from the statute book. Its career was shorter than that of any great tariff act ever passed since the act of 1832, which was displaced by the compromise tariff in the following year, and that career was as inglorious as it was short. The Democratic House of representatives and President disowned it and the Democratic Senate could never be induced to acknowledge its paternity. Moreover, an important part of it, the income tax provision, was nullified by the Supreme Court.

Under particularly happy auspices the Dingley act goes into operation. The country, Democrats as well as Republicans, had been awaiting its enactment with eager interest, for though many Democrats were opposed to it, all of them felt that its passage, through the rest from all tariff agitation for several years which it would cause, would bring an immediate and wide spread revival in trade. The Republicans welcomed it because they were convinced that it would abolish treasury deficits, furnish adequate protection to all industries needing it, and start every idle mill wheel in motion. There are general rejoicings over this enactment throughout the country. Most persons believe it will bring as beneficial consequences as those which followed the operation of the resumption law of 1875.

Seldom does fortune furnish so many favors to any country in a single season as it brings to the United States at the present time. A shortage in the wheat crop of the rest of the world is accompanied by a large increase in the yield of this country, and a consequent expansion of exportation, which is already beginning to test the facilities of the steamship companies. Not only has the American farmer more wheat to sell than he had last year, but a market for it is provided for him at fair prices. The gold holdings of the treasury and the banks are increasing, the silver folly is discredited, and now comes the enactment of the new tariff to remove the last vestige of financial uncertainty, and usher in an era of business activity which will rival the happiest period of the past year. Once more the Republican party has proven itself the greatest political organization in constructive ability which the nation has known. Another Republican promise has been grandly performed, and the prosperity which has been absent for many years will soon be restored to the country.—Globe Democrat.

An Ideal Newspaper. You hear of the "Ideal Newspaper." It is like the flower that never withers, the bird that never alights, the land where the sunlight never fades, it exists only in the sunder whom we are told the elements consume. Writing from the standpoint of a country editor, if you have ever been in his shoes, you know that he is a repository of the secrets of the community, none of which he must ever divulge. He must publish a paper chock full of local news, whether anything happened or not. His judicial mind must be far superior to the district judge, and give him pointers on instructing a jury. He must discourse with equal fluency upon the silver question and farmer Jones' Jersey calf, China painting and Poland-China pigs, preserved peaches and the perseverance of the saint, foreign wars and local strikes, justification by faith and the justification of type, the doctrine of election and the election returns, the doings of the last synod and the details of all prize fights. Weyler's latest butchery the receipts of the church social and the squabbles in the town council, must be equally familiar to his versatile mind.

With all this, he must wait on the delinquent subscriber, discount the bill of patent medicine fakes, stand off his wash bill, always go well dressed, pay the printer on Saturday night, whether a cent has come in or not; write free puffs, one-hundred lines to every one he gets pay for, boom the local statesman who owes him three years subscription—in short to be all things to all men, make no enemies, never have a name misspelled nor a mistake in dates, take the gustings of the community and never cuss back. This is the ideal country editor, and his paper is a daisy. We never saw one.—Alvin (Texas) Sun.

Looking Backward. At the special session of the legislature in Oregon held in December, 1895, when the anti-slavery amendment to the United States constitution which provides that "neither slavery nor involuntary servitude shall exist within the United States," came before the Oregon senate for ratification there were sixteen senators present and three of those voted against its ratification. These three were senators C. M. Caldwell, of Josephine county, C. E. Chrisman, of Lane county, and Bartlett Carl, of Linn county. James M. Pyle, senator from Baker county, had the honor of introducing the resolution asking for the ratification of the constitutional amendment. Those voting aye were senators James M. Pyle, A. G. Hovey, G. S. Hinsdale, James Watson, Jacob Wagner, S. B. Cranston, J. W. Grim, William Greenwood, John H. Mitchell, John A. Frazer, L. Donnell, T. R. Cornelius, Joel Palmer. In the house of representatives Hon. J. B. Underwood, of Lane county, championed the anti-slavery resolution which seems to have met with bitter opposition by a few members. The resolution which was first passed by the senate was called up by Hon. J. B. Underwood on the third day of the session when a lengthy protest was filed and ordered spread upon the house journal, the signers to the protest being Thomas F. Beall, LaFayette Lane, Isaac Cox and James D. Fay. The resolution was made a special order for the evening session which convened at 7 o'clock and after debating the question six hours and twenty minutes, at 1:20 a. m. next morning the house adopted the resolution by a vote of 59 to 4, the four being those who had signed the protest. Thus in the two houses the amendment was ratified by a combined vote of 43 to 7 a result no doubt gratifying to such earnest freeman men as J. B. Underwood—Carey Martin in Eugene Journal.

It heals everything except a broken heart, may be said of De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Piles and rectal diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, tetter, eczema and all skin troubles may be cured by it quickly and permanently. A. T. Hill.

Man's Best Friend. First and foremost woman is man's best friend: Because she is his mother. Second, because she is his wife. Because without her he would be rude, rough and ungodly. Because she can with him endure pain quietly and meet joy gladly. Because she is patient with him in illness, endures his fretfulness and "mothers" him. Because she teaches him the value of gentle words, of kindly thought and of consideration.

Because on her breast he can shed tears of repentance, and he is never reminded of them afterward. Because she will stick to a man through good and evil report, and all ways believe in him, if she loves him. Because, when he is behaving like a fretful boy—and they all do, you know, at all times—with no reason in the world for it, woman's soft word, touch or glance, will make him ashamed of himself, as he ought to be.

Because without her as an incentive he would grow lazy; there would be no good work done, there would be no noble books written, there would be no beautiful pictures painted, there would be no divine strains of melody. Because—and this is the best reason of all—when the world had reached an unenviable state of wickedness the blessed task of bringing it a Savior for all mankind was given to a woman, which was God's way of setting His seal of approval on her who is mother, wife, daughter and sweetheart, and, therefore, man's best friend.—Ex.

Our Smaller Colleges. "There are a few striking facts about the small American college," writes Edward W. Bok in the August Ladies' Home Journal. "One striking fact is that sixty per cent of the brainiest Americans who have risen to prominence and success are graduates of colleges whose names are scarcely known outside their own states. It is a fact, also, that during the past ten years the majority of the new and best methods of learning have emanated from the smaller colleges, and have been adopted later by the larger ones. Because a college happens to be unknown two hundred miles from the place of its location does not always mean that the college is not worthy of wider repute. The fact cannot be disputed that the most direct teaching, and necessarily the teaching most productive of good results, is being done in the smaller American colleges. The names of these colleges may not be familiar to the majority of people, but that makes them none the less worthy places of learning. The larger colleges are unquestionably good. But there are smaller colleges just as good, in some respects, better. Some of the finest educators we have are attached to the facilities of the smaller institutions of learning. Young girls and young men who are being educated at one of the smaller colleges need never feel that the fact of the college being a small one places them at a disadvantage in comparison with the friend or companion who has been sent to a larger and better known college. It is not the college, it is the student.

Consumption and bronchitis are not by any means the same, although it is hard to distinguish one from the other. Bronchitis is an inflammation of the lining of the wind tubes or air vessels of the lungs, causing soreness of the same, cough, sore throat, hoarseness, difficulty of breathing, spitting of matter and sometimes blood. Thousands die annually with this dread disease. Wilbur's Cough Cure will cure. Price 50 cents. For sale by all Druggists.

"We have had a dispute," said the boarding house proprietor, as Strapley took his seat at the breakfast table. "Indeed," said Strapley, corralling the latter. A gentleman out toward Amity tells a reporter that he has a strange freak of nature on his place in the shape of an old turkey gobbler that is raising a brood of 11 young turks, while the mother turkey has laid another setting of eggs and is again setting. The old gobbler is very proud of the young ones in his charge; looks after them attentively, besides seeing that five turkey hens that are setting are not molested. The probabilities are that this old gobbler has concluded that he does not propose to be outdone by any blaméd Mongolian rooster.—Transcript.
