

NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

F. H. WOODWARD, EDITOR & PUBLISHER.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1907.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Newberg, Oregon.

The Graphic plant was moved out of the old quarters on last Monday, and it is now located in its own home in the new post office building...

Hepper is to have a new paper.

Paul Dana has succeeded his father as editor of the New York Sun. He is said to be well qualified for the position.

Tammany carried the election in Greater New York, as might have been expected. The republicans made a mistake when they refused to nominate Low.

Frank P. Baum is now sub-editor of The Regular, the official organ of God's Regular Army, published in Portland. Frank used to be rather quiet but a local in the Regular reads: "Capt. Baum is beginning to holler in spite of the devil."

M. M. Bannister, the father of the Dayton Herald, who owned an interest in the Centralia News after leaving Dayton, but who has been in California for the past two or three years, is back at Centralia again and has bought out the News.

FIRST WOMEN TO CROSS THE CONTINENT.

The Brides of Two Missionaries Made The Trip Six Years Before Fremont.

In the November Ladies' Home Journal George Ludington Weed writes of "When Dr. Whitman Added Three Stars to Our Flag" and shows conclusively that a party of five people, including two women, crossed the Rocky Mountains at South Pass in 1826, six years prior to Fremont's crossing...

A Business Parable.

Once a farmer had one thousand eight hundred bushels of wheat, which he sold, not to a single grain merchant but to one thousand eight hundred different dealers, a bushel each. A few of them paid him in cash, but for the greater number said it was not convenient then, but would pay later. A few months passed and the man's bank account ran low. "How is this?" he said. "My one thousand eight hundred bushels of grain should have kept me in affluence until another crop is raised, but I have parted with the grain and have instead only a vast number of accounts, so small and scattered that I cannot get around to collect it fast enough to pay expenses." So he posted up a notice and asked all those who owed him to pay quickly. But few came. The rest said, "mine is only a small matter, and I will go and pay, one of these days," forgetting that though each account was very small, when all were put together they meant a large sum to the man. Things went on thus; the man got to feeling so badly that he fell out of bed and awoke, and rousing to his granary found his one thousand eight hundred bushels of wheat still safe there. He had only been dreaming, and hadn't sold his wheat at all.

This is Terrible.

American steel rails are being sold in Japan at $20 a ton while American railroads are required to pay as high as $27.50 a ton for them. Why? Because the tariff enables the steel rail makers to crush American railroads to this extent—Pendleton East Oregonian.

What it Has Done.

The printing press has made presidents, killed poets, furnished bustles for beauties, and polished genia with criticism, says the Shoshone Journal. It has made words get up at rail cars every morning, given the pulpit lungs of iron and voice of steam. It has set the price on a bushel of wheat and made the country pay off the glimmering goal of the restless scribbler. It has curtailed the power of kings and graecid pantry shelves. It has converted bankers into paupers and made lawyers of college presidents. It has educated the homeless, and robbed the philosopher of his words. It will supply the wide world's markets, at prices as high as they can get or as low as they have to make them, in order to keep the laborers of this country busy.—Statesman.

Industrial Education in the Public Schools.

There is a widespread complaint, and in the main a just one, that the ideals in our public school system are almost wholly literary, and only the very slightest extent industrial in their tendencies. In spite of the fact that fully nine tenths of the children in the public schools are destined to be laborers with their hands, the public school course provides but little if any manual training, and lays but little stress upon the dignity and importance of manual labor. If a boy begins work with the spade or saw after having completed the public school course, there is a feeling of disappointment on the part of his friends, who seem to think that his education was designed wholly to fit him for other callings in life. It is expected that he shall be a doctor or lawyer, a store keeper or civil engineer, or, at the very least, a clerk in a store. If the course in the public school frankly recognized the fact that the great majority of the children will be obliged to labor in some way with their hands, and if the effort were made to develop in them a love of labor and respect for it in every honest form, public education would more nearly meet the actual requirements of our people and build a sure foundation for national prosperity.

J. J. Henderson says that he never saw fall sown grain come up nicer and make finer growth than it has this season, and it has been his observation that wheat that grew strong and vigorous in the fall was the wheat that made strong yields at harvest time. There ought to be something in that.

School Superintendent Reynolds is turning over in his mind a plan for a crusade in behalf of better spelling.

He thinks not enough attention is paid to oral spelling, and his plan contemplates the selection of a list of say 2000 words on which all the schools in the county are to drill, and then at a stated time each school to send its champion speller to a grand spelling match to be held at the county seat. Gold and silver medals would be given to the winners. This strikes us as a good method of awakening interest in spelling. There is need of improvement.

A Lie Nailed.

Talk about your boys of 70! Joseph Hoberg was on top of the Jacobson block all of the stormy afternoon of last Saturday putting in the skylight and spreading about 75 pounds of putty, till his hands were so cold he could hardly lift them. It was a big job and had to be done to protect the building.

Dayton Herald.

We are informed that M. M. Bannister, the founder of the Dayton Herald, is again in the printing and publishing business at Centralia, Wash., he having again traded for the News office. Bruce, little son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Maey, while at play Thursday of last week, fell off a lounge and broke his arm. Dr. Courtney reduced the fracture. Bruce appears to be unfortunate, as about six months ago he fell and broke the same (left) arm. He now has the whooping cough and a broken arm.

Joe Dowd, the Indian arrested for the killing of Jim young after a drunken brawl on the Grand Ronde reservation some weeks ago, was arraigned before County Judge Magers Thursday last and acquitted. The expense of feeding the prisoner until next March was doubtless telling argument to the court.

Mrs. Starr Southmayd, of Sheridan, attempted suicide last Thursday by taking several tablets of corrosive sublimate. Prompt medical aid saved her life. Sickness and domestic troubles are reported as the cause.

L. Granstrom has put in a water wheel of his own make for Dr. G. S. Wright to run dental machinery. The wheel generates almost a horsepower and runs 2300 revolutions per minute. Attached to a dynamo it would generate 10 lights of 16 candle power. Mr. Granstrom is a genius in mechanics and is now working upon a new wheel from which he expects to get double the power from the same water over those now in use. He is also at work upon a 10-light dynamo of new construction which he will attach to his wheel when it is completed.

the same purpose is served by paper based on gold and by subsidiary silver. (5) Greater facilities for inter-communication between nations, rendering the medium of exchanges less complicated. (6) Greater relative stability between the market value of gold and of human labor.

(b) Among the artificial causes tending to make bimetalism impossible are: (1) Adoption of the gold standard, either by law or in practice, or both, by almost all civilized nations, and by many nations whose claims to enter the community are more recent. (2) The choice of gold payments by creditors, who necessarily fix the conditions of terms and loans.

These causes are rapidly solving in the negative the problem of bimetalism, international or otherwise.

An experiment was recently made to see how fast a bee could fly.

Its hive was attached to the roof of a train, which attained a speed of thirty miles an hour before the bee was left behind.

DUSTINE. Will not impart a moral character to a man, but if cleanliness is next to godliness DUSTINE is a mighty good thing to have next to the house or place of business, for it can do marvels in keeping floors, furniture, and woodwork in a clean, wholesome and attractive condition. It is a genuine and durable application for floors of all kinds, natural or painted wood, or linoleum, preventing all dust from arising while sweeping. No sprinkling or scrubbing is necessary. It is odorless, cheaper than paint, and non-inflammable. One great advantage it has, worn parts can be renewed without the patch showing. It ought to be in every place of business, and especially on every school-house in the land. Send all orders, and enquiries to Dustine Co., No. 114 First St., Portland, Ore.
