The amount of wood which the fruit evaporators have been using seems to be cutting some figure with the price of cord wood, the price having gone up to $2. Reports come from the outside that there is not any great amount of wood being cut this winter and consequently it is quite likely that the price will be better next fall than it has been for the past two seasons.

games and social chat and was concluded with, "God be with you till we meet Barrie & Hobson as well as the new firm of Sutton, Calkins & Co. have a word to say to the public in new advertisements which will be seen in this issue of the Graphic. Both these firms are active and energetic and are taking the only wise course to pursue, which is to let the public know they are in business, ready and anxious to meet the wants of the people. The old moss-back method of keeping still and waiting for the people to come to you without an invitation is no go in this day and age of the world.

Mr. Heaton who was mentioned some time ago as having some trouble from a wound in the hand which came from a gunshot occasioned by the accidental discharge of a shot gun, was in town Wednesday for further medical treatment. The shot came out of the thumb some time ago but the hand is badly inflamed and in quite a serious condition apparently. An operation was performed on the wound while he was in town, by his physician, and he hopes the wound will now heal.

Attorney Clarence Butt arrived home on Wednesday noon from Condon, Gillam county, where he went on business.
While there he was called as assistant counsel in a law case which detained him two or three days. He found the people with plenty of money as a result of last season's good crops and very hopeful for the coming season. Plowing and seeding had already begun when he left and the indications are that a large acreage of grain will be sown this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Smith arrived home last Monday from their visit of more than two months to Osborn county, Kansas, their former home. They report having a very pleasant visit with their neighbors and friends. They found the weather mild for that country during their stay. Crops were fairly good last season and times improving. Prospects are encouraging for a good wheat crop the coming season.

It is often that a physician recommends a patent medicine; when he does, you may know that it is a good one. Dr.
J. P. Cleveland, Glasgow, Va., writes:
"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my practice and it has proved to be an excellent remedy, where a thorough course of medicine had failed with me. I recommend it to my patients every time for colic and diarrhoea." Many other progressive physicians recommend and use this remedy, because it always cures and cures quickly. Get a bottle and you will have an excellent doctor in the house, for all bowel complaints, both for children and adults. For sale by C. F.
Moore & Co. Druggists.

Dr. H. R. Littlefield, of Portland, came up last Saturday evening and remained over Sunday, visiting with his son, Dr.
H. J. Littlefield. On Sunday afternoon he attended the funeral of Moses Hollingsworth and took the leading part in the Masonic ceremonies performed at the grave. The old doctor looks like he had held his own pretty well during his winter's sojourn among the Skagwayans in Alaska.

A. T. Hill and daughter Alice came down from McMinnville Thursday on the train. On arriving here Ab made the unpleasant discovery that his purse containing $55 was not in its accustomed place in his pants pocket. As he was not positive that he started from home with it he telephoned back and made inquiry but received no tidings of the lost purse. Later—a telephone message came that the lost purse had been found in a Sunday-go-to-meeting pair of pants and Ab went home with a lighter heart.

The Discovery of the Day.
Ang. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have."
J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at C. F. Moore & Co.'s drugstore.

Statements recently issued by the banks of Colfax show the largest deposits ever known in that city. At present there is on deposit $553,000.
This is almost phenomenal, and when the fact that nearly half the crop of 1897 is still owned by the farmers, makes a wonderful showing for that country.

After years of untold suffering from piles, B. W. Purcell of Kellersville, Pa.

this famous remedy. C. F. Moore & Co.

MOSES HOLLINGSWORTH.
Moses Hollingsworth who had been lingering for several months with cancer of the stomach died at his home on Meridian street on last Saturday morning, February 12, 1898, at the age of 73 years, 2 months and 28 days.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the Friends church, the services being conducted by President Newlin, assisted by Rev.
G. H. Bennett, pastor of the Methodist church. At the cemetery the Free Masons took charge and conducted the services according to the customs of that fraternity, Dr. H. R. Littlefield, of Portland, being present and taking the leading part.

Moses Hollingsworth, son of Richard and Sarah Hollingsworth, was born in Union county, Indiana, Nov. 21, 1824.
At the age of five years his parents removed to Montgomery county, Ohio, residing there until he was fifteen years of age, when he again, with his parents, removed to Grant county, Indiana, where he resided until he grew to manhood. On June 23, 1844, he was married to Sarah Ann Russell of the same place who still survives him. Here they lived until 1858 when they with their family moved to Lucas county, Iowa, which at that time was a new country.

This union was blessed with nine children, five of whom are still living, viz: Mrs. A. R. Cumpston, of Tecumseh, Nebraska; Mrs. C. J. McLain, La-Grande Oregon; Mr. W. W. Hollingsworth, Newberg, Oregon; Mrs. J. J.
Nickel, Altam, Kansas; Mrs. J. J. Hollingsworth, Wymore, Nebraska. They lived in Iowa until 1892, when their children all being married and settled in homes of their own in different states, and they being advanced in years sought for themselves a warmer climate, coming to Oregon where they have lived up to the present time.

Moses Hollingsworth was a member of the Friends church. He gave his heart to Jesus Christ, his Savior, when quite young and has ever since lived a true Christian life.

He endured his long and painful sickness with true Christian fortitude and often spoke of his confidence in God, whom he chose as his counselor years ago, and how dear the Savior was to him in his sickness. In his last hours he was mercifully relieved from all suffering by the soothing portion of the passing sleep. Gently the hands of the passion were loosed and the spirit took its flight.
The Savior has taken him and our loss is his eternal gain.

Oh weary heart thy rest has come And heaven and happiness are thine.
Thy tired feet have found their home Since thou hast walked the shining road.
Then shall we mourn with bitter tears For thee whose tears are wiped away.
Shall we forget thy weary years And call the back to earth again?
Oh rather may thy gentle love Thy simple faith to us be given.
The Father's kindness still to prove And lead us up to thee in Heaven.

Tribute to the Memory of Moses Hollingsworth.

"It is not until death, with his pale cold fingers has closed the eyes, and sealed the lips of his victim, that we are want to look upon our fellow manhood in its true light and award to it that deep and heartfelt esteem that is due to his distinguished worth. The loved and loving husband, father, and brother Mason, died where manhood's morn well nigh touches its evening sunset, and the shadows were falling back toward the east. He had passed on life's highway, the stone that marked the highest point, and being weary, he laid down by the wayside, and using his burden for a pillow, fell into that dreamless sleep that kissed down his eyelids, never more to open in this life, and while yet in love with this life, he passed joyously to silence and pathetic dust.

Yet it makes no difference, whether in the happiest, sunniest hours of all life's voyage, while eager winds are kissing every sail, to dash against the unseen rock, and in an instant, the billions roar above the sunken ship,—for whether in mid-ocean, or among the breakers of the farther shore, a wreck must mark at last the end of each and all. And every life no matter if its every hour is rich with love, and every moment jeweled with a joy, will at its close, become a tragedy as sad, as deep, and dark as can be woven of the warp and woof of mystery and death.
Our fallen brother in every storm of life was oak and rock, but in sunshine he was vine and flower. He was the friend of all heroic souls, he climbed the heights and left all superstitions, far below, while in his noble intellect dawned the morning of a grander day.
He deeply sympathized with the unfortunate, and with a willing hand gave alms. He was a worshiper of liberty, and a friend of the oppressed. He believed that happiness was the only good on earth, reason the only torch, and justice to humanity the religion and priest. He added to the sum of human joy, and were everyone for whom he did some loving service, to cast a twig into his grave, he would sleep beneath a wilderness of ever green. * * * Life is a narrow vale between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities.

We strive in vain to look beyond the heights. We cry aloud, and the only answer is the echo of our wailing cry.
From the voiceless lips of the dead there comes no voice for our guidance, but in the right of death, hope sends a star, and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing. Our fellow brother, with his dying words said, I have no pain. I know that I shall be better.
Let us hope in spite of our doubts and fears, that his words are true of all our countless dead, for we are all children of the same parent, and the same earthly fate awaits us all."
