It is often that a physician recommends a patent medicine; when he does, you may know that it is a good one. Dr. J. P. Cleveland, Glasgow, Va., writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my practice and it has proved to be an excellent remedy, where a thorough course of medicine had failed with me. I recommend it to my patients every time for colic and diarrhoea." Many other professional physicians recommend and use this remedy, because it always cures and cures quickly. Get a bottle and you will have an excellent doctor in the house, for all bowel complaints, both for children and adults. For sale by C. F. Moore & Co. druggists.
In the fall Andy Winters and Wm. Everest took their bearings and both predicted a mild winter, thus staking their reputations as weather prophets against the fellow who figured out, that, owing to a certain position in which he found the hog mites hanging when he butchered, we were sure to have a hard winter. The time has now arrived for a reckoning on results and it is only necessary to state that all winter long the festive town cow has nipped the green grass on the commons, rose bushes about our door yards have refused to shed their last season's growth of leaves, the busy bee has hummed about the hive, and the resonant notes of the cheerful bullfrog have been tuned to the song of "Andy and Bill!" "Andy and Bill!"

A bevy of some seventy-five or a hundred robins, those beautiful harbingers of spring, were seen by the writer on a vacant block in town a few days ago. Fifteen years ago very few robins or other songbirds were to be seen in this valley and to a lover of the feathered songsters it is a pleasure to note that they have increased to such an extent that they now come in great flocks with the first signs of springtime, to cheer us on our way. Welcome to the beautiful birds.
Washington's birthday anniversary received due notice in Newberg. In the forenoon exercises were held at the public school where the little folks repeated the hatchet story, carried flags and beat drums in true colonial style. In the afternoon Hon. G. M. Irwin, state superintendent of public instruction, delivered a patriotic address, appropriate to the occasion to a full house at the college. Mr. Irwin has fine oratorical ability, is a logical speaker, with a steady flow of well rounded sentences and captivates his hearers from the beginning of his address. He spoke for more than an hour and to the close of his fine address he held the closest attention of the audience without an apparent effort. Should he return to Newberg again it is safe to say that he will be greeted by a full house.
A trial is in progress in the United States court at Portland which is being watched with a great deal of interest. Cap. Murphy and First Mate Harvey of the American ship George Seton are charged with maltreating and beating into imbecility a boy sailor, Amos Stone whose home is in Boston. The Oregon Humane Society has taken the matter up and employed L. B. Cox, an able attorney, to assist United States District Attorney Hall in the prosecution. If the stories told by the sailors on the witness stand are true, the horrors of sailor life under inhuman officers, as depicted by Dana in his "Two Years Before the Mast" have been inflicted in this case with four-fold severity, and the punishment of the guilty officers should be nothing short of ten years imprisonment at hard labor.
Wednesday Oregonian says: W. M. Wood, living four miles from Newberg, was arrested here by detectives Reilly and Maher, for larceny, the charge being made by C. H. Delaney of Newberg. Woods stole the latter's saddle the night of February 4, and had brought it to Portland, where he sold it to a second-hand dealer, on Front street. The detectives were aware of his criminal record—he having served two terms in the penitentiary—and suspected that the saddle was not legitimately his. He was taken into custody until the authorities at Newberg could be informed, when it was learned that he was wanted there for stealing a saddle. This confirmed the suspicion. The owner of the saddle Mr. Delaney, states that at least a dozen saddles have been taken from the adjacent country about Newberg all of which are thought to be the work of Wood. When arrested he was standing in front of a second hand store on First and Jefferson streets, and at first gave the name of Charley Martin. His apprehension and almost sure conviction to follow is thought to be the end of a very troublesome time among his neighbors, who suspected him strongly, yet were unable to fasten upon him any of his crimes.

The Evangelistic superintendent conducted the devotions at the meeting of the union Wednesday. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, ye saith the spirit, they rest from their labors and their works do follow them," was the text. The going away of our loved leader, Frances E. Willard was spoken of, the superintendent making some impressive remarks. Quarterly reports of superintendents of department work were then read, many of these showing good work done. 1000 pages of literature have been sent to prisons and jails. The mercy superintendent reports that Mrs. Berta Terrell has organized in her school a band of mercy with thirty members and many of the school teachers have asked for books to read to their pupils.
A committee was appointed to arrange for a memorial service for Frances Willard. The president read a very interesting letter from Mrs. Weesner of Alaska. There was also an extract read from a letter from our former president, Mrs. Townsend. Petitions concerning the saloons and liquor drinking at Yale college were sent from the state president and the circulation of the same placed in the hands of the petition superintendent.
Mrs. Sutton and Mrs. Townsend were received as new members.

Reception.
One of the most enjoyable events of the season was the reception given by the W.C.T.U. Tuesday, at the residence of Mrs. F. A. Morris, Martha Washington and her nieces receiving. A large number of guests were in attendance notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. The parlors were decorated with Oregon grape, while the dining-room presented a most pleasing sight with decorations in green and white, and the typical hatchet, the guests receiving these as souvenirs.
The refreshments were delicious and deftly served, while the guests displayed their knowledge concerning "Lady Washington."
Martha Washington and her nieces wore white caps and kerchiefs characteristic of the eighteenth century, and, as they were remarked by one of the guests, as they fitted about, presented a pleasing contrast with the gloomy day outside. Misses Hill and Hendershot furnished guitar music which was highly appreciated by those present. A GUEST.

Old Testament Heroes.
"Written in English of today, instead of that of King James' times." That expresses one important idea announced in the serial, "Old Testament Heroes," to be published in "The National Magazine" of Boston. Different characters of the Old Testament will be taken up consecutively and the story of their life and times told in language, comprehensible to the average reader, by the brightest and ablest scholars of the day. The predominant object is to bring out vividly the great fundamental study of humanity as outlined in the Bible and to present the unrivaled beauties of the book as literature, rather than a bone of contention for creed and dogmas.
The young men in charge of "The National Magazine" have certainly made a hit in the magazine realm in presenting an illustrated periodical so excellent and qualitative for ten cents. In publishing this great religious serial in addition to all of the requirements of a high class and popular secular magazine, they have essayed an ambitious undertaking. The serial "Christ and His Time" just concluded met with a most hearty and genuine appreciation. "The National Magazine" has, by its editorial force and artistic excellence, allied to sensible and practical ideas, taken its place as one of the leading "home" magazines published today.

Here is Success for You.
"Inside figures" are always interesting, and the following are certainly some striking ones about The Ladies' Home Journal. During 1897, 8,183,113 copies of this magazine were printed and so thoroughly sold that the latter-year issues are entirely out of print. It consumes 3,434,362 pounds of paper in a year, and absorbs 30,992 pounds of ink. It runs 28 presses. The advertising columns contained $488,325 worth of advertising during the last year. The editors received 9290 manuscripts and less than one per cent. were accepted. The magazine employs 22 staff editors. 24,648 letters have been received and answered in the year by the editors of the correspondence columns. The Journal has over 15,000 active, working agents on the road getting subscriptions. It has educated 442 girls free of charge under its free educational plan. In a single day it has received as high as 18,000 subscriptions. 300,000 copies of the Journal are sold each month on the news stands alone—425,000 people subscribe for it by the year.

THE MONARCH CHAINLESS.
A Bicycle Gearing Absolutely New, Novel, and Practical.

In their indiscriminate haste to announce the making of chainless wheels, some manufacturers have tumbled over each other in the endeavor to be in front. To be in front is a matter of "keep in front" is sustained energy. To utter a truism is one thing, to live up to it is another.
The spirit of the aphorism of the Monarch Cycle Manufacturing Company, "Ride a Monarch and Keep in Front," is well illustrated in its latest product, The Monarch Chainless. Alive to the times, the company will produce a chainless bicycle which has been proven by repeated tests to be superior, in its class, in every particular.
Two surfaces that will roll on each other will transmit motion from one to the other. If the surfaces are comparatively smooth, the motion is transmitted by friction. But when the surfaces are provided with projections, the motion, although it is unchanged in nature, is transmitted by direct pressure, and it is irregular unless the acting surfaces of the projections are carefully and exactly shaped to produce an even motion. It is the difficulty which is experienced to produce these perfect projections, when bevel gears are used, which leads the experienced mechanic away from them. Long experience in Sewing Machine manufacture has taught the Monarch Company that whatever transmission was used, bevel gears were not to be considered if easy running was to be thought of. The result has been a driving gear which is excellent in its easy running qualities. The mechanism is simple. The crank axle and hub gears somewhat resemble the familiar sprocket wheels, the noticeable difference being the teeth which are closer together and V shape in cross section instead of four sided. The shaft connecting the two is provided at each end with a pinion having roller pin teeth which run in and out of the wide angle openings between the gear teeth. Each set of gears is enclosed but should they from any cause be exposed the action of the pin teeth is such that they are self-cleaning, forcing mud and dirt out from between the teeth. One of the chief objections urged against chainless wheels by mechanics is that should the rear frame become twisted or out of line, there would be a consequent binding of the mating gears. The Monarch chainless is entirely free from this objection inasmuch that the junction of the pinions and gears form a type of the ball and socket joint, thereby permitting free running under the conditions usually met with in bicycle riding. A particular advantage which this gear has, and which gives it the highest efficiency, is the direct lift as against the end thrust which is common to all bevel gearing. This end thrust is a prominent factor in friction and frame strain.

Another point to be counted in favor of the Monarch gear is, that it is not of delicate construction although comparatively light in weight.
As stated by Grant, the well known authority on gears, "The pin gears particularly valuable when the pins are made in the form of rollers for then the minimum of friction is reached." The friction between the tooth and pin, otherwise a sliding friction at a line bearing is, with a roller pin, a rolling friction. When properly made, there is no form of tooth that is superior to the roller pin tooth.
While the Monarch company is warranted from the study of experts in placing its chainless machine on the market as the best type of that class, its faith in the chain wheel is in no way diminished. It will continue to keep them in the forward ranks of that type of bicycle which is yet the choice of the majority of the people. In line with the general policy of the Monarch company, the price of its chainless will be $100.00, which will give a complete line, including chain machines, ranging from this price to $40.00.

One of the most enjoyable events of the season was the reception given by the W.C.T.U. Tuesday, at the residence of Mrs. F. A. Morris, Martha Washington and her nieces receiving. A large number of guests were in attendance notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. The parlors were decorated with Oregon grape, while the dining-room presented a most pleasing sight with decorations in green and white, and the typical hatchet, the guests receiving these as souvenirs.
The refreshments were delicious and deftly served, while the guests displayed their knowledge concerning "Lady Washington."
Martha Washington and her nieces wore white caps and kerchiefs characteristic of the eighteenth century, and, as they were remarked by one of the guests, as they fitted about, presented a pleasing contrast with the gloomy day outside. Misses Hill and Hendershot furnished guitar music which was highly appreciated by those present. A GUEST.
