

NEWBERG GRAPHIC.
ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.
E. H. WOODWARD, EDITOR & PUBLISHER.
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1898.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Newberg, Oregon.

"Said the leaves upon the branches,
One sunny autumn day:
We've finished all our work, and now
We can no longer stay;
So our gowns of red and yellow,
And our cloaks of sober brown
Must be worn before the frost comes
And we go rustling down."

Remember the fair next week.
Trot out your big pumpkins for the fair next week.

Farmers in this community ought to begin to read up on the profits of dairying.

McBride, Simon, Tongue and Moody will ably represent Oregon at Washington.

The Oregonian is still in pursuit of Mitchell's shadow. Put up your gun old man, the war is over.

Snow is now reported to be two feet deep on the McKenzie pass in the Cascades and the prophets are predicting a severe winter. Predictions don't count for much but it will be good husbandry to have plenty of dry wood conveniently near the back door anyway.

Mrs. Polly Owens, fifty years of age, is living with her thirtieth husband at Noblesville, Indiana. Some of the sisters who have been unable to gather in one husband might get some valuable pointers on matrimony by addressing Polly who is a record breaker in husband catching.

Sheep men east of the mountains say they can now sell a ewe and lamb, such as we want, for three years ago at $1.25, for $5 and they are eagerly sought for at this figure. It is needless to say that confidence among the sheep men has been restored. Such an increase in the price of an old ewe and lamb is the thing that does it.

Governor elect, T. T. Geer is billed to deliver a few speeches about Walla Walla for the Washington republicans during the state campaign which is now in progress. The governor knows just how to pour hot and effective shot into the ranks of the free silver forces and the party across the line is fortunate in securing his services just at this time.

New flags flying above all the school houses in Oregon will look very pretty—that is while they are new, but there will soon be a lot of dilapidated looking rags throughout the state. The sentiment is a patriotic one but the Graphic doubts the practicability of the new law. It is difficult to keep the well built furniture in country school districts in good order and delicate flags will meet with a hard fate in a majority of the districts.

Take any community where the producers have something to sell all the year round and evidences of prosperity will be much more marked than in one where products like wheat are marketed but once a year. Since Mr. Eldridge has established a creamery at Newberg a golden opportunity is now offered the farmers and small ranchers of Chehalis valley to improve their condition. They should lose no time in embracing the opportunity offered.

An exchange says that alcohol will remove grass stains from summer clothing. The statement is undoubtedly true. It will also remove the summer clothes, the spring, autumn and winter clothes, not only from the one who drinks it, but also from his wife and family. In a great many cases it has also been known to remove the household furniture from the house and the victuals from the pantry, the smiles from the face of the wife, and the happiness from the home. As a remover of things alcohol has but few equals.

Talk creamery to your neighbors and get them interested. The creamery will be the salvation of Chehalis valley ranchers if they will make dairying a study and learn how to grow the right kind of feed at small cost to produce the milk. Whatever tends to better the condition of the producer helps the merchant, and in fact every man in town. Consequently all classes are, or at least should be, interested in seeing to it that the creamery is furnished with the necessary amount of milk to make it a success financially.

Of the lamented legislature of two years ago the members of the senate are to receive full pay, the members of the house pay for five days and the two speakers and other officers full pay. If the Graphic had been fixing the pay of the members those who answered to roll call from day to day would have been rewarded while those who held out and prevented an organization of the house would have been cut off without a farthing.

ing. The law however provides that in case of a failure to organize the members shall receive pay for five days.

Ex-president Harrison is delivering a few speeches in Ohio for the republicans. Harrison has a great faculty for speech making and he always says something when he speaks on any subject.

The formal opening of the sugar factory at La Grande is announced to take place on Saturday October 15. This will be a red letter day for all Oregon and that the factory will be a great success is the sincere desire of everybody regardless of location. The Graphic regrets that the invitation to attend the opening must be declined.

Many of Jo Simon's methods in politics have not been approved by the Graphic but that Oregon's interests will be well served in the United States senate by Mr. Simon goes without saying. He is small in stature but he has a long head and plenty of grit and get there. His words will be few but they will be fitly spoken and they will carry weight. On the money question he is as solid as a rock.

Representative Clarence Butt is making an able representative of the people of Yamhill county at Salem by voting against unnecessary expenses whenever the opportunity offers. The Statesman has this to say of him: Then the matter of clerkships came up and every request for a clerk was granted with the exception of an additional one for the committee on railroads. The resolution was opposed by Butt of Yamhill, a member of the committee who stated that an extra clerk was unnecessary inasmuch as the committee had never met as yet. Only one bill has been referred to this committee as yet.

AS OTHERS SEE IT.

Roseburg Plaindealer.
The editor of this paper went to Salem the first of the week and met and became acquainted with a lot of mighty nice people. It does a fellow good to get out in the world and mix with the people. We found everybody talking about the immense crops of hay, grain, fruit, hops and other farm products which the people of Western Oregon have grown this year, and tickled all over at the prospects of a good price for their crops. You don't hear any thing more about free silver or the boy orator of the raging Platte. You can get up an argument without any trouble in regard to the merits of the different breeds of cattle, or the best time to spray fruit trees, but the man who should try to entertain a group of his fellow citizens nowadays, by discussing the plutocrats or declaiming in regard to the woes of the down-trodden sons of toil, would find himself without an audience in short order.

Albany Herald.
The report that the Sarcophagus supposed to contain the remains of Columbus, in Havana, on examination was found to be desecrated and the bones of the navigator taken away, is probably without any foundation. Old father time himself, however, in the natural course of events, would not leave any very tangible evidence of those bones unless Spain expended more pains on their preservation than it did in the treatment of the live Columbus when he was wasting his energies for its benefit.

Eugene Guard.
The most ardent advocate of woman's right to occupy at least an equal place with man in the economic and everyday affairs of life could not but have been directed at a sight witnessed near the Eugene bridge the other day. A couple of squaws came along with packs on their backs, about all that they could carry. Back of them at a respectable distance came their lord and master, a burly buck, strolling along, his manly form adorned with a new blanket which rivalled the rainbow in striking colors. Under our modern and effete system of civilization the squaws would have worn the blanket and the buck packed the load. The Indian understands his business.

The Canadian Prohibition Plebiscite.

The Canadian plebiscite vote taken on the 29th ult. has somewhat disappointed the friends of prohibition because of the smallness of the majority. This was the vi et issue which was kept in mind. The question was not, have we a majority of votes in favor of prohibiting the importation, manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor in the Dominion? but, can we secure a majority large enough to create a predominant force of public opinion in support of prohibitory legislation? The facts are that the whole Dominion gave prohibition a majority which is not likely to exceed 18,000, and may prove to be less. The majorities of the different provinces were as follows: Ontario, about 15,000; Nova Scotia, 17,679; New Brunswick, 12,540; Prince Edward Island, 6,160; Manitoba, 800; British Columbia, 500; Northwest Territories, 488. Quebec gave the largest majority of 40,872 against prohibition. The changes in the vote have taken place in Ontario, especially in the cities. At the plebiscite of 1894 Ontario gave the immense majority of more than 81,000 votes in favor of prohibition; this year her majority is only about 15,000; with one unimportant exception the cities reversed their vote of four years ago. In Quebec the largest majorities against prohibition were rolled up in French-speaking centers, Montreal, Quebec City and Hull supplying nearly 20,000 against it. The Maritime Provinces held substantially the same position as shown in former plebiscites, being strongly in favor of the change. At the time of going to press it is impossible to ascertain what proportion of the total vote of the Dominion was cast. Sixty per cent of the registered vote would be considered a heavy poll in a party contest, and it is almost certain that the plebiscite vote did not amount to so much as that; there were so many well equipped and diversified agencies at work to bring the voters to the polls. The anticipated consequences may have also affected the size of the vote, and perhaps its character; during the former plebiscites legislative action was not threatened; during this plebiscite it was known that a strong prohibitive measure was expected. The nature of this vote appears to us to emphasize the injustice, as well as the impracticability, of national or Dominion prohibition, and the advantage of local option. If a majority of 15,000 of all the voters desire prohibition in Ontario, that furnishes some reason for such prohibition, though the question whether so large a minority has not some right which the majority ought to respect would still have to be answered. But that majority of 15,000 voters in Ontario want prohibition is no reason for enforcing it in Quebec against the protest of 40,000 majority. And such an enforcement would be impracticable, because it would be unjust. It is not probable that this election will result in any prohibitory legislation. The question whether prohibition is a provincial or federal question is still unsettled; Sir Wilfrid Laurier's cabinet is divided on the subject, as are many of his supporters in the House of Commons. The prohibitionists could not expect him to risk defeat after an election indicating their diminished strength. Indeed, it was pretty well understood that Sir Wilfrid's promise of the legislation was given only on the condition that the plebiscite majority for prohibition should be a very strong one, which is certainly not—Outlook.

"Why Women Cannot Sleep."
The highly organized, finely-strung nervous system of women subjects them to nervous apprehension which no man can ever appreciate. The peace of mind, the mental poise and calmness under difficulties, which is necessary for happy womanhood is only possible when the sensitive feminine organism is in a perfectly healthy condition. If there be any weakness or derangement in this respect no remedy in the world so completely restores womanly health, nervous vigor and capability as the wonderful "Favorite Prescription" invented by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y. It purifies, heals and strengthens; insures functional regularity; provides physical reinforcement and sustaining power at periods of special weakness and depression. It is the only medicine which makes the coming of baby safe and comparatively easy. In a personal letter to Dr. Pierce, Mrs. Marguerite Collins, of Cutler, Algoma Co., Ont., says: "I was a sufferer and was cured by Dr. Pierce's wonderful medicine. When I commenced the medicine I could neither eat nor sleep. My hands and feet were constantly cold. I had a searing, troublesome burning for three months and my monthly periods were very irregular. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it cured me. I feel well. I thank the World's Dispensary Medical Association."

The Value of Fresh Air.

The admitted advantage of an out door life in many morbid conditions, and notably in consumption, seems to point to the conclusion that there is something definitely injurious in the indoor life which is now the common mode of existence among civilized people. It is a striking and startling thing that the mere removal of a patient into the open air should lower his fever, should remove his night sweats, and take away his hectic flush and it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that if these symptoms are removed by the purity of the air outside, they must have been largely caused by the impurity of the air within the house. Nor have we any right to assume that it is the consumptives only who suffer. Doubtless the healthy struggle against and overcome evil influences before which those who are tuberculous succumb, but that is not to say that in the struggle we do not suffer, and, indeed the facts recently brought forward are sufficient to show that the stuffy life of warmth and comfort which civilized man now "enjoys" is bad for the health even of the healthiest. We make our windows fit, we pad our doors, we shiver at a draught, we surround ourselves with woolen curtains, dusty carpets, and fluffy, luxurious upholstery; we breathe the same air over and over again, and then we wonder that we are not strong and vigorous. The fact is we are daily using up the exuberant vitality with which nature has provided us in struggling against artificial conditions. How powerful for evil, how deteriorating these conditions are, is shown by the fact that their mere removal gives back to the consumptive that vitality which enables him to overcome the seeds of disease within him. Fresh air is not a thing to be taken in little doses once a day, but a thing to live on.—London Hospital.

The Omaha Exposition a Success.

The Globe Democrat says: The Transmississippi Exposition at Omaha is a great success financially as it is socially. The receipts thus far are more than $38,000 in excess of the expenditures. There is a balance in bank of $15,000 over and above expenses and obligations of all sorts. Even in a strictly monetary sense this enterprise has already proven very profitable. Of course the ultimate profit, that which will come from the advertisement of Omaha and Nebraska, will be vastly greater than is indicated by these figures. Moreover the immediate profit will increase rapidly from this time to the end of the exposition. The attendance will grow from this date on. This was the experience of the Philadelphia and Chicago Exposition in the autumn months. It was also the experience of the smaller enterprises at Atlanta and Nashville. The harvesting being over by this time, the attendance of farmers at Omaha in the next six weeks will be far greater than it has been thus far in the same length of time. The outlay for buildings having been made, a large part of the receipts hereafter will be clear profit. World's fairs are not going out of fashion, but are rather becoming more popular. The Louisiana International Exposition, which will be held in St. Louis in 1903 and which will be one on a larger scale than any ever held in the United States, except, possibly, that at Chicago, will be made a great triumph monetarily and morally.

An Irishman's Description of the Philippines.

I've been readin' about th' country. 'Tis over beyond yer left shoulder whin yer facts' east. Jus' throw your thumb back and ye have it as ac'rate as anny man in town. 'Tis turther than Boolbry and not so far as Bleschochoo. Its near Chiny, and its not so near, an' if a man was to bore a well thro' from Goshen, Indiana, he might strike it, and thin agin he might not. Its a poverty stricken country full of gold and precious stones, where the people pick dinner off the trees and are starvin' because they hev no step-ladders. The inhabitants is mostly niggers and Chinymen, peaceful, industrious, and law-abidin' but savage on blood thirsty in their methods. They wear no clothes except what they have on, an' each woman has five husbands and each man has five wives. The r rest go into the discard the same as here. The islands have been won by Spain ever since before the fire an' she's threatened them so well they're now up in arms agin her except a majority of them, which is thruly loyal. The natives seldom fight but whin they get mad at one another they run amuck. Whin a man runs a muck sometimes they hang him and sometimes they discharge him and hire a new motorman. The women are beautiful with languishin' black eyes, an' they smoke seggars, but are hurried and incomplete in their dress. We import juke, hemp, cigar wrappers, sugar and fair tales from the Philippines, and export six-inch shells and the like. Iv late the Philippines hev awakened to the fact that they're behind the times, and has received much American ammunition in their midst. They say the Spaniards is all tore up about it."—Chicago Journal.

QUALITY RIDGE HUMOR.

School opened a week ago with good attendance. Miss Hertig is on the sick list. F. Hertig went to Portland Tuesday. Jim Conlee made a flying visit to this neighborhood last Monday. There was a party at Basel Blums last Saturday night. There will be a dance and an oyster supper at Myers' place Friday night. Anna Carter, who is attending school at Newberg, came home Saturday for a short visit. Our post man came out last mail day with a "fast mail rig," a new cart, harness and horse. The only thing he needs now is good roads. Mrs. Myers entertained the Misses Helen Harger and Menlie Holts last Saturday.

Keep Your Feet Warm & Dry, If You Would Have Good Health During the Rainy Season.

This you can do by wearing a shoe that will turn water. The hard times of the past few years have compelled many to wear a $1.00 or $1.50 shoe. Times are better now and you can afford to treat yourself to a first class article such as is found in our large stock of

MEN'S and BOYS' SHOES.

The largest in Newberg sold at the lowest possible figures for A 1 Article. Why are ours the best? Because we buy direct from the factory. Because all our Shoes are made to order. Because they are made of fresh new stock.

Because we do not buy of jobbers who carry odds and ends and inferior goods with nobody's brand on them. The J. Miller shoe has an enviable reputation. Those who buy it once demand it the second time. We have a full stock of these goods, men's, boys' and children's sizes. Try one pair and be convinced.

They all say the Oregon City shoe wears them one year. Can you beat it? Ours is the only house in the city that carries this shoe.

Yours for the best footwear.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW

It is impossible to promulgate particular features that will appear in the "AMERICAN MONTHLY" during the coming year, for it is, as the Bookman says, "a great monthly newspaper." As such, it prints for its readers an illustrated account of the notable things which make the history of the month, of the political, the economic, and literary happenings which are of value to intelligent men and women. The Editor's "Progress of the World" tells succinctly an illustrated story of the month. The "Leading Articles" give the best thought and information of the current magazines in five contents; the contributed articles furnish the character sketches of the man of the month, and give timely discussions by authorities on any question of immediate serious import.

The result of this comprehensive effort to edit in one monthly volume the information needed by intelligent people of "five" instincts is best gauged in the opinions which the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY have seen fit to express. These are thinking business men, clergymen, editors, lawyers, professors, engineers, the wide-awake women of America. They write that the AMERICAN MONTHLY "is indispensable"; "is simply invaluable"; "is a generous library in itself"; "is a historical cyclopedia of the world"; "the best means of aid for a busy man"; "the best periodical of the kind we have ever had"; "a triumph of editorial genius"; "the world under a field-glass," etc., etc.
