A few days ago John Crawford received a keg of fine trout weighing seventy-five pounds from his brother who lives over in the Nehalem country. Rather a valuable holiday present.

The man without a country is in about the same fix as the fellow who has lost most of his teeth. What the latter wants and must have to exist is nice juicy steaks and roasts, just such as are sold at Cooper & Clemmens' market.

W. H. Magers who was arrested on a charge of murdering Ray Sink at Salem last fall had his trial at Dallas last week and was convicted of murder in the first degree. The evidence was purely circumstantial but it was sufficient to convince a jury of twelve men that he was guilty of the crime with which he was charged. Those who were acquainted with the murdered man years ago at Newberg will be glad to hear that the man who took his life is to be punished.

A fellow who gives his name as John K. Stocking and who seems to be doing quite a business on a very small capital has been about town for several days. During his short stay about town he has traded a hand of horses supposed to be somewhere east of the mountains for a farm, bought a pretty good house, rented two or three others, posed as a Grand Army man, sponged several square meals and he appears to be still on the hunt for other worlds to conquer. He seems to be a little daft and yet rather smooth in some ways. It is reported that the police gave him the walk from Portland and our marshal will do well to ask him to shake the dust from his stockings and depart for other pastures.

Dr. Clara M. Davidson who has recently located in the Clemmens property one block south of the Bank of Newberg is a graduate of the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania. She was employed one year as special assistant in the dispensary where over four thousand cures were treated yearly, and holds certificates commending her for skill in surgery and medicine. She also took special courses in the Children's Hospital and the Philadelphia Lying-in Charity, knowing that her practice would largely fall within these lines. She has opened an office in her residence well fitted with all modern appliances and is now ready for general practice.

Several water pipes about town that were not taken in out of the cold last Sunday night were caught with the "expansion" idea that is now so prevalent and Storey, the plumber, had several calls.

Those who failed to hear the lecture at the M. E. church on last Monday night, by Dr. Kellogg, missed an opportunity such as seldom comes to a town of the size of Newberg. A better lecture will probably not be delivered on the coast this season.

A few years ago nearly everybody was skeptical about the use of gravel in road making in Oregon but that day is happily past. It is now only a question of how best to get the gravel. The man who would argue against the use of it would be considered a back number.

Dusty roads in the month of December are something we very rarely see in the Willamette valley but we have seen them in that condition this month. For two or three days the first of the week passing teams kicked up quite a cloud of dust. The roads have been in fine condition for wheeling or teaming.

The musical recital at the college on next Wednesday evening promises to be a first class entertainment, the program consisting of solos, duets, quartettes and choruses. F. C. Jackson will also give an exhibition of Indian club swinging which will be appreciated. All lovers of music should give encouragement to Miss Altematt and her class by attending this entertainment.

Pains in the chest when a person has a cold indicate a tendency toward pneumonia. A piece of flannel damped with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on to the chest over the seat of pain will promptly relieve the pain and prevent the threatened attack of pneumonia. This same treatment will cure a lame back in a few hours. Sold by C. F. Moore & Co. druggists.

The Methodist church was crowded by an eager audience on last Monday evening, the occasion being the lecture by Dr. Kellogg of the Taylor street church, Portland, who spoke on "Forces that win in life." The parents of the college students ought to, and no doubt do feel grateful to Rev. Wm. Walz, pastor of the church, for making special arrangements for the attendance of the students, for the lecture was a most powerful appeal to the minds and hearts of the young for triumphant living. It is a very rare thing for one to have an opportunity to listen to such a grand and inspiring lecture outside of the larger cities and the citizens of Newberg were specially favored on this occasion. The lecture was abounding with wit and humor, while it was instructive and inspiring to both young and old. It would be a very dull man or woman indeed who could listen to such an address and fail to be inspired with firmer desires and resolutions for more noble living.

A. Amerman and little daughter returned home from Chico, California, last week where they went a few weeks ago to visit with relatives. Mr. Amerman says they have had only two little rains in that part of California since last May and that unless they have rain soon next season's crops are doomed. People are very much discouraged over the outlook and it is needless to say that they would gladly welcome a good Oregon rain.

A Newberg lady expresses the opinion that there are too many parents in this community who turn their children loose to go and come pretty much as they please and then are inclined to want to hold the public school teachers, the teachers in the college and the Sunday school teachers responsible for their conduct. Parents of this class might with profit submit themselves to a course of instruction in morals under the above named teachers.

One night last week about eleven o'clock Mr. Schneider, who is living near Jesse Edwards' dairy barn, was somewhat startled by the noise of a falling tree near by and on going out to investigate he found that a part of a big fir tree had broken off and crashed through the roof of the barn, knocking a hole in it big enough to drive a four horse team through. Three or four cows were tied in the barn but none of them were injured and doubtless they were not so badly scared as Mr. Schneider. He was, they say, no doubt, would have given sour milk for a day or two.

The education of those who don't care to learn is often a slow process but with persistent effort even the dullest students get their eyes opened to some extent at least. A case in evidence may be cited. One day this week a drummer entered Sutton, Calkins & Co.'s store and on shaking hands with Mr. Calkins in that extremely cordial manner so common among drummers he began to talk business, when Sherry asked him what livery team he was driving and he answered that it was a LaFayette team. And again Sherry asked him if he sold a pretty good bill of goods in LaFayette and he said no he didn't sell anything. "Well," said Sherry, "I had intended to buy a pretty good bill of goods of you, but since you prefer to patronize a livery barn from a neighborhood town rather than our home town which furnishes as good rigs as any in the county you can go and I will buy goods of some other man." It is needless to say that the drummer went away sorrowful and the lesson he learned he will not soon forget.

And McMinville is to have are lights; that question has been definitely settled. Last week the council sent councilmen Jones and Peery and Supt. Silger to Portland to look up the matter. They found that to get a new are dynamo would cost $2,400; but a second hand 50 light machine in good order with 25 lights could be had for $900. This fact was reported to the council Friday evening, and it was determined to purchase the second hand machine. Twenty of the lamps will be distributed on the streets, which will light the town equal to any other place in Oregon. We believe the move to be a good one, if the machine is as good as recommended.—Transcript.

F. J. Martin of this city, publisher of Pacific Progress, is making arrangements for issuing a special Yamhill edition of the paper for the month of January, giving an exhaustive write-up of the country's resources, productions and business interests. The edition will be printed on book paper and will be handsomely illustrated with a two page map of the county, a bird's eye view of McMinville, a street scene of the city, pictures of prominent business buildings and residences in this and adjacent towns, farm and other country scenes and pictures of prominent citizens. These pictures will all be done in the best style of photo-engraving and nearly all of them will be taken from special photographs. Mr. Hugh Gourlay an experienced newspaper man of The Dalles, will assist Mr. Martin in getting out the paper, and no expense or labor will be spared to make it a credit to the county as well as to the publisher.—Transcript.

The season for arranging the preliminaries that must be gone through with by the college students previous to taking part in the oratorical contest is at hand. The groomsmen were Mr. Van Leavitt and Mr. Sam Lashier.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with evergreens, roses and white chrysanthemums. The wedding march was played and the bridal party came into the parlor, took their places under a festoon of flowers and the ceremony was pronounced which joined their lives and destinies together. After hearty congratulations were given by all present a bountiful supper was served of the good things of life, after which several hours were spent in social chat, music and singing. Two Pointed Questions Answered.

What is the use of making a better article than your competitor if you can not get a better price for it?

Ans.—As there is no difference in the price the public will buy only the better so that while our profits may be smaller on a single sale they will be much greater in the aggregate.

How can you get the public to know your make is the best?

If both articles are brought prominently before the public both are certain to be tried and the public will very quickly pass judgment on them and use only the better one. This explains the large sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The people have been using it for years and have found that it can always be depended upon. They may occasionally take up with some fashionable novelty put forth with exaggerated claims, but are certain to return to the one remedy that they know to be reliable, and for coughs, colds and croup there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
