NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

E. H. WOODWARD, EDITOR & PUBLISHER.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1899.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Newberg, Oregon.

Give us a rest on the "embalmed beef" question.

The "white man's burden" is increased with the announcement of every new spring millinery opening.

The regular meeting of the Newberg Board of Trade occurs tonight. There ought to be a good attendance.

The report comes from a number of postoffices throughout the country that there has been a very decided increase in the postal receipts in the past six months. This indicates a change for the better in business all round.

A bicycle path running from Newberg to LaFayette, or Dayton, McMinnville and Sheridan would accommodate more people than if built on any other line in the county. If we are to have a path built, the county court should consider this line of travel.

The wires bring reports of heavy snow storms raging east of the Rockies along at this time in the season when gentle April showers are more to be desired. Here we are having more frosts than we care to see. Winter seems determined to linger long in the lap of spring.

Congressman Cannon, of Illinois, lately said: "I venture the assertion and prediction that the United States could not, if it would, and would not, if it could, part with the territories acquired from Spain by the treaty of peace, or shrink its duties and responsibilities touching them."

Mr. Hayter who is now sole proprietor of the Polk County Observer promises his patrons that he will at an early day put in a cylinder press and enlarge the paper to a seven column folio. It has looked to an outsider for a long time like the seat of government of Polk county ought to have a larger republican paper.

A recent number of the Scientific American contains a picture of two Indian mummies, which it claims were found near the headwaters of the Santiam, in the Cascade mountains. This is all very well, and there may be mummies galore along the banks of that raging stream; but if the picture isn't that of two "dried Injuns" Doc. Morrow used to have in his office here in Dallas, we will set 'em up to Mr. Baltimore, the writer of the article, and say no more about it. And we'll leave it to Dr. Woods to decide.—Polk Co. Observer.

The young men of the nation are beginning to realize that in democracy is their greatest hope. They are beginning to realize that in the success of democracy lies their only hope for the opportunities to engage in business with profit and their only hope for an equal chance in the great race of life.—Centralia Wash. News.

During Clevelands last administration "hope" was about all that the young men as well as older ones had to live on, but "hope deferred maketh the heart sick" and consequently at the earliest opportunity the voters of the country caused a change to take place in the administration of affairs, such as has rarely been known in the history of the government. The burnt child is afraid of fire and the News will find it pretty hard work to convince the young men of the nation that "in democracy is their greatest hope."

EDITORIAL AFTERTHOUGHTS.

Globe Democrat.

Before another week has expired Gen. Aguinaldo will be kicking on the umpire.

Every Cuban seems to have his price, but in most cases the price is entirely too high.

By the invention of a blue soap a French chemist hopes to make washday bluer than ever.

England has taken another cue for the United States and is enjoying an unusually long and severe winter.

An anxious public is watching to see where David B. Hill will come in on the democratic banquet business.

A medium has learned that President McKinley will not be re-elected. Probably this is the same medium who called up the spirit of John Sherman on the evening of his reported death and had a lengthy interview before the denial arrived.

The great trouble with the Philippine style of beheading is that the process is not restricted to the mere act of depriving a man of his official power.

While the farmer can get from $60 to $70 for a steer, it will be difficult for Col. Bryan to convince him that prosperity is not camping in the neighborhood.

It is stated by Mr. Kipling's physicians that his pleural exudate has been absorbed. However, it is presumed that the physicians will trust him until he can accumulate another one.

A great many people would be glad to see Tom Reed on the floor of the house again, instead of in the speaker's chair. He used to make things lively interesting on the floor.

Gen. Aguinaldo wants to build up a dictatorship for himself. The idea of bossism is so distasteful to the average American that he feels justified in taking a shot at it on every possible occasion.

Some of the officials in Madrid take exceptions to Admiral Dewey's style of conducting a campaign. Evidently the Madrid people have the false impression that Dewey is on the Spanish pay roll.

The Emperor of Corea has recently ordered a complete outfit of American clothing. In spite of opposition and fault-finding in Boston and elsewhere, Uncle Sam continues to set the pace in all parts of the world.

In all probability the dollar-a-plate banquet in honor of Jefferson will demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver, denounce the holding of the Philippines, and do a great many other things that Jefferson never thought of doing.

American Control in Hawaii.

One indictment brought against President McKinley's policy of benevolent intervention in the Philippines is that Americans are utterly without experience in the control of Oriental races. But the traveler who steps ashore at Honolulu finds a town as polyglot as Manila and yet unmistakably American in its characteristics. It is about as large as the old city of Salem, Mass. Honolulu has fourteen churches, Young Men's Christian Association, three or four newspapers, lodges of the Masonic, Odd Fellow, and other orders, a post of the Grand Army of the Republic, a camp of the Sons of Veterans, asylums for the poor, hospitals for the sick and insane, a railroad, electric lights, telephones, public parks and public baths, and a compulsory system of education. It is, in brief, a thoroughly modern community, created out of the most incongruous elements of population that are gathered anywhere in the civilized world.

Four-fifths of this motley population is composed of either Malayo-Polynesians or Asiatics, the chief race elements of the Philippines. The Americans in Hawaii number all told only 3,086, or less than 3 per cent. This little handful has controlled Hawaii, and controls it today, not by force of arms, but by force of character. Hawaii is American for the simple reason that the men of our race who went there three quarters of a century ago and their successors have proven through all these years of free and fair competition that they were the wisest, the ablest, and the strongest counselors and leaders and administrators of the strangely mingled people of this ocean realm. It has simply been a question of the survival of the fittest.—From "American and Malay in Hawaii," by Winthrop L. Marvin, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for April.

Railroads in the Philippines.

It has often been suggested that the building of railroads through the Philippines greatly facilitate their development. As applied to Luzon alone the suggestion is true. If a railroad should be built from the north and south of Luxon into and from Manila, it would double the population of that city and increase its export trade to a paying extent. It would have a still greater influence if the pacification and civilization of the people. They would become familiarized with one another and with ourselves. It would accustom them to the spread of modern ideas and result in a more general diffusion of knowledge. Spheres of foreign influence in China are scarcely more than lines of railroad, building and proposed. The people of the Philippines are divided into tribes, knowing little of one another and usually living in a state of armed neutrality. Under the Spanish regime the northern islanders were sent to southern garrisons, while the southern tribes were pressed into service in the north. The immediate effect of a transinsular railroad would be to lessen the feeling of tribal hostility and avoid the ever present danger of internal warfare. The other islands are too small for the introduction of railroads.—From "Material Problems in the Philippine Islands," by Samuel W. Belford, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for April.

Change at the Prison.

At an early hour this morning the Oregon state penitentiary passes into the hands of the new administration, and superintendent A. N. Gilbert retires from the management of the institution after serving four years, and twenty-one days at its head, surrendering the place to his newly appointed successor, Hon. J. D. Lee, of Portland. At the same time Joseph T. Janes succeeds Henry B. Brophry as warden of the prison and Earl Race takes the position heretofore filled by Frank Meredith, as clerk.

The work of taking an inventory of the property and stock on hand was completed several days ago, and last evening everything was in condition for the turn-over this morning. For the past two weeks the new superintendent, warden and book keeper have been about the prison, and the retiring officers have exerted themselves to thoroughly inform their successors as to their various duties.

Yesterday Superintendent Lee filed his bond and oath of office with Gov. T. T. Geer, for $10,000, and J. T. Janes the new warden, presented his undertaking for $5,000, and the oath of office, and the two officers are prepared to begin their new duties this morning.

The number of prisoners to be transferred to the new management with the prison and stock is 337, coming from the various counties as follows:

Charley Mitchell Heard From.

Editor Graphic:

Thinking there might be a few of your readers who would like to hear what I think of the South I take this means of giving them the desired information. I arrived at Pensacola, Fla., on the 19th where I remained over night, then took the train for Pablo beach on the Atlantic, stopping at several points on the line of the L & N R R thence to this place by Jacksonville, Fla. and Macon, Ga. This clime is like all other places I ever saw and has some decided advantages and serious drawbacks. First as to western Fla., the land generally lays well, neither too flat nor too rolling but is very sandy and poor in quality in general, yet at Chipley and Grande Ridge, there seems to be a clay subsoil which produces much better than other sections I visited.

Southern methods of farming are very poor indeed, and plowing is done with one horse, mule or ox as the case may be, and is very shallow as they think it will ruin the ground by deep plowing, yet I visited an Indiana man who had put in blind or timber ditches where needed and was plowing with three horses and he was doing well. I think a man with the energy of a northern or western man, and with improved implements and northern methods can do as well here near Chipley and Grand Ridge and perhaps get along easier than any place I know of. Land is for sale by the multiplied thousands of acres ranging in price from 50 cents to $5 for unimproved lands and 8 or 10 miles from railroad, government land may be homesteaded.

One of the advantages of the South is you can get a crop off the land in time to sow a crop of peas to turn under as a fertilizer and thereby improve the land every year, as they claim a crop of peas is as good as a crop of clover in the north to enrich the soil and besides they can get a crop off the land and one into the soil the same season, while in the north they lose one year by fertilizing with clover.

The land in southern Ga. is similar to that in north Fla., while in the northern part land is more fertile and looks like a person could do better than farther south. The timber consists of poplar, hickory, some chestnut, and several kinds of oak, with some pine. The land is generally rolling and has two distinct soils, one of a gray color, the other a deep red, (the red is considered the best) yet they are both underlaid with a compact subsoil which causes the cleared land to wash away badly and necessitates a system of what the people term terrace farming by throwing up ridges from 16 to 40 feet apart, owing to the decline at right angles with decline to hold what little soil there is and it looks to me like it will take so much work to keep the soil from getting away that there would be but little profit in farming, and then while they claim this to be a great peach country the winters are so changeable that they cannot depend on peaches only every three or four years. I have decided that there is but little inducement to locate here. The grasses used here in the south for pasture are such as the Bermunda Carpet grass, wild clover and crab grass. The latter two are largely used for hay. Cow peas are largely used and a new bean called the velvet which grows an enormous crop, good both as a forage and fertilizer.

I should have said the timber of southern Ga. and northern Fla., is mostly pine from which is made turpentine, tar, rosin, and lumber which brings a large revenue annually and gives employment to a large number of men. Most of the labor in the south is done by negros who compose 60 per cent of the population. CHAS MITCHELL.

A man must reap as he sows. If he sows ill-health he will reap ill-health. If he neglects his health the weeds of disease will grow up and choke it.

It is a daily and hourly marvel that men will recklessly neglect their health, when a moment's thought should tell them that they are courting death. It lies in most every man's power to live to a green old age. If a man would only take the same care of himself that he does of his horse, or cow, or dog, he would enjoy good health. When a man owns a hundred-dollar horse, and it gets sick, he does not waste any time about doctoring him up. When his garden gets full of weeds, he doesn't delay about rooting them out, for he knows they will choke out his vegetables. When he is out of sorts, sick, nervous, headachey, has no appetite and is restless and sleepless at night, he pays little attention to it. The result is consumption, nervous prostration or some serious blood or skin disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best of all medicines for hard working men. It gives edge to the appetite, facilitates the flow of digestive juices, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of lingering coughs, bronchial and throat affections, weak lungs, bleeding from lungs and kindred affections. Do not wait until the lungs are too far wasted to admit of being cured.

"As you know, five years ago the doctors had given me up to die with consumption," writes Mr. E. G. McKinney, of Deepwater, Fayette Co., W. Va. "I took treatment from Dr. R. V. Pierce, and am entirely well now. I had taken steadily, as directed, his 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a dose.

Happy is the man or woman who can eat a good hearty meal without suffering afterward. If you can do it, take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat, and cures all forms of Dyspepsia and Indigestion. C. F. Moore & Co.

2 No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at C. E. Smith's Drugstore.

Breathes There a Man?

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
That to himself he hath not said,
"My trade of late is getting bad,
I'll try another ten-inch ad."
If such there be, go mark him well,
For him no bank account shall swell—
No angel watch the golden stair
To welcome home a billionaire.
To such a man the noisy din
Of traffic may not enter in,
For bargain hunters by the score
Shall pass nor heed his dingey door;
For tho his sign is on the wall
And on some barnyard gate a scrawl
No people who have cash or sense,
Go prancing round to read the fence.
The man who never asks for trade
By local line or ad. displayed—
Cares more for rest than worldly gain
And patronage but gives him pain;
Tread lightly friends, let no rude sound,
Disturb his solitude profound.
Here let him live in calm repose
Unsought except by men he owes,
And when he dies go plant him deep
That naught may break his dreamless sleep,
Where no rude clamor may dispel,
The quiet that he loved so well;
And that the world may know its loss
Place on his grave a wreath of moss
And on the stone above, "Here lies
A chump who wouldn't advertise."

As the season of the year when pneumonia, la grippe, sore throat, coughs, colds, catarrahs, bronchitis and lung troubles are to be guarded against, nothing "is a fine substitute," will "answer the purpose" or is "just as good" as One Minute Cough Cure. That is the one infallible remedy for all lung, throat or bronchial troubles. Insist vigorously upon having it if "something else" is offered you. C. F. Moore & Co.

For frost bites, burns, indolent sores, eczema, skin disease, and especially piles DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve stands first and best. As the time for the collection of bicycle taxes rolls around, there is some great guessing on the number of wheels in the county, the number being placed all the way from 150 to 1200—according to the number of guessers. It don't make much difference how many there are, the amount realized from taxes will build paths accommodating but a few in Yamhill county.—Transcript.

The tax levy for 1898 in the several counties of Oregon ranges all the way from 35.2 mills in Clatsop county to 16.6 mills in Yamhill. Next to Yamhill is Multnomah county with 18.5 mills. This speaks volumes for Yamhill county, where the warrants are at par and even command a premium.—Transcript.

It's a long life, but devotion to the true interests and prosperity of the American People has won for it new friends as the years rolled by and the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast today, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes and firesides.

As a natural consequence it enjoys in its old age all the vitality and vigor of youth, strengthened and ripened by the experiences of over half a century.

It is "The New-York Weekly Tribune," acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper.
