The contract for the carpenter work on the new M. E. church has been let to Smith & Heater. Allen Smith takes the old church building and in its place they put up a frame of the same size. This is much more satisfactory to the members of the church as it gives them an entirely new building instead of being compelled to add to the old one in order to get as large an edifice as is needed. Mr. Smith is having the old building moved to F. H. Storey's lots on the north side of First street directly opposite the Presbyterian church. It is understood that it has been traded to Mr. Storey who will occupy it as a tin shop, while Mr. Smith will put up a carpenter shop on the east side of it for his own use.

A New Invention. The Graphic is glad to note the fact that the W. K. Allen Evaporating Co. was so successful in business last year that the way has seemed clear to branch out in business on a larger scale than ever before. William Allen, the head of the company has battled against heavy odds since coming to Oregon, but he has pushed ahead with such an indomitable will and a determination to succeed that he has forced his way to the front in business and he now has a good prospect of laying up something for a rainy day. Besides working the sale of the Allen Evaporator, the company has evaporators here in Newberg that will be operated during the season as they have been in the past, and as will be seen from the following item of news taken from the Statesman they now have large interests in Salem. The Statesman says: "The Wallace cannery and evaporating plant located on Twelfth street in this city, near the Southern Pacific company's passenger depot, was purchased from J. M. Wallace, the agent, by the W. K. Allen Evaporating Company, of Newberg, Yamhill county, the consideration being $10,000. Negotiations for the purchase of this property had been pending for several days, but were finally consummated yesterday morning. The transfer includes the entire canning and evaporating plant on Twelfth street. O. V. Allen, who will serve as general manager for the new company, was seen yesterday afternoon by a representative of the Statesman. Mr. Allen said that the plant would be operated this season. The cannery will be run, said Mr. Allen, with a view to supply the demand for the canned product. The management will regulate the output of the cannery by the demand and will endeavor to prevent overstocking the market. Peas and tomatoes will be handled this year, and possibly a few strawberries will be canned. Ultimately, however, the new company proposes to place in the market all kinds of vegetables and fruits canned. When the amount of damage done the fruit trees in this vicinity by the February frost shall have been determined upon and if the prospects are then favorable for a fair fruit crop this fall, Mr. Allen informed the writer that the capacity of the evaporating plant would be doubled. The new firm has contracted with numerous farmers for the pea crop and that vegetables will be quite extensively handled. The task of renovating the cannery and placing it in readiness for the season's work will begin about May 1st and by the first of the succeeding month the plant will be ready for operation. Mr. Allen, who is the president of the company, leased the evaporating plant from Mr. Wallace last season and very successfully operated the same. The news that the cannery and evaporator of the Salem cannery which has been idle since the summer of 1895, will be operated this season will be welcome intelligence to the farmers and fruit growers throughout this section of the valley. It will furnish them a market for their vegetables and fruits which have, during the past few years, by reason of bountiful crops, been difficult to dispose of in the local market.

Dr. G. S. Wright informs a Transcript reporter that the big prune orchard on the hill west of town has been thoroughly gone through, and that out of 80 acres there is not to exceed a dozen trees injured in the least. It would seem from reports that the scare of a few weeks ago as to our fruit was unfounded, and aside from peaches there will be an abundance of fruit this season.—Transcript.

Happened and Happening. To "walk around the world backward" is an enterprise recently proposed by a Brussels fool. The life-saving crews on the Atlantic coast are said to have rescued more than 1,800 people during the past winter. The busy little bee carries a lunch-basket attached to its hind legs, that will carry provisions (pollen) enough to last it three days. A barbed wire fence company has been formed in Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma. The prickly land protectors act perfectly as conductors of sound. "Pennies" are considered "unlucky" by some people, who throw them away rather than keep them any length of time. Nobody can tell to what extremes superstition will yet go. Massachusetts' convicts are to be utilized in road making. Kingston, Canada, criminals, some of whom have doubtless broken locks in their day, are set to making them. Three new novels a day on an average are issued in London—few of which strike on their feet, and the most of which "fall flat"—every one of them being largely an experiment. Spain has greater mineral resources than any other country in Europe, including iron, copper, zinc, silver, antimony, quicksilver, lead and gypsum; but it is thought she lacks "sand." Australia is nearly as large as the United States, with considerably over three million people. It is thought by some that it will soon become a separate nation, with the full consent of England. The dressmaker is gradually going—tailor-made and ready-made suits having become more and more popular during the past few years, and bidding fair to take the place of the woman-made article. Among the achievements of our nineteenth century are the production of fifty-two islands, that have risen ready-made, from the sea—hosted by volcanic disturbances. Ten of these are already inhabited. A Russian shop-keeper warns his customers to hurry and buy of him while he is still a bachelor; as he is soon to be married, and must then necessarily charge higher prices in order to make a living. Hoboes cook stolen chickens by wadding them up in clay and throwing the whole parcel into the fire. The earth around the fowl hardens and becomes a miniature oven, to which the feathers adhere when the dainty bird is extracted. The whole flavor of the hen has been retained, and—yum.—Every Where.

This city has a young lady who may justly be termed an ideal woman. This spring she ordered the lumber and put down a floor as neatly as any carpenter could do it, making all the joints perfectly; put up a ceiling, painted the interior of the house, painted and veneered the furniture and made herself useful in other ways about the home. The modesty of the young lady will not permit our giving her name.—Transcript.
