Spring.

Among the branches of the trees
The merry robins toot;
Far out, upon the bleacherie,
The merry rooters root.
The biking girl is out again
Upon a wheeling spree;
She knocks down timid gentlemen
And mocks their miseree.
The winter cider barrel lies
Deplete, without a bung;
Also, the farmer's out of meat,
And gentle Spring has sprung.
—Indianapolis Journal.

From now on to the end of June the sweet girl graduate will be having her say.

It is well that the embalmed beef investigation committee finished its labors before the weather got too hot.

In the competition for the best cyclone record "old Mizoory" seems to be getting the bulge on Kansas of late years.

Since the home coming of Dewey has been announced every Fourth of July committee in the country is after him.

The season in Oregon bids fair to be so short that steps ought to be taken to have the Fourth of July put off till September.

Say Pague, isn't that little discrepancy in the way of a lack of four inches of moisture mentioned some time ago, about made up?

It would be interesting to know where Col Funston learned to swim, for in Kansas, his home state they never let the boys waste any water by bathing.

J. Wheelock Marsh, postmaster at Forest Grove, has taken charge of the Hatchet plant which he sold to Austin Craig when he was appointed postmaster about four years ago.

In an Illinois town a man recently bought another man's wife for $3 and a hat, while here in Oregon men have often been known to pay several times that amount to get rid of their wives.

South Carolina is in a fair way to become bankrupt. The state has a new law which provides that the county in which a lynching occurs must pay the relatives of the individual lynched $2000.

A police Judge at Columbus, Ohio, sentenced two boys the other day to go to Sunday school for four months. For some boys this would not be a very light sentence with the fishing season just now on.

A horse that two years ago would go begging for a buyer at $50 will now sell readily for $100. This noble animal is still able to kick up his heels and hold his place along with bicycle and the trolley car.

"For wheresoever the carcass is, there will the eagles be gathered together." Revised version—For wheresoever a jug is kept on tap, it may be located by the number of red nosed topers who scent it from afar and by their presence give the thing away.

A. J. Apperson, of McMinnville has been appointed receiver of the land office at Sitka, Alaska. Mr. Apperson has been a lifelong republican and during the last campaign he was a gold standard man without any strings on him. The Graphic is glad to hear of his appointment.

Emerson said, the truest test of civilization is not the census or the crops, but the kind of men the country turns out. A large army of parents all over the land are straining their purses to keep their sons and daughters in college because they agree with Emerson.

Dewey has accepted an invitation to dine at a hundred dollar a plate dinner at New York on his return. To most of us it looks like it would require quite an effort to be able to put away one hundred dollars worth of feed at one sitting, but if those fellows over at New York want to spend their money that way Dewey is about as much entitled to a trial of it as anybody.

When an advertiser drops out of the papers for three or four months he must renew acquaintanceship with readers who lost sight of and interest in him. It is far better to occupy small space and keep it filled with often changed matter (the oftener the better) than it is to come out at long intervals with big display advertisements.—Plaindealer.

Carter's Monthly Magazine, published in Chicago, and edited by Opie Read, is said to be making rapid strides in the public favor. The May number which is on our table is well filled with excellent magazine matter, yet some disappointment is felt on failing to find anything from the pen of Opie Read, the author of "The Jucklins" "My Young Master" &c. Read is an entertaining writer and Carter's will be watched for some of his articles.

F. S. Harding of the Telephone-Register will do the honors of the Yamhill county press at the meeting of the National Editorial Association in Portland July 5, he having been appoinued a delegate to that meeting.

Charles Emory Smith, Postmaster General, says in an article in the Cosmopolitan for May: The postal establishment of the United States is the greatest business concern in the world. It handles more pieces, employs more men, spends more money, brings more revenue, uses more agencies, reaches more homes, involves more interests than any other human organization, public or private, governmental or corporate.

Speaker Reed is reported as saying that the greatest personal triumph of his life was the adoption of his quorum-counting rule by the Democratic majority in the Fifty-second Congress, thereby recognizing its justice and necessity from a parliamentary view. "I might never have succeeded in convincing the world I was right," says Mr. Reed, "but Speaker Crisp and the Democratic majority took that burden off my shoulders in a way which gave me profound personal gratification."

In a letter to an Ottawa county, Kansas, paper one of the members of General MacArthur's brigade writes from Manila: "Night before last I was on picket duty all night, and yesterday morning I found that the nigger picket was within a hundred yards of me. After a little talk we both laid down our guns and met between the lines and had a little visit. He said the people in their army did not want to fight us, but they had to or their officers would kill them. He also said that he had not had a bite to eat for three days. I gave him what hardtack I had with me, and it did me more good to see him eat it than if I had eaten it myself. When we parted we shook hands, and he cried like a baby."

Some weeks ago we called the attention in in these columns to the fact that we knew of a boy who had no home, but would be willing to work for his board and clothing and schooling in some good family. The lad now has a very nice home, as a result of the announcment, and he could have had his pick of several such, or at least his friends who were looking out for him could. It would surprise most people who have had no experience with these things to know how many families there are where a good boy or girl would fit in and be a very desirable acquisition. There is, somewhere, a place for every well disposed person, young or old. It is one of the most important duties of society to find the round holes for the round pegs in the shape of individuals, and the square holes for the square pegs. After all, the best crop we produce is the crop of children. For them all the work of the world is performed, for they will soon be the whole people.—Statesman.

The Bad Effects of Rusty Milk Cans.

A rather startling experience with rusty tinware comes from Denmark. One of the dairy councilors got a sample of milk from a creamery manager; it was not sour, though two or three days old, but had a half-rotten smell and a horrible tallowy taste. He went to the creamery and examined the milk from the patron in question. The can was clean but very rusty inside and barely half full. He induced the manager to buy a new can and send it to the patron instead of the old one. The patron sent back the new can empty, but bought one himself, and sent half in this and half in the old one. The milk was perfect in the new can, and as bad as before in the old rusty one.

The councilor purchased the old rusty can, and carried on a number of experiments with milk from other farms and got the same result—a beastly smell and a tallowy taste. Analysis showed that the milk contained considerable iron, and the trouble was worse when the can was half full than when full. Butter made from this milk was tallowy. The can was always cleaned in the usual manner and steamed before using, but the result was the same. A city milk man in Copenhagen had similar trouble, and there can be no doubt that a great deal of milk is spoiled in a similar way. There are many hundreds of rusty milk cans in use in this country, and which may be to blame for the bad flavors found in a great deal of the milk.

Medill's Stuff Got In.

The death of Joseph Medill, of the Chicago Tribune, recalls a quaint little adventure. I got a job on the 'Trib,' as we called it back in '88, and like many reporters, never bothered my head about anything outside the local room. In fact, I hardly knew who owned the paper. One day the city editor asked me to go out and get some opinions from old citizens about a certain gas franchise, and while wandering around I happened to encounter a benevolent-looking old gentleman in the bookstore of Jansen & McClurg, afterward A. C. McClurg & Co. He seemed like a substantial citizen, so I tackled him about the franchise, and he gave me a meaty talk, right in line with the paper's policy.

When I asked him his name I understood him to say McGill. He added that he was in the 'paper business,' so I put him down as Mr. McGill the well known wall paper man. As I was about to go out he remarked pleasantly that he was thinking of writing something himself on the subject for the Tribune, and, being young and fresh, I laughed merrily. 'Don't do it my friend,' said I 'for it won't get in. We are loaded down now with "Old Subscriber" and "More Anon" communications.' He chuckled and I bade him good day. Much to my chagrin the city editor declared there was no such wall paper dealer as McGill in Chicago, and blue-penciled every line of my interview, strongly intimating that it was a fake. About a month later I was sitting in the local room one day when in walked my friend of Jansen & McClurg's, and the instantaneous grovel of the employees gave me a sudden clew to the truth. Presently the old man saw me and at once walked over to my desk. My blood ran cold. 'Well my boy,' he said kindly, 'it seems I was luckier than you; my stuff got in.' "—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

LETTER FROM MANILA.

The work of the Trained Nurse in the care of the Wounded soldiers.—Extracts from a letter written by Mrs. Christine Bedell.

First Reserve Hospital
Manila P. I. 3-21-99.

That first day of the battle stands out very strongly in my memory and always will. For a time I could hardly sleep starting up from dreams of wounded and dying men with blood stained faces and ghastly wounds. All day Sunday they were bringing in the dead and wounded, I think in all a hundred and twenty. I wanted to sit down and cry but didn't have time, as it was run here with a cup of water or there with a blanket, doing the little one could to save life or make the dying easier. Through it all there were very few groans. The boys were soldiers upon the operating table as well as in the field. The surgeons worked until they almost dropped, especially Major Fitzgerald of the Minn. and Captain Straub of the Regulars. The surgeons generally were very much pleased with the work of the trained nurses during those first days of the rush. They are quite covinced that we know how to work. For the first time on that Sunday, now six weeks ago, I was glad I was in Manila but before that I felt myself to be rather a supernumerary, but now there is lots of work. Besides the wounded men there are a great many brought in exhausted with the work, heat or fever, or that, those I never see because my ward is entirely surgical. Lately some of my ex-patients have been coming back and saying nice things to me and officers often come in and thank me for the care I have taken of their men. It makes me feel like working though it always seems so little one does.

Ever since the trouble began I have wanted to go to the front just to see how it would feel to be under fire. However I did have the pleasure (?) of hearing bullets ring over my head and patter on the roofs of the houses. They came from some sharp-shooters across the river shooting from a tower. Our men soon put a stop to them. There has been very little trouble in the City proper. In some of the outskirts fires have been started by the natives, no doubt with the intention of burning the town. When a fire starts in any of these native shacks they go like kindling wood as they are built of bamboo and thatched with rye straw or something of the kind. I remember the first big fire at Paco about two miles from here we could here the cracking and popping of the bamboo sounding just like firing guns. We thought there must be a furious battle going on and later we drove out to the fire and found it only the bamboo. It takes quite a practiced ear to distinguish it from volley firing. You would have laughed had you been with me at that fire. The fire department is a farce. In the first place when the fire alarm is turned in all the firemen get down and pray before they start out. All I saw of them at the fire was one poor little man dragging a piece of hose about, his last effort being to save a house some distance from the fire by throwing a weak little stream of water on about three feet square of the metal roof for about ten minutes, then stopping and calmly surveying his work in a self satisfied manner. The American soldiers jeered at him immoderately. If a stream of water the size and force used in most of our large cities was thrown onto one of the native's huts it would sweep it off the earth.

I go to the hospital at seven-thirty a. m. stay until 1 p. m. then off until 2:30, working until six. We have no night work except as we do it of our own free will as many of us did when the trouble first began, working sometimes until twelve or one o'clock.

My ward is almost entirely filled up with men with broken legs, poor boys how they suffer! I have one boy with a broken leg, a broken arm and shot through the chest. He is doing well though his continual cry is "my leg hurts terribly." He says it so often too, poor boy, that I almost go crazy, and there are about ten of them just the same way. There are many, many sad cases, so many that I think we are hard hearted about them, yet sometimes when I think of all who have lost their lives and the wounded who are maimed for life it makes me almost cry. Up to the present there are about four hundred wounded and one hundred and thirty five killed.

On the whole I like this place and think there is money to be made here after the war closes if the U. S. keeps the Islands. It is not so dreadfully hot. There is lots of smallpox and skin diseases of various kinds, but really I like it quite well.

MRS. CHRISTINE BEDELL.

J. D. Bridge, editor and proprietor of the Democrat, Lancaster, N. H., says: I would not be without One Minute Cough Cure for my boy, when troubled with a cold or cough. It is the best remedy for croup I ever used. C. F. Moore & Co.

The Cornerstone of Matrimony.

"The injunctions to "bear and forbear," rightly followed, stands as an impregnable corner-stone to the matrimonial edifice. If one starts out on a trip with friends the great necessity as a means to fruitful pleasure is compatability of spirit and a constant guard upon thoughtless impulse. How much more is this true of the trip through life with the friend chosen from out the world as the one most worthy our love, respect and self sacrifice. In all friendship it is wise to hunt out the sunny spots to be found in every character if rightly sought; and so in marriage—if man and wife find themselves sitting in the shade of each other's dispositions they must seek the sunlight together or storm clouds will gather overhead.

What we need in marital partnerships is more courage and consideration—courage with which to meet our own faults; consideration with which to meet other people's. A marriage balanced by these weights is bound to prosper and point out a paradise where the circulation of the soul is purified.—"The National Magazine," Boston, May number.

Some of the results of neglected dyspeptic conditions of the stomach are cancer, consumption, heart disease and epilepsy. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure prevents all this by effecting a quick cure in all cases of Dyspepsia. C F Moore & Co.

Gathering Chittam bark is quite a profitable business to those who understand how to handle it. The bark when properly prepared for market is now worth $60 per ton. Robert Earl of Dayton is now employed in gathering the bark for a San Francisco firm.—Dayton Herald.

A Frightful Blunder.

Chas. McPhillips has received from his Southern Oregon mine a chunk of gold that makes a fellow's eyes fairly bulge out to look at. There is about $50 of the pure metal in the piece, which is a beauty.—Transcript.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest dangers from la gripp is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la gripp we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dangerous disease. It will cure la gripp in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by C. F. Moore & Co. druggists.

The county court is getting ready to build bridges across the river at Carlton, across the Willamina at Willamina, besides several "dry land" bridges in different parts of the country. So there will probably be a good season for bridge builders.—Transcript.

An Enterprising Firm.

There are few men more wide awake and enterprising than C. E. Smith who spares no pains to secure the best of everything in his line for his many customers. He now has the Agency for Dr. King's New Discovery, which surely cures Consumption, Coughs and Colds. This is the wonderful remedy that is now producing so much excitement all over the country, by its many startling cures. It absolutely cures Asthma, Bronchitis, Nausea, and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. You can test it before buying, by calling at the above Drug Store and get a trial Bottle Free, or regular size for 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed to cure, or price refunded.

George Dorsey, of Dayton, one of the old County Commisioners of Yamhill, and a good one, by the way, was in town Saturday, the first time in a long while. He says he don't know that the farmer have anything to kick about this spring, as this is not the most backward season we have had as he can attest; that peaches and quinces have been nipped by the frost, but outside of this, fruit will be good; while it is plenty early yet for spring seeding to insure good crops. And Mr. Dorsey has been in Oregon a long time, and knows what he is talking about.—Transcript.

Pneumonia, la grippe, coughs, cold, croup and whooping cough readily yield to One Minute Cough Cure. Use this remedy in time and save a doctor bill—or the undertaker's. C F. Moore & Co.

Ex-Mayor Chrisman, in conversation with a reporter the other day as to his age, said: "I am 69 years old, but feel like a young man. And that reminds me that 55 years ago the 10th of this month I started for Oregon, driving cattle across the plains, coming all the way on foot. Fifty-five years doesn't seem very long, but I tell you many changes have come under my observation in that time. And I am still of the opinion that Oregon is the best country on earth."—Transcript.

If you have piles cure them. No use undergoing horrible operations that simply remove the results of the disease without disturbing the disease itself. Place your confidence in DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It has never failed to cure others; it will not fail to cure you. C F Moore & Co.

The action of Jacob Wortman, president of the First National Bank, McMinnville, is most commendable, and shows his appreciation of the pleasant relations in business affairs existing between the First National Bank and the business men of Dayton. He has shown his good will in a substantial manner and unsolicited, by authorizing Nichols & Gabriel, the Dayton merchants, to subscribe $25 for him to the subscription now being raised to build a flouring mill in Dayton.—Dayton Herald.

If you suffer from tenderness or fullness on the right side, pains under shoulder blade, constipation, biliousness sick headache and feel dull, heavy and sleepy your liver is torpid and congested. DeWitt's Little Early Risers will cure you promptly, pleasantly and permanently by removing the congestion and causing the bile ducts to open and flow naturally. They are good pills. C. F. The bud is more easily blighted than the full-blown rose. A young girl is more susceptible to weakness and disease that will wreck her in a womanly way than she is after she has attained to healthy womanhood. Thousands of women have their lives wrecked by troubles of this delicate description because of their own ignorance and the prudery of their mothers.

Whenever the wandering demon of ill-health finds a ship adrift upon the sea of ignorance, he steps on board, takes the helm, and steers straight for the maelstrom of death. The young woman who has not been taught the necessity of taking care of her health in a womanly way is a ship adrift upon the sea of ignorance. Diseases that will wreck her future happiness will soon assume command. Young women who suffer from weakness and disease peculiar to their sex live under a terrible nervous tension, and if they escape death are always threatened with insanity. The whole nervous system is affected by the constant drag and drain upon the delicate and feminine organs. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the one perfect and unfailing specific for every derangement and disorder of this description. It fits a woman for wifehood and motherhood It is the best of all known nerve tonics. It is the discovery of one of the most eminent and skillful specialists in disease of women.

"I was troubled three years with female weakness," writes Miss Ellen Otey, of Bedford City, Bedford Co., Va. "I had two physicians, but neither did me any good. I was troubled with pains in my left side all the time. When it was time for my monthly periods I thought I would die with pains in my back and stomach. I also had chills. I could not get up without fainting. Finally I took three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and two of his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I do not have any pains at all and am in better health now than I ever was in my life."

How to preserve health and beauty are told in Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover mailing only; cloth binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

NEARLY FIFTY-EIGHT YEARS OLD ! !

It's a long life, but devotion to the true interests and prosperity of the American People has won for it new friends as the years rolled by and the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast today, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes and firesides.

As a natural consequence it enjoys in its old age all the vitality and vigor of youth, strengthened and ripened by the experiences of over half a century.

It is "The New-York Weekly Tribune," acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper.

Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publisher of "The Graphic" (your own favorite home paper) has entered into an alliance with "The New-York Weekly Tribune" which enables him to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.50 per year.

Every farmer and every villager owes to himself, to his family, and to the community in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untiringly for his interests in every way, brings to his home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, is a weekly visitor which should be found in every wide awake, progressive family.

Just think of it! Both these papers for $1.50 a year.
