

He is now General Summers.

Queen Victoria is now 80 and "a goin' on."

The New York Voice has not succeeded any better with its spelling reform than it has in its efforts for prohibition.

Dewey is now on the way home to his native land. When he arrives the noise that will be made will cause him to conclude that the people regard him as a "bigger man than old Grant."

It begins to look very much like the Second Oregon would be on their way home at an early day as their mail has been ordered held at San Francisco. The boys will be given a royal welcome on their arrival.

Aguinado is now talking about conquering the United States. He probably is trying to persuade his Tagal dupes that Admiral Dewey is hurrying home to protect New York harbor from the invading Tagal war canoes.—New York Tribune.

Ex-Senator Peffer says he will return to the republican fold. That's the way they do in Kansas. Just get the crowd started in one direction and they go like a band of sheep. Well, Peffer may do, but deliver us from the company of Jerry Simpson.

Boys with their hats on the back of their heads and long hair hanging down over their foreheads, with cigarettes and smutty words in their mouths, are cheaper than old worn out shoes—no body wants them at any price. Men will not employ them, girls will not marry them, they are not worth their keeping, and they will not keep themselves. If any boy happens to read this description, let him take a look at himself and then do what his conscience tells him to do.—Valley Express.

In recognizing the ability of President Thomas Newlin as an educator, by appointing him on the State Board of Examiners, great honor has been conferred on Pacific college by Governor Geer, since President Newlin has stood at the head of this institution ever since it was founded as a college. Among his other duties as a member of the board he will assist in making out the list of questions for teachers examinations, and will also pass on the papers of those who take the examinations for state certificates. Pres. Newlin has special qualifications for these duties and no better appointment has been made by Gov. Geer.

It is habitual for Kansas to overdo things. If it is a cyclone or a drought, a crop of corn or a plague of grasshoppers, a stack of mortgages or a gas well, a great moral reform or a sorghum mill, a race horse or a regiment of fighting men, Kansas always excels, or at least she thinks she does, and that is the same thing. Her orators are the most eloquent, her cranks are the most obstreperous, her soil the most fertile, and her skies are the bluest in the world. In the exuberance of his oratory one of the brilliant sons of the state recently exclaimed, "God said, 'let there be light,' and there was—Kansas." The entire people appear to contemplate their own virtues and valor in a similar spirit.—Chicago Record.

An exchange makes the following comments on the race problem of the South which are certainly in place: The man who remembers that for 250 years the black man was brought by the ship load to "Gods country" from the jungles of Africa; robbed of his labor; bred like the beasts of the field; every virtue such as honor, truthfulness and chastity crushed to feed the fierce blaze of the white man's passion; and brutalized in order to make him a more mercantile commodity, does not become overwhelmed with wonder every time he hears that a chicken has been stolen from a white man by a black one or that a black man has ravished a white woman. The thoughtful man recognizes that this is only an immutated retribution brought on the centuries of the dishonor of slaves by the first retribution was wrought out in the blood. The second retribution is the lowering himself to the level of the brute. The pity of it is that the apparently innocent must suffer with the guilty.

The gathering of the Baptists in San Francisco for the commemoration of the semi-centennial of the inauguration of missionary work under the auspices of that denomination on the Pacific coast has begun. From all indications it will be the greatest ecclesiastical convention, in a numerical sense, that has ever met on the Pacific slope. The Baptist may fairly be said to be "at home" in the missionary field, however far from his country or his childhood's haunts the duties involved in its cultivation may carry him. It may be expected, therefore, that, standing at the western gateway of the nation, looking toward the limitless field for missionary endeavor that has been opened by the acquisition of the Philippines, the Baptist missionary spirit will fairly run riot in enthusiasm, and that, while glorying in the past efforts of the Baptist denomination to carry the gospel (according to its tenets) to every creature, it will see visions and dream dreams of a mighty expansion of effort and influence. It may be said in passing, we hope without offense, that if it were possible to divert missionary effort, among the so-called heathen, or creed without robbing it of enthusiasm, the widened field could be entered with much fairer promise of a fruitful yield in practical Christianity, the simple basis of which is in the golden rule.—Oregonian.

They Want Cuba to Be Annexed.
The report that the Cuban planters, irrespective of race, want the United States' connection with the island to be permanent will surprise nobody. Many of the planters in Cuba are foreigners. They are Spaniards (who are now aliens in a particularly direct and emphatic sense), Americans, Englishmen, Germans, Frenchmen and others. More of the planters in Cuba were born outside of the island than were born in it. They are an especially intelligent element of the population. They wield much influence in the affairs of the island. Probably they exert almost as much sway as the cotton and sugar planters of the Southern states did in their locality in the old days of slavery in the United States.

But the planters are not the only persons engaged in business in Cuba who want to have the island maintain its connection with the United States. The vast majority of the persons engaged in all the important industries in the island stand with the planters on this question, it is safe to say. They want the connection to become more intimate than it is, and to continue always. They are annexationists, almost to a man. The reasons for this condition are, of course, plain. Annexation would insure liberal government, progress and stability. The petty extortions of the Spanish regime would be ended immediately and permanently by annexation. The revolts and disturbances of all sorts which would be sure to result from Cuban rule would be averted. Cuba would get a chance to develop its resources. This chance has never yet, in the entire four centuries of its history, been afforded it.

Annexation sentiment, however, is not confined to the foreigners of all races who reside in Cuba. Undoubtedly a large part of the natives now favor the retention of American sway. The United States has introduced many reforms into the management of the affairs of the island. For the first time in its annals Cuba has been furnished with government which is in line with the progress and enlightenment of the age. The Cubans have a letter-carrier system; they have improved methods of railroad and telegraphic communication; their cities are in process of sanitation, whereby the epidemics of yellow fever will be diminished, and eventually will disappear, if annexation takes place. The American connection, even in the rudimentary shape which it has taken, has brought so many and such conspicuous benefits to Cuba already, although the war in the island has not been ended much over half a year, that intelligent Cubans will see that it is to their interest to have this Americanization continued and extended. It is entirely safe to predict that when Cuba, next year or the year after, chooses between independence and annexation, an overwhelming majority of voters will be cast for annexation.—Globe Democrat.

J. D. Bridge, editor and proprietor of the Democrat, Lancaster, N. H., says: I would not be without One Minute Cough Cure for my boy, when troubled with a cold or cough. It is the best remedy for croup I ever used. C. F. Moore & Co.

Spelling Reform.
Some time ago two or three newspapers of the country established spelling reform to a limited degree in their respective offices. In those papers "thorough" as "thero," "programme" as "program," and "catalogue," as "dialogue," "prologue," and words with like termination are shorn of the two final letters. Superintendent Andrews, of the Chicago public schools, has issued an order that the words named above and a few others, such as "through" amended to "thru," shall be spelled by the pupils in the abbreviated form. Mr. Andrews is wasting his energies if he hopes to establish a general change. In the years that two or three newspapers mentioned have amended spelling they have had many imitators, and it is certain that many, even of their "constant readers," still encounter the words so amended of their accustomed letters with a feeling of irritation. Writers who prepare their manuscript according to the ruler of these papers will need to correct or will find it corrected should the matter be printed in school books. Chicago public school children who learn to write "thru" will probably live to an advanced age before they will find such spelling acceptable to editors and publishers in general. But if it is Superintendent Andrews' purpose to simplify spelling in order to make it less difficult for the pupils to master he is proceeding on the wrong theory. It is not such words as he specifies that are commonly misspelled, but more simple ones, as "few" for "few," "enny" for "any," "hert" for "hurt," and the like words whose proper spelling it should seem would be the first to suggest itself even to the doubtful. Persons whose business it is to read much manuscript know that the illiterate writer is more likely to spell the long words correctly than those of one or two syllables belonging to the every-day vocabulary. This prevailing peculiarity is susceptible of more than one explanation, but the fact that it exists shows the futility of such efforts at reform as Mr. Andrews is attempting. To spell well is a desirable accomplishment and, considering the irregularities of our language, is one that a surprising number of people acquire. There are persons so constituted that they can never master the intricacies of English spelling under any circumstances, and to such permission to write "though" with only three letters would be of but little help. As for the majority, who do not find half the difficulty with their spelling that professional educators fancy, they are content with the language as it is.—Indianapolis Journal.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest dangers from the grip is its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for the grip we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dangerous disease. It will cure the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by C. F. Moore & Co. druggists.

The artist who is in search of attitudes for depicting suffering, need not go to the grimy markets of old. If he could only see through the walls into tens of thousands of homes all over this land, he would see women undergoing tortures in silence without complaining, before which the brief ordeals of the martyrs pale into nothingness. No one can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangement of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. One of the worst effects of troubles of this kind is upon the nervous system. The tortures so bravely endured completely and effectually shatter the nerves. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is an unerring cure for all weakness and disease of the feminine organism. It makes it strong and healthy. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It checks exhausting drains and tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Good medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing "just as good."

Since my last child was born, thirteen years ago, I have suffered from sterility trouble. writes Mrs. Paul DeVraime, of Jellito, Campbell Co., Tenn. I consulted several doctors and took much medicine, but found no relief. I had very bad health for twelve years. Every month I was in bed a week before the monthly period and a week after. I was obliged to keep in bed for four months last summer. I was just like a corpse. I lost twenty-six pounds in four months. I was coughing so much I was confined in consumption. I suffered severely from pains in my back, bearing down pains in the womb, chills and cold sweats. After taking four boxes of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Medical Discovery my cough stopped, and after six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription my health became regular and I was able to go out. I am healthy, more so than ever before. My neighbors are surprised to see me in such good health after having seen me so low.

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is speedily cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

NEARLY FIFTY-EIGHT YEARS OLD ! !

It's a long life, but devotion to the true interests and prosperity of the American People has won for it new friends as the years rolled by and the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast today, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes and firesides.

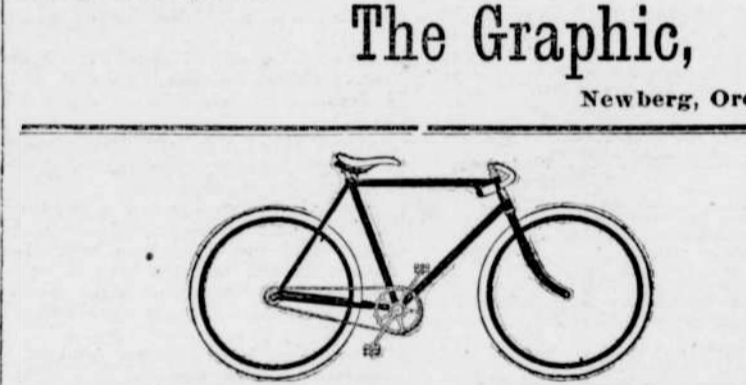

As a natural consequence it enjoys in its old age all the vitality and vigor of youth, strengthened and ripened by the experiences of over half a century.

It is "The New-York Weekly Tribune," acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper.

Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publisher of "The Graphic" (your own favorite home paper) has entered into an alliance with "The New-York Weekly Tribune" which enables him to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.50 per year.

Every farmer and every villager owes to himself, to his family, and to the community in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untriflingly for his interests in every way, brings to his home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, is a weekly visitor which should be found in every wide awake, progressive family.
