Some of the musical young men about town are arranging to organize a male chorus. Newberg needs more music than it has been receiving of late and an organization of this kind would be very desirable. It is hoped that the young gentlemen will succeed in their undertaking.
From all present indications the attendance at the college will be very good this year. Most of the old students are expected back and many prospective new students have been heard from. Any one thinking of attending can get a catalogue giving full information, by calling at the Graphic office.
A most delightful birthday surprise was given Tuesday evening at the residence of Kinley and Jane Blair, in honor of Kinley Blair's Seventeenth birthday anniversary. An hour was spent in social chat after which a tempting repast was served in the dining room. The honored host was the recipient of a number of useful gifts. The following guests were present: Alpheus and Anna Blair, Almina Mills and daughter Edith, Hannah Bond, Kinley and Jane Blair, Martin and Mary Jane Cook, Calvin Stanley, Enos and Elizabeth Blair, Helen Chamberlain, Jonathan and Jane Votaw, James and Mattie Vestal.
Despite the all-prevailing mists, Al Moore enjoyed(?) a little spell of hot weather all to himself one day last week. He was out handling wood, and in driving among the stumps his horse stirred up a nest of the good old fashioned black hornets. The nest seemed remarkably well inhabited, and all anxious to do volunteer service for their country. The horses pulled the wagon onto a stump and before they could pull it off, they were stung all over, while Al received about a dozen compliments. The black fellows seemed determined to carry war into the enemy's country for they followed the wagon for a quarter of a mile doing service all the way. Al said it was the hottest weather he had ever experienced, even in August.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures dyspepsia because its ingredients are such that it can't help doing so. "The public can rely upon it as a master remedy for all disorders arising from imperfect digestion." James M. Thomas, M.D., in American Journal of Health, N. Y. C. F. Moore & Co.
Leona S. Heacock stopped with his brother W. P. over night last week on his way home on a visit from the St. Vincent's hospital, where he has been for several weeks with a broken leg. He can walk around some with crutches, but it will be several weeks yet before he can do much work.
It will be of interest to many readers to know that M. Z. Kirk, traveling agent of the American Friend, who was in attendance here at Friends yearly meeting a little over a year ago, was recently married to Miss Linnie K. Meyers, a Colorado lady. Mr. Kirk is now situated in Denver, as manager of the Union Book and Bible House.

An Astonishing But True Story
"My home is in Sidney, Ohio. I have been nearer death with consumption than any other living person in the world, and I want you to read this, so you can tell others. I took a severe cold and neglected it. I grew worse all the time, and at the end of two years I had run into consumption. I coughed terribly, lost flesh, could not sleep, and became so dreadfully weak that I had to take to bed. In the following eighteen months I gradually reached the last stages of consumption. No less than seven physicians treated me and all gave me up saying I was incurable. I was absolutely helpless. The whole family wore themselves out caring for me. One day mother and sister came to my bedside, and said I had but a day or two more to live. Tears rolled down their cheeks as they sobbed the Dr. Acker's Celebrated English Remedy, was vouchsafed by them, as well as by prominent druggists of Sidney, Ohio. I told me such a thing was impossible—that I would surely die before I got back. But I insisted, and to gratify my dying wish, a carriage was fitted up with a bed of pillows, and to this I was carried and slowly driven around Court House Square. I got home more dead than alive. Through the mercy of Providence, someone brought a trial bottle of medicine said to be a consumption cure. No one imagined for an instant it was worth trying. But as a drowning person grasps at a straw, so I tried this medicine. I was better after taking two doses. Mother got more of the medicine and I took it, improving all the time. Today I am as well as any reader of this paper, and the medicine that cured me was Acker's English Remedy for Consumption. I declare before God and man that every word here printed is true."
This remarkable testimonial, on file in the office of Messrs. W. H. Hooker & Co., New York, proprietors of the Celebrated English Remedy, is vouchsafed by them, as well as by prominent druggists of Sidney, Ohio.
Acker's English Remedy is sold by all druggists, under a positive guarantee that your money will be refunded in case of failure. In England it is sold in 2s. 6d. and 5s. 6d. bottles.

Rev. Joseph Hall very generously donated to this office a liberal sample of large red strawberries last Tuesday, grown on his property east of town. Think of strawberries growing and ripening at the first of September.
So far, Jim Everest takes the cake in this part of the country on his wheat yield. His small tract of eight acres yielded forty-eight bushels to the acre. We haven't heard of this record being beaten either in or out of Old Yamhill.
Mrs. Helen D. Harford returned home from an extended eastern lecturing tour of several months, last Friday. After a weeks visit she left again yesterday morning for Washington, in which state she will lecture for two months until the meeting of the national W. C. T. U. convention at Seattle.
On last Monday evening an important business transaction took place whereby the ownership of the Dorrance sawmill passes into the hands of the Chas. K. Spaulding Logging Co. The new owners have not yet decided definitely whom they will get to run the mill for them, but aim to put it in operation in the very near future, and put out first class lumber. A little later they intend to make some important improvements, putting in new boilers and some new, up to date machinery. In short, they will push the sawmill business here and make a success of it.
The public drinking fountains which have been put in, one at each bank, are a great success and in them the town has something of which to be proud. They are the product of home manufacture, F. H. Storey having charge of the job and doing most of the work assisted in the wood work by Tom Cummings. Newberg is blest over most of her sister towns in having a natural water system, with water always pure, and fresh from a cold mountain stream, and now the thirsty wayfarer, and the stranger within the gates can drink at the fountains to his heart's content, without money and without price.
Wednesday's Oregonian gave an account of some trouble which Sam Hess had fallen heir to in Portland. Newberg is entirely too dry for Samuel so he has taken up quarters in the "wet" district of Portland where no middleman has to stand between the supply and the demand. It seems that Sam got into a dispute with the proprietor of a Japanese restaurant over the payment for a meal. The Jap didn't appreciate Sam's argument, and presently proceeded to knock him down and out. The report says, "Sam has not captured the city for some time, and it may be that his head was aching for a clubbing, and if so, he ought to feel relieved. He is big enough to eat a Jap on top of a breakfast, but when Japs carry thunderbolts in their pockets they are dangerous."
The old man Charles Bovard, who has been living alone in a little house near the old fair grounds on Meridian street, was found sitting in a chair Wednesday morning, to all appearances dead. As the bed covers were not disturbed it was supposed that he had been sitting there all night. Coroner Tom Cummings was called in but on examination found that some life still remained. Frank Mills and C. E. Waterman went in to care for the old man and do what they could for him. He lingered along in an apathetic state Wednesday, and died at one o'clock Thursday morning. No special cause is given for his death, but old age probably had the most to do with it, together with a general breaking down of his system caused by hardships and exposures endured during his service in the war of the rebellion. He was buried yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. Mr. Bovard was a moral, upright man in every way, a Christian, and a member of the Seventh Day Advent church. He had no relatives in this community.
Ab Hoskins brought up the rear, last Monday evening, of the procession of Newbergers who have gone and come from Newport during the season. Ab
