

NEWBERG GRAPHIC.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

E. H. WOODWARD, EDITOR & PUBLISHER.

W. C. WOODWARD, ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1899.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Newberg, Oregon.

Paris has 2885 newspapers, of which 142 are daily. If newspapers were as plentiful in an American city all the different kinds of democrats might hope for an organ.—Statesman.

It's a regular circus to watch the general shaking up of the dry bones among the "anties" since Dewey had that little expansive talk with the president. Every old "antey" is bounding around in the slough of copperheadism, in the vain attempt to find out "where it is at."

The Dayton Journal is a new venture launched on the sea of Yamhill journalism. Dayton may be able to support two papers but the Graphic doubts it, and we are free to say that our sympathies are with the Herald as it was first in the field and consequently is entitled to the support of the people. The first number of the Journal is a very neat sheet and if the proprietors are able to make it go the Graphic has no kick coming.

Now we can all have a full grown sigh of relief. The nation is saved, for the North Yamhill Record unflinchingly intimates that Admiral Dewey has accepted the Record's policy in respect to our war, and will act upon it. How relieved we feel! And just think, how awful to contemplate, what if there had been no Record to map out a war policy for the admiral? The very thought of such a disaster makes one shudder with apprehension. But a miss is as good as a mile, so let's have the doxology.

A healthy discussion of a question on which there is a difference of opinion breaks the monotony and generally results in good accomplished, and there seems to be no lack of discussion on the public school question as a result of the article which appeared in last week's Graphic. And as a further result, a movement is on foot to shorten the hours of study and in this way do a little less cramming, and then in the end the teachers will get the advantage of the nine months' salary, which of course is a consideration.

Our sister college town of Forest Grove has been having considerable trouble of late from the whiskey element of the place. While the town has no saloons, it is blessed with some very enterprising drug stores, which have been dispensing fire water at a rate almost wholesale. As a result of the agitation aroused, public sentiment seems divided over the question of the license system. As a college town, Forest Grove cannot afford the presence of a licensed saloon. The Forest Grove times come out courageously against such an evil, and the town will do well to follow its advice.

It is a self evident fact that unless there are more houses built in Newberg the question of expansion, so far as it relates to an increase in our population, is pretty well settled. For the past three or four years, rents have been so low, that there was little inducement to people to build, but the time has come when rents can be and are being raised and the consequence will be that more building will be done. It is next to impossible for a family to find a house to move into, as many have found out who have tried it lately, and anyone who will build a neat cottage in town will have no trouble in finding an occupant for it.

The imperialists seem to be in favor of knocking the spots off Oom Paul and his people, though he represents the same kind of free government as that of the United States though narrower in his policies. It looks as if they had to be consistent. When we remember the glorious history of the United States this is a strange situation.—Albany Democrat.

The "strange part of the situation" is that the writer of the above can put the construction he does upon "the glorious history of the United States," and draw an exact similarity between the struggle of the Boers and our early struggle for independence. If we have a proper understanding of United States history, the spirit of our colonial strife for independence was embodied in the cry "No taxation without representation." Now the Outlanders, subjected by the insolent Boers to as bitter persecution as we ever experienced, and after years of patient but fruitless protest, have at last made the reasonable demand for enfranchisement. And as to all the gush about imperialism, England is more of a republic now, in the true spirit of democracy, than the Transvaal ever has been. An empty term means nothing. There must be a reality behind the name.

"THINK ON THESE THINGS."

A few days ago a letter was received at this office from a gentleman in East Tennessee asking for copies of the Graphic and other matter descriptive of the country, such as could be furnished. This is only one out of the many letters received from people who want to learn something about the country with a view of coming here to locate.

In answer to such letters, papers are always sent and often letters written, giving additional information in the way of answering lists of questions that are submitted.

The Graphic is not in the real estate business, but it is interested in the general welfare of the surrounding country and Newberg in particular, and it is willing and anxious to do its part in helping the good work along. Can the business men of Newberg taken as a whole say as much? When a man sends away for a local paper, he turns at once to its advertising columns to ascertain what lines of business are represented in the town where the paper is published, and his idea of the snap and push of the citizens is largely formed from what he finds therein.

The Graphic is going into nearly all the homes of the community and in fact is being read by the people which the business men in Newberg naturally want to reach, but a glance at our advertising columns will show that comparatively few of those who are supposed to be reaching out for business are taking advantage of the opportunity offered them. This is no tale of woe, but rather a reminder of a fact that is evident to the readers of this paper.

More time is spent in the preparation of matter for our readers than the profits of the business will justify, but as long as the paper is under the present management, it will be made a readable sheet, though the space that ought to be taken by home advertisers may at times have to be filled with foreign advertising which no live newspaper man accepts as a matter of choice.

The Graphic is not here to "ask alms" at the hands of the people but we do claim that with all it is doing for the public from week to week in the way of free announcements, it is entitled to better support. So far as our subscription list is concerned, nearly all the people in the community, aside from the moss-back list, take the paper. As in every community, there are a few who "are already taking more papers than they can read," but they manage to borrow the Graphic of their neighbors long enough to read the local news, and keep posted.

Does advertising pay? Well if you don't care to take the word of the live up-to-date business man, just submit the question to the alert individual who rushes into the office just as the boys are about ready to go to press, and asks them to "just wait" until a notice can be written announcing an ice cream social, a picnic or a that to be given "for the good of the cause." He believes that advertising pays and his eagerness to get a few lines in "this week" shows that he has the courage of his convictions, and the readers of the Graphic know that he has always been treated with consideration, for no paper in the country displays up more free "announcements" than are given out from this office.

A resident of Newberg who in former years has been engaged in business in other towns, has often expressed surprise at the lack of interest in advertising among the merchants of Newberg. He says he can't understand it. A good many conditions, as they exist in Oregon, are charged up to the climate, and this may be the trouble with our business men. Who can tell?

When a copy of the Graphic is mailed to an anxious inquirer in the East, we believe our readers will concede that so far as the news columns go, the paper is at least up to the average among local papers, but the business interests of Newberg are poorly represented in our advertising columns. We believe that a more liberal spirit in the matter of advertising shown by our business men, would be of mutual benefit, both to them and to the publisher of the paper, and this article has been written for the consideration of all who are interested in the building up of their own business interests in particular, and in the general good of Newberg as well.

Considering the short notice given, and the steady patter patter of the rain, a very good audience assembled in the college chapel Tuesday evening to hear the scientific lecture of Prof. Sweetser, teacher of biology in Pacific University, Forest Grove. The lecture had been very highly spoken of, but for life, interest and instruction, it surpassed expectation, as far as the writer is concerned at least. It is remarkable what an attractive lecture was delivered on so very prosaic a subject as "Toadstools."

COLLEGE LECTURE COURSE.

Prof. Sweetser of Pacific University De-livers the first Lecture of the Course, on the subject of "Toadstools."

Prof. Sweetser, in the first of his lecture deplored the sordid, materialistic idea which pervades the world that there is no practical good in scientific work just because there is no money in it, neither can it be put to a gastronomical use. "Biology is the study of life. No man can tell whence life is. We may go through a finely furnished mansion and find no life, but only the evidence of it about us. So we cannot get at the source of life, but study its conceptions. It is an unknown quantity, except that it is God and from God."

The professor proceeded to show, with the aid of a fine stereopticon, photographs of microscopic specimens of the simplest cellular life. He showed the development of the protoplasm, the nucleus and the differentiation between plant and animal life.

Very simply, as if in a recitation in his home laboratory, he gave his study of the toadstool or common mushroom. The whole lecture was illustrated with excellent photographic specimens, which added much to its interest. He exhibited views of a great many different kinds, carefully showing the distinguishing marks of each. He was particularly careful and explicit in differentiating the edible and the poisonous. The cup at the root is generally the distinguishing mark of the latter. The enthusiasm of Prof. Sweetser was certainly contagious and the insignificant toadstool will receive greater respect and attention in this vicinity as a result of his address.

Additional Local.

College News. Three new students have entered college this week, Gordon Burrus, of Portland, Margaret Webb, of Marion, and Clifford Young, of Sherwood.

President Newlin went to Salem last Friday, to deliver a lecture both there and at Roseburg on his trip to Rome. He returned Monday.

A very pleasant time was spent at Canyon Hall one evening last week, a true college entertainment. Stereopticon views of scenes in Rome, with short descriptions of them by Pres. Newlin, were shown to the assembled students, after which light refreshments were served. The company dispersed having enjoyed themselves both socially and intellectually.

Norman Atterbury, who entered school a short time ago, has been out this week on account of the illness of his mother. New books for the library are still coming in and are as welcome as though received earlier. An impetus seems to have been given in the right direction. Truly it is inspiring to look upon the aspirants for forensic honors gazing pensively at the books and books in the library, wondering which ones to read on subjects under consideration.

The Foxes Surprised.

As Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fox and family were about to leave our town and return to Kansas the members of the M. E. church, to which they belong, decided to give them a farewell and consequently, between fifty and sixty of their friends gathered together at Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Smith's Friday evening last at 7:30. At eight o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Fox came by invitation to spend the evening and it is needless to say that it was a genuine surprise to them as their faces showed it very plainly. A social time was enjoyed by all. Miss Eleanor Satchwell gave several solos also instrumental pieces on the piano which were greatly appreciated. Miss Frieda Clark also entertained with music which was enjoyed by all. Light refreshments were then served after which Mrs. Snyder or her sister's wife sang a delightful solo. Short addresses were then made by Revs. Hall, Snyder and Craven which were responded to by Mr. and Mrs. Fox in a feeling manner. With Miss Satchwell at the piano the whole company then sang "God be with you till we meet again" when the company broke up after bidding Mr. and Mrs. Fox good bye and wishing them all success in their new home. They will be greatly missed by the people of Newberg.

One of the Company.

The members of Newberg Chapter No. 55, O. E. S. gave a farewell reception to Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fox in the Masonic hall Thursday evening, Oct. 12, to which a number of friends were invited. An hour was spent in visiting. Then a short program was rendered which was enjoyed by all present after which a few fitting remarks were made by J. W. Harris to which Mr. and Mrs. Fox responded. Refreshments were served. We regret the loss of brother and sister Fox very much. They have been faithful workers in our Order, ever ready and willing to do their part in the work we had to do. They have gone to their former home in Kansas. May God be with them until we meet again.

No Rubbish.

It is not easy to teach neatness to grown up women and men, but it is easy and possible to infuse into children a horror of that which helps to disfigure our streets and school yards,—of throwing down refuse of whatever nature, paper, bits of string, or peanut shells etc. No child should grow up without having a dread of refuse ground into him. He should be taught to hate the sight of unwept streets or sidewalks, or salivastained marbles or granite, or ashes and bits of newspaper, as signs of a low social tone.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest dangers from the grip is its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for the grip we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dangerous disease. It will cure the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by C. F. Moore & Co. druggists.

J. C. Cooper received a telegram Wednesday evening from Tampa, Florida, stating that his son Arthur was ill with fever, presumably of the yellow variety. If so, this is Arthur's third pull at that ailment. He was on his way back from South America, via Santiago and Havana.—Reporter.

"When our boys were almost dead from whooping cough, our doctor gave One Minute Cough Cure. They recovered rapidly," writes P. B. Belles, Argyle, Pa. It cures coughs, colds, grippe and all throat and lung troubles. C. F. Moore & Co.
