WILLAMETTE.

There's a bank by the waves of the blue Willamette Where the zephyr weaves many a song...

Where, up from the moss-beds through ferns into space, The vines reach the mystic forever...

When the angels of heaven draw this curtain of light, And reveal the dark regions of space...

There's a harp in the air though its music be mute; There's a song in the silence un sung...

And I've stood in the lilac's dark shadows alone, By the gleam of that star-fetted river...

Two more days in which to practice writing 1000 without spilling a clean sheet of writing paper with 1899.

The Lawton fund is being raised to $50,000 for the benefit of General Lawton's widow. This is a prompt and forcible reiteration that all republics are not ungrateful.

We are glad to acknowledge the receipt of the November and December Oregon Native Son, which is a real treat from a literary and historical standpoint.

The address issued by the Goebelites of Kentucky charging the republicans with stealing the Kentucky elections would leave outsiders to smile and infer that the Goebel democrats have come into such desperate straits that they have lost all sense of humor.

Under the new registration law, every voter who wishes to cast a ballot in the next state election must register between January 1, and May 15.

The Milton Eagle very neatly gets at a glaring truth that is an ever present reality when it says:

"The jewelers have clearly given it out that there will be no raise in the price of diamonds on account of the Boer war until next summer.

Christendom lost a valiant standard bearer last Friday, in the death of the famous evangelist, Dwight L. Moody. A hero has fallen in the forefront of a battle as real as ever waged by forces of arms.

Last week's Reporter, the first number of the thirtieth volume said: With the first number of the new volume the Reporter takes pleasure in announcing the association of Mr. J. G. Eckman with its publication.

The Graphic has long regarded Mr. Eckman as one of the best newspaper men in the county and it is glad to know that he is to be more closely associated with the management of The Reporter.

The Salem Journal has this chunk of good solid sense sent college professors who endeavor to instill their peculiar coils into the minds of their students and the public: "Education is a universal necessity.

In other words it is to be inferred that "every man's son or daughter" should get their education from a class of public professors, too many of whom are a set of blank and empty figure heads which are apt to infest state institutions for revenue only—the kind that have no ideas to instill. This is machine education. Please spare us from this chunk of good solid (non-)sense.

"Do American men and women realize that in five cities of our country alone there were during the last term over sixteen thousand children between the ages of eight and fourteen taken out of the public schools because their nervous systems were wrecked, and their minds were incapable of going on any further in the infernal cramming system which exists to-day in our schools?"

With the beginning of a new year close at hand, thoughtful people pause and think. In spite of the holiday season of rejoicing if you ever think sober thoughts, now is the time.

There is the one in which the past and the future are brought closest together in their relation to the present. The following by one writer, is very pertinent to this period of general resolution making.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Oom Paul is in favor of the open door policy, and John Bull seems to have no more sense than to walk right in.

Nations that go to war should be careful not to talk about a military promenade to the enemy's capital. Historically speaking, it isn't lucky.

Senator Pettigrew wants an expression by the United States of sympathy with the struggling Boers. In what respect the Boers are in need of sympathy just now is not entirely clear.

Senator Allen says he is going back to the Senate to sound the clarion again. It had been hoped that during the period of his retirement the Senator would learn to play on some other wind instrument.

After naming populist Allen for appointment to fill a term in the Senate, Bryan says the Democrats of Nebraska may select Thurston's successor.

If the democrats in the House keep on as they have started, they will soon be known as the party-afraid-of-everything.—Dayton Journal.

The determination of the Silver Republicans to hold a national convention with 2,000 delegates is due to a desire to see how the entire party would look in one hall.—Chronicle.

If Congress and Washington City are so awfully bad Mr. Roberts has every reason to be thankful that he is to be kept out of such bad company.—Myrtle Point Enterprise.

The Bryanites will keep howling about the trusts, while the republicans say little, but will keep their heads, and go steadily about effecting wholesome legislation on this subject.—Albany Herald.

In the New England cotton mills, where the wages of all employees have been again increased, the workmen are not aware that the payment in gold crucifies them to any serious extent.—Statesman.

The silver republicans (?) of this country have just discovered what other people have known for some time and decided the other day to just quit. A very sensible conclusion, considering the trend of monetary legislation.—Oregon City Enterprise.

several months. Every respectable young lady at the sign of too much familiarity in the young man with whom she associates should drop him. It is time the rascals who cannot be gentlemen in private were sent out of respectable society.—Albany Democrat.

As one's everyday experience teaches, you must not expect everybody to be your friend in the world. There are people who would rather see you make a failure in life than succeed.

"To the watchful mind of Col. Bryan the general increase of the wages of cotton mill operatives in New England and the South will be additional proof of the shameless conspiracy of the Money Power.

Bled Quarts at a Time

"I am a knife maker and worked for a number of years in the New York Knife Co.'s factory at Warden, N. Y. First thing I knew I commenced to bleed from the mouth. Sometimes as much as a quart of blood would come up from my lungs at a time. Every time I coughed the blood spurted out. It was in the fall I got so bad, and the church people told me I had better make my peace with the Lord and prepare to die, for I would not live till spring. My home doctor couldn't do me any good, but advised me to get to New York City for examination. They finally took me to a medical college, and a whole lot of physicians made what they called a diagnosis. There were several students looking on. One professor had a little ivory hammer, and with this he pounded my chest and held his ear close to listen. After a while the professor looked at me solemnly and declared: 'One of your lungs is about gone and the other is affected. There may be a slim chance for life if you quit working in that knife factory.' I went back home, but didn't improve. One day I saw an advertisement of free samples of Acker's English Remedy for Consumption, being given away by our home druggists, Walker & Eaton. I got one of these bottles, and it relieved me. Then I bought more of the regular size, and my improvement was continuous, although slow. My doctors were astonished and so was I. After dark I hated to spit, because I was afraid it might be blood, and I wanted to know for sure. I have no fear now, for at last I am a solid man again. Although one lung is gone, the other is as sound as a dollar, and answers as well as two lungs, so far as I can see. I want everyone to know the facts and that is why I tell them here." (Signed) A. H. SIMPSON.
