FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1900.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Newberg, Oregon.

The public man who is not mentioned as an "available" candidate for the vice presidency these days, may well feel slighted.

Altgeld, Illinois' Penoyer, has delivered an address on "what would Jefferson do?" As far as comparisons are concerned this strikes us as being even less practical, coming from the Altgeld stripe of democracy, than the recent Sheldon newspaper experiment.

The unprecedented era of prosperity which the state of Nebraska is now enjoying doubtless has much to do with the large republican gains there in the recent elections. Even Bryan's home state is getting on to the fact that there is a fixed "parity" between republicanism and prosperity.

After all that has been said and written, our gallant Yamhill captain was let down easy when it came to the democratic nomination for congressman. Strange to say the democrats seem conscious of the inconsistency of placing men who have helped "expand" the country on an anti-expansion ticket.

The papers again have it that Senator Hanna on account of failing health will not conduct the next republican national campaign. But like the smell of powder to an old war horse, the first lively skirmish of the coming battle will doubtless potentia as are rejuvenating influence upon Mark's physical frame.

Hoary Senator Hoar poses before the country as an extremist rather than as a conservatist when he likens our policy of expansion to Aaron Burr's treacherous scheme of "Southern Empire." This comparison will not take well with the loyal boys who followed the heroic Lawton. Lawton and Burr! Think of it!

The democrats and populists of Oregon, who have always been "pizen" against banks, bankers and money devils, with that strange inconsistency for which they are too well noted, have named a banker Dr. B. Daly, for Congress in the First District and another banker, B. S. Sheridan, as chairman of their state central committee.—Tidings.

The democrats are reckoning without their host or "hostess" when, despite the fact that Bryan is to be their presidential candidate, they are congratulating themselves on the prospect of the co-operation and assistance of Dewey in the coming campaign. Dewey may be a democrat, but he is strictly a Dewey democrat, and above all things will refuse to be Bryanized.

After May 15, no farther opportunity will be given for registration for two years. This means that the failure to take the trouble to register within the next three weeks will practically disfranchise one until the state election subsequent to the one to be held this coming June. The vote for president will also be lost in November. Two years and not a citizen of the United States! Judging from the number of voters still unregistered, it is high time for the people to awake to the situation.

From the sensational disclosures which "Little Bobs" is making in regard to the incompetency of English generals and of the general mismanagement of military affairs, it would appear that the United States has little cause for complaint along this line in the prosecution of the recent war and that what designing politicians would make appear as mountains, turn out to be insignificant ant hills. In short, "McKinley luck" is more than a popular superstition.

It is reported that Prof. G. W. Shaw, chemist of the Oregon Experiment Station, has resigned in order to accept the position of chemist and assistant superintendent of a beet sugar factory in Colorado. Prof. Shaw enjoys the reputation of being a very competent chemist and has made a specialty of beet sugar investigations. If there is less glory there is probably a good deal more pay in the new job than in the old.—Rural Northwest.

We would remind our friend, the Oregonian, that Senator McBride has the well earned reputation of being a very lively corpse. He was reported almost at death's door a good many times while he was Secretary of State, but he got up from his bed of sickness a United States Senator. The people of Oregon should be interested in at least one thing, in regard to the case of Senator McBride, or in reference to any other man. They should be interested in seeing that he is treated fairly, and not misrepresented. Senator McBride has done exceedingly well in the upper house of Congress. He has secured membership on some of the most important and influential committees in that body, where he is in a position to do effective work for his state. He has done and is doing such work. The American people want to see fair play. The spirit that calls for this is instinctive with them and with all other people.—Statesman.

The following, taken from the La Grande Observer, should be of especial interest at this time to those of this vicinity in any way interested in cattle raising: "The problem is now solved and actual feeding cost has demonstrated that beet pulp will not only be eaten by cattle, but that it makes most excellent beef. Messrs Patterson & Armstrong began the experiment last Fall by putting 675 range cattle on a pulp diet and hay. The cattle ate and thrived, enabling them to market 500 head of prime beef steers, and had the supply of pulp held out a little longer the whole lot would have been rolling in fat. The 175 not ready for market when the pulp gave out will be grazed until Fall and again fed on pulp. The same company will feed a large number of steers next Fall, enough to consume the entire output of pulp."

We are in receipt of a neatly bound copy of the "Proceedings of the Oregon Historical Society" for which we express our appreciation. No organization is deserving of more assistance and encouragement than this historical society of our own state. As a means of fostering state loyalty and of awakening an interest in our own history, its work is invaluable. The object of the society as given in the articles of incorporation is "the collection, preservation, exhibition and publication of material of a historical character, especially that relating to the history of Oregon and the United States; and for the accomplishment of this end, to explore all places of deposit of archaeological matter; to acquire documents, manuscripts and publications of every description; to obtain records and narratives of the pioneers of the Oregon Territory; to ascertain and preserve the Indian names of mountains, streams and localities in Oregon, and their interpretations and significations; to gather and preserve the Indian traditions relative to the history of the Pacific Northwest prior to white settlement; to maintain a gallery of historical portraits and an ethnological and historical museum; to publish and otherwise diffuse information relative to the history of Oregon and of the original Oregon Territory; and in general to encourage and develop within this state the study of history."

Brotherly Unity (?) in U. S. Senate.

Some of the opposition papers in Oregon are babbling a good deal these fine spring days over what they regard as the singular lack of unity evidenced by the difference in the votes of the two Oregon Senators on matters of recent federal legislation. Democrats and populists are so used to "taking orders" and obeying the party lash that the fact cannot enter into the heads of the occupants of the opposition tripods that statesmen can conscientiously differ on legislative measures. Besides in the U. S. senate, as at present constituted the various members from the different states do not appear as a unit on all measures. For example: in the state of Indiana there is Mr. Fairbanks and Mr. Beveridge. In the state of Illinois, Mr. Cullom and Mr. Mason do not agree on scarcely any topic. In New Hampshire the Hon. William E. Chandler has been trying to get his colleague, Dr. Gallinger, indicted and sent to the penitentiary for violating the statutes of the United States. Mr. Frye of Maine and Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts are the red-hot test expansionists in Washington, while their colleagues are the strongest kind of anti's. It is very recently that Senator Hoar, whose vagaries are well-known and excite considerable derision, used a page of a popular weekly to prove that the policy of the administration is wicked and vicious, while Mr. Lodge took another page to prove that it is patriotic and righteous. Senator McCoombs and Senator Wellington of Maryland do not speak as they pass by. The relations between Mr. Tillman and Mr. Mc Laurin of South Carolina are very little more friendly. Mr. Caffery of Louisiana is a gold-standard-anti-expansionist-freetrader, while Mr. McHenry is a free-soil-expansionist-protectionist. The two senators from Nebraska are about as different as fire and water, while Messrs Pettigrow and Kyle who used to go around arm in arm, have only an official acquaintance these days. Mr. Ross of Vermont is an anti-expansionist; Mr. Proctor would annex everything within reach; and so they go through a long list.—Ashland Tidings.

How Beet Factories Help Farmers.

The great importance of a beet sugar factory in developing agricultural prosperity is strikingly shown by the results of the Colorado Sugar Manufacturing Co.'s operations at Grand Junction. This company has 400,000 invested in its factory, machinery, etc, and 80,000 in farm lands. It controls by ownership or lease 3000 acres, of which 1000 will be devoted to beets in 1900. In addition to this area, 3500 acres of beets will be grown for the factory by outside farmers.

Some of these beets are grown at a considerable distance and shipped to the factory by rail, 75 miles being the extreme limit of such shipments. Those that are grown within seven miles, however, are hauled on wagons. The factory's capacity is 400 tons of beets per day, and between 60,000 and 70,000 tons are needed to meet the requirements for a sugar "campaign" or season. Of this quantity the company raises about 15,000 tons and the balance, say 50,000 tons, is grown by farmers. The price paid is $4.50 per ton at the factory, making a total payment to farmers of $225,000 annually. In growing beets on its own land, the company employs 300 laborers and 130 are employed in the factory during the busy season. Altogether the concern pays $80,000 for labor. This makes a total disbursement to farmers and laborers of about $300,000 each year. Anyone familiar with the conditions that prevail in the farming sections can realize what it means to expend $300,000 every year in a limited farming and village community. It means prosperity with a big P.

The entire cost of plowing, seeding, cultivating, thinning, hoeing, harvesting and delivery to the factory is a little less than $25 per acre in this part of Colorado. This is assuming the farmer hires all his work and pays $3 per day for a man and two horse team, and $1.50 for a man and 75c. for a boy. Delivery to the factory is estimated at $1 per ton, but this item of course varies with the distance and whether shipped by rail or delivered by wagon. Rail freight ranges from 35c. to $1.50 per ton according to distance. The average yield is 15 tons per acre, which at $4.50 per ton gives return of $67.50. Deducting the gross cost of $25, there is a net profit of $42.50 per acre. When the work is done by the farmer and his family and with his own teams, he does not feel the cost, because it has been done with a very small outlay of money.

In addition to this, the pulp or beet refuse remaining after the sugar has been extracted is a valuable cattle food, selling at the very low price of 50c per ton; this enables the farmer to greatly increase his stock and besides making a profit on the animals, keep up the fertility of his land through the manure obtained. General agricultural prosperity is most clearly shown in the price of land. If farmers are prosperous and have a reasonable expectation of continuing so the price of land rises; when they are losing money it falls. What is the result at Grand Junction? Before this factory was established land was held at $30 per acre; now a fair valuation for sugar best land is sixty dollars per acre. For all the farming land here, the estimated increase in value caused by the building of this factory is $800,000 and the town property has increased $200,000, making a total increase of $1,000,000 through the successful operation of this factory. The importance of the beet sugar industry to the farmer cannot be more strikingly shown than in studying the results at Grand Junction.—Orange Judd Farmer.

A Cabinet Day at the White House.

Precisely one-half minute before eleven, Secretary Hay appears with his new square leather port-folio, stepping over the threshold with the air of a pincushion and exact man. Closely following Secretary Long with a "green bag" wearing the silk hat which has been valued service in many political campaigns. The postmaster-general, Charles Emery Smith, with true editorial instinct, comes with both hands full of newspapers and pockets likewise well filled. There is a hearty "Howdy" greeting from Secretary Wilson, catching his breath, remarking that climbing stairs was worse than "crossing ploughed ground." Attorney-General Griggs bustles in like a lawyer who fears the reprimand of a punctilious judge. Secretary Hitchcock's "interior" and "exterior" pockets are bulging with prescribed documents. Secretary Gage, the last to arrive, walks leisurely in about a quarter past eleven, as if still "keeping banking hours." Secretary Root is absent in Cuba, getting at facts first in his usual thorough way.

I hope I may be forgiven for saying that it suggested a lot of big boys going to school with the penalties of tardiness abrogated. The first arrivals were met by President McKinley with that hearty handshake and greeting that is so characteristic of him. He wore a light gray suit and a bright red carnation boutonniere. It is all so unaffected that it is difficult to realize that these men are facing in a quiet and deliberative way the greatest and grimmest questions of the century.—Joe Mitchell Chaplin in "The National Magazine" for April.

Declaration of Principles.

The Graphic has been requested to publish the following declaration of principles of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

We believe in the coming of His kingdom whose service is perfect freedom, because His laws, written in our members as well as in nature and in grace, are perfect, converting the soul. We believe in the gospel of the golden rule and that each man's habits of life should be an example safe and beneficial for every other man to follow. We believe that God created both man and woman in his own image and therefore, we believe in one standard of purity for both men and women, and in the equal right of all to hold opinions and to express the same in the home, on the platform, in the pulpit and at the ballot box.

We believe in a living wage; in an eight hour day; in courts of deliberation and conciliation; in justice as opposed to greed of gain; in "peace on earth and good will to men." We therefore formulate and for ourselves adopt the following pledge, asking our sisters and brothers of a common danger and a common hope, to make common cause with us, in working its reasonable and helpful precepts into the practice of everyday life: I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine and beer and cider as a beverage and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

To confirm the rationale of this pledge we declare our purpose to educate the young; to form a better public sentiment; to reform, so far as possible, by religious, ethical and scientific means, the drinking classes; to seek the transforming power of divine grace for ourselves and all for whom we work, that they and we may willfully transcend the law of pure and wholesome living, and finally we pledge ourselves to labor and pray that all these principles, founded upon the gospel of Christ, may be work-

House Work

Seems easy to a man, but there is a great deal of lifting and reaching to do; a great many trips up and down stairs to make in the course of day's house work. It's hard when a woman is well. For a woman suffering with some form of "female trouble" it is daily torment. There are thousands of such women struggling along day by day, in increasing misery. There are other thousands who have found a complete cure of their disease in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stops debilitating drains, cures irregularity, heals inflammation and ulceration, nourishes the nerves, and gives vitality and vigor. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. It contains no opium, cocaine nor other narcotic.

For a number of months I suffered with female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McGowan of 122 Bank St., Washington, D. C. "I tried various remedies, but none seemed to do me any permanent good. The doctor advised the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I had not used your 'Favorite Prescription' a week before I felt better, and, as I continued, my health gradually improved. It is improving every day."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for a book in paper covers, or 31 stamps in cloth, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
