

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Newberg, Oregon.

Sound the hedgesh Chinee on the proposition that President McKinley has the backbone of a chocolate éclair.

It will not be surprising if on election day the populists and silver republicans lodge an affective complaint against Bryan for "swapping horses in the middle of the campaign."

The leader of fusion and the free silver movement in Colorado, says in explanation of his lining up for McKinley and republicanism, "I believe in the greater greatness of my country." This sentiment, so tersely expressed, is entirely sufficient as an argument against Bryanism.

Says Mr. Bryan: "Once admit that some people are capable of self-government and that others are not, and that the capable people have a right to seize upon and govern the incapable and you make force—brute force—the only foundation of government and invite the reign of the despot." The invitation is being readily accepted in Bryan's "solid South."

It is with great gusto that the democratic exchanges announce an occasional "famous" nobody who is a gold man, but will support Bryan, as he is not afraid of free silver this year. They do not seem to appreciate the childish inconsistency they manifest in blowing around because people do not believe the democratic platform means what it says.

Cyrus Field Adams, a colored editor, linguist and orator, and Bishop Arnold, of Ohio, also colored, have been appointed by Chairman Hanna members of the advisory committee of the republican national committee.—Roseburg Review. Bryan might take note and also appoint one or two colored advisors—from North Carolina for instance. What they might advise would make interesting reading—but not for Bryan.

It is very appropriately remarked by an exchange that "North Carolina has entered on a period of 'government without the consent of the governed,' and the little fiction that 'the constitution follows the flag' don't go in the tarheel state. When the great democratic Joss goes into that state he had better leave both the flag and the constitution at home. Neither one is respected."

Our county seat is manifesting a commendable spirit of enterprise in arranging for a street fair and we see no reason why it may not be made a great success. In fact if carried out along lines already suggested, it will be not only a street but a county fair, and will be a benefit, not only to McMinnville but to Yamhill. Such things can easily be run into the ground, but Yamhill is certainly in no danger along that line, and should co-operate in making the fair a success. Here's our hand and our vote—for carnival queen—when nominations are made.

The indications are accumulating that the grand-stand play of Mr. Bryan in promulgating the paramount issue of "anti-imperialism" is not going to work. It is decidedly not working. It is bringing practically no support to him, and it is driving a great deal of support away from him. The American people do not want to back out of the Philippines. And they do not want an insincere man for President; they do not want one who would hunt around for a "paramount issue" merely for the purpose of making votes. Mr. Bryan is getting further away from the Presidency every day.—Statesman.

Ex-Senator Peffer of Kansas, the far famed populist has the following to say of President McKinley which is pretty good, being from a reliable populist standpoint. "To my mind, the President's course, from the beginning of the war to the present time, has been remarkably free from mistakes. He has been vigilant, active, patriotic, and in all things American. In the government of the Philippines he has not only followed the law and the precedents, but he has done the work efficiently and humanely. He has treated the situation just as Washington did in the Northwest Territory, as Jefferson did in the Louisiana purchase, as Monroe did in Florida, as Jackson did in the Seminole country, as Polk did in Mexico, New-Mexico and California, and as Lincoln did in the States of the Southern Confederacy. All the precedents are on the President's side."

Bryan makes great pretensions over what he would do as President toward freeing the country from any unpleasant responsibility in the Philippines, but he is careful not to specify how he would accomplish this end and, at the same time maintain the nation's honor. In spite of Bryan and all his vain harangue, one of two things would result as sure as Bryan wants to be president. The Philippines would have to be given absolute independence and left entirely, not only to the mercy of themselves, but of the "imperialistic" powers of Europe, or a protectorate of some sort would have to be established and maintained by our government. In the first place, the question is, have the American people deteriorated as far from the standard of hardy courage and the sense of responsibility that they wish to cast off the Philippines to a worse fate than they experienced under Spain, stultifying the public conscience with a false plea of independence for the islanders. If, in the second place, as every reliable source of information indicates, the Filipinos are not ready for independence, the protectorate will be the remaining course. And we leave it to the judgment of any sane minded person whether a protectorate maintained by America among the land grabbing powers maneuvering for real estate in the Orient, would relieve us in any way from the danger of foreign entanglements. It would rather increase that danger. And as far as putting us on an imperial basis is concerned, such a policy would require a fleet of as many ships and an army of as many men as the present policy is requiring. Where is the gain? Bryan can make it sound all well enough but he displays the fatal lack of being unable to get down to the practical. And of all else that's what the American people require of their president.

Democratic Cant About Lincoln. A generation after the death of Abraham Lincoln the managers and speakers of the Democratic party claim to have new light on his character and to have placed themselves in sympathy with his teachings. It is, of course, a fraudulent campaign pretense contrived to influence the younger class of voters. A Republican who passed through the Lincoln era and witnessed the infamous treatment of the war President by the Democratic party dismisses with scorn the sham encomiums rigged up to catch votes. There never was a man in this country who received such a deluge of foul Democratic abuse as Abraham Lincoln. From the moment he became a figure in national politics until he was struck down by the bullet of a Democratic assassin he heard from the Democratic party only the language of hatred, contempt and derision. He never announced a purpose or a policy that the Democratic party did not antagonize with a ribaldry of epithet never equaled before or since. The Democratic press habitually referred to him as an "ape," "gorilla," "the apostle of miscegenation," "violin of the constitution," "Caesar," "Nero," "ignoramus" and "imperialist." Lincoln never heard from the Democratic party or its leaders during the war a single word not marked by bitter, uncompromising enmity.

As an example, the year 1864, the one preceding the end of the war, may well be cited. The Democratic party held a national convention that year. It had had a full opportunity to become acquainted with Lincoln's good points, if ready to admit that any existed. That convention met on August 29. The battle of Gettysburg had been won, Vicksburg had surrendered, Atlanta and Richmond were besieged. President Lincoln was within less than eight months of his tragic end. It was the last chance of the Democratic party to offer him any token of respect. What it did was to declare that there had been "four years of failure to restore the Union by the experiment of war, during which, under the pretense of a military, or war power higher than the constitution, the constitution itself had been disregarded in every part, and public liberty and private right alike trodden down and the material prosperity of the country essentially impaired." The same platform denounced the President's action in the border states as revolutionary; his war policy as an "administrative usurpation of extraordinary and dangerous powers" and the treatment of prisoners as a "shameful disregard of duty." Not one syllable of anything except denunciation was offered President Lincoln by that Democratic National Convention though he had been bearing the colossal cares of the war to preserve the Union for nearly four years.

Such were the bouquets the Democratic party threw to Abraham Lincoln in the last year of his life. He was murdered in the following April by a group of conspirators all of whom were Democrats, and one of the assassin band tried to kill Secretary of State Seward at the same time for the crime of serving in Lincoln's Cabinet. It takes unbounded impudence for a Democrat to attempt to play the monitor with Republicans in regard to Lincoln. The Democratic leaders and press never discovered an atom of anything good in Lincoln while he was alive, and their gabbles now about his views and policies, every one of which they opposed and showered with abuse, often expressed with filthy leeches excites only a sense of disgust. The Republicans stood by Lincoln unflinchingly while he was alive. They accepted and followed his leadership faithfully. They want no instructions from his inveterate enemies concerning his example. They understand it and revere it, and they also understand the rotten Democratic motives in their talk of Lincoln. Their position clearly is that a Republican may be praised if he died thirty-five years ago.—Globe Democrat.

YAMHILL COUNTY STREET FAIR.

AT McMinnville, Sept. 27, 28 and 29.

Grand Parade of King Carnival—Barbecues of Fatted Oxen and Swine—Products of the Thrice Fatted Trees and Fields, Presided over by Yamhill's Most Beautiful Young Women. Games and Sports.

Addresses by Hon. Thos. H. Tongue, Hon. Binger Hermann and others.

The petition circulated and signed asking Messrs. Bird, Maloney and Cooper to act as an executive committee and to appoint other committees to make arrangements for the celebration of the holding of the LaFayette Locks, by opening a street fair at McMinnville was accepted by these gentlemen and they went to work to carry out their part of the program.

It has been decided to hold the street fair September 27, 28 and 29 under a large canvas pavilion covering the intersection of Third and D. streets, where the products will be exhibited by the several precincts of the county, on stands prepared and set apart for each. These exhibits will be presided over by young ladies selected from each precinct.

In the center of this pavilion the exercises of crowning the queen will take place, and she will be seated on an elevated throne in sight of the multitude. King Carnival will arrive on the steamer from the locks. He will be met at the landing and escorted to the pavilion with great pomp and ceremony with blast of horn and bomb.

Several farmers have urged that an old fashioned barbecue be given and when the farmers come to the front the rest of mankind will take off their hats and bless them.

Three young men from each precinct in the county have been appointed to nominate a candidate from that precinct to be voted for queen of the carnival, and to look after collecting and superintending the exhibit from their respective precincts. This will make spirited rivalry and rich fun for the boys. It divides up the larger towns and gives the smaller ones an equal advantage.

Hon. Binger Hermann the man whose indomitable energy got the bill through congress to build the locks and Hon. Thos. H. Tongue who has fought it to a finish in spite of—and with high water, will deliver appropriate addresses.

Yes, and some one has proposed a baby show. Well, we've got 'em and we'll have the show. Whoop'em up Liza Jane!

The following committees have been appointed: Pavilion Committee—R Jacobson, J Wortman, M E Hendrick, Frank Rogers, W H Sliger, Elsie Wright. Parade Committee—W G Henderson, P M Flynn, Jack Weisner, H G Burns, Joe Brower, H L Heath, Tom McCourt. Games and Sports—Dr G S Wright, Wm Scott, S A Manning, E C Apperson, D W Feely.

Evening entertainment—Dr Leroy Lewis, W T Maey, Carl Fuchs. Advertising and Printing—C E Harbaugh, J G Eckman, Frank Harding. Excursion—R L Conner, C P Nelson, Jas Henry, Walter Woodward, Alex Westerfield, R L Harris.

Counting Ballots—Ward Sittou, E C Walker, Walter Hembree, Paul Cooper, Thos Rogers, Louisa Maloney, Stella Patty, Mrs M Martin, Carrie Schenk, Mary Bird.

Stand and fixtures for Pavilion—E J Wood, H B Reed, Frank Adams, J A Peckham. Painting and Decorations—O O Hodson, S Howorth, H Mills.

COUNTY EXHIBITS. Supt of Pavilion, E J Wood; Pavilion Marshal, A V R Snyder. Any person seeing their name in the paper or if they hear of it, will please consider themselves duly notified and proceed to the duties thereof by conferring at one with other members.

The business men of this town and the people of the county want this fair and celebration, now it is up to the committees. The old reading room in Union block has been given free by the proprietors for the use of committees and will be open day and night. Other committees will be appointed in due time.

and Rosner, Herbert Coffin. W Chelalem—Frank Shook, Frank Nelson, Hem Flett. Whiteson—David Waddel, George Phillips, W Minor. Wheatland—Walter Kirkwood, Ray Antrim, Harry Allison. Williams—Guy Lamson, Frank Brown, J C Cockerham.

These precinct committees will meet at McMinnville Saturday, September 1 at 11 a. m. Members can fill vacancies in their respective precincts. A meeting of all the young men of the precinct committees through the county appointed to nominate candidates for queen will be held at the committee rooms here Saturday September 1 at 11 a. m. to agree upon a system of balloting, qualifications of candidates and to discuss and agree upon the several duties of these committees. As full attendance as possible is requested. Select your candidates as soon as possible. This meeting is important. Balloting should begin very soon.

WHITE HOUSE WEDDINGS

Grover Cleveland the Only President Married in the Executive Mansion.

"The first wedding at the White House was that of Miss Maria Monroe, the President's daughter, in 1829. She married Samuel L. Gouverneur," writes Rene Bache, in the September Ladies' Home Journal. "During the Hayes regime Miss Lucy Platt, a niece of Mrs. Hayes, was married at the Executive Mansion to General Russell Hastings. The most notable wedding celebrated at the White House was that of Nellie Grant, who was married May 21, 1874, to a young Englishman, Algernon Charles Frederic Sartoris. The only White House wedding in which the Chief Executive has taken the bridegroom's part was celebrated June 2, 1886, when President Grover Cleveland married Frances Folsom, the daughter of his former law partner. President Tyler married during his incumbency, but in New York.

A Ray of Light

For woman's guidance is found in the fact that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures female weakness and the diseases of the delicate womanly organs which darken the lives of so many women with suffering and sorrow. That ray of light has penetrated many darkened chambers where women moaned in misery, and has guided them out to health and happiness. "Favorite Prescription" is not a tonic, not a palliative, but a positive cure for the diseases which are peculiar to women. It gives vigor and vitality. It banishes nervousness, headache, and all the aches which come from a diseased condition of the womanly organs. A temperance medicine, it contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

"I was troubled for three years with ulceration and female weakness and my doctor gave me but little relief," writes Mrs. Lulu Hunter, of Allenton, St. Louis Co. Mo. "I saw an advertisement in the paper of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I began the use of it about a year ago. I took five bottles of it, and one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and my health is better now than it was for years. I have also recommended these medicines to some of my friends, who suffered from female weakness, and good results have followed."
