

Local Events.

C. B. Wilson is still paying cash for produce.

Hadley's Racket store for school supplies.

Miss Florence Parks of Portland is visiting relatives in town this week.

Leave your orders at the office of the Chas. K. Spaulding Logging Co. for slab wood.

Go to T. B. Cummings for paints and oils. A full line of undertaking goods kept in stock.

Miss Edie Pugh of Shedd's, is staying in town with her sister Mrs. H. R. Satchwell, and attending college.

Ed Hatch came in from Newport Tuesday morning where he has been spending his vacation with relatives.

Mrs. Adelaide Bodner, of La Grande, came down the first of the week and is visiting with her sister Mrs. Jas. Barrie.

If this week's locals seem strongly tinged from the "stalwart" standpoint just consider that this is college week in Newberg.

John Weed, who has been working for the summer in the harvest fields of Eastern Oregon, has returned home and is in college again.

The best of fresh and salt meats the market affords will be found at the Newberg Meat Market. The highest prices paid for butcher's stock.

Rev. C. A. Woody of Portland will occupy the pulpit in the Baptist church Sunday morning in the absence of the pastor.

Miss Olive Stratton came home from Long Beach last Friday where she had been spending the summer, prepared to enter upon her senior year in Pacific College.

Owen Maris is back in college again from Heppner, having brought a friend, Charlie Horner with him who is also in school here. The boys are keeping bachelor's hall.

Mrs. Salina Thacker, mother of Mrs. Elizabeth Cook who lives out east of town, died last Friday at a very advanced age. She was buried the following day in the Newberg cemetery.

We are in receipt of a neat and new little publication "Events," Volume 1, Number 1, published under the auspices of the Portland Y. M. C. A. The name of Oscar Cox appears as editor.

Miss Ethel Southmayd came in from Woods, Tillamook county, the first of the week and visited a few days with her grand parents Mr. and Mrs. Wisdom Millsap, after which she will go on to Tacoma, Washington, where she will attend school this winter.

A gentleman named Fisk, of the Portland postoffice department, Station C was in town last week with Wm. Hendershot. He was making good use of a short vacation in taking a look at the fine country hereabouts, which he said was even above his expectations.

The last Rural Northwest has a very interesting descriptive article on "Prune Growing at Dundee," and a good summary report of the prune crop of Newberg and vicinity, as a result of Editor Williamson's recent visit. The "grubby end" holds undisputed sway as the land of fruit and flowers.

The county W. C. T. U. convention will be held in Newberg next Tuesday and Wednesday. On Tuesday evening there will be a silver medal contest, the decision of which will be rendered by the audience. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged to the contest. The state president, Mrs. Helen Harford will deliver an address on Wednesday evening.

On next Sunday morning at the Friends church, the pastor, Rev. L. D. Barr, will deliver a sermon along the line of education, to young people especially. The text to be preached from is, "Ever learning, never able to come to a knowledge of the truth." This is a very appropriate theme just following the opening week of college, and it is hoped that a good audience will be present.

A bonnie wee Scotch laddie, named Oliver Howie, was born out north of town, Saturday, September 16th, to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Howie, mother and child both doing nicely. Father Howie is safely convalescent, considering that this is the first, while a self-satisfied smile still lingers on the face of the favored across the way in whose honor the youth bears name.

Abram W. Morris, who for the past five years has been a helpless invalid, died last Sunday afternoon at his home in Newberg, at the age of seventy years. The funeral services were conducted in the Friends church Tuesday afternoon by the pastor, Rev. Barr. The death of the aged man ended a long period of suffering, through all of which he has manifested a beautiful spirit of patience and Christian fortitude. The deceased was born December 21, 1829, in New Jersey, being a birthright member of Friends Church and always a consistent Christian man since his conversion at the age of thirty-five years. A wife and six children survive him.

The Newberg public school opened Monday morning very auspiciously under the new management of Prof. Rollin Kirk. One hundred and sixty three pupils were in attendance the first day, which was very good considering that the prune crop was not all taken care of nor the hops quite all picked. These conditions affected the attendance of all grades somewhat, but was more noticeable in the High school department. New students have been coming in during the week and it is expected that the school will soon be full. Rev. L. D. Barr and Director H. J. Littlefield attended the opening Monday morning, visiting the different rooms and giving words of encouragement.

J. W. Hobbs, of McMinnville, of the revenue service, was in town Wednesday. He expects his daughters, the Misses Elsie and Maud to get home the last of this week from their extended visit in the East.

Mrs. Greenwood, an English friend of Victoria, B. C., came down to Newberg the first of the week and started her daughter Miss Grace into college here. P. C.'s light is not confined to Yamhill.

Mrs. J. A. Shields, who recently moved here from Sitka, Alaska, received word a few days ago that Mr. Shields, still in Sitka was in very poor health. He will come down to Portland soon to take treatment, and Mrs. Shields and children, in order to be with him moved to Portland Wednesday.

A. M. Hoskins has a public sale advertised to take place Thursday, September 27, at their home on the corner of Fourth and River streets. He and Mrs. Hoskins are preparing to leave Newberg for the winter, and will probably go to Arizona. C. E. Hoskins and family of Springbrook will accompany them, their place having been rented to Paul Macy.

PACIFIC COLLEGE OPENING.

Appropriate Addresses Delivered by President of the Board of Trustees, the new President of the College and other members of the Faculty.

The college chapel was well filled Wednesday morning with friends and patrons of the college gathered to witness the opening of the new school year under the new management. Whatever other conditions may be, that institution is strong which has back of it the loyal self-sacrifice and abiding interest which is freely manifested by the faithful friends of Pacific College, and the number of interested friends present on this occasion was such as to assure the management of hearty sympathy and support. Owing to the fact that the fruit drying season is not yet over, the attendance of students was a little low, but others are coming in and it is expected that in a week or so the ranks will be full.

The exercises of the morning were opened devotionally by Rev. Barr, by a reading of the first psalm, and prayer. Jesse Edwards, as president of the Board, introduced H. E. McGrew as the new president of Pacific College, expressing great confidence in his ability to maintain the high educational ideals of the institution. While all regretted to part with our former leaders, that same regret was but a pledge of the same attachment to the new accessions to the faculty. He emphasized the importance of the institution to the community primarily because it stands for character building realizing that it is more important what we are than what we know.

The inaugural address delivered by Pres. McGrew was both thoughtful and entertaining. It dealt broadly with the true principles of education and made a good impression upon his hearers. In brief summary he spoke as follows: "It is with profound pleasure that we are here at the beginning of the new school year. We come with greetings and high hopes for the future of this institution. There may be new conditions here this morning but there is no new purpose. The same high ideals will be carried forward. This is a place for study and work. If you are not here for that purpose you are in the wrong place. This is an age of great demands and of infinite possibilities. There is much to cope with. This is a time of extreme importance to young life. Education is a broad term. Once it consisted in the mastery of the three "R's." A different emphasis has been put upon it in different periods of history. To the Spartans education was physical development, to the Athenians, mental, to the Jews religious. We stand for a combination of all, with neglect of none. I believe in physical culture, but it is thought, not force that rules the world. I will tell you a secret of great importance which you must help me keep in these coming days. It is, that success means sacrifice. You must sacrifice caprice for capacity, leisure for labor and dissipation for work. It is sometimes fortunate to be unfortunate, for it is only by overcoming obstacles that some attain success. St. Bernard said, "Some study to know; this is base curiosity. Some study to be rich; this is avarice. Some study to be edified; this is prudence. But some study to edify others; this is charity." If you have any of the above motives at heart, the time has come when you must have an education. But above all, when a great world needs every trained mind, it is pre-eminently worth while to study to "edify others."

Pres. McGrew introduced the other new member of the faculty, Prof. R. W. Kelsey late of Earlham College. Prof. Kelsey gave an earnest and inspiring talk which has been well spoken of by his hearers. He began by saying that in his first year at Earlham he heard a chapel talk given by Pres. Newlin, and that from the spirit of that short address he formed a conception of the work of Pacific College, which has made a bond of sympathy between himself and the work here ever since. He expressed pleasure in being here as he felt himself among friends. He endorsed what the college stands for, that high friendship with God and what is best in life. Pacific College is known and favorably known and he emphasized the thought that we should cherish her not only for what she is, but for what she promises to be. He paralleled the historic growth of P. C. with that of Earlham, showing that we have no room for discouragement.

Prof. Morrison gave one of his characteristic good talks and was bubbling over with enthusiasm after his work in Chicago University. He placed stress upon the gaining demands as he has lately observed them, for the educated in the business world. In Chicago he visited two large publishing houses and in each found several of the old students of Pres. Newlin filling important positions. This is but an indication of a growing tendency. Prof. Jones merely rose to say that he had spent a "pleasant" vacation, which covert allusion brought forth enthusiastic response. In a word, the exercises of the morning were highly satisfactory throughout, and the friends of the college are more than pleased with what they saw and heard.
