Empty barrels for sale by C. B. Wilson. D. P. Stratton of Portland was in town the first of the week. Leave orders at Wilson's Grocery for expressing or light hauling. Miss Edna Stratton of Portland visited home relatives in town over Sunday. Miss Ella Nelson went down to Portland Saturday morning and visited over Sunday with her sister Bird. Photographs cheap, but not cheap photographs—twenty-four stamp pictures for twenty-five cents at Smith's photo gallery. Mrs. Lulu Knowles of Portland returned to work Monday morning after visiting several days with relatives in Newberg. Carroll Kirk went to Salem last Friday and took in all the dramatic scenes of Saturday night's vote for United States senator. A. E. Bowman went down to Portland Tuesday morning to resume the position he held last season with the Portland cordage company. W. Q. Elliotts who arrived several days ago from Oklahoma, moved up to Dallas Saturday where they have rented a small place for the present. Hon. Clarence Butt and Prof. J. C. Hodson and their families arrived home Monday from their pilgrimage to the seat of the recent legislative session. Rev. Jos. Hall drove up to Amity the latter part of last week and conducted the quarterly meeting of the M. E. church there for the presiding elder. W. J. Stater has recently made a sale of the J. W. Wheeler place northwest of town to W. B. Cory, a relative of the Newhouse brothers who came out from the East some time ago. David Crosbie, formerly of Scotts Mills, but who is now living near Chehalis, Washington, came down last week and visited several days with C. J. Edwards' and other friends in town. Votaw & Hollingsworth, undertakers, have recently added an obony church truck to their equipment. This will be found a great convenience to pallbearers where funeral services are held at churches. Shiloh Post No. 77, G. A. R. will have a camp fire on Friday evening, March 8, to which all old soldiers and their families are cordially invited. Come and bring a lunch. By ORDER OF COM. D. H. Turner and George C. Sears left for Los Angeles, California, the first of the week to make an investigation of some oil land for Portland capitalists. The money is ready for investment if the property proves to be as it has been represented. Jesse Edwards who was in Portland the first of the week met J. M. Tico, a former resident of Newberg, who was starting to Michigan for the purpose of entering a soldiers home. He had a stroke of paralysis some time ago and is pretty badly used up. His wife and daughter are still in Cowlitz county, Washington. Rev. Levi D. Barr arrived home from Boise, Idaho, on Tuesday where he spent a few days holding services in Friends church in that city. He visited Miss Clara Vaughan who has been compelled to give up teaching for the present on account of severe illness. She will probably return to the valley when she is well enough to travel. We are glad to inform the dairymen, fruit growers and farmers in general in this part of the valley that there will be a farmers institute in Newberg, March 12 and 13 conducted by the Agricultural College of Corvallis. This will be the first for Newberg and don't fail to attend. Later on posters will be put out and programs furnished. Committee. A carload of people will go to Corvallis March 8. The pity is that the college people up and down the line cannot have a special train run in their interest, and thereby save over a day's time. Has anyone asked for it? Here is a chance for Mr. Markham to show his enterprise, and it isn't like him to refuse. If a special train were run two carloads or more would go from here.—Reporter. John B. Fason died at his home near Dayton on last Monday and was buried in the Dayton cemetery on Tuesday, Mrs. Edwards conducting the services. The deceased was born in Ohio eighty-three years ago. From Mooreville, Indiana, where he lived for a number of years, he came to Oregon twenty-five years ago and settled on the farm where he died. He was a man of strong constitution and had been in good health up to a few months ago. Prof. J. C. Hodson came home from Salem with quite a feather in his hat as being one of the two clerks who made the discovery of the $30,000 shortage in the land office business; especially as clerks during the previous sessions had examined the books and found nothing wrong. The Salem correspondent to the Oregonian says, "Year after year clerks have been employed to expert public works, but it is very seldom, if ever, that any mismanagement is discovered, or if discovered reported to the legislature. In the present instance the clerks were not only careful enough and accurate enough to find the false entries of the books, but were also honest and courageous enough to report what they had found and have performed a duty that puts to shame all previous investigations of the same nature. In the division of the work in the office, J. C. Hodson of Newberg and W. A. Jones of Salem were assigned to the examination of the cash books and it was they who discovered and reported the discrepancies which point strongly toward the embezzlement of public funds."

C. B. Wilson is still paying cash for produce. Rev. Martin Cook occupied the pulpit of the Friends church in Sherwood Sunday. Go to T. H. Cummings for paints and oils. A full line of undertaking goods kept in stock. T. B. Duncan is opening up the bicycle season with a line of new wheels. They are beauties. Call and see them. A new stock of bankrupt shoes on hand at bed rock prices; also a line of wool socks. W. H. MORRIS. Patrons of the public school should bear in mind the school meeting to be held Monday afternoon when a director and clerk are to be elected and other school business transacted. Dr. Harry Littlefield is off for a visit at Portland and several points east of the Cascades in order to be ready to answer a call to enter the service again under the stars and stripes. Jesse Edwards arrived home from a trip to Baker City and other points on Tuesday evening. He found the prospects for building good and he thinks he will sell some pretty good bills of brick in that field. Hon. C. B. Montagne, of Lebanon, is in town visiting with his daughter Dr. Clara Davidson. He says he lost twenty pounds in weight during the session of the legislature and he is out visiting and taking a needed rest from his labors. Moki Tea positively cures sick headache, indigestion and constipation. A delightful herb drink. Removes all eruptions of the skin, produces a perfect complexion, or money refunded, 25c and 50c. C. F. Moore & Co. druggists. Harvey F. Wilson, a former Newberg boy and student of Pacific College, was married last Sunday to Miss Zillah Kuykendall at the latter's home in North Yamhill. Harvey has recently been elected to the principalship of the North Yamhill school. Mrs. G. W. Cuts gave a delightful luncheon to a number of her friends Friday Feb. 22, in honor of Mrs. Whiteacre who is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Votaw. The guests were Mesdames Votaw, Whiteacre, Maris, White, Britt, Barr, Shaw, Keller, Cummings and Morris. The Reporter says of Col. Holt, "For the most part he is a quiet and dispassionate reasoner, but his deep sense of the alarming proportions of the liquor traffic, and the great evils which follow in its wake, cause him to rise in his speaking to heights of eloquence and force. He does not advocate violence but the enforcement of law." Captain James L. Smith died at his home on River street on last Monday afternoon of a complication of diseases. For twenty years he had been in the service of the various steamboat companies operating on the Willamette and when taken sick he was captain on the Spaulding Logging Co's steamer Eugene. He had just recently moved his family to Newberg and it was only last Saturday that he was brought home sick. The age of the deceased was 63 years. The remains were taken to Portland on Wednesday for burial. A had night was never known to keep people away from a public school entertainment, and in spite of a rain and wind, Crater's hall was packed last Friday night with the patrons of our school. Though almost necessarily long, the exercises throughout were well executed and heartily appreciated. Some of the special features of the evening were the historical play, the hatchet and the red, white and blue drills, the Cuban lullaby song, the reading and scenes from Hiawatha, and the well written oration on "Washington" by Morris Hencock. Between thirty-five and forty couples were cleared with which to purchase books for the school library. The state athletic association, which for several years has held annual field meets at Salem and in which Pacific College has always participated, has been disbanded as a result of so many of the colleges withdrawing from the league and of the action taken by the regents of the Oregon Agricultural College in forbidding that institution from participating in the state meet. Another league has been formed among some of the smaller institutions, the Albany, Monmouth, McMinnville and Newberg colleges and Dallas academy being included, and the first meet will be held at McMinnville next June. We believe this is a move in the proper direction and that athletic work in our colleges will hereafter be more satisfactory. Dwight Coulson of this college is treasurer of the new association. Beginning with tonight in the Friends church Col. Holt will inaugurate a short temperance revival in Newberg. To outsiders who think of Newberg as a town of no saloons, this effort might appear superfluous, but those who have the pulse of the public sentiment here know better. From the real temperance standpoint we are in a back-slidden condition. This is plain spoken but a fact, nevertheless. Observing people know that things are going on in our midst right along which put our little city far behind her fair reputation, but some of our most radical temperance people even have relaxed their diligence and become hardened to existing conditions. And these people are not confined to any one political party. If Mr. Holt can rouse the people from this indifference to the way things are going here at our own doors, he will have done a great work. Like most platform speakers, he may be a little "cranky" from some of our standpoints, but if he can do the work needed we believe our good people should lay aside little differences of opinion and unite in support of an effort for a better public conscience in Newberg.

Fresh vegetables at Wilson's grocery. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jones on Sunday a son. Dr. E. J. Young, of Dallas, was in town Thursday. Mrs. Phineas Roberts of Moores Valley visited friends in town Sunday. For sale—Phaeton, single harness and feed cutter. ANDREW PICKETT. For sale or trade for horse—a high grade buggy. E. F. HARRIS, Dundee. S. W. Evans, the Sheridan dentist, will be in Newberg March 19 for a short time, prepared to do dental work. Hon. J. C. Nelson went to Portland Tuesday to spend a few days visiting with his daughter, Mrs. Tom Belcher. Mrs. Wm. Glover the ex-postmistress of West Chehalis fell one day the first of the week and fractured one of her thigh bones. The best of fresh and salt meats the market affords will be found at the Newberg Meat Market. The highest prices paid for butcher's stock. Farmers I want your eggs. I will give cash for them. Egg packers furnished free to those wishing them. C. B. WILSON. Prof. F. K. Jones did some surveying Saturday for the Dundee Cemetery Association, and is working on a new plot of the cemetery which has recently been enlarged. M. E. Harrison, who recently came here from Indian Territory, has opened up a neat grocery store in the west end, in the building formerly occupied by D. R. Jackson. The college boys who played basketball at Sherwood Friday night drove into town early next morning to the tune of a victorious college yell. They bested the Sherwood team by a score of 20-10. The committee appointed to make arrangements for the farmers' institute will meet to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock in the city hall. All dairymen and farmers are invited to attend and help the institute along. Mrs. J. C. Beckner of Minnesota, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Metcalf, arrived here last Friday evening with her three children. Mr. Beckner will follow later when they expect to locate somewhere in this vicinity. Mrs. Mabel Douglas visited the Portland High School and the Academy Wednesday, and also attended an executive committee meeting of the College Teachers' Association of which organization she has the honor of being president. Will Clemenson came down from Olympia, Washington the latter part of last week where he holds a clerkship in the legislature, and visited relatives and friends here over Sunday. Will seems to be right among 'em in the political circles of Washington. Elmer Hall came down from Baker City last week and joined his wife and baby who have been visiting here for several months. He has a good position in one of the mines near Baker, having worked up to the office of foreman with five dollars a day for wages. W. K. Allen left for the East the first of the week to spend some time in making an investigation of the fruit market. After years of study and toil he has made a signal success in the evaporation of fruit and will now give some attention to market conditions in the hope of solving this part of the fruit problem. A Matrimonial Surprise. It is a rare thing when so genuine a surprise is sprung on a neighborhood that nobody has nerve enough to play the wisecracker and declare orally that "I knew something was up," or "He didn't fool me any; not much!" However, Prof. R. W. Kelsey, of the college has the distinction of having "fooled all of the people all of the time." Honest Abe's sage observation notwithstanding. Last Friday morning he went down to Portland, supposedly to visit the city schools, and met Miss Naomi Binford of Greenfield, Indiana, and brought her up here to the home of Mrs. McGrew in the evening as a friend of Mrs. McGrew. Bright and early next morning, Prof. Morrison, one of the few aiders and abettors in the plot, hid himself off to McMinnville and procured that precious document commonly termed—marriage license. Mrs. McGrew had sent out invitations to a few friends to a "social" gathering at their home Saturday evening, and the guests came, some of them, totally unaware of what was to take place. After chatting pleasantly for a little while, Mrs. McGrew solemnly announced that surprises are in store for all of us, and that Prof. Kelsey was to treat them to one now by leaving the state of single blessedness. The expression on the faces was a highly entertaining study to those on the "inside," and even then some of a skeptical turn thought they were being treated to a practical joke. At this time however, the portieres were parted and Prof. Rayner W. Kelsey and Miss Naomi Binford stepped out before Rev. H. T. Cash, who in an exceptionally beautiful and impressive ceremony made the young couple husband and wife. After the hearty congratulations of friends, all repaired to the dining room where a three course wedding supper was served. Those present at the ceremony were Mrs. H. E. McGrew and little daughter, Prof. and Mrs. Edwin Morrison, Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Cash, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Woodward, Mrs. Jesse Edwards, Enmer and Miss Clara Newby and W. C. Woodward. On the following morning the people generally still knew nothing of the wedding and many were the inquiring glances when the bride and groom in company with Mrs. McGrew entered the Friends church. The sensation after services is more easily imagined than described, when the young professor proudly introduced his friends to "my wife, Mrs. Kelsey." Prof. and Mrs. Kelsey became acquainted at Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, of which institution both are graduates. The latter is of the class of '99, with the writer, who knows her as a talented and altogether estimable young lady. Prof. Kelsey graduated last June and has this year very ably managed the departments of oratory and German in Pacific College. After March 5, Prof. and Mrs. Kelsey will be at home to their friends at Canyon Hall, where they occupy very cosy apartments. They have the warmest congratulations of all in their happiness. From the College. Only one unmarried member of the faculty left; what a pity! Why does not some one claim the hand of this fair damsel and thus make the circle complete. The occupants of Canyon Hall wish to thank the octet for the beautiful music which they gave them on Tuesday evening. It was hardly the kind of entertainment that would be expected from such noted singers, but considering all it was very good. Professor Douglas was missed from her class on Wednesday. However she provided delicate little quizzes so that none were idle. Only a few weeks left to redeem grades in before examination time. Better work hard now, and rest in days to come. "Voices of the Night." A high strung musical company gathered on a certain moonlight night with the sole intention of adding bliss (?) to a new made dormitory bride and groom. All day they had planned for the revelry on which they had now started—light in spirit they tripped together across bridge and canyon, confident of success, "just us eight." All day they had thought of—and fairly tasted the good thing—in store for them to eat. But alas and alack other bright minds had planned a surprise for them, and long before those heavenly singers arrived on the scene of action the student body had gathered at the college, stormed the dormitory, gained admission to the coveted reception room, listened to stumpy speeches by both bride and groom, partaken of the feast and departed. The moon had now risen in clouded majesty—and was throwing a spectral light over the college campus. As the party marched past the college singing "Good night Kelsey," one of the number observed in the office window a pair of what seemed—cuffs—on which leaned a somewhat rumpled collar. A halt was called and a consultation held. What was this—some poor victim of an awful plot locked in the office to die, to freeze in the bitterness of the night? The hearts of that happy band sank. Doors and windows were tightly locked, so a rescue party was at once organized. Every man rallied to this comrade's aid, a ladder of men was formed, and finally the noble youth on the last round reached the window. The cuffs and collar drew back as if in resentment—were they not glad of aid? There was a moment of breathless silence, then a match was struck—what dread scene would it reveal? What did it reveal!!! Instead of one it was eight sad, yet beautiful faces which lit it up. Every head was turned to a certain third story dormitory window. On each countenance was written the burden of a song—a song without words; for the night air had swelled the vocal chords until not a sound could they utter. The ladder was immediately unmaned, pity turned to scorn the breathless silence to a loud clamor. And they were caught at last—and at their own game. Who but they, the cowardly set, would have sought refuge from the jeers of the many in the college office? Two serenades in one night. Ha, ha. The hose was then attached to the water main, and poured upon them, but finding that this did not effect them in the least, (wonder why) singing was resorted to. Immediately tears gushed from every eye, and the secret thought of each heart "What might have been had we only known." Here they were left for a few minutes, during which time they safely escaped to the library, and it was in this room where the serenades fastened them. In vain they pounded the door and vowed vengeance on those who had caught them. It was in this pitiful condition we left them. They made their escape by clambering over the roof of the porch and sliding gently down the post, this was in the wee small hours of the morning. They were sadly misused but wiser for the nights experiences. Dispersing on a certain corner, they planned for a genuine old time tin can greeting, and if one would judge from the amount of noise made, it was very successfully carried out. However that may have been, it lacked charm, for the occupants of the hall, dreamed through it all. Notice to Woodmen. There will be a Photo-Stereo entertainment on the evening of March 7 at Craters hall given by the head camp Woodmen of the World, under the auspices of the Newberg camp. This promises to be a grand entertainment, conducted by C. E. Campbell of Colorado. All Woodmen are expected to be present to enjoy the feast. Bled Quarts at a Time!

"I am a knife maker and worked for a number of years in the New York Knife Co.'s factory at Warden, N. Y. First thing I knew I commenced to bleed from the mouth. Sometimes as much as a quart of blood would come up from my fall I got so bad, and the church people told me I had better make my peace with the Lord and prepare to die, for I would not live till spring. My home doctor couldn't do me any good, but advised me to get to New York City for examination. They finally took me to a medical college, and a whole lot of physicians made what they called a diagnosis. There were several students looking on. One professor had a little ivory hammer, and with this he pounded my chest and held his ear close to listen. After a while the professor looked at me solemnly and declared: "One of your lungs is about gone and the other is affected. There may be a slim chance for life if you quit working in that knife factory." I went back home, but didn't improve. One day I saw an advertisement of free samples of Acker's English Remedy for Consumption, being given away by our home druggists, Walker & Eaton. I got one of these bottles, and it relieved me. Then I bought more of the regular size, and my improvement was continuous, although slow. My doctors were astonished and so was I. After dark I hated to spit, because I was afraid it might be blood, and I wanted to know for sure. I have no fear now, for at last I am a solid man again. Although one lung is gone, the other is as sound as a dollar, and answers as well as two lungs, so far as I can see. I want everyone to know the facts and that is why I tell them here." (Signed) A. H. SIMPSON.
